While living in Norwich the family was prominently identified with Park Congregational church, Mrs. McDonald being an active worker in what was at that time known as The Parish House association.

Although Mrs. McDonald's health has been failing for some time, her death occurred rather suddenly after a few days illness with pneumonia. Besides her husband and daughter she is survived by a son, Bert E. McDonald, who is located in the south, and several grandchildren.

Many old friends in this vicinity will regret to learn of her death and their sympathy will go out to the members of her family who are left to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother.

FUNERAL.

Johanna Haggerty

At 8.30 o'clock Tuesday morning the funeral of Johanna Haggerty was held from the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Crowley, No. 105 Spring street and at 9 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Patrick's church. Rev. John J. Reilly was celebrant of the mass and Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ. Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis at the offertory and Lead, Kindly Light as the waiting hymn. Mr. LaFontaine played Abide With Me as the recessional.

The bearers were six little friends of the child, Donald Barry, James Manning, Jr., Daniel Foley, John Moore, John Foley and Laurence Farrell. The burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May conducting the committal service. Many relatives and friends were present and there were numerous flowers. Hourigan Bros., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

WEDDING.

Langill-Stevens

Winthrop H. Langill of Mystic and Miss Julia Caroline Stevens of 141 Franklin street were married in this city Sunday, the ceremony being performed by Rt. Rev. Mgr M. H. May at the rectory of St. Patrick's church.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY ELECTS MISS HAMILL PRESIDENT

Officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows at the regular meeting of Mercier Assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, on Tuesday evening in the rooms on Broadway: President, Miss Mary Hamill; vice president, Miss Catherine Hallahan; recording secretary, Miss Catherine Kelly; financial secretary, Miss Alice Lonergan; treasurer, Miss Loretta Gadie; mistress at arms, Miss Mary Burns; assistant, Miss Eleanor Fitzgerald; sentinel, Miss Sarah MacInnes; trustees, Mrs. Mary Murphy, Miss Margaret Daly, Mrs. Nora Carney; auditors, Mrs. Nora Driscoll, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neil, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoar.

The Christmas committee, of which Miss Mary Weller is chairman, is working along the lines of bringing holiday cheer to the ex-service men at the Norwich state hospital and has an unexpectedly large sum available for this work through the contributions that have been made.

REPORTED MEX. BANDITS LOOTED CIRCUS TRAIN

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 6—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports to the Nogales Herald today say that bandits in Jalisco, after sacking the town of La Quemada, looted a circus train, carrying off a number of young actresses, the majority of whom were foreigners.

CURRENT TOPICS TALK FOR WOMEN'S CLUB ON GENEVA AND WASHINGTON

Two different places, one abroad and one in this country, have engaged the attention of the world in the past week, declared Mrs. Marian Gaylord Atwell of New York, in her series of monthly talks Tuesday night at the Wauregan hotel before the current events class of the Women's City club of Norwich. These were Geneva and Washington, she said, the latter place because of the assembling of the 70th congress and the former place because of the meetings of the preparatory disarmament conference, the security conference and the council of the league of nations.

Into the preparatory disarmament conference the Russian representatives threw a bomb when they made a proposition for abolishing all armies, to sink all battleships, to stop the training of soldiers and cease the manufacture of munitions of war. Coming from the nation which has the largest standing army in the world, this was an astounding proposition. The surprised representatives of the other nations didn't know what action to take. Von Bernstoff eased the situation by moving to adjourn for lunch, which gave the leaders time to decide upon a course of action, and when the conference met again it voted to refer the Russian resolution to the proper committee for future discussion.

In the security conference, the European nations are making it plain that they cannont disarm until they feel secure. This is common sense, Mrs. Atwell said, and the nations say that when a practical decision on security is reached they are willing to go forward on a constructive program towards peace. We are not to attend the security conference in March because it is our attitude to withdraw from questions which we consider political matters concerning the European nations.

Taking up the meeting of the council of the league of nations, Mrs. Atwell said this was a most important meeting and she gave a clear description of the situation between Poland and Lithuania over the ownership of the city of Vilma and of the feeling between Germany and Poland over what is called the "Polish corridor" through Germany to the free city of Dantzig to give Poland access to the sea. The whole question might be settled by letting Poland take the Lithuanian city of Memel as its seaport which would do away with the "Polish corridor" through Germany.

Mrs. Atwell commented that the return of Prince Carol to the throne of Rumania now seems less likely than ever. The French look upon him as a "poor stick" because he would not seize the dramatic opportunity which fate put in his way to make a return to claim the Rumanian throne.

Coming to a discussion of the convening of the 70th congress at Washington, Mrs. Atwell spoke of the party division in the senate which has 55 republicans and 57 democrats, but there are seven and possibly nine insurgent republicans. If one of these insurgents should vote with the democrats, Vice President Dawes would have to vote to decide the time and Dawes doesn't want to be obliged to vote any oftener than he can help because he is a presidential candidate, Mrs. Atwell said, although he says he isn't.

Mrs. Atwell spoke of the contest over the seating of Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois in the senate and then spoke of several points in the message of President Coolidge. For one thing, she said that the president always backs up his cabinet heads and he is supporting Secretary Mellon in his recommendation for a tax reduction of $225,000,000.

Mrs. Atwell closed by calling particular attention to the proposal made by Senator Capper that this government declare it to be the fundamental policy of the United States not to go to war with any other nation before trying to effect a settlement by arbitration, and also defining the aggressor nation as one which goes to war without arbitration. We are in a position to take the moral leadership of the world and make this stand for peace, Mrs. Atwell declared, and this would be a long step along the path that leads ultimately to the peace of the whole world.

GIVES PARENTS INSTRUCTION ON CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

Dr. Ernest Russell, of the Psychiatric Institute of Yale school of Medicine led a most interesting discussion before a large group of mothers, members of the Child Study group of the Woman's City club, on Monday evening in the club room of the Wauregan hotel.

Principles can be applied to every child alike. It is the psychological differences of the child an dalso of the parents which make the variations. Usually the results of a child's training fall back on the parents. When questioned as to how they wish their child raised parents say to a self-sufficient citizen. Of course good citizens occasionally come from unpurposeful homes. If parents understood psychology they are better able to handle the child.

Parents are divided into several classes. Some say it is nature's way. As a rule, these children do not make good, they need guidance. Others raise children for their own pleasure—or displeasure. A third group of parents are too protective, such children developing a morbid fear of death and disaster. A fourth group wish the children to grow up like themselves—some will be good and some bad. A dangerous group is one where the parents know too much about handling children. They have studied child psychology, read all articles on rearing children and their verbation to the children is final. They are apt to make facts fit theories. Another group is too idealistic for every day living. Other parents have their emotional difficulties, perhaps as to health and children being such good imitators develop their own imaginary ailments. A last group is those where there is a division of authority and the children too quickly learn to work one parent against the other.

A child comes into the world just a little animal with instincts. Later thinking develops but until he is about twenive years of age, this thinging is feeling. Reproval brings repression, so it is best to reprove as the child thinks or feels, such as a rap on the knuckle if he has reached for some forbidden article. When the child reaches the age where he begins to sulk or resent physical punishment then sit down and discuss it with him, but let him give you his views so you can deal with him on his level.

One cannot begin too early to develop a sense of responsibility. Let him have his scheduled duties. Establish good habits from the beginning. If you can develop thinking in a child you will avoid most conflicts. Encourage a child constantly and always satisfy his curiosity.

Psychologists are believing more and more that character and personality are acquired and not constitutional or inherited.

From six to 14 years, one has the greatest difficulties as this is a period of social adaptation. He has to make intellectual as well as emotional contacts. The spiritual side has been dealt with for a long time, the physical for some time and more recently stress is being given to personality.

This talk was followed by a half hour of open discussions, many mothers bring their problems to Dr. Russell for solution.

NORWICH POULTRY SHOW MAKES FINE DISPLAY

Over 200 birds are on display at the fourth annual poultry show of the Norwich Poultry and Pet Stock Association, Inc., which opened Tuesday in the rooms over The Princess Shop, No. 205 Main street. The show, which will continue today (Wednesday) and come to a close Thursday night at 10 o'clock, is being held in the premises formerly occupied by Preston Bros. This year's show is fully as large as any of the previous exhibitions and is of better quality. A number of high class birds are to be seen and this year there are several new breeds which are attracting considerable attention from poultry fanciers and others interested in poultry.

Tuesday was judging day and competition was keen in nearly all of the numerous classes. The official judge, Paul P. Ives, Guilford, Conn., put in a busy day judging the various entries. The judging was by comparison and under the rules prescribed by the American Poultry association. One of the most interesting features of the show this year is an exhibition of Turkens which are a cross between fowls and turkeys. The female of the cross breed has a bare neck. Another freak exhibit is that entered by Frank Fitch. These birds have no tails. Carl Ricker has a unique exhibit in the singing Rhode Island Red cockrel. The largest entry at the show is owned by the Gem Poultry yards.

Included in the numerous entries are black langshans, barred Plymouth Rocks, red and white Wyandottes, Japanese bantams, buff Cochins, blue Andulasians, Leghorns, black Minorcas, white crested black Polish, light and dark Brahmas, Jersey black giants and other breeds. There are also to be seen rabbits, ducks, geese and pigeons.

There is an attractive exhibit of Buckeye incubators and brooders, and a full line of poultry and pet stock supplies by Roy Clark, the well known Norwich dealer. Mr. Clark is also showing an exhibit of alligators which he recentlyireceived from Florida and gold fish from Japan.

P. J. Desmond is the show superintendent this year and George Wilson is assistant superintendent. The officers of the association follow:

President, Frank E. Fitch; vice president, H. E. Carpenter; secretary, Carl A. Ricker; treasurer, Christopher Barry; assistant secretary, Byron J. Frink; auditors, E. F. Griffith, Byron J. Frink; directors, W. W. Waters, F. E. Waters, J. A. Monroe, B. F. Brewster, James L. Tourtellotte.

The exhibitors are as follows:

Eddie Pinsky, Old Mystic; Robert F. Jones, Norwich; John Curry, Yantic; F. E. Waters, Norwich; Charles Mousse, North Stonington; L. L. Hamilton, Norwich; Wm. Ibbison, Norwich; Mrs. Wm. Ibbison, Norwich; E. F. Griffith, Norwich; Miss F. J. Browning, Norwich Town; W. W. Waters, Norwich Town; W. W. Waters, Jr., Norwich Town; C. B. Willard, Groton; J. E. Young, Westerly, R. I.; George L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.; Edmond E. Powers, Holden Center; Peter Christensen, Hanover; Thomas Fowler, Lebanon; Christopher Barry, Norwich; B. J. Frink, Norwich; Harold Frink, Norwich; C. A. Ricker, Norwich Town; M. J. Farrell, Norwich; Mrs. G. M. Wilson and George M. Wilson, Bozrahville; Miss Ella C. Lester, Norwich; Miss Eva Ellis, Willimantic; P. J. Desmond, Norwich; E. W. Manwaring, Waterford; Roy Carpenter, Norwich; Henry Durr, Norwich; C. A. Rathbone, Norwich; H. E. Carpenter, Norwich; J. Handleman, Norwich.

ADDRESSED LEAGUE OF NORWICH WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. Florence L. C. Kitchelt of New Haven, was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Norwich League of Women Voters held Tuesday afternoon in Slater hall annex. Mrs. Kitchelt's talk which was given in a most delightfully informal manner was on the Congress of the World. She is executive director of the Connecticut Branch League of Nations Non Partisan association and she is also a director of Connecticut League of Women Voters. Mrs. Kitchelt began her talk by giving, as she expressed it, a bird's eye view of some of the countries of the league of nations which she visited last summer, including Spain, the Balkan countries and central Europe. She gave the reasons for Spain's withdrawal from the league of nations. Her impressions of Turkey were most interesting and especially of the non-sectarian American college at Constantinople. Bulgaria she described as a rather poor and typically peasant country. Owing to the devastations by wars there is not much left to Belgrade that is old or beautiful but in Budapest Mrs. Kitchelt found her most beautiful city. She spoke of Hungary as being about one third the size before the war. Her descriptions of Geneva as an international capitol were interesting and her explanation of the league of nations with its 55 members settling their problems at a round table was most instructive. Mrs. Kitchelt spoke of the navy as machinery of war and the league as machinery for peace. There are from eight to ten women delegates. Each country is entitled to one vote but to more than one delegate, and voting on all except routine business must be unanimous. Among the dramatic events of the last assembly of the league of nations was the announcement of the gift of a library and new headquarters from American citizens, the fact that the delegate from Germany was authorized by his country to sign the optional clause of the covenant, which obligates a country to come before the assembly with any international question and abide by the decision of the assembly. There are very few of the countries who have signed this clause, and last the Polish resolutions. In concluding Mrs. Kitchelt gave reasons why the United States should join the league of nations.

Other speakers of the afternoon were Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman who recited a poem of her own composition entitled Pikers, which appeared in the Times at the time the United States was considering the league of nations, and Mrs. William A. Norton who has recently returned from the convention in St. Louis of the World Alliance of International Friendship through the churches.

Miss Audrey Gernon, president of the Norwich League of Women Voters, announced that at the January meeting the members would have the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman on "Things We Ought to Know."

"Y" WOMAN'S AUXILIARY HELD DECEMBER MEETING

The board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met for luncheon at noon Tuesday at the Y building, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley and Mrs. A. M. Thompson being hostesses. In the business session, the president, Mrs. H. D. Johnson presided.

At three in the afternoon the first open meeting of the season was held at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Prentice, 185 Washington street, with a large attendance. Mrs. Johnson opened the business meeting and the devotional exercises were conducted by General Secretary Edwin Hill. Reports were given by the secretary and the treasurer and the chairmen of committees.

After the business meeting an unusually enjoyable programme was given, comprising piano solos by Mrs. E. C. Dunbar, vocal solos by Mrs. Olive Adams Potter ,and reading by Miss Maizie Caruthers from her original Christmas poems. Tea and wafers were served, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. F. W. Cary pouring, assisted by several young women.

TWO TAFTVILLE MEN PAY IN FEDERAL COURT

With United States Distict Judge Edwin S. Thomas presiding, the December term of the federal court was opened in Hartford Tuesday.

Arment LeFebre of Taftville, pleading guilty to possession and manufacture of liquor on October 26, was fined $350. One pint of whiskey and 193 gallons of home brew beer were found in the basement under his lunchroom and bar.

David Rynne, alias Killourky, of Hamden, was fined $500 on each of three counts, a total of $1,500, when he pleaded guilty to possession, manufacturing and possession of materials for manufacturing. Federal agents watched the place for days as the brewing plant was being assembled, and raided the place before the first brew was shipped out.

Mathias Lavigne, of Taftville, who on October 24 was arrested while transporting thirty cases of beer in an old auto, was fined $200 without costs. The court was told Lavigne has a large family and had always been a hard-working man.

Joseph Arnold, proprietor of the Enfield inn had a considerable quantity of liquor in his place when the inn was raided November 21. He pleaded guilty to possession of liquor and was fined $400.

FATHER-SON BANQUET PROMISES BIG EVENT

Plans are complete for what promises to be a banner affair with the father and son banquets Friday evening and already the reservations are the largest recorded at the corresponding date in any year. The band, glee club and red fire will be added attractions this year.

Every dad and son will want to be present at the supper tables when the toastmasters call the groups to order in the three meeting places, Park Congregational parish house; Community house and Trinity Methodist church. All groups will assemble at the Y. M. C. A. following the supper program, for a band concert, selections by the glee club and an address by Hon. Arthur M. Brown.

The following churches announce the ticket sale to date:

Norwich Town Congregational 12, Norwich Town Methodist 2, Park Congregational 40, First Baptist 10, Trinity Episcopal 6, Trinity Methodist 47, Greeneville Congregational 14, St. Andrew's Episcopal 4, Baltic Methodist 4, Taftville Congregational 8, United Congregational 26, Central Baptist 59, Universalist 2, Christ Episcopal 2.

It is expected that the total will reach the 300 mark before Friday morning. Places will not be provided for more than this number.

CLEARED STATE ROAD AFTER THE SNOWFALL

Connecticut's first snowfall of the year, varying in depth in various sections of the state from one to four inches, found the state highway department in readiness to meet the demands of the situation. According to an announcement made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, Connecticut's entire trunk line system was clear of snow by noon Monday. Most of the important trunk line highways, however, had been cleared by early morning and those who found it necessary to make use of the highways in going to work found their progress unimpeded by the snowfall.

Commissioner Macdonald in anticipation of an early fall of snow issued orders sometime ago to all division engineers and foremen to put their snow fighting equipment into condition. Although the first snowfall came after a month of warm and rainy weather and was hardly expected, all of the trucks, snowplows, and highway brushes of the department were in readiness to meet the situation.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT FAREWELL SUPPER

Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Disque of 50 Hedge avenue a farewell supper was given in honor of Paul Giverdon who is to sail this week for a three months' visit with his relatives in Germany and France.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Disque announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Mr. Giverdon.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT AT STORRS FOR FAST AGGIE TEAM IN 1928

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Conn., Dec. 6—Prospects for a strong Connecticut Aggie football eleven in 1928 are considered bright here at Storrs for only three regulars from the powerful team of the past season will be graduated next June. Taking the entire varsity squad as a whole, and it was the largest one in the history of C. A. C. football, only five letter men will be lost, if regulars and substitutes both are counted.

These five men are Captain Willard Eddy of Simsbury, halfback; Carl Geissler of Abington, center; Howard Kennedy of Mount Carmel, end; Samuel Dorrance of Plainfield, tackle; and Arthur Bergren of East Hartford, guard. The first three named were regulars.

Coach Summer A. Dole will have no less than 15 letter men available for his 1928 varsity when practice gets under way next September, barring of course the ever possible source of loss from scholastic difficulties and withdrawals from college. This constitutes the greatest number of veteran letter men ever to be found in the sophomore and junior classes at C. A. C. in any one year. Seven of this group are juniors, and eight are sophomores.

If Dole wanted to select a tentative Aggie eleven today that could be used against Wesleyan when Connecticut's 1928 grid season will open here Oct. 6, he would first of all find it difficult to decide on his best quartet to perform behind the line. Arthur "Pop" Williams of Danielson would of course be chosen for one of the halfback positions, but the other would be a toss-up between Ray Ryan of New Haven, and Bob Groat of Niles, Michigan, both of whom are sophomores, and star ball carriers. At fullback Rhear Flydal of Hartford, another soph, is available, and Ryan can also be used at that post. At quarterback, Dole has a choice of the veteran Bill Knaut '29 of New Haven, a vicious tackler and splendid interferer, or Gene Laporeacu '30 of Hartford. These six men are all good backs, and their combined ability is above the average of the usual Aggie backfield squad of past seasons.

Dole will have practically the same line ready for service another year. John Stangle '30 of East Hartford, who played regularly at center in the last part of the season after Geissler was injured, still has two more seasons of varsity competition ahead of him. A fine trio of veteran guards will be on hand in Ed. Colasuonto '29 of Stratford, Marty Gilman '29 of Norwich, and Dick Rudkess '30 of Hartford. There is also available an equally fine trio of tackles in Captain-elect Andy Sayers '29 of Hartford, Kenneth Wilson '29 of Springfield, Mass., and Corwin Hawkins '30 of Hartford. Henry Schildgren '29 of Naugatuck, a regular end for two seasons is still available, and Seraphino Tombari '30 of Norwich, who started several games last season will also be on hand. John Callahan '29 of Revere, Mass., a letter man in 1926, is another available end candidate.

With Callahan included, there are ten letter men available among the candidates for the line of the 1928 eleven, and this is one of the most encouraging aspects of the whole situation. No team can win without a strong forward wall, and to have the past season's group of forwards return practically intact means Connecticut will have a strong front next year. In the past season, the Aggie line played its best game of the year against a superior Boston college eleven, playing a strong defensive game throughout.

In addition to the 15 letter men mentioned, there are also several other valuable players among the juniors and sophomores at C. A. C., some of whom are due to "come through" another year. They did not play enough in the past season to make a letter, but they did show form and dash enough to indicate they will be a factor in the fight for permanent positions in 1928. Four backs in particular should be mentioned and they are Walter Aschenback '29 of Hartford; Johnny Powers '28 of South Manchester; Arthur Haversatt '28 of Seymour; and Harold Christen '30 of Greenwich. Of the first three named, Haversatt has shown the most promise, and his speed has enabled him to break away for gains time and again as he has played this fall. If he can show a like ability defensively, especially against forward passes, he will certainly see plenty of action another year. Christen, who has two more years of varsity competition, gives every promise of developing into a valuable player. He is light but fast, tackles well, and works hard to carry out his assignment on every play. In the line, Ralph Peck '29 of Cheshire and John Goebel '30 of New Haven, both 2nd and candidates, showed considerable promise and look like real varsity timber.

No mention has been made of members of the 1927 fresh eleven who will of course be available for the varsity next fall. The yearlings had only a fair season at Storrs this year, yet it seems likely that several of their number will develop into at least good varsity reserve material next fall, and some of the them may even win a regular position in spite of the stiff competition expected.

DANIELSON TOWNERS TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM MAPLEVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 6—The Danielson Town team won a hard fought game of basketball by defeating the Mapleville A. C. C. of R. I., yesterday by the score of 29-25 in one of the most exciting games played on the Mapleville floor this year.

The game was a thriller from the very first sound of the whistle and it could easily be seen that the Mapleville team, which was no other than the famous Pawtucket Tigers representing Mapleville, was out for real business.

At the end of the half the Mapleville team held the lead, the score being 15 to 11.

The second half was when the real fun commenced as the score was soon 15 all, with both teams going at top speed. With about 10 minutes to play Armington shot a beautiful basket followed by 2 sensational shots by Schofield, putting Danielson in the lead of which they held for the rest of the game.

Keech, Poirier and Godreau played a great defense game for Danielson while Daubert and Moore starred for Mapleville.

The score:

Mapleville	G.	F.	Tl.
Moore rf	4	0	8
Jaubert lf	4	0	8
Connelly lf	0	0	0
Carroll c	2	0	4
Develin rg	1	0	2
T. Glancy lg	1	1	3
	12	1	25

Danielson	G.	F.	Tl.
Keech rf	1	2	4
Schofield lf	5	1	11
Armington c	4	0	8
Poirier rg	0	0	0
Godreau lg	3	0	6

WESLEYAN MERMEN HAVE STIFF AQUATIC SCHEDULE

MIDDLETOWN, Dec. 6—(AP)—The Wesleyan university swimming team will face a difficult schedule this season. The Cardinal and Black aquatic aggregation will be handicapped by the ineligibility of Gordon, last year's back stroke star. His absence from the team will be felt when Yale comes to Middletown on January 18 in an attempt to beat her own 60-foot tank records established here two years ago.

The 1927-28 Wesleyan swimming schedule as announced today follows:

December 15-16, Interclass meets. January 14, Rensselar Poly institute at Troy. January 18, Yale. January 21, Brown. February 3, Boston university. February 18, Amherst at Amherst February 25, Williams. March 3, Massachusetts Institute of Tech at Cambridge. March 10, New England intercollegiates at Williamstown.

RED SOX TRADE LUNDGREN TO NASHVILLE FOR TAITT

BOSTON, Dec. 6—(AP)—The Red Sox have released to the Nashville club of the Southern Association Dellar Lundgren, right handed pitcher, in part payment for Douglas Taitt, an outfielder, it was announced today. The Boston club already had sent to Nashville as part of the deal Winfield, a pitcher, Knox, a catcher, and Unglaub, an outfielder.

President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox, who is attending the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues at Dallas, Tex., notified his office here today that he had completed the deal for Taitt, who will report at the Red Sox training camp in February. Lundgren came to Boston from Birmingham via the draft route two years ago.

CHRISTMAS SWEEPSTAKES AT AETNA OPEN SATURDAY

The annual Christmas bowling sweepstakes at the Aetna alleys starts at noon on Saturday and will continue through to Saturday, Dec. 24, at 4 p. m. when the finals will start. Bowlers have two weeks in which to qualify, the five high qualifiers to roll off in the finals on Christmas eve. Qualifiers are to roll six strings for place and can qualify as often as they please. Five high qualifiers will be posted on the board at the alleys. There will be an entrance fee for tourney and a small charge for each six strings rolled which will go toward the prize money.

TAFTVILLE WHIRLWINDS NOANK TEAM THIS EVENING

The Taftville Whirlwinds play their second game of the season tonight at Parish hall when they clash with the Noank team. Noank is a fast team of youngsters who hold victories over the Rotary club five of New London and other teams in this section of the state. This is the Whirlwinds second game of the season, having beaten the Eagles 29 to 13 in the opener. Manager Burr of the Whirlwinds will send his fastest team against the Noank team tonight, and his lineup will be Durr and Paradis forwards, Adams, center, Raymond, Lavasseur or O. Adams guards. There will be a small admission charge and the Whirlwinds are deserving of the support of the local fans.

BATES ONLY NEWCOMER ON WESLEYAN GRID SLATE

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Dec. 6—(AP)—Bates college was the only new team to appear on Wesleyan university's football schedule for next season as it was announced today by Manager Earle Spaulding of Glenn Falls, N. Y.

The schedule for 1928 follows:

September 29, Bates. October 6, Connecticut Aggies at Storrs. October 13, Columbia at New York. October 20, Rochester. October 27, Amherst. November 3, Trinity at Hartford. November 10, Williams at Williamstown. November 17, Bowdoin.

CHURCH LEAGUES OPEN SCHEDULES THIS MONTH

A meeting Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. of the two church leagues slated for the Norwich basketball fan this year definitely laid plans for their opening. This innovation in local sport circles will no doubt prove very successful from the moment the schedule starts in about two weeks.

The Senior league with four teams entered plays its opening game Saturday night, Dec. 17, as a preliminary to the Y. M. C. A. Outlaws-Plainfield Buddies clash. The Central Baptist and First Baptist quintets have been selected to open the campaign. The Brothers of Joseph and Trinity Methodist fives are the other teams in the loop.

On Tuesday, Dec. 20 at the Y gym at 5 o'clock, the Junior league will open with the Central Baptist and Park Congregational in one game and the Brothers of Joseph vs. First Baptist in the other tilt. This is a six team league with Trinity Methodist and United Congregational teams completing the roster.

The entire schedule has not been completed as yet but should be done so in a few days.

In their first season no doubt the Church leagues will provide very good basketball for on the lineups of the various teams are plenty of boys with previous experience.

No definite lineups have been announced as yet but a pretty general estimate can be made of those available for the twelve teams in the twin loops and this estimate points favorably towards the success of the affair.

The Y. M. C. A. is sponsoring the league and under its physical instructor, William C. McKean, expects to do great things.

N. B. A. HAS SOLUTION TO DUAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 6—(AP)—The probable solution to the dual boxing championship system was forecast tonight by Thomas E. Donohue, of New London, president of the National Boxing association, who declared that for the present he would favor a "championship elimination contest" whereby the holder of the N. B. A. title would meet the New York athletic commission's champion for the world's title in the respective divisions.

Donohue's suggestion will be given a tryout Monday night at Madison Square Garden, when Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, the N. B. A. light heavyweight champion will meet Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, recognized New York title holder, for the world's light heavyweight title.

The winner of the Slattery-Loughran match is scheduled to meet Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., whom both the N. B. A. and New York authorities recognize as the logical light heavyweight contender.

The N. B. A. also has a plan "in the works" to clean up the flyweight championship tangle. Ernie Jarvis, the English flyweight champion, has been matched to meet Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, in a 12-round bout for N. B. A. world's flyweight championship in Toronto on December 16. The winner of the Jarvis-Belanger bout will meet Frankie Genaro, of New York city. The eventual winner of the N. B. A. flyweight tourney will be sent against the winner of the Corporal Izzy Schwartz and Newsboy Brown battle for the world's flyweight crown. The Schwartz-Brown bout is being sponsored by the New York commission and is also scheduled for December 16 at Madison Square Garden.

N. T. A. VOTES TO EXPEL LOVELL FOR ILLEGAL RACING

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP)—Appeals were heard by officials of the National Trotting association at the annual meeting of the board of review here today at which one of the most successful seasons in trotting history was reported.

The board voted to expel H. J. Lovell, of West Lebanon, N. H., for racing the bay stallion Carl Gajo, 2:08 1-4, out of its class in a Vermont meeting under the name of H. J. L. The horse was also ruled off the track.

The officials also ruled that the bay geldings Campfire and Waho, whose winning races had been protested because of uncertain identity, had been properly identified and were entitled to their winnings. Change of name fees of $50 were ordered paid by the owners of the bay mare, Addie Worthy, which had been raced as "Unknown" and the black gelding, Dare You, which ran some years ago under the name of "Black King."

Two win race record corrections were made: Dolly's Boy from 2:20 1-4 to 2:24 1-4; Hal Direct from 2:12 1-4 to 2:14 1-4.

Among those present at the meeting were: W. H. Gocher, Hartford, Conn., 3rd vice president and I. R. Morrell, Brunswick, Me., secretary.

GERMAN CHAMPION HALF MILE RUNNER ARRIVES

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, a tall, slim, blond young man of 27 who holds the championship of the world for the half-mile run, arrived on the steamship Berlin today from his native Germany.

"I come to study sport conditions and to see your country," he explained through an interpreter, his gutterals tumbling over one another in eager, excited fashion. It is his first trip to the United States and his English proved just as inadequate as the German of most young college graduates in the United States.

"After six weeks—I might run. Who knows?" He shrugged, smiling when reminded he bears no permit from the German amateur sports governing body which corresponds to the Amateur Athletic union in this country.

AMOS, STAR FULLBACK, SIGNED BY MONTREAL CLUB

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 6—(AP)—Bill Amos, husky Washington and Jefferson fullback, all-America candidate and a member of the all-eastern football team that plays on the Pacific coast this month, has been signed as a catcher with the Montreal club of the International league.

Acquisition of the college star comprised one of the first two deals of the season announced today by Carlos Ferrar, promoter of the club. Rene Lafayette, a first baseman from the Texas league, also was signed.

JOESTING AND HAWLEY TO JOIN ALL-EASTERN TEAM

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 6—(AP)—Herb Joesting, Minnesota fullback and Albert Hawley, lineman of the Haskell Indian eleven, have agreed to join the eastern college football machine that Coach Andy Kerr of Washington & Jefferson is taking to San Francisco to meet a picked western eleven, Kerr announced here today. Kerr now has received 19 acceptances to invitations sent to grid stars of colleges east of the Rocky Mountains. He is permitted to take a squad of 20 men to the coast for the game on Dec. 26.

"Y" Juniors Beat Newsies

On Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. the "Y" Juniors defeated the Norwich Newsboys in indoor baseball by a score of 12 to 4. The game was a pitching battle between G. Lambert and Shiki. The "Y" team played a fast game with G. McNeil starring. The lineup of the winners was: Angelopoulos c; Stephano c; Lambert p; McNeil 1b; Niedzwski 2b; Falcone 3b; Bowne ss; Archibald cf; Wilmot rf; Pechawlyc lf. James Quinn was scorer.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLASH WITH BOSTON WHIRLWINDS THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 6—The Plainfield Pros renew their basketball feud with the Boston Whirlwinds at the Community house court here on Wednesday evening. The Whirlwinds are considered one of the strongest teams in New England and boast one of the best records of any basketball team in the east. Their personnel includes some of the best known players in New England and a victory over this quintet is considered an envied honor for any team.

For years the Boston Whirlwinds have been at the top of the basketball heap in New England and although only one of the original Whirlwind team, Fiddle Morley, remains there are four others who can be classed with this veteran of the court. The Whirlwinds played the Plainfield club six games last season as the Plainfield team was considered worthy opponents. The result of the series was that the Boston aggregation won three and Plainfield two while the sixth and most notable game ended in a tie score. Fans who saw this tie game witnessed the best basketball tussle ever staged in the eastern part of the state. The two teams battled for three five-minute overtime periods with the score still deadlocked. Both teams were practically exhausted after the furious playing. Wednesday night's game while not expected to be a duplicate of the record game is expected to be fast and close as the same lineups will clash.

The Whirlwinds will have Crotty and Curtain at forwards with Morton in the pivot position. Morley and Kiley will hold down the guard positions.

Against this formidable array of basketball talent Manager Salisbury will send Dissinger, Normandin, Stavinsky, Bernot and Madden, while Eddie Nichols and Brusso will be held in reserve.

The game will go on at 8 o'clock and will be preceded by a preliminary between the Buddies and the Jewett City All Stars which will be a fast appetizer. Dancing will follow the game.

TWO NEW MARKS SET IN FRATERNAL LEAGUE BOWLING

Everett Peckham, anchor man for the Grotto team in the Fraternal league, hung up new individual marks at the Aetna alleys last night when he knocked off high single and high three string total. His high single was 147 which displaced Sidney of the K. of P. team, who had hung up 141 a few minutes before. Peckham's total was 366. The Grotto team missed high team single by one pin and high team total by four, in the match in which they won two from the Kaceys. The Pythians dropped two games to the Elks. The scores:

ACADEMY BRIEFS

Athletics at the Academy and, in fact, at all schools in this section, are, at the present time, enjoying a rest period.

The election of captain, selection of All-teams, etc., have about officially closed the football campaign.

Buck LaCroix should make a fine leader for the 1928 grid machine. He has all the qualities for a stellar captain. He is the first lineman to receive the honor since Johnny Haslam, a center, in 1924. In succeeding years Jim Williams, Ed. Brewer and Jack Marks have held the honor.

The captains in '25 and this year, Williams and Marks, have been lower-middlers or second year students, quite an unusual occurrence when the upper middlers is nearly always the favored one. LaCroix is a member of the latter named class.

Chet Berghinzo, substitute end was chosen on the All-State team of Coach "Jack" Mead of Warren Harding of Bridgeport. Berghinzo put up a nice game against the Presidents.

Among Academy graduates who are candidates for college basketball teams are Marty Gilman '25, for a guard position on Conn. Aggie varsity, Jim Moore '27 for the fresh at that school and Ray Yerrington '27, captain of the first Academy court array, for the freshman quintet at Springfield college.

Johnny Keeley and Young St. Germaine were awarded the cNe, significant of their nice work as cheerleaders the past football season.

The stands at the campus are reported to be in for painting to prepare them for a busy baseball season, when the state champions report.

The basketball team last season had two games in by this date. This year's team, however, is not slated to get away before the holidays. There is little chances of scheduling a scholastic tilt before the first of the year. Last season the Academy filled in with C. F. C., Y. M. H. A., Warriors and other independent teams. Whether any of these teams will appear on this year's slate for warm-ups is not known.

From reports a strong Alumni court team can be gathered this year. It was quite a job a year ago but the one year's work of the team has remedied this.

Harvard and Michigan to Meet

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 6—(AP)—Harvard and Michigan will meet in football under a home and home agreement in 1929 and 1930, William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, announced tonight.

PROMISCUOUS SIGNING OF PLAYERS IS CRITICIZED

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 6—(AP)—Criticism was levelled at indiscriminate and far-reaching signing of young players by major league clubs in the annual report today of President Mike H. Sexton, at the meeting of the national association of professional baseball clubs.

Mr. Sexton declared present methods and activities of major league scouts have now exceeded anything ever thought of or foreseen by baseball people and warned that unless protective measures were adopted the sources of supply of young players for minor clubs will be destroyed.

"It has now reached the point of a mad scramble to see what scout can first reach the promising youngster in the small college, in high school or on the sand lot," he asserted referring to the activities of major league scouts.

"So extensive has this practice become that it is almost impossible for minors to recruit talent from that source."

Mr. Sexton's report occupied nearly all of the first day's session of the association. Besides expressing apprehensions over numerous complaints by both parties to the major-minor league agreement concerning players, Mr. Sexton recommended definite population limits for various minor league clubs and called to the association's attention the rapidly increasing number of minor league franchises "that are going under the control of major clubs or higher class minor league clubs."

Of the latter condition, Mr. Sexton had no recommendation to make, asserting he was not fully convinced what the ultimate effect will be.

As the first seven years period of operation of the prevailing agreement between the majors and minors reaches a close, the president said he had heard expressions of discontent not confined to a few.

"Before it leads to an open rupture I most earnestly urge both parties to confer in an effort to eliminate some objectionable features," he declared.

EAST SIDERS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM TADPOLES

Tuesday evening at the Elks club the East Siders took the team from Jewett City into camp winning two of the three strings but weakened in the last string when LeClaire came from behind and laying down two perfect strikes in succession broke up the game. The Tadpole Terrors evidently chilled by their trip down along the reaches of the river road could not seem to get warmed up during the early part of the game, but showed in the last string that they are a fighting outfit and one to be reckoned with. Jewett City lacked the service of two of their good rollers and the East Side were without the service of one member. Although the East Side team has offered the service of their missing member to the other teams in the league they have yet to receive any offer so the chances are that they will release him unconditionally.

Following is the box score:

East Side.
Pedace	89	81	81—	251
Riley	88	85	88—	261
Millez	94	92	78—	264

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Set For X'mas Pictures Now

According to Miss Belle Rathbone local photographer at 161 Main street, there is yet time to have your picture taken and properly finished so that you can give them to your relatives and friends for X'mas.

People receiving a photograph for X'mas place this above other gifts, as it lasts for an indefinite period and brings pleasure and joy to them for years, while an ordinary present that any one may buy, is soon forgotten.

Miss Rathbone has been engaged in the photography business in Norwich for a number of years and naturally being deeply interested in the business from the start, she learned not only by actual experience, but has studied the business constantly, and has attended some of the finest schools in the East, where good photography is taught, thereby keeping up with the times in her profession.

So it is safe to say that with Miss Rathbone's years of experience in photography that a person having their picture taken in her studio, can feel assured that it will not be "just a picture," but one that is perfect in every detail.

At this modern studio may be found a select assortment of hand carved swing frames in various sizes to suit the most discriminating taste.

Yale Puppeteers Coming

In regard to the marionette production which the Yale Puppeteers are to present at Slater hall on Tuesday, Jan. 13 at 4 and 8 p. m., it is of interest to know that this is the work of three Yale university students who have largely paid the expenses of their education by this unique means. For the past five years they have worked intermittently at puppet. They have played more than 200 performances in leading centers of New England and the Adirondacks. They travel in a Ford truck with all their puppets and stage equipment—true vagabonding Thespians. They sail to Europe after Christmas for six months of research and study in the home of puppetry and hope to establish a permanent repertory theatre for marionettes in America, which shall rival those of Italy and Bavaria.

Breed Theatre

"Venus of Venice," which is declared to be Constance Talmadge's outstanding success will be shown at the Breed theater today and Thursday as the main attraction of a double feature bill.

Imagine Constance Talmadge as a quick-witted, light-figured, daring, thoroughly lovable little madcap thieving among the gondolas in Venetian canals, because she knows no better existence; and stealing her way into the heart of a handsome American artist who already has a fiance unwilling to give him up. Such is her role in "Venus of Venice," which was produced on an elaborate scale by Joseph M. Schenck for First National release and directed by Marshall Neilan, with Antonio Moreno as the American artist in the leading male role opposite Miss Talmadge. The story is a screen original by Wallace Smith.

While "The Flying U Ranch," the second feature on this bill is a title known to millions of readers throughout the country, few persons realize that it actually exists as one of the largest ranches in Montana. Partly because of this wide renown, Tom Tyler chose it as the name and basis of his first picture as FBO's "ace" western star.

"The Flying U Ranch" is a famous story by B. M. Bower, author of "Chip of the Flying U," and the cast includes Frankie Darow, Nora Lane, Beans the dog and many well-known players.

The Grocery Store

An interesting fight for supremacy is on in New England between the individual grocers and the chain stores. Statistics show that, at the present time, the individual grocers outnumber the units of the chain stores three to one, and yet do only about fifty per cent of the business. It is a case of the survival of the fittest, with the chain stores seemingly having the advantage. But let us see how this actually works out.

Until about a year ago the future was looking rather smoky to the individual grocer. At that time, however, a wholesale grocery firm in Cambridge, serving more than 10,000 individual grocers in New England through branches in New Bedford, Springfield, Fitchburg and Portsmouth, N. H., appeared suddenly on the scene to champion the cause of the individual grocers. This wholesale concern could see no reason why, with its large fleets of motor trucks, plenty of ready cash, and a potential buying power equal to that of the chain stores, it could not go further than merely to serve its individual grocers. And it did.

The wholesale concern conceived a cooperative plan, taxing its grocers a few dollars a month, and itself contributing a like amount, which has enabled it to provide the service with astounding results. First, it has given its grocers the benefits of carload-lot prices plus a small charge for delivery; newspaper advertising announcing weekly, cut-price sales of both staple and fancy goods; a monthly house-organ, containing a budget of useful information; weekly bulletins; posters for windows; and interior, price-card displays.

Several thousand individual grocers took to the new idea with great enthusiasm. And what is the answer? One grocer in a large, New Hampshire city states that his business has increased from $45,000 to $75,000 a year. A New Bedford market announces for 1927 a 60 per cent increase. Many grocers report increases in business from 30 per cent to 50 per cent or better, with a decreased volume of charge accounts and a greatly increased volume of cash sales.

The well-known wholesale grocery concern which has undertaken this project to enable its individual grocers to compete with the chain stores has refused to be openly interviewed on the subject. Yet this newspaper is in a position to state that Rival Foods, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass., is the firm behind the individual grocers. Rival Foods has also benefited by this cooperative plan, and has, we think, enjoyed a very successful year.

Broadway Theatre

"The Lone Eagle," the Universal-Jewel picture, which opened its local premiere at the Broadway theater last night, proved conclusively that the theatre-going public is not tired of war pictures; at least war pictures as admirably done as this one.

Time after time, during some thrilling sequence of action, you could have heard a pin drop in the crowded house while at other times the applause was tremendous. Without a doubt, "The Lone Eagle" is one of the best pictures ever shown in Norwich.

The story has to do with a young American youth (Raymond Keane) attached to a veteran unit of the Royal Flying Corps. He overcomes his deadly fear of the horrors of war; falls in love with a charming little French girl (Barbara Kent) and vindicates himself in the eyes of his British comrades.

The direction was by Emory Johnson, who is fast coming to the front as one of the foremost directors of the screen, and he handled it in the deft and interesting manner always associated with his work.

Jack Pennick, a virtual newcomer in screen circles, has an excellent part and does it well. Don Stuart, Nigel Barrie and Cuyler Supplee complete the capable cast.

The Lone Eagle will close its engagement here tonight.

Palace Theatre

Showing for the last times today at the Palace theatre is the latest Paramount picture, "Honeymoon Hate," starring Florence Vidor and Tullio Carminati. The story concerns an American heiress who falls in love with a Venetian prince. She marries him to shame and humiliate him but the position is reversed at the finish. It is an excellent story and was well liked by those seeing it. An exceptionally good vaudeville program will also finish its engagement tonight.

The feature picture selected for the next three days entertainment, tells the story of a married couple, the husband intensely jealous of his pretty wife. His suspicious actions and false accusations eventually begin to tell on the wife, so she decides to teach him a lesson and cure him of his jealousy. To do this she selects a friend of the family's to pose as her lover, with the object in mind of showing hubby how ridiculous his attitude is. The plan does not work out as expected and the action developing around the plot is the basis for one of the best pictures of the year. An admirable cast is headed by Owen Moore, Aileen Pringle and Lew Cody.

The vaudeville program consists of five good acts, with Ted Leslie and Pals in "A Breath from the Sunny South," headlining. Other acts include Payton and York, comedy experts, Halligan and Edwards, "The Painless Extractors of Mirth," Masters and Raymond in "Is Zat So" and Wood and Violet in a juggling surprise act.

WESTERLY

PROBATE COURT SESSION HELD TUESDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I.—Tuesday in the superior court before Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh at 11 a. m. Ernest F. Williams 27 Elm street, Providence, and Francis A. Welsh, colored, brought to Westerly from Providence County jail Tuesday morning by Sheriff Mitchell, having been sent to jail from the Kingston court came before the court for sentence. They were charged with the breaking and entering of the Franklin garage on the Nooseneck Hill road. Judge Walsh said if in the future they broke any state law, even committed the misdemeanor of getting drunk, a capias would be issued and he would sentence them to two long years on the present indictment. He gave them until March 6, 1928, to pay the costs of $21.60, the expense to which the state had been put in their case.

The case of Angelo Silvestri vs. Luigi Fererico, on which a bill of particulars was ordered at Kingston in ten years, being called up by Mr. Flynn, was found not set down on the Westerly calendar.

Probate Judge Edward M. Burke held his session of Westerly probate court Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when business was disposed of as follows:

Estate of William J. Hays. Petition received from William J. Hays. With no objection petition granted.

Estate of Frederick W. Warner. Petition received from Alice Warner, John Chester Warner and Hartford Trust company, executors under the will of the testator who died a resident of Wethersfield, Conn. Petition granted.

Estate of Andrew Pascoe. Petition received from Janie Pascoe, widow of testator, who died Nov. 12, 1926. Petition received and continued nisi, with bond $500 without surety; James Anderson to be named appraiser.

In the absence of probate court clerk, Everett E. Whipple, a witness in a case being tried before the superior court, Deputy town clerk, Miss Mabel A. Saunders, whose commission came before Westerly town council Monday, acted as clerk.

Most Worshipful Winfield S. Solomon, grand master of the grand lodge of Masons in Rhode Island and Right Worshipful Rev. Hugh B. Carpenter, grand chaplain, were honored guests Tuesday night at Masonic hall, Westerly, when an official visitation was made by Charles Littlefield, a member of Warwick lodge, No. 16 of Phenix, right worshipful district deputy grand master of the Sixth Masonic district of Rhode Island. The degree of Master Mason was worked by the officers of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., of Westerly. The officers of the lodge in the degree work were. Master, Raymond H. Hiscox; senior warden, Lewis R. Greene; junior warden, J. Albert Pawson; treasurer, W. Albert H. Spicer; secretary, W. Albert E. Barber; chaplain, W. Harry L. Bolles; senior deacon Fred G. Kennedy; junior deacon, James P. Campbell; senior steward, William H. Anderson; junior steward, Raymond C. Vars; marshal, W. Fayette F. Freeman; sentinel, William H. Browning; musical director, W. Porter Hoxie; tyler, William A. Stillwell. At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served.

The following transfers have been recorded:

Dec. 5. Charles McHardy Duffus and Annie T. Duffus to Arthur G. Homeburst of Pawcatuck, land on the easterly side of George street together with buildings and improvements, adjoining lands of Herbert Greenman.

Dec. 6. William Cooper Proctor to Lewis J. Powers of Springfield Mass., lots Nos. 41, 42, 47 and 48 on plat of building sites on Watch Hill farm.

A large autotruck owned and driven by Benjamin R. Vredenburg, which was backed up in front of the newly built store at 26 High street, about 9 a. m. Tuesday to deliver merchandise to the Green Stores, Inc., crashed into the large corner plate glass show window, smashing it into athousand fragments. It was reported that the truck was left in reverse and when the driver started cranking the truck it started backward and before he could stop it smashed the large window and the smaller side window and bent and twisted the supporting corner metal strip. Some of the store fixtures were in the window, but no goods.

Westerly dog fanciers are seeking to learn if there is sufficient interest to warrant a dog show in Westerly similar to those conducted in Providence and surrounding cities. The number of dog-keepers, breeders and admirers is reported as increasing and it is thought that a beginning may be made in a small way, expanding as interest warrants.

In again taking up the Westerly trial calendar Judge Walsh marked four cases ready and to be called in the following order:

Coy vs. Pendleton, which was taken up Tuesday and to follow, Flynn vs. Paladino, Burke vs. Ostman, Scanlon vs. Anderson, and the two cases to be tried as one, Egan vs. Pendleton and Cowley vs. Pendleton. The case of Anthony Giardino vs. Arthur L. Lind was marked for possible settlement.

Attorney John F. Gallagher asked that sufficient time be given to notify the plaintiff, James Fumignaro, from Norwich, in his case against Annunziata Serra, alias, and in marking it the fifth case Judge Walsh agreed to give timely notice.

The following jury was empanelled to try the action at law, Frank W. Coy Real Estate company and Mrs. Catherine R. Welch vs. James M. Pendleton, town treasurer of Westerly. Oliver A. Stedman, Frederick A. Brown and Lewis Angrisani, of South Kingston; Jesse E. Brown, Rufus C. Harvey, Albert H. Wellen and William F. Allen, of North Kingstown; Albert L. Baton, of Hopkinton; John S. Gordon, of Richmond; Richard E. Currie and George M. Jordan, of Charlestown and George H. Grinnell, of Narragansett. Jesse E. Brown of North Kingstown was appointed foreman. At 11:30 o'clock the jury left in automobiles for the Shore Road to take a view of the premises and court came in again at 2 o'clock. It was explained by counsel that this case will probably occupy the attention of the court until Wednesday afternoon. Judge Walsh excused counsel and all spare jurors until 11 Wednesday morning.

The first two witnesses in the afternoon session were Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple who brought to the court room his books of town council records of which he has acted as clerk for the past 29 years, and Frank W. Coy, president of the Frank W. Coy Real Estate Co. in 1913, when a change was claims as done to property owned jointly by his company and Mrs. Welch when the Shore Road, leading from Avondale to the Post road was re-laid out. The committee who signed an agreement to care for the property changes consisted of James A. Welch, Thomas McKenzie and Capt. William F. Saunders.

Westerly Christian Endeavor union held its annual meeting Monday evening when resident Herbert E. Sisson presided at the First Baptist church. Following is the list of newly elected officers and the churches which they represent: President, Hiram Barber, Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist; vice president, Ross R. Alella, Broad Street Christian; secretary Hannah Holland, First Baptist; assistant secretary, Margaret Tefft Pawcatuck Congregational; treasurer, Violet Dowding, Grace Methodist Episcopal.

Demetrio Servidio, 44 Pierce street, who was taken into custody some time ago for possession of dynamite, was arrested Tuesday noon by Patrolman George L. Madison on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon as the result of a cutting affray in the north end of the town when John Sabin of Potter Hill, suffered a knife wound in the back of the neck. He named Fervideo as his assailant. It took three stitches to close the wound. Fervideo will be presented in the third district court.

Robert F. Richmond, formerly of Denver, Col., driving the Chevrolet sedan of the Richmond Furniture company up Main street Tuesday about 9:30 a. m. failed to observe the red traffic beacon light set against him. He collided with the Chrysler sedan driven by Olive P. Morgan of Westerly, the latter auto being dented. Richmond will appear before the third district court Monday morning next to answer to a charge of violation of a town ordinance.

Mrs. Edgar P. Maxson and son, Henry U. Maxon returned Tuesday from Providence.

Mrs. Calvert B. Cottrell, having returned from a visit in New Haven left Westerly Tuesday noon for Providence.

Councilman Farquhar Smith returned Tuesday from Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burdick have returned to Norwich.

Charles J. Norris of Pawcatuck went to Bristol, R. I., Tuesday, called there by the death of his brother.

NOANK

The ice from the snow and rain Monday morning made it bad for automobiles on the hills and streets. Sheriff M. Brown was in his sedan without chains on and went to go up Store hill about 9 a. m. When half way up, he could not make it, and slid over to the right side of the hill into the gutter where the auto was stuck. With the help of neighbors, after working for over two hours, the car made the hill. Sheriff Brown said, "The first ice storm is the hardest."

George Deveau has a well trained cat named Pal. When his children are playing school in the evening with a blackboard, the teacher puts number 8 on the board, then says to Pal, "What number is that?" With the nod of his head, he means "eight." Pal sits up with a book at its pew like a school pupil. The cat rolls over and is a good rat catcher, like P. Waner catches a fly ball in the outfield. Deveau was with Washburn's Circus for several years and trained lions and tigers. It is his first experience in the cat training line. It took over five months to teach his cat, Pal, these tricks. The cat also gets his master's pipe to smoke while reading the paper.

Mrs. John Smith has returned from a short visit with New London relatives.

The pupils attending high school in New London were unable to go as the trolley cars were about two hours late due to ice on the wires Monday morning.

Mike Passi, on his 21st birthday, led an Italian fiesta for his friends. The room was decorated with holly and red berries. Games were played and Camerly's Noisy Five orchestra gave plenty of good music for the dancers. An Italian game was played called Spot-o. The lucky one to win a prize was Primo Nicco. Lewis Prisso sang several songs.

Big Mike, as he is called by every one, is a heavyweight wrestler, and he told about his match out in Detroit a few years ago when a strong man, Jackson, was going to lay him down on the mat for a side bet of $200 and half of the gate receipts. It was some battle, going for three hours, before Big Mike Passi pinned Jackson to the mat, but the heavyweight baby of Noank had two broken fingers. The table was set with roast duck, other good things, pumpkin pie, pear punch for the drink, etc. Edward Ellis was toastmaster. John DeBracci gave him a hand painted gondola that came from Rome. Arthur DeBiaisi, with his banjo, played several selections. The host received many presents.

Arthur Fitch, of Westerly, is visiting in the village.

William Banks has gone to Block Island for a few days' fishing.

Jim Martin is in Bath, Maine, for a week.

When the Fire company held its meeting in the rooms on Cedar street, 25 members were sitting around the room as Foreman Albert Banks opened the meeting. It was nomination night for officers for the coming year. For first on the list, foreman, Walter Palmer was the name to be called. 1st assistant foreman went to Sam Carson. For 2nd assistant, the smoke eaters put up Amos Banks; engineer, Earl Foster; treasurer, Fred Fitzpatric, who has held that job for 10 years. Secretary, John Ellis. As he read the minutes to his brother firemen for 22 years and was put on for another year; steward is a job that all firemen dodge but Edgar Ashby, the man who can give the Fire Fighters and visiting firemen a real Noank fish chowder, will be the steward for 1928. Drivers will be named by Engineer Foster. Chief Harry Park was elected for another year. After the meeting, Assistant Steward Arthur McDonald had a surprise for his ladder men, a hot dog roast with cocoa and cake.

Walter Welles is in Bridgeport, Ct., for a few days.

Freeman Rogers has gone to Spring Hill to kill a large hog on his farm this week that will weigh around 585 pounds.

Fishing schooner Reliance went to Georges Banks for two weeks' fishing trip for cod. Capt. Groves Eldredge has a new crew that came from Boston, making their first trip from a Noank port.

A person was seen taking a basket ball from Unity hall Saturday night that belongs to the Crescents.

Philips Steele has gone to New York on a brief visit.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR WITH LIST OF GAINS EXCEEDING LIST OF DECLINES

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment imparted considerable irregularity to today's stock market, but major speculative activity was again on the upside. Final quotations disclosed a rather long list of gains ranging from 1 to nearly 12 points, and a smaller number of declines, some of which ran from 1 to nearly 6 points.

President Coolidge's message to congress was about in line with Wall street expectations, but its publication was followed by a rather heavy selling movement on the theory that the "good news was out" and that the market was entitled to a reaction on technical grounds. Good support was forthcoming, however, and irregular recoveries took place during the afternoon.

Crossing of the $4,000,000,000 mark by stock exchange member loans and a 4 1-2 per cent. renewal rate for call money tended to restrict operations for the advance, but the money rate dropped to 4 per cent by early afternoon and bullish operations were resumed with considerable violence in a few specialties.

One of the most significant developments of the day was the announcement of a shipment of $1,000,000 in gold to Great Britain, the first since the war, coincident with a further advance in the sterling exchange rate to a new hig. level. This movement to England is not expected to reach large proportions, because of a rather general belief that large exports would lead to a reduction of British discount rates, and a consequent withdrawal of American balances in London.

Standard industrials continued to fluctuate within a rather narrow trading range in the absence of any important trade developments. General Motors closed about a point higher at 128 5-8, U. S. Steel common showed a net loss of 1-8 at 144 5-8, and General Electric fell back nearly a point to 130 1-8.

A sensational advance just before the close in Mullins Body, which rallied from a low of 66 to a new 1927 high of 78 and closed just below that figure for a net gain of 11 3-4, was the individual feature. Texas Gulf Sulphur ran up over 5 points on a turnover of 100,000 shares, and Goodrich Rubber, almost as active, climbed nearly 5 points to a new high at 98. Sharp gains also were recorded by Continental Insurance, Chicago Pneumatic tool, Freeport Texas, Philadelphia Company, Standard Milling, Union Bag & Paper and Wright Aeronautical.

Rails apparently had discounted at least temporarily, the president's renewed recommendations of legislation to facilitate railroad consolidations, losses of a point or more being recorded by Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, and other recent leaders.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady in quiet trading, although some profit taking developed in the South American currencies which established new high records yesterday.

Leading commodity markets moved within rather narrow limits, wheat and cotton both closing slightly higher.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S MESSAGE READ IN BOTH BRANCHES OF CONGRESS

Members of the Congress:

It is gratifying to report that for the fourth consecutive year the state of the Union in general is good. We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range, employment is plentiful. Some parts of agriculture and industry have lagged; some localities have suffered from storm and flood. But such losses have been absorbed without serious detriment to our great economic structure. Stocks of goods are moderate and a wholesome caution is prevalent. Rates of interest for industry, agriculture, and government have been reduced. Savers and investors are providing capital for new construction in industry and public works. The purchasing power of agriculture has increased. If the people maintain that confidence which they are entitled to have in themselves, in each other, and in America, a comfortable prosperity will continue.

Constructive Economy

Without constructive economy in government expenditures we should not now be enjoying these results or those prospects. Because we are not now physically at war, some people are disposed to forget that our war debt still remains. The nation must make financial sacrifices, accompanied by a stern self-denial in public expenditures, until we have conquered the difficulties of our public finance. While our obligation to veterans and dependents is large and continuing, the heavier burden of the national debt is being steadily eliminated. At the end of this fiscal year it will be reduced from about $26,600,000,000 to about $17,978,000,000. Annual interest, including war savings, will have been reduced from $1,055,000,000 to $670,000,000. The sacrifices of the people the economy of the government, are showing remarkable results. They should be continued for the purpose of relieving the nation of the burden of interest and debt and releasing revenue for internal improvements and national development.

Not only the amount, but the rate, of government interest has been reduced. Callable bonds have been refunded and paid, so that during this year the average rate of interest on the present public debt for the first time will be below 4 per cent. Keeping the credit of the nation high is a tremendously profitable operation.

The immediate fruit of economy and the retirement of the public debt is tax reduction. The annual saving in interest between 1920 and 1928 is $313,000,000. Without this no bill I believe the taxpayers would be worth proposing. The three measures already enacted leave our government revenues where they are not oppressive. Exemptions have been increased until 15,000,000 people make but 2,000,000 individual taxable returns so that further reduction should be liberal for the purpose of removing inequalities. The secretary of the treasury has recommended a measure which would give us a much better balanced system of taxation and without oppression produce sufficient revenue. It has my complete support.

Unforeseen contingencies requiring money are always arising. Our probable surplus for June 30, 1929, is small. A slight depression in business would greatly reduce our revenue because of our present method of taxation. The people ought to take no selfish attitude of pressing for removing moderate and fair taxes which might produce a deficit. We must keep our budget balance for each year. That is the corner stone of our national credit, the lowering price we pay to command the lowest rate of interest of any great power in the world. Any surplus can be applied to debt reduction, and debt reduction is tax reduction. Under the present circumstance it would be far better to leave the rates as they are than to enact a bill carrying the peril of a deficit. This is not a problem to be approached in a narrow or partisan spirit. All of those who participate in finding a reasonable solution will be entitled to participate in any credit that comes from it without regard to party. The congress has already demonstrated that tax legislation can be considered from purely political considerations into the realm of patriotic public principles.

Any bill for tax reduction should be written by those who are responsible for making, managing, and expanding the business of the government. It is of interests, too often selfish, although uninformed of the national needs as a whole, with hired agents using their powerful beneficiaries as engines of propaganda are permitted to influence the withdrawal of their property from taxation, we shall have a law that is unbalanced and unjust, bad for business and for the country, probably resulting in a deficit, with disastrous financial consequences. The constitution has given the members of the congress sole authority to decide what revenue measures shall be presented for enactment. While welcoming information from any quarter, the congress must continue to exercise its own judgment as to a matter so vital and important to all the interests of the country as taxation.

Being a nation relying not on force, but on fair dealing and good will, to maintain peace with others, we have provided a moderate military force in form adopted solely to defense. It should be continued with a very generous supply of officers and with the present base of personnel, subject to reductions which may be temporarily desirable.

The five-year program for our air forces is in keeping with this same policy and commensurate with the potential contributions of America to the science of aeronautics. The provisions of the law lately enacted are being executed as fast as the practical difficulties of an orderly and stable development permit.

While our army is small prudence requires that it should be kept in a high state of efficiency and provided with such supplies as would permit of a same-state expansion. The garrison nation has lately been increased. Recommendations for an appropriation of $6,166,000 for new housing made to the previous congress failed to pass. The most of the army is well housed, some of it which is quartered in war-time training camps is becoming poor. In the past three years $22,000,000 have been appropriated for construction and repairs, and an authorization has been approved of $22,000,000 for new housing, under which $4,000,000 has already been appropriated. A law has also been passed, conforming with the request of the war department, allocating funds received from the sale of buildings and land for housing purposes. The work, however, not completed so that other applications are being recommended. A good navy is likewise a weapon of defense. We have a foreign commerce and merchant fleet of trade unsurpassed by any other country. We have outlying territory in the two great oceans and the strategic of seacoast studded with the richest cities in the world. We are responsible for the protection of a large population and the greatest treasure ever bestowed upon any people. We are charged with an international duty of defending the Panama Canal. To meet these responsibilities we need a very substantial sea armament. It needs aircraft development, which is being provided under the five-year program. It needs submarines as soon as the department decides upon the best type of construction. It needs airplane carriers and a material addition to its force of cruisers. We can plan for the future and begin a moderate building program.

This country has put away the Old World policy of competitive armaments. It can never be relieved of the responsibility of adequate national defense. We have one treaty secured by an unprecedented attitude of generosity on our part for a limitation in naval armament. After most careful preparation extending over months, we recently made every effort to secure a three-power treaty to the same end. We were granted much cooperation by Japan, but we were unable to come to an agreement with Great Britain. While the results of the conference were of considerable value they were mostly of a negative character. We know now that no agreement can be reached which will be inconsistent with a considerable building program on our part. We are ready and willing to continue the preparatory investigations on the general subject of limitation of armaments which have been started under the auspices of the league of nations.

We have a considerable cruiser tonnage, but a part of it is obsolete. Everyone knew that had a three-power agreement been reached it would have left us with the necessity of continuing our building program. The failure to agree should not cause us to build either more or less than we otherwise should. Any future treaty of limitation will call on us for more ships. We should enter on no competition. We should refrain from no needful program. It should be made clear to all the world that lacking a definite agreement, the attitude of any other country is not to be permitted to alter our own policy. It should especially be demonstrated that propaganda will not cause us to change our course. Where there is no treaty limitation, the size of the navy which America is to have will be solely for America to determine. No outside influence should enlarge it or diminish it. But it should be known to all that our military power holds no threat of aggrandizement. It is a guaranty of peace and security at home, and when it goes abroad it is an instrument for the protection of the legal rights of our citizens under international law, a refuge in time of disorder, and always the servant of world peace. Wherever our flag goes the rights of humanity increase.

Merchant Marine

The United States government fleet is transporting a large amount of freight and reducing its drain on the treasury. The shipping board is constantly under pressure, to which it too often yields, to protect private interests, rather than serve the public welfare. More attention should be given to merchant ships as an auxiliary of the navy. The possibility of including their masters and crews in the naval reserve, with some reasonable compensation should be thoroughly explored as a method of encouraging private operation of shipping. Public operation is not a success. No investigation, of which I have caused several to be made, has failed to report that it could not succeed or to recommend speedy transfer to private ownership. Our exporters and importers are both indifferent about using American ships. It should be our policy to keep our present vessels in repair and dispose of them as rapidly as possible, rather than undertake any new construction. Their operation is a burden on the national treasury, for which we are not receiving sufficient benefits.

Commercial Aviation

A rapid growth is taking place in aeronautics. The department of commerce has charge of the inspection and licensing system and the construction of national airways. Almost 8,000 miles are already completed and about 4,000 miles more contemplated. Nearly 4,400 miles are now equipped and over 3,000 miles more will have lighting and emergency landing fields by next July. Air mail contracts are expected to cover 24 of these lines. Daily airway flying is nearly 15,000 miles and is expected to reach 25,000 miles early next year.

Flights for other purposes exceed 25,000 miles each day. Over 500 airports completed and uncompleted, have been laid out. The demand for aircraft has greatly increased. The policy already adopted by the congress is producing the sound development of this coming industry.

Western Hemisphere Air Mail

Private enterprise is showing much interest in opening up aviation service to Mexico and Central and South America. We are particularly solicitous to have the United States take a leading part in this development. It is understood that the governments of our sister countries would be willing to cooperate. Their physical features, the undeveloped state of their transportation, make an air service especially adaptable to their usage. The post office department should be granted power to make liberal long-term contracts for carrying our mail, and authority should be given to the army and the navy to detail aviators and planes to cooperate with private enterprise in establishing such mail service with the consent of the countries concerned. A committee of the cabinet will later present a report on this subject.

Good Roads

The importance and benefit of good roads is more and more coming to be appreciated. The national government has been making liberal contributions to encourage their construction. The results and benefits have been very gratifying. National participation, however, should be confined to trunk-line systems. The national tax on automobiles is now nearly sufficient to meet this outlay. This tax is very small, and on low-priced cars is not more than $2 or $3 each year.

While the advantage of having good roads is very large, the desire for improved highways is not limited to our own country. It should and does include all the Western Hemisphere. The principal points in Canada are already accessible. We ought to lend our encouragement in any way we can for more good roads to all the principal points in this hemisphere south of the Rio Grande. It has been our practice to supply these countries with military and naval advisers, when they have requested it, to assist them in national defense. The arts of peace are even more important to them and to us. Authority should be given by law to provide them at their request with engineering advisers for the construction of roads and bridges. In some of these countries already wonderful progress is being made in road building, but the engineering features are lacking. Our geodetic survey and the engineers of our army are equipped to render valuable service in this direction, which would be of great benefit to our own people. Roads are a means of peace and good will. Their construction should be encouraged in every way possible.

Cuban Parcel Post

We have a temporary parcel-post convention with Cuba. The advantage of it is all on our side. During 1926 we shipped twelve times as many parcels, weighing twenty-four times as much, as we received. This convention was made on the understanding that we would repeal an old law prohibiting the importation of cigars and cigarettes in quantities less than 3,000 enacted in 1866 to discourage smuggling, for which it has long been unnecessary. This law unjustly discriminates against an important industry of Cuba. Its repeal has been recommended by the treasury and post office departments. Unless this is done our merchants and railroads will find themselves deprived of this large parcel-post business after the 1st of next March, the date of the expiration of the convention, which has been extended upon the specific understanding that it would expire at that time unless this legislation was enacted. We purchase large quantities of tobacco made in Cuba. It is not probable that our purchases would be any larger if this law was repealed, while it would be an advantage to many other industries in the United States.

Insular Possessions

Conditions in the Philippine Islands have been steadily improved. Contentment and good order prevail. Roads, irrigation works, harbor improvements, and public buildings are being constructed. Public education and sanitation have been advanced. The government is in a sound financial condition. These immediate results were especially due to the administration of Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood. The six years of his governorship marked a distinct improvement in the islands and rank as one of the outstanding accomplishments of this distinguished man. His death is a loss to the nation and the islands.

Greater progress could be made, more efficiency could be put into administration if the congress would undertake to expend, through its appropriating power, all or a part of the customs revenues which are now turned over to the Philippine treasury. The powers of the auditor of the islands is about 98 per cent in the hands of the Filipinos. An extension of the policy of self-government will be hastened by the demonstration on their part of their desire and their ability to carry out cordially and efficiently the provisions of the organic law enacted by the congress for the government of the islands. It would be well for a committee of the congress to visit the islands every two years.

A fair degree of progress is being made in Porto Rico. Its agricultural products are increasing; its treasury position, which has given much concern, shows improvement. I am advised by the governor that educational facilities are still lacking. Roads are being constructed, which he represents are the first requisite for building schoolhouses. The loyalty of the island to the United States is exceedingly gratifying. A memorial will be presented to you requesting authority to have the governor elected by the people of Porto Rico. This was never done in the case of our own territories. It is admitted that education outside of the towns is as yet very deficient. Until it has progressed further the efficiency of the government and the happiness of the people may need the guiding hand of an appointed governor. As it is not contemplated that any change should be made immediately, the general subject may well have the thoughtful study of the congress.

Panama Canal

The number of commercial ships passing through the Panama Canal has increased from 3,587 in 1922 to 5,475 in 1927. The total amount of tolls turned into the treasury is over $165,000,000, while all the operations of the canal have yielded a surplus of about $80,000,000. In order to provide additional storage of water and give some control over the floods of the Chagres River, it is proposed to erect a dam to cost about $12,000,000 at Alhajuela. It will take some five years to complete this work.

Agriculture

The past year has seen a marked improvement in the general condition of agriculture. Production is better balanced and without acute shortage or heavy surplus. Costs have been reduced and the average output of the worker increased. The level of farm prices has risen, while others have fallen, so that the purchasing power of the farmer is approaching a normal figure. The individual farmer is entitled to great credit for the progress made since 1921. He has adjusted his production and through cooperative organizations and other methods improved his marketing. He is using authenticated facts and employing sound methods which other industries are obliged to use to secure stability and prosperity. The old-fashioned haphazard system is being abandoned, economics are being applied to ascertain the best adapted unit of land, diversification is being promoted, and scientific methods are being used in production, and business principles in marketing.

Agriculture has not fully recovered from postwar depression. The fact is that economic progress never marches forward in a straight line. It goes in waves. One part goes ahead, while another halts and another recedes. Everybody wishes agriculture to prosper. Any sound and workable proposal to help the farmer will have the earnest support of the government. Their interests are not all identical. Legislation should assist as many producers in as many regions as possible. It should be the aim to assist the farmer to work out his own salvation socially and economically. No plan will be of any permanent value to him which does not leave him standing on his own foundation.

In the past the government has spent vast sums to bring land under cultivation. It is apparent that this has reached temporarily the saturation point. We have had a surplus of production and a poor market for land, which has only lately shown signs of improvement. The main problem which is presented for solution is one of dealing with a surplus of production. It is useless to propose a temporary expedient. What is needed is permanency and stability. Government price fixing is known to be unsound and bound to result in disaster. A government subsidy would work out in the same way. It can not be sounded for all of the people to hire some of the people to produce a crop which neither the producers nor the rest of the people want.

Price fixing and subsidy will both increase the surplus instead of diminishing it. Putting the government directly into business is merely a combination of subsidy and price fixing aggravated by political pressure. These expedients would lead logically to telling the farmer by law what and how much he should plant and where he should plant it, and what and how much he should sell and where he should sell it. The most effective means of dealing with surplus crops is to reduce the surplus acreage. While this can not be done by the individual farmer, it can be done through the organizations already in existence, through the information published by the department of agriculture, and especially through banks and others who supply credit refusing to finance an acreage manifestly too large.

It is impossible to provide by law an assured success and prosperity for all those who engage in farming. If acreage becomes overextended, the government can not assume responsibility for it. The government can, however, assist cooperative associations and other organizations in orderly marketing and handling a surplus clearly due to weather and seasonal conditions, in order to save the producer from preventable loss. While it is probably impossible to secure this result at a single step, and much will have to be worked out by trial and rejection, a beginning could be made by setting up a federal board or commission of able and experienced men in marketing, granting equal advantages under this board to the various agricultural commodities and sections of the country, giving encouragement to the cooperative movement in agriculture, and providing a revolving loan fund at a moderate rate of interest for the necessary financing. Such legislation would lay the foundation for a permanent solution of the surplus problem.

This is not a proposal to lend more money to the farmer, who is already fairly well financed, but to lend money temporarily to experimental marketing associations which will no doubt ultimately be financed by the regularly established banks, as were the temporary operations of the War Finance corporation. Cooperative marketing especially would be provided with means of buying or building physical properties.

The national government has almost entirely relieved the farmer from income taxes by successive tax reductions, but state and local taxes have increased, putting on him a grievous burden. A policy of rigid economy should be applied to state and local expenditures. This is clearly within the legislative domain of the states. The federal government has also improved our banking structure and system of agricultural credits. The farmer will be greatly benefited by similar action in many states. The department of agriculture is undergoing changes in organization in order more completely to separate the research and regulatory divisions, that each may be better administered. More emphasis is being placed on the research program, not only by enlarging the appropriations for state experiment stations but by providing funds for expanding the research work of the department. It is in this direction that much future progress can be expected.

The Protective Tariff

The present tariff rates supply the national treasury with well over $500,000,000 of annual revenue. Yet, about 65 per cent of our imports come in duty free. Of the remaining 35 per cent of imports on which duties are laid about 23 per cent consists of luxuries and agricultural products, and the balance of about 12 per cent, amounting to around $560,000,000, is made up of manufactures and merchandise. As no one is advocating any material reduction in the rates on agriculture or luxuries, it is only the comparatively small amount of about $560,000,000 of other imports that are really considered in any discussion of reducing tariff rates. While this amount, duty free would be large enough seriously to depress many lines of business in our own country, it is of small importance when spread over the rest of the world.

It is often stated that a reduction of tariff rates on industry would benefit agriculture. It would be interesting to know to what commodities it is thought this could be applied. Everything the farmer uses in farming is already on the free list. Nearly everything he sells is protected. It would seem to be obvious that it is better for the country to have the farmer raise food to supply the domestic manufacturer than the foreign manufacturer. In one case our country would have only the farmer; in the other it would have the farmer and the manufacturer. Assuming that Europe would have more money if it sold us larger amounts of merchandise, it is not certain it would consume more food, or, if it did, that its purchases would be made in this country. Undoubtedly it would resort to the cheapest market, which is by no means ours. The largest and best and most profitable market for the farmer is the world's, our own domestic market. Any great increase in manufactured imports means the closing of our own plants. Nothing could be worse for agriculture.

Probably no one expects a material reduction in the rates on manufactures while maintaining the rates on agriculture. A material reduction in either would be disastrous to the farmer. It would mean a general shrinkage of values, a deflation of prices, a reduction of wages, a general depression carrying our people down to the low standard of living in our competitor countries. It is obvious that this would not improve but destroy our market for imports, which is best served by maintaining our present high purchasing power under which in the past five years imports have increased 83 per cent.

Farm Loan System

It is exceedingly important that the federal land and joint-stock land banks should furnish the best possible service for agriculture. Certain joint-stock banks have fallen into improper and unsound practices, resulting in the indictment of the officials of three of them. More money has been provided for examinations and at the instance of the treasury rules and regulations of the federal farm board have been revised. Early last May three of its members resigned. Their places were filled with men connected with the War Finance corporation, Eugene Meyer being designated as farm loan commissioner. The new members have demonstrated their ability in the field of agricultural finance in the extensive operations of the War Finance corporation. Three joint-stock banks have gone into receivership. It is necessary to preserve the public confidence in this system in order to find a market for their bonds. A recent flotation was made at a record low rate of 4 per cent. Careful supervision is absolutely necessary to protect the investor and enable these banks to exercise their chief function in serving agriculture.

Muscle Shoals

The last year has seen considerable changes in the problem of Muscle Shoals. Development of other methods show that nitrates can probably be produced at less cost than by the use of hydro-electric power. Extensive investigation made by the department of war indicates that the nitrate plants on this project are of little value for national defense and can probably be disposed of within two years. The oxidation part of the plants however, should be retained indefinitely. This leaves this project mostly concerned with power. It should, nevertheless, continue to be dedicated to agriculture. It is probable that this desire can be best served by disposing of the plant and applying the revenues received from it to research for methods of more economical production of concentrated fertilizer and to demonstrated fertilizer and to demonstrations and other methods of stimulating its use on the farm. But in disposing of the property preference should be given to proposals to use all or part of it for nitrate production and fertilizer manufacturing.

Flood Control

For many years the federal government has been building a system of dikes along the Mississippi River for protection against high water. During the past season the lower states were overcome by a most disastrous flood. Many thousands of square miles were inundated, a great many lives were lost, much livestock was drowned, and a very heavy destruction of property was inflicted upon the inhabitants. The American Red Cross at once went to the relief of the stricken communities. Appeals for contributions have brought in over $17,000,000. The federal government has provided services, equipment, and supplies probably amounting to about $7,000,000 more. Between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 in addition have been provided by local railroads, the states, and their political units. Credits have been arranged by the farm loan board, and three emergency finance corporations with a total capital of $8,000,000 have insured additional resources to the extent of $12,000,000. Through these means the 700,000 people in the flooded areas have been adequately supported. Provision has been made to care for those in need until after the 1st of January.

The engineer corps of the army has contracted to close all breaks in the dike system before the next season of high water. A most thorough and elaborate survey of the whole situation has been made and embodied in a report with recommendations for future flood control, which will be presented to the congress. The carrying out of their plans will necessarily extend over a series of years. They will call for a raising and strengthening of the dike system with provision for emergency spillways and improvements for the benefit of navigation.

Under the present law the land adjacent to the dikes has paid one third of the cost of their construction. This has been a most extraordinary concession from the plan adopted in relation to irrigation, where the general rule has been that the land benefited should bear the entire expense. It is true, of course that the troublesome waters do not originate on the land to be reclaimed, but it is also true that such waters have a right of way through that section of the country and the land there is charged with that easement. It is the land of this region that is to be benefited. To say that it is unable to bear any expense of reclamation is the same thing as saying that it is not worth reclaiming. Because of expenses incurred and charges already held against this land, it seems probable that some revision will have to be made concerning the proportion of cost which it should bear. But it is extremely important that it should pay enough so that those requesting improvements will be charged with some responsibility for their cost, and the neighborhood where works are constructed have a pecuniary interest in preventing waste and extravagance and securing a wise and economical expenditure of public funds.

It is necessary to look upon this emergency as a national disaster. It has been so treated from its inception. Our whole people have provided with great generosity for its relief. Most of the departments of the federal government have been engaged in the same effort. The governments of the affected areas, both state and municipal, can not be given too high praise for the courageous and helpful way in which they have come to the rescue of the people. If the sources directly chargeable can not meet the demand, the national government should not fail to provide generous relief. This, however, does not mean restoration. The government is not an insurer of its citizens against the hazard of the elements. We shall always have flood and drought, heat and cold, earthquake and wind, lightning and tidal wave, which are all too constant in their afflictions. The government does not undertake to reimburse its citizens for loss and damage incurred under such circumstances. It is chargeable, however, with the rebuilding of public works and the humanitarian duty of relieving its citizens from distress.

The people in the flooded area and their representatives have approached this problem in the most generous and broad-minded way. They should be met with a like spirit on the part of the national government. This is all one country. The public needs of each part must be provided for by the public at large. No required relief should be refused. An adequate plan should be adopted to prevent a recurrence of this disaster in order that the people may restore to productivity and comfort their fields and their towns.

Legislation by this congress should be confined to our principal and most pressing problem, the lower Mississippi, considering tributaries only so far as they materially affect the main flood problem. A definite federal program relating to our waterways was proposed when the last congress authorized a comprehensive survey of all the important streams of the country in order to provide for their improvement, including flood control, navigation, power, and irrigation. Other legislation should wait pending a report on this survey. The recognized needs of the Mississippi should not be made a vehicle for carrying other projects. All proposals for development should stand on their own merits. Any other method would result in ill-advised conclusions, great waste of money, and instead of promoting would delay the orderly and certain utilization of our water resources.

Very recently several of the New England states have suffered somewhat similarly from heavy rainfall and high water. No reliable estimate of damage has yet been computed, but it is very large to private and public property. The Red Cross is generously undertaking what is needed for immediate relief repair and reconstruction of houses, restocking of domestic animals, and food, clothing, and shelter. A considerable sum of money will be available through the regular channels in the department of agriculture for reconstruction of highways. It may be necessary to grant special aid for this purpose. Complete reports of what is required will undoubtedly be available early in the session.

Inland Navigation

The congress in its last session authorized the general improvements necessary to provide the Mississippi waterway system with better transportation. Stabilization of the levels of the Great Lakes and their opening to the sea by an effective shipway remain to be considered. Since the last session the board of engineers of the war department has made a report on the proposal for a canal through the State of New York, and the joint board of engineers, representing Canada and the United States, has finished a report on the St. Lawrence River. Both of these boards conclude that the St. Lawrence project is cheaper, affords a more expeditious method of placing western products in European markets, and will cost less to operate. The state department has requested the Canadian government to negotiate treaties necessary to secure an agreement with Canada to put in works necessary to prevent fluctuation in the levels of the Great Lakes.

Legislation is desirable for the construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River, primarily as a method of flood control and irrigation. A secondary result would be a considerable power development and a source of domestic water supply for southern California. Flood control is clearly a national problem and water supply is a government problem, but every other possibility should be exhausted before the federal government becomes engaged in the power business. The states which are interested ought to reach mutual agreement. This project is in reality their work. If they wish the federal government to undertake it, they should not hesitate to make the necessary concessions to each other. This subject is fully discussed in the annual report of the secretary of the interior. The Columbia River Basin project is being studied and will be one to be considered at some future time.

The Inland Waterways corporation is proving successful and especially beneficial to agriculture. A survey is being made to determine its future needs. It has never been contemplated that if inland rivers were opened to navigation it would then be necessary for the federal government to provide the navigation. Such a request is very nearly the equivalent of a declaration that their navigation is not profitable, that the commodities which they are to carry can be taken at a cheaper rate by some other method, in which case the hundreds of millions of dollars proposed to be expended for opening rivers to navigation would be not only wasted, but would entail further constant expenditures to carry the commodities of private persons for less than cost.

The policy is well established that the government should open public highways on land and on water, but for use of the public in their private capacity. It has put on some demonstration barge lines, but always with the expectation that, if they prove profitable they would pass into private hands and if they do not prove profitable they will be withdrawn. The problems of transportation over inland waterways should be taken up by private enterprise, so that the public will have the advantage of competition in service. It is expected that some of our lines can be sold, some more demonstration work done, and that with the completion of the Ohio project a policy of private operation can be fully developed.

Prohibition

After more than two generations of constant debate, our country adopted a system of national prohibition under all the solemnities involved in an amendment to the federal constitution. In obedience to this mandate the congress and the states, with one or two notable exceptions, have passed required laws for its administration and enforcement. This imposes upon the citizenship of the country, and especially on all public officers, not only the duty to enforce, but the obligation to observe the sanctions of this constitutional provision and its resulting laws. If this condition could be secured, all question concerning prohibition would cease. The federal government is making every effort to accomplish these results through careful organization, large appropriations, and administrative effort. Smuggling has been greatly cut down, the larger sources of supply for illegal sale have been checked, and by means of injunction and criminal prosecution the process of enforcement is being applied. The same vigilance on the part of local governments would render these efforts much more successful. The federal authorities propose to discharge their obligation for enforcement to the full extent of their ability.

The Negro

History does not anywhere record so much progress made in the same length of time as that which has been accomplished by the negro race in the United States since the emancipation proclamation. They have come up from slavery to be prominent in education, the professions, art, science, agriculture, banking, and commerce. It is estimated that 50,000 of them are on the government pay rolls, drawing about 250,000,000 each year. They have been the recipients of presidential appointments and their professional ability has arisen to a sufficiently high plane so that they have been intrusted with the entire management and control of the great veterans' hospital at Tuskegee, where their conduct has taken high rank. They have shown that they have been worthy of all the encouragement which they have received. Nevertheless, they are too often subjected to thoughtless and inconsiderate treatment, unworthy alike of the white or colored races. They have especially been made the target of the foul crime of lynching. For several years these acts of unlawful violence had been diminishing. In the last year they have shown an increase. Every principle of order and law and liberty is opposed to this crime. The congress should enact any legislation it can under the constitution to provide for its elimination.

American Indian

The condition of the American Indian has much improved in recent years. Full citizenship was bestowed upon them on June 2, 1924, and appropriations for their care and advancement have been increased. Still there remains much to be done.

Notable increases in appropriations for the several major functions performed by the department of the interior on behalf of the annual increases in appropriations for their education total $1,894,325; for medical care, $578,000; and for industrial advancement, $205,000; or $2,682,325 more than would have been spent in the same period on the basis of appropriations for 1923 and the preceding years.

The needs along health, educational, industrial, and social lines, however, are great, and the budget estimates for 1929 include still further increases for Indian administration.

To advance the time when the Indian may become self-sustaining, it is my belief that the federal government should continue to improve the facilities for their care, and as rapidly as possible turn its responsibility over to the states.

Coal

Legislation authorizing a system of fuel administration and the appointment by the president of a board of mediation and conciliation case of actual or threatened interruption of production is needed. The miners themselves are now seeking information and action from the government, which could readily be secured through such a board. It is believed that a thorough investigation and reconsideration of this proposed policy by the congress will demonstrate that this recommendation is sound and should be adopted.

Petroleum Conservation

The national government is undertaking to join the formation of a cooperative committee of lawyers, engineers, and public officers, to consider what legislation by the states or by the congress can be adopted for the preservation and conservation of our supply of petroleum. This has come to be one of the main dependencies for transportation and power so necessary to our agricultural and industrial life. It is expected the report of this committee will be available for later congressional action. Meantime, the requirement that the secretary of the interior should make certain leases of land belonging to the Osage Indians, in accordance with the act of March 3, 1921, should be repealed. The authority to lease should be discretionary, in order that the property of the Indians may not be wasted and the public suffer a future lack of supply.

Alien Property

Under treaty the property held by the alien property custodian was to be retained "until suitable provision had been made for the satisfaction of American claims. While still protecting the American claimants, in order to afford every possible accommodation to the nationals of the countries whose property was held, the congress has made liberal provision for the return of a large part of the property. All trusts under $10,000 were returned in full, and partial returns were made on the others. The total returned was approximately $350,000,000.

There is still retained, however, about $250,000,000. The mixed claims commission has made such progress in the adjudication of claims that legislation can now be enacted providing for the return of the property, which should be done under conditions which will protect our government and our claimants. Such a measure will be proposed, and I recommend its enactment.

Railroad Consolidation

In order to increase the efficiency of transportation and decrease its cost to the shipper, railroad consolidation must be secured. Legislation is needed to simplify the necessary procedure to secure such agreements and arrangements for consolidation, always under the control and with the approval of the interstate commerce commission. Pending this, no adequate or permanent reorganization can be made of the freight-rate structure. Meantime, both agriculture and industry are compelled to wait for needed relief. This is purely a business question which should be stripped of all local and partisan bias, decided on broad principles and its merits in order to promote the public welfare. A large amount of new construction and equipment, which will furnish employment for labor and markets for commodities of both factory and farm, wait on the decision of this important question. Delay is holding back the progress of our country.

Many of the same arguments are applicable to the consolidation of the Washington traction companies.

Veterans

The care which this country has lavished on its veterans is known of all men. The yearly outlay for this purpose is about $750,000,000, or about the cost of running the federal government, outside of the post office department, before the World war. The congress will have before it recommendations of the American legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other like organizations, which should receive candid consideration. We should continue to foster our system of compensation and rehabilitation, and provide hospitals and insurance. The magnitude of the undertaking is already so large that all requests calling for further expenditure should have the most searching scrutiny. Our present system of pensions is already sufficiently liberal. It was increased by the last congress for Civil and Spanish war veterans and widows and for some dependents.

It has been suggested that the various governmental agencies now dealing with the veterans' relief be consolidated. This would bring many advantages. It is recommended that the proper committees of the congress make a thorough survey of this subject, in order to determine if legislation to secure such consolidation is desirable.

Education

For many years it has been the policy of the federal government to encourage and foster the cause of education. Large sums of money are annually appropriated to carry on vocational training. Many millions go into agriculture in all schools. The general subject is under the immediate direction of a commissioner of education. While this subject is strictly a state and local function, it should continue to have the encouragement of the national government. I am still of the opinion that much good could be accomplished through the establishment of a department of education and relief, into which would be gathered all of these functions under one directing member of the cabinet.

Department of Labor

Industrial relations have never been more peaceful. In recent months they have suffered from only one serious controversy. In all others difficulties have been adjusted, both management and labor wishing to settle controversies by friendly agreement rather than by compulsion. The welfare of women and children is being especially guarded by our department of labor. Its children's bureau is in cooperation with 26 state boards and 80 juvenile courts.

Through its bureau of immigration it has been found that medical examination abroad has saved prospective immigrants from much hardship. Some further legislation to provide for reuniting families when either the husband or the wife is in this country, and granting more freedom for the migration of the North American Indian tribes, is desirable.

The United States employment service has enabled about 2,000,000 men and women to gain paying positions in the last fiscal year. Particular attention has been given to assisting men past middle life and in providing field labor for harvesting agricultural crops. This has been made possible in part through the service of the federal board for vocational education, which is cooperating with the states in a program to increase the technical knowledge and skill of the wage earner.

Public Buildings

Construction is under way in the country and ground has been broken for carrying out a public-building program for Washington. We have reached a time when not only the conveniences but the architectural beauty of the public buildings of the capital city should be given much attention. It will be necessary to purchase further land and provide the required continuing appropriations.

Historical Celebrations

Provision is being made to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Suggestion has been made for the construction of a memorial road leading from the capital to Mount Vernon, which may well have the consideration of the congress, and the commission intrusted with preparations for the celebration will undoubtedly recommend publication of the complete writings of Washington and a series of writings by different authors relating to him.

February 23, 1929, is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the capture of Fort Sackville, at Vincennes, in the state of Indiana. This eventually brought into the Union what was known as the northwest territory, embracing the region north of the Ohio river between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi river. This expedition was led by George Rogers Clark. His heroic character and the importance of his victory are too little known and understood. They gave us not only this northwest territory but by means of that the prospect of reaching the Pacific. The state of Indiana is proposing to dedicate the site of Fort Sackville as a national shrine. The federal government may well make some provision for the erection under its own management of a fitting memorial at that point.

Foreign Relations

It is the policy of the United States to promote peace. We are a peaceful people and committed to the settling of disputes by amicable adjustment rather than by force. We have believed that peace can best be secured by a faithful observance on our part of the principles of international law, accompanied by patience and conciliation, and requiring of others a like treatment for ourselves. We have lately had some difference with Mexico relative to the injuries inflicted upon our nationals and their property within that country. A firm adherence to our rights and a scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of Mexico, both in accordance with the law of nations, coupled with patience and forbearance, it is hoped will resolve all our differences without interfering with the friendly relationship between the two governments.

We have been compelled to send naval and marine forces to China to protect the lives and property of our citizens. Fortunately their simple presence there has been sufficient to prevent any material loss of life. But there has been considerable loss of property. That unhappy country is torn by factions and revolutions which bid fair to last for an indefinite period. Meanwhile we are protecting our citizens and stand ready to cooperate with any government which may emerge in promoting the welfare of the people of China. They have always had our friendship, and they should especially merit our consideration in these days of their distraction and distress.

We were confronted by similar condition on a small scale in Nicaragua. Our marine and naval forces protected our citizens and their property and prevented a heavy sacrifice of life and the destruction of that country by a reversion to a state of revolution. Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of war, was sent there to cooperate with our diplomatic and military officers in effecting a settlement between the contending parties. This was done on the assurance that we would cooperate in restoring a state of peace where our rights would be protected by giving our assistance to the conduct of the next presidential election, which occurs in a few months. With this assurance the population returned to their peace-time pursuits, with the exception of some small roving bands of outlaws.

In general, our relations with other countries can be said to have improved within the year. While having a due regard for our own affairs, the protection of our own rights, and the advancement of our own people, we can afford to be liberal toward others. Our example has become of great importance in the world. It is recognized that we are independent, detached, and can and do take a disinterested position in relation to international affairs. Our charity embraces the earth. Our trade is far flung. Our financial favors are widespread. Those who are peaceful and law-abiding realize that not only have they nothing to fear from us, but that they can rely on our moral support. Proposals for promoting the peace of the world will have careful consideration. But we are not a people who are always seeking foreign. We know that peace comes from honesty and fair dealing, from moderation, and a generous regard for the rights of others. The heart of the nation is more important than treaties. A spirit of generous consideration is a more certain defense than great armaments. We should continue to promote peace by our example, and fortify it by such international covenants against war as we are permitted under our constitution to make.

American Progress

Our country has made much progress. But it has taken, and will continue to take, much effort. Competition will be keen, the temptation to selfishness and arrogance will be severe, the provocations to deal harshly with weaker peoples will be many. All of these are embraced in the opportunity for true greatness. They will be overbalanced by cooperation, by generosity, and a spirit of neighborly kindness. The forces of the universe are taking humanity in that direction. In doing good, in walking humbly, in sustaining its own people, in ministering to other nations, America will work out its own mighty destiny.

The white house, December 6, 1927.

WILLIMANTIC CHAMBER VOTES FOR PAID SECRETARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 6.—At an highly enthusiastic and largely attended special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held at the Nathan Hale hotel tonight it was voted to accept the recommendation of a special committee that the services of a paid secretary be secured for the chamber at a salary not exceeding $3000 a year. The recommendation was one of four embodied in a report filed by the special committee consisting of Samuel Chesebro, Charles A. Gates and James F. Twomey.

The speaker of the evening was Walter H. Pilcher, executive secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, who gave a very concise and interesting outline of the work of a secretary and the possibilities of civic development through the efforts of an executive. In a forum which followed, he answered many questions of importance relative to chamber of commerce administration. He was given a rising vote of thanks. Mr. Pilcher was introduced by Judge Otto E. Robinson, chairman of the program committee. President Frank P. Fenton announced that William P. Jordan and Attorney E. Frank Bugbee had accepted the responsibility of sponsoring the campaign to secure the necessary funds to carry on the proposed chamber activities. President Fenton, in noting the death of James P. Bath, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, appointed as a resolutions committee, W. C. Norris, Kenneth N. Hillhouse and Ernest P. Chesebro.

Another speaker of the evening was Daniel D. Cavanaugh, of South Chaplin, secretary of the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association, who won the interest of the members of the chamber, in the coming annual Willimantic Exposition which the association is preparing to stage. Note was made of the presence of Mayor-elect Charles A. Gates.

Proposed Ordinance of the City of Norwich

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to give you notice that at a regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of The City of Norwich in the State of Connecticut, held on Monday, December 5th, 1927, at 8 p. m., in the Council Chamber of said City, the following was proposed and offered as an ordinance of the said City, and the consideration thereof and action thereon was, as required by law, postponed until a regular meeting of the said Court of Common Council to be held Monday, January 2nd, 1928 at 8 o'clock P. M., standard time, in said Council Chamber, when a public hearing will be had thereon:

An Ordinance of the City of Norwich Amending an Ordinance of the City of Norwich, Adopted December 1st, 1924.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COURT OF COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NORWICH:

Section 1. Section 28 of the ordinance of The City of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 concerning traffic, parking, etc., is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 28. No person shall park any vehicle on that portion of the east side of Broadway that is directly in front of the real estate owned by the Dime Savings Bank of Norwich for a longer period than five minutes or on that portion of the east side of Broadway from Main street to Bath Street which is not in front of the real estate of the Dime Savings Bank of Norwich for a longer period than forty minutes.

Section 2. Section 36 of an ordinance of The City of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 concerning traffic, parking, etc., is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 36. No person shall park any vehicle on either side of Thames street southerly of Chestnut Square for a distance of one hundred feet and no person shall park any vehicle on the easterly side of West Thames Street from the city line northerly to a point on said easterly side of West Thames Street two hundred and ten feet southerly of the junction of the southerly line of Shipping Street and the easterly line of West Thames Street.

The above is a true copy of said proposed ordinance and is published by me as directed by the said Court of Common Council and required by the charter of the said City of Norwich.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1927.

WESTON C. FULLER
City Clerk and Clerk of the Court of Common Council of The City of Norwich, Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN R. R. CHANGES JAN. 1 WILL AFFECT NEW LONDON EMPLOYES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—Announcement was made today by officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad of the changes that are to be made on the system and which will greatly affect New London. The changes will be put into operation Jan. 1 and will mean the removal from this city of a large number of families for the present employes affected will be compelled to move either to Providence or New Haven to retain employment with the road.

The New London division is to be entirely abolished, a condition that local railroaders had contemplated when the first intimation was made that changes were planned. The New Haven division, which, at the present time is between New Haven and Waterford, will be extended to Midway, taking in a part of the New London division and the Providence division will take in the balance between Midway and Auburn, R. I. The New Haven division will also operate north of New London, between Midway, New London and Worcester. Superintendent Robert M. Smith of the New London division, will be the new superintendent of the New Haven division and R. D. Fitzmaurice, of the Boston division will have a supervising office at Midway. It is among the possibilities that Superintendent Smith will be provided with an assistant and if such is the case, that official will have an office in the Union station. All of the other offices will be abolished and that means that all the train dispatchers, operators, clerks, etc, will vacate the offices and be assigned to employment in the other cities. At present there are about 100 employes at the Union station. Some of these are married, while the major portion of them are single, but it means that New London will lose them as permanent residents. The move of consolidating the New London and New Haven divisions is being made to further reduce the operating expenses of the road, a course that was taken about two years ago. So far such changes as have been made have been entirely beneficial from an earning standpoint.

OTHER BUSINESS CONSIDERED AT MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—At the meeting of the city council Monday evening, important matters considered and which were crowded out last night because of lack of space in this column included the following:

The suggestion that an entrance be made to the proposed Mitchell park, which Mrs. Alfred Mitchell has promised she will deed to the city, was reported on by Councilor Twomey. He proposed that Lawrence Y. Spears, who suggests giving part of his land for a parcel owned by Mrs. Mitchell, confer with Mrs. Mitchell and both decide upon hte transfer. The land of Mr. Spears is on Gardner avenue.

The council voted to pay the rental of rooms in the Cronin building to be used as a gymnasium by the police department. The rental is $600.

A report was made on the proposal to extend macadam on Gardner avenue to Ocean avenue, showing that the expense would be about $13,000. The matter was referred to the budget committee, which will have to provide the money necessary.

Councilor Whiton suggested that the water department should set aside in the sinking fund a larger sum, as bonds are becoming due to take them up. He said it was not good judgment to set before the people that the water department was receiving such sums of money as profit when there were bonds to be taken care of. He declared the complete report of the auditors should be made public; it was a good business proposition to take care of the bonds as they came due and not to refund them.

Mayor May did not think it wise for the excessive rate now charged for water to be continued and asked that the rate be lowered.

Councilor Streeter pointed out that he was paying some $11 or $13 a year for a single family, whereas he formerly paid $6 or $7 a year. He also said that at the rate the water department was setting aside money now for the sinking fund that in some twenty years half the debt of the water department would be paid off. Mayor May was opposed to the present generation paying such a large proportion of the water debt.

Mayor May called attention to the fact that there were 150 used highways in the city that were not "accepted" streets, in the accepted term He named some of the principal residential streets and said that it had been the custom of the city to refuse to improve certain streets when asked to do so on the ground that the street was not an "accepted" highway. He believed that the city was breeding litigation by its course. A study of Bragaw street brought the matter to the attention of the mayor, who pursued his inquiry and found there were some 150 unaccepted streets, as he stated.

Councilor Whiton explained what had been the policy of the city council in accepting streets. He said parties opening up land for building sites had been required to grade and put the land proposed for a street in condition to have it accepted as such. He believed that was a good policy to follow. He admitted that many of the streets named by the mayor have been in use many years and, as a matter of fact, are recognized as highways of the city. He said they should be accepted. He was opposed to taking as streets land opened by speculators in real estate. The planning board had considered the matter and expressed the opinion that the streets mentioned by the mayor had been considered by the planning board and that the list came from that board. The mayor said he was indebted to the courtesy of the city manager for the list and the latter admitted that the list had been before the planning board.

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6—Herbert Maynard, 25, of 12 Vliets street, a machinist by occupation, was presented in the police court this morning charged with non-support of his wife and 18 months old daughter, Priscilla. Maynard was arrested yesterday afternoon by Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray when Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin issued a warrant after hearing that Maynard had failed to properly support his family for several weeks. Today the case was continued to the 24th inst., to permit Maynard to show whether he intends to provide for his wife and child.

John Tasco, 655 Bank street, was presented on a charge of violation of the state dog law. He was brought before the court by Dog Warden John Sweezy and when testimony had been concluded, Tasca was fined $5 and costs, but the fine was ordered remitted and Tasca paid only the costs, about $8. Tasca owns a puppy and he has continued to permit the animal to roam at large against complaints of neighbors. When he refused to keep the dog on his premises complaint was made to the dog warden.

Two fellows, both with court records for intoxication were presented. One was sentenced to 30 days in jail, while the other was fined $10 and costs. Another drunk was supposed to be presented, but he became intoxicated and was arrested just before the hour arrived for court to sit.

Still another old offender, a young man who has been arrested a dozen or more times did not present himself in court. He was arrested yesterday and when he became sober a friend furnished bail of $25 that the young man might have his liberty. When he did not go to court the bond was declared forfeited.

Eugene Panciera, of Mystic, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in not being possessed of registration. Judgment was suspended. Panciera, who is employed at a Mystic garage, was arrested on Bank street last night by Traffic Officer Carlos Selesnitsky.

Charles Benson, of 83 Blinman street, a fireman of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was arrested by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with breach of the peace. He could not provide a surety on his bond of $50 for appearance in the police court tomorrow, so he was locked up. Benson went to his home shortly before noon and had been drinking. A short time afterwards, Benson and his wife engaged in a quarrel, which was carried to the street. Mrs. Benson became humiliated and communicated with police headquarters and requested that her husband be arrested. Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith was sent to the house and finding Benson in a troublesome mood, as represented by his wife, the offender was taken to police headquarters.

Benson obtained a surety on his bond this evening and went to his home where, according to his wife, he again annoyed her by his aggravating attitude. About 8 o'clock Mrs. Benson called up police headquarters and requested that her husband be rearrested. Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Patrolman George Cockell went to Benson's house and again arrested him.

Gladys Hefflin, of Old Saybrook, has sold four building lots on Crescent street to Lillian D. Clinton, Groton.

Mrs. Charles Allen, of 108 Thames street, Groton; Tony Salamanca, 24 Shaw street; Mary Laura, 32 Ledyard avenue, Groton, and Mrs. Edna Buddington, 89 Broad street, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital were discharged today.

Miss Lucy E. Palmer, 70, died this morning at her residence, 36 Church street, Groton, after an illness of several weeks. Miss Palmer was born in Canterbury the daughter of the late Josiah and Elvira Stevens Palmer. She had resided in Groton for several years.

Mervin Chapman, 72, who died in Norwich yesterday, had resided with his brother, Fred Chapman, at 70 West street for several years. He was born in Montville and had lived there practically his entire life.

The funeral of Fred L. Martin, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at 62 Washington street and was attended by many mourners. The services was read by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Relatives and acquaintances acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

An automobile carrying Connecticut markers, N-6598 collided with a parked automobile in front of the Hotel Lafayette, corner of Broad and Williams streets last night. The driver did not stop to ascertain the extent of the damage he caused, neither was his identity established.

Charles F. Manchester, 47, of 12 Colt street, was arrested tonight charged with non-support of his wife, Grace Newell Manchester. He furnished a surety on his bond of $100 for appearance in the police court tomorrow.

Henry L. Bailey, Jr., 45 Terrace court, Groton, made complaint to the police this evening that while his automobile was parked on Masonic street it was struck by an unidentified car and damaged. Bailey did not ascertain the number of the colliding automobile, or did anyone who happened to be on the street when the collision occurred.

Charles E. Beach, proprietor of an automobile sales and service station on Howard street, informed the police tonight that he had a Velie automobile carrying Connecticut registration, 15091 in his possession. The automobile was purchased on a conditional bill of sale and the payments have not been kept up. When Beach found the auto parked, he entered and drove it to his salesroom.

CAPT. CHAS. A. HAGENS, 87, FORMER TUGBOAT MASTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 6.—Capt. Charles A. Hagens, 87, former master of tugboats of the Thames Towboat company, died at Home Memorial hospital today, following a brief illness with pneumonia. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. H. M. Kazanjian, this city; a son, Arthur L. Hagen, Niantic; two granddaughters, Mrs. Jacob Hartunian and Mrs. Benton MacIntyre, of Groton; two granddaughters, Dorothy and Ruth Hartunian, Groton; two sisters, Mrs Daniel L. Ray, Mystic, and Mrs. Albert Church, of Westminster. His uncle is John Robbins, an inmate at the Odd Fellows Home, Groton. Capt. Hagens was taken ill last Friday and the following day, when his condition did not improve, it was decided to take him to the hospital. Capt. Hagens was a native of Lyme, a son of Charles H. and Abbie Robbins Hagens. When but 22, he entered the employ of the Thames Towboat company. He had such progress in navigation that he received a license as captain within a comparatively short time. Fifteen years of service with the towboat line saw Capt. Hagens transfer his work to a captaincy of a fishing boat of Luce Brothers. After 10 years of service with that line, he decided to abandon active labor. He was engaged for 20 years afterward as custodian of private property at Crescent Beach. He later was employed as night elevator operator at the Crocker House, concluding his employment there when the hotel was damaged by fire about two years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church at Lyme.

Strand Theatre

The Code of The Range now showing at the Strand is a stirring drama of the west. The leading star was never better. He rides and fights and shoots and makes love in his own inimitable fashion, while his two inseparable pals, Starlight the Wonder Horse and Rex, the Movie Collie, display the same amazing intelligence which has served to establish them as the screen's foremost animal actors. Others in the cast are Pauline Curley, little Billy Lamar and Lew Meehan.

College Days is an interesting story of the younger set, their pleasures and romances. It is full of life, fun and vivacity. It features a football game that is worth seeing. The leading stars are Marceline Day and Charles Delaney with the support of a very clever cast including James Harrison and Duane Thompson.

The New Idea of Cancer

Many Cases Can Be Cured If Reported Promptly

BULLETIN No. 8

DELAYS ARE FATAL IN CANCER.

It has been well said that every cancerr is at first a miniature tumor and at that time but little more difficult to cure than a splinter or the sting of an insect.

If a little cancerr was as painful as a sting, many people would go promptly to a physician, and so be made well. But at first there is no pain or inconvenience. The symptoms develop gradually. Suspicion is not aroused that there is anything much the matter.

On the theory that the trouble is trifling and will disappear if left alone the patient delays calling in medical help. It is surprising to find how many persons have long been aware that something was wrong with them before they have gone to a physician about it. But every day counts. When at last something has to be done, it is often too late.

It is desirable to treat all diseases in their early stages, but in no affection is it more necessary than in cancer. The danger is like that of a fire. At first there is but a spark which can readily be extinguished. As the flames spread, the fire becomes more and more unmanageable. At last a conflagration develops and extinction is no longer within human power.

What should be done when a person thinks he or she has cancer is well illustrated by the case of a lady who is now reaching a ripe old age in New England. Many years ago her suspicion became aroused that she had cancer. Within an hour she was at the hospital demanding an examination. The next day she was operated upon for cancer of the breast. She has been well satisfied with the result and has explained to hundreds of women that cancer can be cured if taken in time.

GREENEVILLE

The forty hours devotion which opened in St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday morning came to a fitting close in that parish Tuesday morning with the offering of three public masses, hundreds of communicants receiving the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. The pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe said Tuesday morning that he felt highly pleased at the result of the devotions, over 1,200 people having approached the altar railing for the reception of the sacraments. Monday evening a large congregation was at the church making their visitations and at 8 o'clock the public prayers before the main altar were offered by Rev. Fr. Keefe.

The three masses on Tuesday were offered at 5 o'clock, 7 and 8 o'clock. The 5 o'clock mass was given by Rev. Frederick Coholan, the 7 o'clock mass on St. Joseph's altar by Rev. Fr. Mandler of Taftville and the high mass at 8 o'clock on the main altar by Rev. Fr. Keefe.

The choir was present for the last mass and the music was under direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, the organist. The procession was as on the opening day with 75 boys and girls participating and the public prayers, which followed same, brought the successful devotion to an end. During the three days' devotion members of the St. Mary's church societies served as a guard of honor during the exposition of the blessed sacrament. The devotion this year came at a fitting period marking the 30th anniversary of the formation of the parish by the late Rev. James J. Smith, the first pastor. The wonderful growth which the parish now enjoys can in a great measure be attributed to his endeavors. Rev. Fr. Keefe, now pastor, was a curate under Rev. Smith. Priests assisting Revs. William A. Keefe and Frederick M. Coholan in administering the sacrament of penance with the local priests of the parish were Rt. Rev. Monsignor Michael May, Revs. Myles P. Galvin and John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's parish, Edward J. Quinn, Norwich Town, Frederick H. Desserault, Henri F. Chagnon, Omer Mandler, Taftville, James A. O'Meara, Montville, former curate of St. Mary's parish, John D. Carey, Voluntown, John H. Landing, Plainfield, Ludovic Paradis, Occum, Ulric O. Bellerose, Putnam, John Finn, Fishers Island, N. Y.

Thursday is the feast of the Immaculate Conception and a holy day of obligation when masses will be offered at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock.

Michael Pusateria has returned to his home after spending a month in Pittsburgh.

A surprise birthday party was held Monday evening in horor of Joseph O. Le Blanc at his home, 28 Second street. 50 of his friends attending. Dancing, singing and games were enjoyed. Mr. Le Blanc received a number of gifts including purses of money and gold pieces.

A vocal solo was rendered by Frank Rochette accompanied by Miss Carrie Gorman at the piano. Music for the evening was rendered by Phillip Claire, Joseph Gorman and Daniel Belliveau. A buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Antoine Le Blanc assisted by Mrs. Albert Belliveau, Miss Premilia Le Blanc and Miss Edna Gauchet. The feature of the evening was a large birthday cake set in the center of the table with the appropriate number of candles. Among those present were Blard Gaudet, James Moran, Henry Lucier, Leo Belisle, Leonard Picard, Phillip Gorman, Gerald Gorman, Ernest Le Blanc, Andre Le Blanc, Edgar Bourgue, Fidele Belliveau, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vantour, Mr. and Mrs. Odulon Dugas, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Belliveau, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cormier, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ouillette, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. John Glasdowski, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wetchie, Mrs. Sylvere Plante, Mrs. R. SCOTT'S EMULSION

JURY GIVES VERDICT FOR $500 IN AUTO SUIT BROUGHT FOR $1,500

Norman A. King of New Haven, formerly of New London, who brought a $1,500 suit against Edward K. Crane of Wallingford formerly of Essex, for damages which his auto sustained, was given a verdict for $500 by a jury in the superior court here before Judge John Rufus Booth late Tuesday afternoon. The suit arose from a collision between automobiles owned by plaintiff and defendant at Salem Four Corners on Sunday, Nov. 28, 1926. The King machine, a Chevrolet sedan, was so badly damaged, Mr. King claimed, that it has not been worth while to repair it and it has been in a garage since the accident.

Judge Booth concluded his charge to the jury at 2:50 and it was 4:35 when the twelve men returned with a verdict, which was reported by Foreman Edward A. Bishop.

After testimony had been given in the morning session of court, both sides rested at 11:20, and the arguments in the case were made by Attorney G. Curtis Morgan for the plaintiff and Attorneys C. V. James and Arthur M. Brown for the defendant.

The case was begun last Thursday and witnesses who testified for the plaintiff Tuesday morning were Dr. E. Rheuben Denison of New London and Calvin H. McCall.

Witnesses for the defendant, besides himself, were his wife, Mrs. Elsie G. Crane, who was riding with him and State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh.

Mrs. Crane, who was rendered unconscious in the collision, testified that just before they reached the Four corners, she said to her husband that this was the first time they had not met another car. A few seconds later, she looked about and exclaimed: Oh! there is another car." Then came the crash.

In a suit brought against Crane by a New London barber named Filcaira who was a passenger in King's car, the jury disagreed when the case was tried some time ago.

$5,000 Suit With $3,000 Counterclaim

When the verdict had been returned in the King vs. Crane suit, selection of a jury was begun for trial of the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Morris of this city against Morris J. and Lucie A. Anderson, husband and wife, also of this city, in which the plaintiff claims $5,000 damages and the defendants make a counterclaim for $3,000. Attorney John D. Hall and George H. Gilman appear for Mrs. Morris and Attorney Edmund W. Perkins for the Andersons.

There are six counts in the plaintiff's complaint. In the first she alleges that she loaned the defendants $2,000 on a note dated May 27, 1926, which is still due. In the second she alleges that the defendants executed and delivered to her a certificate of indebtedness for $300 on Jan. 22, 1924. The third count alleges that Mrs. Morris loaned the Andersons $1,750 on March 23, 1926 for the purpose of buying a Studebaker automobile with the understanding that she was to have the use of it, but she alleges that although the machine was bought she was not permitted to use it but that Mr. Anderson used it in his business. In the fourth count it is alleged that Mrs. Morris loaned the defendants $50 in February 1925 toward the purchase of a radio and the fifth count is on the ground that she leased the property 74 McKinley avenue to the Andersons from April 1, 1926 under the agreement that they were to board and care for her. It is claimed that they occupied the place until April 4, 1927 and that the rent was worth $55 per month, but that they failed to keep their agreement about board and care. In the final count it is alleged that although the Andersons were to leave the property in good shape when they went out, they did not do so, but left a large hole in the kitchen floor, and the hot water boiler pipes disconnected and took with them or destroyed about $100 worth of Old English dishes and a round top table worth $8.

In answer to the complaint the Andersons admit the first and second counts referring to the note and certificate of indebtedness, but deny there is interest due on the note. They deny the allegations about loans for the purchase of an automobile and a radio and also the claims about the terms of leasing the premises at 74 McKinley avenue.

The defendants make a second defense in which they claim that Mrs. Morris promised to give No. 74 McKinley avenue at her death to Morris J. Anderson upon his promise to pay all expenses of upkeep of the property and to care for Mrs. Morris during her lifetime. The defendants claim that they occupied the house from April 1, 1926 to April, 1927, and that Mrs. Morris was there except for a period of three weeks in July when she was away on a visit and they retained her room for her. Subsequently, the defendants claim, Mrs. Morris repudiated her promise and ordered them to leave the house, but she gave them the dishes and the table which are mentioned in the sixth count of the complaint.

As there was so little of the court day left when the case was reached, the process of impaneling the jury was deferred until the morning.

MOTOR BUS HUNG OVER SCHOLFIELD HILL BANK

About 12.45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon one of the New England Transportation Co., buses, driven by Robert McGraw, left the highway at North Main street and Central avenue, crashed through the wooden fence at the foot of Scholfield's hill and came to a stop partly suspended over the four-foot embankment at that point. There were no passengers on board the bus which was being driven from the New Haven road station to the Connecticut Company's car barn in Greeneville.

The front wheels of the truck became caught in a pile of snow and the operator lost control when the steering wheel was torn out of his hands. The bus was back on the street an hour and a half later. The damage to the bus consisted of a broken right spring, smashed headlight and bent fender. It is thought the airbrake system was also damaged.

Women Pay Fines for Fighting

Two Talman street women were in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of fighting on Main street near the Plaut-Cadden store, Monday afternoon. They were Mary Gomez, 25, and Antonette Vincent, 21. The Gomez woman was fined $15 and costs and the Vincent woman $5 and costs. Both are married and each accused the other of starting the fight. Mrs. Gomez was cut about the head and had a black eye and Mrs. Vincent's face was bruised as the result of the scrap.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

When the Children of the American Revolution hold their December meeting on the 19th with Mrs. Frank E. Eggleston, of Washington street, the topic will be Washington at Valley Forge.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Taylor and daughter Jane have motored back to New Haven, after a week end visit with Mrs. W. W. Clapp and Miss Clapp of Salem Road. Mrs. Taylor was Fannie Tillinghast, formerly of Taftville.

Harry E. Higgins, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, of Sachem Terrace, was given a party Saturday evening on his ninth birthday. His guests were Huntington Worth George Kies Peck, Charles Maples, Arthur West Page, John Baker, William Anderson, Jordan and David James and Sandy Abbott.

By invitation of the president and board of management of the Connecticut society of Colonial Dames of America, the Norwich members attended a reception Tuesday from 4 to 6 at the Town and County club, Hartford, in honor of Mrs. James P. Andrews now national president. The local members who motored up with the second state vice president Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson were Mrs. William H. Palmer, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Mrs. Eben Learned, Mrs. John D. Hall and Mrs. Charles Colt. Some of the beautiful flowers in blue and yellow—the Colonial Dames' colors—were sent by the Norwich members. Over 250 from about the state attended, being received by Mrs. John C. Wilson, Hartford, the Connecticut president with Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. George Nettleton, of New Haven and Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, of Norwich.

NEWLYWEDS IN NORWICH FOR PART OF HONEYMOON

The wedding of Miss Edith M. Sherman, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Sherman and Lewis E. Blanchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blanchard, all of Shannock, R. I., is announced. The ceremony took place in the vestry of St. Mary's church, Carolina, Saturday morning, Nov. 26, Rev. J. P. Cassagne, S. M., the pastor, performing the ceremony. Miss Bessie Sherman, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Theodore Blanchard, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was gowned in light blue silk, with hat to match, and carried white roses. Her maid was dressed in Nile green silk, with black satin hat and carried pink roses. A reception was held and a luncheon was served for 75 guests at the home of the bride's mother. The bride received a large number of gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard left during the afternoon on a wedding trip spent in part with relatives and friends in Norwich and other points in Connecticut. They will make their home for a time with the bride's mother at Shannock.

PUTNAM WOMAN DRIVER PAYS FINE IN COURT

Martha Lymer, colored, of Putnam, was before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning, on charges of reckless driving and violation of the rules of the road. The reckless driving charge was nolled but the woman was fined $5 and costs on the latter charge.

The local police summoned the woman to court after it was learned that it was her automobile that ran onto the sidewalk near the Greeneville fire station last Friday and drove away without heeding a signal to stop by Officer John Carroll.

The Greeneville fire apparatus was backing into the station when the woman was given a signal to stop. Instead of stopping she drove onto the sidewalk to the right of the fire apparatus. The police officer blew his whistle but the machine kept on towards the city. The Lymer woman claimed she didn't hear the officer's whistle.

Mr. and Mrs. Evald Brandt of New London have been recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Carlson of Baltic road.

At the morning service at the Taftville Congregational church Sunday, the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis took for his sermon tropic, "The Golden Rule." In the evening there was the usual meeting of the members of the Young Peoples society of Christian Endeavor in the church vestry. The meeting was in charge of Miss Mary Greenhalgh, and the subject discussed was "What Does Prayer Mean to Me."

Victor H. Davis, scoutmaster of Troop 3, Boy Scouts attended the scoutmaster's roundup at Waterbury on Saturday. The affair included a special program for scoutmasters at the high school auditorium and was followed by a dinner at one of the leading Waterbury hotels.

Miss Helen C. Aberg has returned to her home on North Third avenue after spending the past week at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and family of Saylesville, R. I.

Clayton Sharples who has been spending the past few months in California, has returned to his home on North Second avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert and family have had as guests over the week end, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Dubeau of Plainfield.

Miss Mayme Hasler, daughter of Bernard Hasler of 34 Providence St., has left for an extended stay with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. George Brown of New Orleans, La.

The last meeting of the Taftville Business Mens' association which was held at Fire Co., No. 2 hall, on Merchants avenue, was a social get-together, cigars and refreshments being enjoyed.

The Sunday sleet storm caught many motorists away from home without their tire chains, and several automobiles bearing registrations of other states were noted parked in village back yards on Monday. The state roads were soon cleared by the scraper of the state highway department aided by the sun which put in an appearance before noon, but "going" was very bad about most of the streets for the greater part of the day. Merchants avenue for a time was one of the bad spots, especially as automobile drivers had to dodge school children who were sliding on the hill, and Post Office hill was another nemesis to drivers. Several cars slid from the center of the road to the curb at the sides, and found themselves unable to get back to the road again. In such cases, gangs of men quickly assembled and helped the driver out of his plight.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Horesco of South Third avenue were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Patrylo and family of Voluntown.

The monthly business meeting of the members of St. Jean Baptiste society was held Sunday afternoon at their rooms in the Parish hall building on Merchants avenue, with the president Desire J. Dufresne presiding.

Mrs. James Welsh of Occum has had as recent guests her children, the Misses Mary and Agnes Welsh and James Welsh of Hartford.

George Serus the president was in the chair at the regular monthly meeting of the members of Branch 98, Polish Workers Sick Mutual Aid society held Sunday afternoon at the clubrooms on Norwich avenue.

Miss Mayme Hasler, daughter of Bernard Hasler of Providence street left Friday for an extended stay in New Orleans, La., where she will be the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. George Brown.

Military whist, benefit Boys' Work fund, auspices American Legion, Parish hall, Thursday 8 p. m. Adm. 50c.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bird of Spring Valley, N. Y., and Miss Edith Bird of Monsey, N. Y. have returned to their homes after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Boyens of Occum Heights.

KANSAS CITY CHOSEN FOR REP. NATIONAL CONVENTION

Choice Made by Committee on the 20th Ballot—Seven Cities Figured in the Voting, But the Closest Fight Was Between San Francisco and Kansas City—Detroit Lost Because Committee Members Felt That the City Was Too Near "Wet" Canada—J. Henry Roraback, Connecticut, a Member of the Committee of Arrangements—Convention Will Meet June 12.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The 1928 republican national convention will be held in Kansas City, beginning Tuesday, June 12.

Deadlocked for hours, the national committee made the choice here today on the twentieth ballot. Seven cities figured in the voting but for the most part it was a fight between San Francisco and Kansas City.

At the start, the Pacific coast city, which had announced it was ready to offer $250,000 to defray expenses of the convention, was in the lead, and on the fourth ballot was within four votes of a majority.

On the ninth ballot, Kansas City, supported, among others, by Chairman Butler of the national committee, forged into the lead and doggedly held it, at one time, Detroit, third throughout, but well behind the leaders, showed a spurt but it didn't get far. Other cities receiving votes, at no time enough to put them in the race as serious contenders, were Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and San Antonio.

Several times during the tedious balloting the committeemen and women—163 of them had the say as to where the next republican presidential candidate is to be nominated—sought unsuccessfully to work out a compromise, but it was not until a few committee members from western states swung away from San Francisco that the issue was settled.

Although the long day of balloting gave the committee members little time to think about anything else, they did digress long enough to ponder over President Coolidge's amplification of his Black Hills "do not choose" statement.

They were particularly impressed, it seemed, with the manner in which Mr. Coolidge delivered his amplification, in the east room of the White house late yesterday. A great number, after a night's reflection, declared he did so soberly, convincingly and with determination.

While the balloting for the convention city was at its height, the committee members received the news that Charles Evans Hughes had reiterated that he was not a presidential candidate, the former secretary of state's pronouncement brought expressions of regret from Charles D. Hilles, committeeman for New York, who has been one of the foremost adversaries of Mr. Hughes' candidacy.

"All I can say now," Hilles said, "is that New York is without a favorite candidate. It is my opinion that the state will not be able to make up its mind upon a candidate before the convention and that its delegation will go uninstructed."

The selection of Kansas City, in the opinion of the leaders of the committee, was a free expression of its members' will after the balloting once started. At the noon adjournment with the deadlock between Kansas City and San Francisco was at its crest, Chairman Butler called in a number of the most prominent members to see whether an attempt to effect a compromise was advisable.

After nearly an hour of discussion the meeting broke up and the leaders returned to the committeemen with the word that the balloting should go on without interference until a selection was made. The only pressure exerted was that by Chairman Butler who had declared himself in favor of Kansas City last Monday, an expression which drew a mild rebuke from the White house where it was said President Coolidge had no preference and that he did not believe Mr. Butler had.

The displeasure which some members had shown previously toward Butler for not remaining neutral did not evidence itself in the meeting today, and while William H. Crocker, national committeeman for California, was out from start to finish to get the convention from San Francisco, he did not, as some had expected, seek at the end to throw his support to a compromise possibility.

A number of committee members, particularly women, felt that Detroit was too near "wet" Canada and this had its effect. Others were of the opinion that San Francisco was too far away from the populous east while others had a prejudice against Chicago because of the political situation there.

For the convention sessions Kansas City will place at the disposal of the republican party its civic auditorium. It will be the first quadrennial meeting of a major party to be held there since 1900 when William Jennings Bryan was nominated by the democrats.

In addition to selecting Kansas City the national committee instructed its arrangements committee to perfect details for the convention as well as name a temporary chairman.

It also re-appointed the number of votes each state will be entitled to in the convention, twelve states being affected by the order under which the changes will be made. Those which lose votes are Alabama 1; Arkansas 1; Georgia 2; Louisiana 1; New York 1; North Carolina 2; Oklahoma 2; Tennessee 2; Virginia 2 and Wisconsin 2, while Texas and Kentucky each gain three.

Appointments of Chairman Butler to the committees on arrangements, contests and rules were accepted without discussion by the meeting.

Members named to the committee on arrangements included the three vice chairmen, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, of Kentucky; Charles D. Hilles, of New York and Ralph Williams, of Oregon. Others named are David Mulvane, of Kansas; J. Henry Roraback, of Connecticut; William H. Crocker, of California; Charles A. Rawson, of Iowa; Miss Bina M. West, Michigan; Mrs. Farley A. Fosseen, Minn.; and Mrs. Elina Sinclair Levan, Ohio.

George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, was named chairman of the committee on contests and William P. Jackson, of Maryland, chairman of the committee on rules.

The committee on arrangements will meet tomorrow.

HALL BUILT ESPECIALLY FOR DEM. CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The hall built especially for the democratic convention which nominated William Jennings Bryan for president in 1900, again will be a political melting pot when the republican national convention meets here next June.

Convention hall once more will serve its original purpose after being for more than a quarter of a century the scene of concerts, athletic contests, industrial exhibitions and other events of less importance than a national political convention.

Shortly after the democratic party had selected Kansas City for its national gathering in 1900 a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the old convention hall. While the building still was burning, business men started a subscription to erect a new hall, so that the promise of hospitality to the democrats could be fulfilled. The present convention hall was completed in ninety days just in time for the opening of the convention.

BLIZZARD AND ZERO WEATHER IN THE WEST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Aided by a mighty blizzard and subzero temperatures, winter entrenched itself over a great central area of the country today, with effects of the offensive noted from the Canadian border to the gulf of Mexico. Loss of several lives was attributed indirectly to the storm and traffic of all kinds was delayed.

Borne from the Rocky Mountain region by a stinging northwest wind, the cold wave sent thermometers scurrying sharply downward from balmy temperatures of 60 that prevailed in some middlewest sections yesterday. More than a dozen mountain and midwestern states were winter-swept, with the storm lashing at the Texas coast where winds of gale force and freezing temperatures were predicted.

Even more severe weather was forecast generally for the affected area tonight, and the cold wave was expected to creep into the south to bear freezing temperatures to southern Louisiana.

The blizzard was the most severe in recent years in some sections and new low record temperatures for the season were set. At St. Paul schools were closed because of the storm's fury.

Three persons lost their lives in a farm house fire in Oklahoma, caused by the explosion of a gas stove that had been lighted in the night because of the cold snap. In Kansas a woman was killed when the automobile in which she was riding skidded from an ice-coated pavement into the ditch. Loss of several lives had been reported earlier in the week from Alberta, Canada, where the storm had its inception.

Fear was expressed for live stock caught on the open ranges of western Kansas by the sudden onslaught of the storm.

CONFESSED THAT SHE KILLED HER HUSBAND

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. T. Edward West, wife of the young nurseryman whose mutilated body was found in his home at Perry, Ohio, today confessed that she killed her husband with a hammer and a table leg, according to Sheriff Edward Rasmussen.

West, who was 26 years old was the son of T. E. West, nationally known nurseryman.

The young wife was arrested this afternoon at the home of her mother in Cleveland and was returned to the county jail here tonight for questioning.

Sheriff Rasmussen said she told him that domestic difficulties led to the slaying.

West's body with the feet tied by twine, a gag in the mouth and the skull crushed, was found in bed this morning after he failed to report for work. The slaying occurred Tuesday night.

BRIDGEPORT'S "PHANTOM STABBER" RESUMES CUTTINGG

BRIDGTPORT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Bridgeport's "phantom stabber" got his 25th victim tonight when he lunged at Mrs. Etella Haupler, 18, of 990 Grand street, in the darkness on Pequonnock street, and escaped. The woman was stabbed in the breast as the other victims have been. The last attack by the stabber occurred on September 29.

Mrs. Haupler was stabbed as she was walking home along Pequonnock street, about 5.30. The man came toward her, and as he passed her, collided with her. Instantly recalling the "stabber scare," and the police admonition to girls who might be attacked to give the alarm, she screamed. The man already had started to run, however, and he escaped by Vine street before anyone had reached Mrs. Haupler. She was taken into a nearby house, and was treated for a wound in the breast, about three-quarters of an inch deep.

CHARLES E. HUGHES NOT A CANDIDATE IN ANY SENSE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Charles Evans Hughes today deflated the boom in his behalf for the republican presidential nomination.

The day after President Coolidge eliminated himself for renomination, the former secretary of state issued a statement saying: "I am not a candidate in any sense."

"I am keenly disappointed by Mr. Coolidge's decision," he said, "but so far as my own attitude is concerned, I stand by the statement I made last May. I have nothing to add to it."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Juan Moreno was alive today after receiving 13,500 volts of electricity through his body when he came in contact with a live wire.

GENEVA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The French delegation to the league of nations today denied a report printed in Paris that Foreign Minister Briand and Premier Mussolini of Italy would meet tomorrow at Domo D'Ossolo, Italy in a railway car.

GENEVA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A European statesman who took active part in the Washington naval conference—Foreign Minister Beelaerts Van Blockland of the Netherlands—will seek a formula to solve the Polish-Lithuanian difficulties. Mynheer Van Blockland, representative of the Netherlands on the council of the league of nations, was apointed by that body tonight as "special reporter" on the dispute after several hours of caustic oral attack and counter-attack by Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania and Foreign Minister Zaleski of Poland.

C. R. FORBES MUST TELL OF PRISON CONDITIONS

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' bureau, today was given a chance to make an early start on his announced move to obtain better prison conditions. He was subpoenaed to tell before a federal grand jury here December 16 his story of a narcotic traffic beyond the control of the warden, at the Leavenworth federal penitentiary.

Colonel Forbes was released from the Leavenworth prison November 26, and in an article in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch told of widespread use of narcotics by the convicts at the institution, where he served a two year sentence for conspiracy to defraud the government.

Official cognizance of th echarges was taken by Attorney General Sargent, who instructed the United States district attorney to summon Colonel Forbes before the grand jury for questioning.

FORMER EMPLOYE INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU ON TRIAL

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The trial of Frederick C. Sutherland, of New Haven, formerly an employe of the internal revenue bureau at Washington, D. C., indicted with others for an alleged conspiracy to defraud the "New Haven" railroad of $100,000, was commenced in the U. S. district court here today before a jury. Jurge Edwin S. Thomas presided.

After a half dozen witnesses had testified the government prepared to rest its case at the resumption of trial at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

John F. McCarren and James J. Clifford, Washington accountants, with whom the government is attempting to show that Sutherland conspired, pleaded guilty to the conspiracy charges on February 8, 1927.

PRAISED THE WORK OF THE TRAINED NURSES

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfelt, K. C. M. G., famous physician of Labrador, speaking here tonight, praised the work of the trained nurses with whom he has come in contact in the 35 years he has been safeguarding the lives of Labrador residents.

"I have never seen a trained nurse shirk," he declared and went on to tell of the hardships which they encountered in the desolate north.

His lecture was illustrated with moving pictures.

ENGLISH SCHOOL BOYS TO BE GUESTS OF KENT SCHOOL

RADLEY, England, Dec. 7.—(AP)—For the first time ten public school boys are to be taken from their old world surroundings at Radley college and sent to the new world for the Christmas holidays. They will be guests of Kent school in Connecticut.

The party sails December 14 on the S. S. Majestic from Southampton.

The idea of the trip is to pay a return visit to Kent which sent a boat crew to Henley last summer. Afterward the Kent boys visited Radley, raced the Radley lads and won.

TOOK MONEY FROM LETTER IN HARTFORD POST OFFICE

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—William Wolfe, of 86 Harold street, pleaded guilty to the charge of having taken $5 from a letter while he was employed in the mailing room of the Hartford post office, when he was presented before Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the U. S. district court here today.

A sentence of one year in the Hartford county jail was imposed, which was suspended.

COMMISSIONER OF BUREAU OF CHILD WELFARE

HARTFORD, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Miss Grace M. Houghton, now connected with the Newark Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and the Children's Aid society of Newark, N. J., was appointed this afternoon as deputy commissioner of the bureau of child welfare in the state department of public welfare.

CHILD KILLED, SEVERAL HURT BY TORNADO IN ALABAMA

TUNNELL SPRINGS, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—One child was killed and several injured today by a tornado in the outskirts of this town. It wrecked a two story school house and left a trail of demolished houses and uprooted trees. A heavy rain added to the difficulties of salvage work. Archie Booker, 12, was crushed to death in the wreckage of the school.

OBITUARY.
William B. Prenter.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 7.—William B. Prenter, 72, for more than 48 years an officer in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and for a number of years head of the organization and its varied financial institutions, died at his home here today from nervous exhaustion and pneumonia.

Mr. Prenter had been in poor health since the triennial convention of the brotherhood here last July, when he broke down after maging a strenuous fight on the convention floor to vindicate his administration.

Last August Mr. Prenter was stricken with pneumonia and had only recovered a short time when he was hit by an automobile while on a visit in New York. He had almost recovered from a fractured hip and was removed from a hospital only last Saturday.

Early this week pneumonia again set in.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from Our Lady of Peace Catholic church here.

House Has Begun Its Legislative Task

May [illegible] $200,000,000 Deficiency Appropriation Bill to the Senate Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Its senate machinery clogged by the Smith-Vare fight, congress today could only make a one half start on the many legislative problems clamoring for attention.

In the senate, the long drawn out election battle came to a partial climax with members voting 53 to 28 to deny Frank L. Smith the right to take the oath of office as a senator from Illinois.

Temporarily disposing of his case, it turned its attention after a recess, to the right of William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania to take the oath, but late in the day the senators agreed to postpone a ballot on this question until tomorrow.

While this was taking place at one end of the capitol, the house at the other side got down to business. First it received the annual budget message from President Coolidge requesting the sum of $4,258,793,765 to meet the operating expenses of the government for the fiscal year 1929.

After hearing the communication read, the house plunged into consideration of its first legislative measure, the nearly $200,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill designed largely to replace a somewhat similar measure that was caught in the senate filibuster some nine months ago.

It is the expectation to send this measure to the senate by tomorrow night, but there is no assurance of that body being ready to give it attention for some time to come.

House leaders, giving no attention to the possible fate of legislation in the other body, also announced during the day that it was the plan to take up Friday the new $236,000,000 tax bill and that this, along with alien property legislation, would be disposed of before the Christmas recess.

Speaker Longworth received the annual report of Secretary Mellon, which in brief said that while there had been a slight recession in business during the last year, at present the "underlying fundamentals appear to be sound."

At the same time, although with diminishing force, the deluge of bills and resolutions continued to flood the house bill room. One resolution by Representative Black, democrat, New York, requested an investigation of the house foreign affairs committee of the "authenticity" of documents recently published by Hearst newspapers in which serious charges were made against President Calles of Mexico.

SMITH DENIED THE OATH OF OFFICE IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—With dramatic suddenness, the senate today refused the oath of office to Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, 53 to 28, but agreed to give him a full hearing both in committee and on the floor before finally closing the door upon him.

Tomorrow it expects to take similar action with respects to Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, although perhaps by not quite so decisive a majority. Then it will perfect its own organization and get down to legislative work while awaiting reports on the two controversies from special campaign funds committee.

Incidental to its action in the Smith case, the senate twice and by overwhelming majorities gave expression to its view that the committee, over which there was such a controversy during the closing days of the last session and during the summer recess, is a legally constituted body possessing all the power it ever had.

It was to this committee that the Smith case was referred for a continuation of the investigation begun in 1926 at Chicago and it is to the same committee that the Vare case is expected to be referred for further investigation.

DEATHS DUE TO CHRONIC ALCOHOLISM AND NEGLECT

MERIDEN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Smith were found in their cottage today by a neighbor who had seen the man's body slumped in a kitchen chair. Mrs. Smith's body was found in an upstairs bedroom.

Chronic alcoholism and neglect were given as the cause of death in both instances.

The couple came here from New York last April. Prior to that time they had lived in Lynn, Mass. The woman was 34 years of age and her husband was about 42.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY THE WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 p. m.: Southwest storm warnings ordered Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me., disturbance of marked intensity over Lake Michigan, moving northeastward will cause strong south winds tonight, shifting to west on Thursday between Cape Hatteras and Nantucket and strong southwinds tonight and Thursday Nantucket to Eastport."

Anti-Saloon League Names J. Scott McBride as General Superintendent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Leaving vacant the position of legislative superintendent held by the late Wayne B. Wheeler, the board of directors of the Anti-Saloon league today named F. Scott McBride its general superintendent and placed Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington in charge of its newly created department of publicity and education. E. B. Dunford was elected attorney to carry on Wheeler's work as general counsel.

This action was viewed by some as a temporary compromise between supporters of Cherrington and McBride who have been active respectively for and against the proposed policy of demanding that the two major political parties assert their position with respect to prohibition and enforcement.

Others saw it as a victory for McBride, particularly in view of the fact that the board of directors refused to reelect to the league' sexecutive committee one of McBride's most active opponents, W. M. Forgrave, superintendent of the Massachusetts state organization.

It was explained that McBride's showing of strength in the directors meeting took away none of the power given Cherrington in his new position, but that it did leave McBride titular head of the league's legislative activities. On the other hand it was said that Cherrington is free to carry out his policies of education as opposed to McBride's "more force in enforcement methods.

The directors also declined to return the Rev. E. S. Shumaker to the executive committee, electing in his stead, R. N. Holsapie of Detroit. Shumaker who is head of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league is under jail sentence of contempt of court in that state.

To settle several issues facing the league an executive session of the board of directors was called tonight.

It was decided that the appointment of an administrative committee to supervise the activities of the league should be left to the executive committee.

STUDENTS DISORDERLY IN THEATRE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Miss Roberta Arnold, starring in "Sisters" at the Shubert theater here, stepped completely out of character tonight after she had been booed and cat-called by a number of new Yale fraternity members and proceeded to tell the students just what she thought of them. Her action brought a sudden end to what appeared to be developing into a young riot.

From the moment the curtain went up in the first act of the play, the Yale men, according to theater attendants, proceeded to "razz" everything and everyone connected with the show. When Miss Arnold made her first appearance, she was greeted by a showed of carnations which the fraternity men took from their button holes and hurled on the stafe.

One student who gave his name as William D. English, 634 Wright hall and who is listed in the university catalog as hailing from Brookline, Mass., was taken into custody by a squad of police despatched to the theater on receipt of a telephone call that a riot was in the making. He was later released when it was found that although he was of the party, he was not a leader.

Theater attendants said that it was the first time in the 15 years which the theater has been in operation that such an uncalled for demonstration had occurred.

It also marked the first time since the appearance here of Gaby Deslys, the famous French actress, that the students had broken out in a theater. At that time, the interior of the old Hyperion was practically wrecked. The students tore up chairs and threw them on the stage and the stage hands retaliated by turning a fire hose on the rioters.

FORMER BANK TELLER GETS THREE TO SIX YEARS

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Henry A. Holmberg, 35, of 3559 Main street, father of two children, one a deaf mute, was sentenced to state's prison for a term of from three to six years by Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in criminal superior court today. Holmberg who was formerly employed as a receiving teller at the First National bank, of this city, pleaded guilty on Tuesday to embezzlement of $37,840 of the bank's funds. State's Attorney William H. Comley in presenting the case today declared that the real amount involved in the peculations was closer to $46,000.

OFFICERS OF THE AIRCRAFT CORPORATION OF AEMRICA

MILFORD, Conn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Judge Omar W. Platt was elected president of the Aircraft Corporation of America at a metting of the board of directors today. Other officers were elected as follows: Victor Fillebrown, vice president and treasurer of the Devon Bank and Trust company, treasurer; William A. Rose, former town clerk, secretary, Donald W. Muirhead, of W. R. Muirhead and Sons, Bridgeport contractors, was named as a director.

JURY IN THE LILLIENDAHL MURDER CASE LOCKED UP AT 11:10 FOR NIGHT

COURT ROOM, Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The jury in the Lilliendahl murder trial, which took the case at 5:35 p. m., was ordered locked up for the night at 11:10 p. m., when they reported they saw no prospect of arriving at a verdict tonight.

Before they left the court room, several jurors asked the judge if the state and defense attorneys could have questioned Harry Sanderson, a state witness, further concerning the reasons for changing his testimony. They were told by the court that either side could have questioned Sanderson further if it had desired.

The jury was called into court at 11:08 and the defendants were there ahead of them. Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the man she is accused of murdering, had spent the evening laughing and chatting with friends in the court room. Willis Beach, her reputed lover and her co-defendant, had been waiting in his cell. Both defendants showed evidences of extreme nervousness.

"Have you reached a verdict?" Justice Campbell asked and Mrs. Carrie Calkins, the silver-haired foreman, shook her head.

Mrs. Lilliendahl and Beach seemed to relax with the release of some inner tension and they both smiled with a seemingly strained grimace. As the jurors were led back up stairs to continue their deliberations through the night, the defendants were led to their cells.

The courtroom remained filled with spectators all evening and when the jury failed to return a verdict the crowd filed out with expressions of disappointment.

GEN. PERSHING HAILED AS CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Spontaneous Outburst at the American Farm Bureau Meeting in Chicago—General Pershing Later Refused to Express Himself Regarding the Ovation, But Seemed Greatly Pleased—Pershing Had Addressed the Farmers on the Place of Agriculture in a National Defense Program.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm for General John J. Pershing, who was hailed as a candidate for president of the United States, and adoption of a legislative policy for the coming year, marked the close of the American Farm Bureau federation meeting here today.

General Pershing addressed the farmers on the place of agriculture in a national defense program, recommending development of the merchant marine, a larger navy and an uplift in the level of prices on basic products.

At the conclusion of his speech a farmer jumped up on his chair and called for three cheers for General Pershing, "A candidate for president of the United States." The response was tremendous and as General Pershing left the hall he was surrounded by enthusiastic farmers.

As they grasped his hand they assured the general he was "presidential timber" but the only response was a smile of appreciation. General Pershing later refused to express himself regarding the ovation.

"What can I say? I do not talk politics." That he was greatly pleased however, was obvious.

Verification of the report that the federation would be united in a fight for the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, passed by congress at its last session and vetoed by President Coolidge, was had in the resolutions adopted. Although no mention was made of the president's message to congress and his reiteration of his stand on the farm question, the resolutions left no doubt of the federation's stand on points mentioned by Coolidge.

It will insist on passage at this session of congress of a measure similar to the McNary-Haugen bill, federal aid in flood prevention, national debt reduction rather than tax reduction, equalization of foreign and domestic cost sof production, lowering of freight rates and appropriation of funds for agricultural extension work will be sought.

Many individual expressions of opinion on President Coolidge's congressional message were received although the federation officially took no notice of it.

F. M. Higgins, La Salle county, Illinois, farm bureau organizer said he believed the president's rejection of the farm relief bill spelled defeat for the republican party. Henry W. J. Rott, head of the St. Louis farm bureau, said the message was a continuation of Coolidge's "near sighted policy regarding the farmer," while J. D. Yager, president of the Nevada state farm bureau, believed the president's stand on the farm question was one reason why he "didn't choose to run."

In making a plea for a national agricultural program the resolutions adopted by the federation said: "We appreciate the action of the sixty-ninth congress which, in a non-partisan manner, passed the surplus control bill. If put into operation this measure would have marked the beginning of a sound economic agricultural policy in our nation." The bill provides for an equalization fee that each commodity may share in the cost of its own stabilization and protection. The plan proposed by President Coolidge was for a fund to build up cooperative marketing and dispose of farm surpluses.

The resolutions, as presented by the committee, were adopted with few changes. The strongest fight was over immigration. The resolution asked a congressional investigation be made before further restrictions were made on nations of the western hemisphere.

The southwestern states were active in its support and received the backing of Montana and the western states in that region. Their argument was that they could not get American labor to do the work in sugar beet and vegetable fields that immigrants would.

Opposition came from the New England section. The dairy farmers and vegetable growers, who claimed their work was being done by American labor, said if immigration bars were raised they would have to compete on the market with the products farmed by cheap labor.

Two sentences were finally stricken from the resolution and as adopted it read: "We request our officers to exert every effort in securing a congressional investigation before any additional immigration restrictions to nations on the western hemisphere are applied."

Sam H. Thompson of Quincy, Ills., was re-elected president of the organization.

The board of directors elected for a term of two years includes:

WOMAN AND MAN JUMPED TO THEIR DEATHS IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A woman and a man jumped to their deaths from high windows of Manhattan buildings today.

A few hours after a war veteran who had been in ill health ended his life in a leap from the 43rd floor of the Woolworth building, a woman, believed to be Margaret McNally, of Jersey City, N. J., was killed when she jumped from the 24th floor of the Hotel McAlpin.

The woman, who was about 30 years old, had registered as "Mary Sexton." Tentative identification was made by hotel attaches from a card found in the room to which she had been assigned. The card bore the name Margaret McNally.

The body of the man which narrowly missed pedestrians when it landed in lower Broadway was identified by an army identification tag in a pocket as that of Louis Schwartz, of Brooklyn. Army records showed he had enlisted in Boston in 1918 and was honorably discharged in January, 1919.

A doctor's prescription blank found in a pocket indicated he had been under treatment for a mental disorder. Schwartz was married and had one child.

A note attached to a handbag left in her room by the woman, a house detective said, stated that, rather than be returned to an asylum the writer had decided "this is the best way ou."

Hotel officials said that the woman, who had been assigned to a room on the 9th floor, evidently had gone to a woman's rest room on the 24th floor from which she leaped. The body landed in a courtyard at the 3rd floor level.

PLEA FOR THE RETURN OF "SHIRTSLEEVE DIPLOMACY"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Assailing present-day American diplomats in general and Sheldon Whitehouse, charge d'affaires at Paris, in particular, Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, pleaded in the house today for a return of the old days of "shirt-sleeve diplomacy" which, he said was "rough, desolute and productive of results."

He said he would like to see Mr. Whitehouse "booted out of the diplomatic service" for placing detectives on the trail of Mayor Walker of New York during the latter's recent visit abroad in an effort to "get something on this mayor who was a member of Tammany hall, a political body not in sympathy with the party in power here in our own America."

Gallivan made his attack during debate on the first deficiency bill which carries certain funds for the diplomatic service.

ENORMOUS RECEIPTS FROM TAXES ON CIGARETTES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Income and cigarette taxes are the most prolific sources of revenue the government now has, it was disclosed today in the annual report of David H. Blair, collector of internal revenue, owing partly to decreases in tax rates, which took effect during the fiscal year ended last June 30. The government's levies on corporations, estates and automobiles, and most other items showed sharp declines, but the increases in returns on cigarettes and incomes were sufficient to bring the totals above those of the previous year.

From the income and profits tax in the last year, the government collected $2,219,962,443, against $1,974,104,141 in the previous twelve months. In tobacco taxes, it collected $376,170,205, against $370,666,438 the previous year.

"Unparalleled receipts from taxes on small cigarettes," the report said, held up the tobacco totals, and the cigarette money the government got totaled $278,938,581, or $24,103,758 above the total of the year before.

HYSTERICAL SCENES AT THE REMUS MURDER TRIAL

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 7.—(AP)—An emotional attack from which he recovered only after four hours, swept George Remus today and, spreading to his daughter, Romola at his side, and his sister, Mrs. Anna Ryerson, previously seated inconspicuously among the spectators, created the wildest scene of the more than three weeks of his murder trial.

The forenoon court session was exactly an hour old when Remus' outburst, the nint sincch trial started eighteen courts day ago, forced an adjournment. At 2 p. m., the time set for resumption, Remus was writhing in spasms on his jail cell bunk. After a 20 minute wait court was adjourned until tomorrow.

Harry Truesdale of Hamilton, Ohio, was well along in his narration of efforts to slay Remus to gain a reward of $10,000 promised by Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, herself slain by Remus in Eden Park here last Oct. 6, when Remus gave way.

First he dug into his pocket for a handkerchief to hide the tears flowing down his cheeks. He leaned over and his shoulders shook with sobs. His daughter embraced him, patting him gently upon the back and trying to comfort him.

Remus, flushed of face and head, and crying aloud, glanced up at Judge Chester R. Shook with a husky appeal for "an adjournment for a minute."

Judge Shook hastily excused the jury, many of whose members were crying. Of the two women jurors, Mrs. Anna Ricking, 53 year old housewife, was the most affected.

As the jury filed out Remus raised his head and explained to Judge Shook:

"Your honor, I apologize," again and again he repeated the apology, and his voice rose and broke in a scream.

It was then that hysteria claimed the 24-year-old Romola, and a moment later, Mrs. Ryerson.

Romola, screaming aloud, was half carried into the corridor where repeated screams echoed. Mrs. Ryerson, previously unnoticed in the crowd of spectators, let loose a shrill scream and burst into tears.

DEATHS FROM BLIZZARD IN WESTERN CANADA

POLICE COMMISSIONER HELD FOR SHOOTING BOY

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Christopher Zilly, president of the police commission, was bound over to the superior court from the town court today for the shooting of Herbert Kabisch, 17, in Milldale in November.

The shooting occurred when Zilly and Constable G. Thompson were seeking a quartet of hold-up men. Zilly's arrest was ordered by Coroner Eli Mix after the coroner had learned from a gun expert, that the bullet which downed Kabisch came from Zilly's gun.

Kabisch was waiting for a "hitch" home at the time of the shooting and was fired on when he ran when Zilly and Thompson endeavored to pull him into the car in which they were trailing the bandits.

VETERAN RURAL CARRIER TO BE PENSIONED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 7—Notice of the retirement on pension by the post office department has been given Arthur P. Ellsworth, one of the original first five hundred rural free delivery mail carriers in the United States. Carrier Ellsworth has covered Route No. 2 out of the Willimantic post office for a quarter of a century. His retirement takes effect December 23, when he completes his 25 years of service. Mr. Ellsworth was placed on the eligible retirement list two years ago but has since received two extensions of one year each so that he might complete his record of 25 years. Under all conditions and dangerous travel that New England weather causes, Carrier Ellsworth had but very few days of absence from his daily trips. When he was appointed on November 1, 1902 automobiles were somewhat of a novelty and were not as yet in use in delivering mail over country routes. A robust health which he maintains today assisted him in weathering severe storms. Route No. 2 was established on August 1, 1902 and for three months it was covered by Gustavus Peabody. At that time the salary was but $400 a year. Since then it has been raised substantially and in addition four cents a mile for equipment is allowed. The route is 24.6 miles in length and serves 782 persons. John S. Sullivan, a substitute will cover the route for the time being and a competitive examination will later be called for by the department. Rural Route No. 1 now covered by Carrier Cummings who was appointed on April 1, 1909 was established on April 6, 1900 and is 23 miles in length and serves 600 people. The route covers the boundaries of the towns of Windham, Columbia, Coventry and Mansfield. Harry L. Hunt was the first carrier. He was succeeded by Claude M. Cummings and successive carriers were Harry Anderson, Charles A. Young, Jr., and William Cummings.

A bankruptcy auction of the stock and fixtures of the Joseph Astmann meat and grocery business and real estate held by the bankrupt was held on the premises at 25 and 27 Center street today. W. H. Wakeleo of New Haven, official auctioneer of the United States court conducted the sale, disposing of the entire stock and fixtures at one sale and the real estate at another. Louis A. Wolsard of Danielson, referee in bankruptcy and Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish, trustee, were in attendance. There were about 50 persons on hand to bid on the stock and fixtures, but Auctioneer Wakelee was unable to get even a small bid over the equity when inquiry showed that the mortgages were subject to call. The real estate for which bids were lacking includes a two-tenement house, store, garage and land. The property is subject to combined mortgages of $12,000 and $760 accrued taxes and interest. The Willimantic Building & Loan association holds a $6,000 first mortgage; Harry J. Blanchette of Springfield, Mass., a second mortgage and F. Rubin of Hartford the third of $1,000.

Bidding on the first lot of merchandise was started at $[illegible]00 and finally sold to Oscar Karchitz of Hartford for $650, the purchase including a book of accounts totalling $2,732, fixtures appraised at $1,478, stock, large ice box, cash registers and weighing scales.

When filing a bankruptcy petition several months ago, Astmann gave his liabilities at $29,878.59 and assets at $19,000 including the real estate.

The Windham high school honor roll announced for the second marking period which closed December 2, by Principal Egbert A. JEWETT CITY

SOUVENIR OF HEDGEHOG IS BROUGHT FROM MAINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 7—"Doc" Wallace is back from a three weeks' hunting trip for big game in the Maine woods. An entertaining story teller to a few friends, he has narrated some of his experiences with realistic vividness. Some startling facts relative to his very first experience with a hedgeho., are of sure interest. One night, while over on a mountain side below the camp, the party was fortunate enough to shoot two of these Maine porcupines which the dogs had convinced they had better climb a tree.

The "Doc" allows as how he carried one of the "cusses" over to the camp on his back.

Now, as a hedgehog's quill will keep moving, and going on in the flesh in the direction it has entered, the "Doc" was worried some when he found that one or two were gone beyond recall. "Although," he says, "the sensation was decidedly creepy and horrible, yet he felt no inconvenience until today. Now the laundry man had to go away shy a couple of the "Doc's" shirts. He couldn't get 'em off, he says, because the hedgehog's quills are just coming through his chest.

HANOVER

Hanover post office was formally moved, Saturday last, to its new quarters in the store recently erected by the local merchant, Henry E. Smith, who, with Miss Ruth House will attend to the needs of the patrons and customers as heretofore.

Frank Kusian has returned from Hartford to the home of his mother and is engaged in putting together for his brother Charles, the new house located on the lot adjoining the Kusian home, on Main street.

Mrs. Roger Peck has been making a visit in Boston.

Under the auspices of Sprague League of Women Voters, an open meeting of unusual interest was held in the Parish house Monday evening. The address was given by Mrs. Florence E. C. Kitchelt of New Haven who spoke of her six months' trip abroad with her husband, visiting Greece, Constantinople, Bulgaria, Czeckoslovakia and Spain. Their trip terminated at Geneva in attendance at the conference of the league of nations much of which she reported showing the most admirable work already accomplished by that body, and emphasizing what she considered the many opportunities this country is missing in not being a member therein.

The December meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Congregational church is to be held in the Parish house this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30. The leader is Mrs. Frederick Eadie and the hostess Mrs. William G. Park.

Young People's day was held at the parsonage this week, with the children in the afternoon and the Daughters of the Covenant in the evening.

At the preaching service in the church Sunday morning next, the subject will be "Essentials to Public Worship."

Russia's Klondike has been connected with the outside world by airplane for delivery of the gold nuggets dug from the earth in the rich Aldan goldfields of Siberia. The gold deposits were formerly several days travel from the nearest railroad, when the journey out was made by pachorses and sleds, loaded with gold. Now the gold is rushed out in a few hours by airplane.

GULDEN'S Mustard

When You Catch Cold
Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

The bag of the Westinghouse is!

The bag of the new Westinghouse Super-suction Vacuum Cleaner is directly in front of the handle. That makes it much easier to use the cleaner under beds and furniture. It also protects the finish of furniture against accidental blows from the cleaner handle. Careful attention to such details as this is what makes the Westinghouse so superior a vacuum cleaner.

DANIELSON

DELOGE SENT TO JAIL FOR OBTAINING GOODS FALSELY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7—Stanislas Deloge left Danielson today to spend the Christmas season at the county jail in Brooklyn. This arrangement was through no desire of Deloge's. It so happened that he had been before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the Killingly town court and was given a sentence of 180 days, and costs, for obtaining goods by false pretense and by making false representations.

Deloge appeared here about Thanksgiving time. To F. X. Bernier, proprietor of a store, he related that there were 14 persons in the family, and that seven of them, including himself, were employed. He gave references from relatives here who are good people and on the strength of all he said he was allowed to purchase goods on credit. Later, not having paid as he agreed, he went to Henry Myers with a similar story and received further credit.

A checkup of Deloge's activities show that he has worked the same system in Taftville, Occum, Montville and Jewett City.

He admitted in court having made misrepresentations to obtain goods and much about his past record in this respect. His family is said to be in Attawaugan at the present time, Deloge is a man about 50 years of age.

PARKING REGULATIONS TO BE SUSPENDED FOR HOLIDAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7—Excepting as to bus terminals, parking regulations in Danielson's business section are to be suspended for out of town people who come here with cars during the holiday season, it was announced today, but the regulations will continue to apply to owners of machines resident within the borough.

This arrangement was brought about through a conference between the warden and members of the court of burgesses when they were in session last night and a committee composed of Francis E. Storer and W. H. G. Herklots, representing the chamber of commerce, which was in monthly session at the same time.

An agreement on the matter was reached within ten minutes. The borough officials agreed that to facilitate the program of making shopping even more pleasureable for out of town people that parking regulations should not apply to their cars. They may park them as long as they like regardless of the 60 minute limit throughout the Christmas season. Borough residents, however, will be expected to comply with the 60-minute limit, and officials and merchants are trusting to their community spirit and good fellowship to do this.

A committee of the chamber of commerce will also arrange for special additional parking places through the Christmas season, and plan to have men on duty, at least on Saturday afternoons and evenings to keep watch of cars. All parking space referred to is to be free. Town officials are to be asked to permit the parking of cars on the school grounds between School and High streets through the holiday season, and there is also the possibility of establishing a parking ground near the state armory.

The complete list of officers and committees of the chamber of commerce as completed last night at the annual meeting of the chamber, of commerce is as follows: President, Moses H. Berthiaume; vice-president, William H. G. Herklots; secretary, Walter Anderson; treasurer, Clifford H. Starkweather; executive committee, Edward A. Sullivan, R. D. Banigan, Attorney Harry E. Back, C. W. Young, Goodyear, Alfred L. Reed; entertainment committee, Henry Johnson, Sidney P. Marland, Harry Evergates; membership committee, Sidney P. Marland, A. P. Woodward, Lucien Lambert; grievance committee, Attorney Harry E. Back, Walter Anderson, F. E. Bitgood, S. W. Bard; transportation and parking, Attorney Harry E. Back, Francis E. Storer, Herbert J. Barnett; manufacturing, Walter Anderson, Herbert H. Pepler, N. Lorne Greig, J. F. Gardner, H. B. Puckett; merchants committee, Nathan Blumenthal, Sidney P. Marland, Henry Bodo; citizens' committee, E. B. Wilbur, Nelson A. Gauthler, F. O. Plummer, W. H. G. Herklots, William Sangster.

The citizens' committee is a new one in the chamber of commerce and its purpose is to serve as a means of amicable public relations between the chamber of commerce and all of the people of the community in matters of public interest.

Gordon J. Gale, who has been serving as secretary of the chamber, declined re-election this year, due to the pressure of his business interests.

Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey is calling the attention of hunters who are going out after fur bearing animals at this time of year that the use of explosives, chemicals, smoke, sulphur or other such devices is forbidden by the laws of the state in any effort to get animals out of burrows where they may be living for the winter or have temporarily taken refuge. This is a provision of the game laws that may have been overlooked by many, and publicity is given it that there may be no unintentional violations in the manner mentioned.

This morning the funeral of James Shea was held from his home in Moosup with a high mass of requiem at All Hallows church in that place at 9 o'clock. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., of Danielson was celebrant of the mass. Burial was in All Hallows cemetery on the Green Hollow road. The bearers were James Ward, Frank Stone, John Fanning and John Fay. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements. Relatives of Mr. Shea from Providence and from Pawtucket were among the funeral congregation.

State Officer Holman Bell of the Danielson barracks was at North Grosvenordale this afternon to investigate an accident in which Harriette Laflamme, 6 years of age, was struck by a Ford truck and sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. The child was taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam. William Channon of North Grosvenordale was driven of the truck that figured in the accident. He was not held. It is understood that the child was on her way home from school with two companions and that all started to run across the highway as the truck approached. The other children got across safely, but Harriette, who is said to have paused for an instant and then started to run again was knocked over by the truck and injured.

Members of a woman's club here gave a party last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burdette C. Hopkins of L'Homme street in honor of Miss Helen Hopkins, who soon is to be a bride, the first daughter of a club members to enter the married state. A kitchen shower was one of the features of a very pleasant evening. A lunch was served, and a wedding cake was one of the things of special interest among the good things to eat.

Mrs. A. C. Greene has word from Detroit, Michigan of the death of her sister, Mrs. Harriet Beemis, wife of Dr. D. A. Gleason. Mrs. Gleason leaves an only child, Dr. John E. Gleason, a daughter-in-law and a granddaughter, all of Detroit. Mrs. Gleason was 78 years of age.

Mrs. Gleason also leaves one other sister, Mrs. Frank Raisbeck of East Molnier, Illinois.

Speaking of Christmas club check releases today, Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather of the Danielson Trust company said that that bank the checks varied from $12.50 through various classes up to some calling for $1275.

At the rectory on Broad street last evening, Mrs. Louise Taylor and Edwin Bennett, both of Brooklyn, were united in marriage by Rev. Leonard R. Richards, rector of St. Alban's parish.

Plans for Christmas exercises for the Sunday school of the Goodyear church are being made, the Sunday school committee assisting.

As many as seven carloads of Christmas trees were noted in one freight train running southward through Danielson, the trees consigned to New York city and from the Maine woods.

Martin Mellor is another Danielson man who, returned from a motor trip in sections of Vermont that were flooded last month, tells of the devastations, almost beyond belief in some sections.

Speaking of violins while he was in town today, John A. Morse, of Putnam said that during the years he has manufactured them in spare time he has turned out 220 of the instruments, and while Mr. Morse did not say so he might have added that all of them are excellent and highly prized by those who possess them.

Ingredients of Strength was the subject of last Sunday's sermon at the Goodyear church by Rev. Charles A. Downs, who chose for his text Judges 8:25—As a man is, so shall his strength be. The ingredients mentioned were purpose, equipment, enthusiasm, integrity.

Thursday evening of this week will find numbers of the members of the Westfield Congregational church at South Killingly, for a special Christmas season event that has been arranged by the Congregational church of that community.

The things that drivers say about traveling conditions off the state highways this week are not fit matter for publication, the storm of Sunday being of a nature to create exceptional difficulties for so early in the season.

Mrs. Ransom Liner of North Main street said this afternoon that in soliciting for garments to be used in missionary work that she is carrying on she had been very generously treated here and is appreciative.

Choirs of various churches in Danielson are now engaged with rehearsals of Christmas music.

F. O. Plummer was in Providence today on a business trip.

PUTNAM

ENGINEER'S REPORT IS READ TO COMMON COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 7.—All of the members of the common council were present at their regular meeting Tuesday evening except Alderman Labby.

The report of Engineer Caleb M. Saville, of Hartford, on the water situation was given by the mayor to the city clerk for reading.

The gist of the report is contained in the following "conclusions":

Two storage reservoirs are desirable for proper maintenance and to afford best protection.

Storage to the amount of not less than two million gallons is requisite.

Elevation of 360 feet is a reasonable and proper elevation to which water should be supplied.

The best locations appear to be on Richmond Hill and on Bates Hill.

The distribution system is badly in need of reinforcement with large pipes.

Concrete if placed below the ground is the best material for reservoir construction.

Steel plate tanks on concrete foundation are best for reservoirs placed above ground.

Oak Hill does not appear to be a suitable location for the present requirements of Putnam.

Then follows the recommendations to:

Build a 1,500,000 gallon concrete reservoir on Richmond Hill, square in plan and about 20 feet deep.

Set reservoir at such a height that it will be entirely below ground and have two compartments, either of which can be used seperately, but when used together will provide circulation in the storage water.

Build a steel standpipe on Bates Hill of 500,000 gallons, to be about 70 feet high and 35 feet in diameter. Then follows recommendations for pipe reinforcements, chiefly mains, 16, 12 and 10 inches in circumference.

The other parts of the report are largely technical or a restatement of the requirements of the system and other matters which have been covered in reports made by Engineers Symonds and Palmer. To both of these men, Mr. Saville makes a courteous acknowledgement for data, and to George W. Perry, city engineer, and to C. Dwight Sharpe, superintendent of the Water Works.

Mr. Saville's estimate the costs of these improvements to be as follows: Bates Hill tank, $21,000; Richmond Hill reservoir, $40,000; Control works for both, $5,000; pipe reinforcement, $60,000; contingencies, engineering fees, etc., $19,000. This brings the total cost according to his figures to $145,000.

The mayor asked the citizens' committee who were present if they desired to comment on it and Byron D. Bugbee said that they would like permission to examine the plans but not necessarily at present.

Alderman Richard in speaking of the water situation said that the city had had three engineers. Of these, Mr. Palmer's estimates had been given with a full realization of the bad financial condition of the city; he thought that the other two did not adequately meet the financial state of affairs. He further said that at thought Mr. Palmer should be recommended because he formulated his plans from the financial point of view and that also he was the first to suggest two tanks.

Victor Pelouqin was granted a permit to erect an addition to his block on Main street.

The list of street sprinkling assessments for 1927 was read amounting to $2,230.

The monthly meeting of the Library directors held Tuesday afternoon at offices of Judge F. F. Russell, George L. Padgett was elected president, Miss Katherine Byrne was elected vice president, Eric H. Johnson and Miss Ellen Wheelock trasurer. Miss Emma J. Kinney was re-elected librarian for another year.

Frank L. Davis, county agent at Putnam, will speak on the subject of Developing an Agricultural Business at the meeting of the State Vegetable Growers' association. The meeting is to be held at the Hotel Garde, Hartford, Wednesday and Thursday, December 7th and 8th. Mr. Davis made his address today.

"The Bridge Widows" auction bridge club were entertained Monday by Mrs. Leonard Mellor at her home on Grove street. Two tables were in play and Mrs. Lewis T. Champlin was awarded the prize for having the highest score of the evening.

Frank Henry Elliott, 76, died Tuesday at the Day Kimball hospital where he was taken on last Friday. Except for a housekeeper, he has lived alone at his home on King street for a number of years. Mr. Elliot has amassed a considerable amount of money, although the amount is not known, nor who will be the beneficiaries as it is not thought that he leaves any relatives. Several distant relatives survive him among whom are Henry Elliott, of North Oxford, Fred O. Stone, of North Grosvenordale, yer S. Elliott, of Thompson, and Amos B. Elliott, of Malden, Mass.

He was born January 14, 1857, in Killingly, the only child of John Wesley and Mary M. Covell Elliott. His father died a number of years ago and his mother about fifteen years ago. Mr. Elliott was a painter and carpenter by trade. He has been in failing health for several years but was not taken to the hospital until last Friday.

At the sixth round of the tournament Monday night between the Elks and the Masons, the Elks came back into their own, defeating the Masons by a score of 14 to 8. The series this week was held at the Masonic club rooms on South Main street. There were 22 tables in play, the largest number that have been in the contest either this winter or during last winter.

The score for the evening is as follows with the names of the Elks appearing first: Auction Bridge—Milot and Lewis lost to Comba and R. Diamond; Chadwick and W. Murway won from Johnson and Padgett; Champlin and W. Averill won from Metcalf and Perry; Girard and Wheelock won from Dean and Simpson; Cotter and J. Murray won from Prince and Duffy; E. Gagne and W. Rafferty won from Stanton and Sherman; Backus and A. Averill won from Brousseau and Miner; P. Gagne and Duvert won from J. Johnson and Potter; Charron and Freeman lost to Morse and Geissler; Phillips and McIntyre lost to Holden and Miron; Mansfield and Appeny lost to English and W. Wheaton. Scores: Elks 7, Masons 4.

Bid Whist—Miller and A. Brousseau won from Seward and Baker; Gallant and Montville won from DeCarlo and Chase; Richard and Berthaiume won from Schoonover and Shaw; Auger and Kerouack won from Davison and Sharpe; Talbot and Lapire won from Moss and S. Diamond; Micneault an dBulger lost to Gifford and Jones; Birth and Cavanaug lost to Thurston and Arnold; Wheatley and Burgeois lost to Merciam and Baldwin. Score: Elks 5, Masons 3.

Cribbage—T. Wheaton and R. Wheaton won from Marcey and de Coudree; Welch and J. Rafferty won from Thayer and Walter Wheaton; Tetreault and Lizotte lost to Loomis and Twig. Score: Elks 2, Masons 1. Total score: Elks 14, Masons 8.

HANOVER

At an open meeting of the League of Women Voters held in parish house, Hanover, Monday evening, Mrs. Florence Ketchelt of New Haven was introduced by the chairman, Mrs. William G. Park.

Mrs. Ketchelt's topic was The League of Nations.

As a prelude, the audience greatly enjoyed a most inspiring and interesting account of a recent trip abroad. The speaker told of visiting many cities of Europe touching on Cordova, Spain, Brest, France, Naples, Athens, Constantinople, Sofia, Budapest, Vienna and Geneva where Mrs. Ketchelt had the pleasure of being present at opening sessions of the league of nations and thus she gave a vivid outline of the interior of the Hall of the Reformation. She stated that the League of Nations is composed of an assembly, a council and a secretariat with permanent headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

The assembly consists of 55 countries in the League. Their representatives meet at Geneva, the permanent headquarters, each September. The council is the directing and consulting body of the assembly. It consists of 5 permanent members and 9 nonpermanent members which meet four times a year. Then the secretariat is composed of secretary general, deputies and under secretaries and 400 experts in the political, legal, financial, social, health and other fields. They represent no special nation but work for all. They constitute the greatest research body in history. Mrs. Ketchelt was most heartily applauded at the close of her talk and a rising vote of thanks was given her.

The chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Ella S. Bennett announced that at the next meeting to be held in Baltic, the topic would be "Know Your Town".

STICK TO THE BUDGET

When President Coolidge says in his budget message to congress, "I am convinced the people of this country are overwhelmingly in favor of keeping the budget balanced and are just as overwhelmingly opposed to any measure or measures that would make any other results even remotely possible," he voices public sentiment if we read aright the widespread approval that is given to that very policy which he has so persistently upheld.

The country has greatly benefited by the adherence to that idea on the part of the administration and by the manner in which it has been put into operation. One great demand has been and still is for tax reduction and yet the tax reductions that have been made, those that are being advocated and those that may be contemplated have been made possible by the pursuit of the well known Coolidge policies.

Good reason did the president have for impressing upon congress the wisdom of giving respect to the budget in the present session. It calls for an expenditure of four and a quarter billions, an increase over last year's but even then not including provisions for flood control and other projects.

The recommendations for increased expenditures include naval outlays, the betterment of army housing and additions to the army and navy air services but there will certainly be provisions for flood control and some other measures can be relied upon to get favorable action.

Well may the president stress the importance of continued economy in the handling of the nation's business and avoiding action that would mean inviting a deficit. Carefully setting forth the situation that exists and the efforts that are being made for heavy tax reductions the budget figures set forth more clearly than ever the need of giving due respect to the treasury's estimate as to where tax reduction at this time should stop.

The budget system has accomplished much. It is the businesslike arrangement that was long needed and now that it is possessed it should be conscientiously adhered to. The importance of it has been clearly sent home by the president in his budget message.

MR. HUGHES DECLINES

As the result of interpretations of the president's August statement there have been movements in behalf of certain men of prominence who have been regarded as possible republican candidates.

Among that number was Charles E. Hughes of New York, a former candidate, a former member of the United States supreme court and a former member of President Coolidge's cabinet. From the first Mr. Hughes gave encouragement to the idea. He declared that he was too old for the office and insisted that he favored the renomination and reelection of President Coolidge. He refused to take the efforts in his behalf at all seriously.

Nevertheless the foundation was laid for such a contingency as was created by the latest statement by Mr. Coolidge. The ways were all greased but Mr. Hughes refuses to go. In declining that he is much disappointed at the statement by the president he voices the sentiment of millions, but he is firmly opposed to being a candidate. Not only is he unwilling to run for the office, taking the ground that he is too old, but he will not accept a nomination. He has given no support to the efforts of those who have been working for him in the recent past but he takes cognizance of the situation and proceeds to checkmate such efforts which are against his desires. He has made up his mind. He does not want the job. He has been in a position so that he knows what the responsibilities are and while there was a time when he might have assumed them, that time is in the past and out of fairness to those who are Hughes supporters and those who may be in a receptive mood he eliminates himself from the running. Not only does he do so from the standpoint of being a candidate but he goes further and declares that "I would neither seek nor accept the nomination."

This isn't exactly declining a nomination but he says the words that indicate his answer should it come to him. Disappointing as his statement is to a great number who regard him as of excellent presidential timber he makes a flat refusal.

THE AGREEMENT WITH GREECE

Greece hasn't been the last country to come to an agreement regarding its indebtedness to this country but it is among the last few. That the discussions that have been underway have resulted in a complete understanding, even though in agreeing to pay Greece gets an additional loan, is a gratifying outcome.

Throughout the efforts to come to an understanding it has been maintained by Greece that it has never received the full amount of the loan which was agreed upon. This might seem to be beside the question except for the fact that inasmuch as it failed to get all that it felt it needed it had not been able to accomplish what was aimed at. There was advanced to Greece $15,000,000. As to that there was no question, but the loan discussions had dealt with a sum about three times as large. Even the credit extended to Greece was not given until well after the close of the war, following which various governmental upsets did not all to the serenity of the situation in that country.

Greece wanted this country to complete the loan, but with changing conditions this was not considered advisable with the result that inasmuch as the full credit was not furnished Greece delayed coming to any agreement about paying. With the task of taking care of the great number of refugees thrown upon it Greece has faced a big and costly job. The situation has been greatly relieved by the financial assistance given and a review of the whole situation has resulted now in an agreement by this country to loan another $12,000,000 which Greece will accept as the full amount needed, under the agreement and in response to it has agreed to a plan for the funding of the whole debt. This means that Greece will pay upon terms similar to those which have been extended to other countries, and it means the elimination of an unpleasant situation, provided of course that congress is willing to put its stamp of approval upon it.

TRAFFIC CONTROL LIGHTS

There comes from Springfield a demand for something approximating uniformity in traffic control systems. This is a need which is restricted to no one city or state alone. It is time, most certainly when there should be uniformity in every city. Red, yellow and green lights should mean the same thing at every intersection and it would be a distinct advantage if there was some uniformity in placing these signal lights. The idea of establishing them in the street, low down, on one corner, up in the air over the center at another, off at the curbstone at another does not contribute any assistance in the elimination of confusion. This is particularly true of the stranger who desires to obey the regulations and the signals but is seriously handicapped by the helter skelter method of indicating what is desired.

Likewise the demand for the raising of the automatic signal at the Norwich Saving society corner into the air where it will be visible to all drivers who are waiting and where it will be out of the way of traffic, even though a standard of some kind about which traffic must pass is established on the pavement, appears to be well founded. It would then be reasonably free from accidental destruction and would better serve the purpose for which it is intended. Drivers in a procession, especially if they are following a truck or high bodied machine have been badly handicapped in seeing the change of lights. The elevated light gets the attention and drivers in a line can see it over the other cars.

KANSAS CITY

Kansas City wasn't the last to enter the race for the national republican convention, but from the time it was mentioned it gained support. It is to be rated as a middle of the country city, not any farther west of the Mississippi than some of the convention cities in the mid west have been to the east and if its representations are correct it is in a position to properly entertain the convention.

The decision of the national committee is not by any means surprising, not so much as it would have been had it decided to go to San Francisco. Taking the convention to the Pacific coast would have been even more one sided than the bringing of it to Philadelphia for it would have caused a much greater number to travel a longer distance. The accommodation of the greater number has been accomplished by the choice of Kansas City, although the advantages of Detroit and Cleveland could not be totally disregarded in that and other respects.

A convention at Kansas City will take the delegates to a section which has not been honored in this respect before and to a section which is in the agricultural region from which has come such divided claims for special legislation. It is furthermore in a state which has no probability of presenting a candidate for the nomination, beyond the possibility of honoring some favorite son with a first vote. It took some time to come to a decision but to the east the choice of Kansas City will prove the more satisfactory because of geographical location.

THE PERFIDIOUS ROOMER

Mrs. Plunkett, of the pointed nose and thin lips, has succeeded in overtaking her neighbor, who has just started down the street.

"Good morning, Mrs. Melgrim. You're kinda late getting out to do your marketing, ain't you?"

"Is that so? Well, of course, it don't always mean a person's slack, according to my way of thinking. Sometimes there's reasons—I'm kinda late myself today account of havin' to wait till the expressman came to get my roomer's trunk to take it to the railroad station. She's been gone a coupla days now and if you should ask me for my frank opinion I'd say it was good riddance of bad rubbish. She certainly did get on my nerves. She had some of the funniest ways—and close-mouthed? What you could get out of her you could put in your eye—not that it made a particle of difference to me what she did or what she didn't do—on'y when a person's living right in another person's house seems like there's certain obligations, and it's kinda humiliating to have to find out from the neighbors half the time what a person's own roomer's doing.

"Not that I'd ever demean myself to ask, only it just happened a coupla times or so I mentioned something to Mrs. Peterson that lives upstairs of me, and I could tell from what she said that they'd been talking things over. You and her was kinda thick, too, wasn't you? Seemed like she used to find time to stop and visit with you when she couldn't even take a minute to speak a civil good evening to them whose own house she was living in.

"Well, to go back a ways—she said it wasn't necessary for me to wait for the expressman to come. She said she'd just leave the trunk in the hall and the man'd come and get it. But you know I wasn't going to have nothing of that kind and maybe have somebody come along and steal it and then I'd be blamed for it. So I just waited. And you can believe it or not, but I'm here to tell you that all she had on her trunk to tell where it was going to was just a tag to take it to such and such a station—and the expressman didn't know any more'n just that either.

"Well, all I've got to say is she certainly didn't have no complaints to make about me not trying to be congenial. All the time I was asking her to go to the movies and sit in and listen to the radio every night, and even having her in to supper about once in so often, seeing she seemed so kinda lonesome.

"Now you take it like it is with Mr. Prinkins that you've heard me speak about—him that used to live in the building that I and my poor husband lived in before he died. I knew his wife real well before she passed on and we used to have supper back and forth real often. So after he lost her I kept right on asking him, knowing how pleased she would of been — he's a perfect gentleman, so refined and so sincere. He always says he feels like he was right to home the minute he steps inside my door—different to what he feels any other place—and he never gets through talking about my pie.

"Well, any way, I asked the roomer to eat with he and I one night and you'd died laughing if you'd seen how she dolled herself up — black satin slippers and everything — and talking and laughing and acting perfectly silly, I thought, and I guess Mr. Pinkins must of been kinda disgusted, for I haven't seen him from that day to this and it was months ago. I've 'phoned him quite a few times, but it seemed like I never could locate him.

"I got an awful pile of work to do, but I just thought I'd tell you about the roomer and see if you could tell me anything about where she'd went in case any mail come for her or anything or phone calls or like that. I thought maybe you'd know. Close-mouthed as she was she seemed like she could get chummy enough with the neighbors.

"What's that? Married? Well, for the love Make! Who did she marry?

"Wh-a-a-a-a-t, Mr. Pr — Mr. P — Well! all I've got to say to that is it'll take two parties say-so if I'm ever going to take any stock in that Mr. Pr—not that I doubt your word for a minute, but Mr. Pri—not that I'd really blame him — I guess it's entirely her doings, and I certainly hope he won't live to regret it if it's true. But I certainly don't know what his poor wife would think of me for introducing him to her—not that I put a grain of stock in it.

"Well, Mrs. Melgrim, all I've got to say is I guess she was just stringing you like they say when she told you that and I don't believe a word of it. Only if it should be true, Mrs. Melgrim, I've got this much to say and not a word more — I certainly am through with roomers from now on!" — Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rev. Edgar Blake, who today enters upon his sixtieth year, is a widely known bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, now resident in Paris. Bishop Blake, a native and finished product of New England, was born at Gorham, Maine, and received his ecclesiastical training at the Boston University School of Theology. Before his elevation to the episcopate he held several charges in New Hampshire, going from St. Paul's church, Manchester, to the assistant secretaryship of the Board of Sunday schools. In 1912 he became secretary and, through his work in this capacity, won wide recognition as a constructive leader. He has been a member of the commission on unification of the Methodist church and one of the strongest advocates for reunion. He also was one of the secretaries of the Centenary Conservation committee.

CHILD TRAINING

DRAMATIZING GOODNESS

Manthel Hawe

"The trouble with women is that they love to dramatize themselves," grumbled a cynical bachelor. "They are happy only when holding the center of the stage."

Whether or not we agree with the bachelor's estimate of women, there can be little doubt that a similar dictum explains many of the vagaries of childhood.

Children do like to dramatize. Correctly curbed this desire for dramatization leads the child into all sorts of pleasant by-paths. When such dramatization runs amuck then we are confronted by the problems of discipline.

For instance, it is this egocentric dramatic instinct gone bolshevik that makes certain children in kindergarten want always to choose the story, the song, the play or to lead in the games. It is the same instinct that in the home makes certain children seize all the treats, the toys, the privileges.

When this self-dramatization instinct swings too far from the normal the child often is brought by his troubled parent to some physician's office.

That is where Donald and his distressed mother found themselves one day.

"Why Donald doesn't eat anything unless I serve just what he likes," wailed his mother. "He won't eat tomatoes or cabbage; no potatoes except fried . . . . ."

The doctor glanced quizzically at six-year-old Donald who sat on the edge of his chair, his head up, eyes shining, getting more and more of a delighted thrill with every item checked off to his discredit. He was enjoying himself as a star enjoys the plaudits of the public.

The doctor motioned the mother to silence: "All right, Donald. We don't need you any more. You wait in the other room. There are some books on the table out there."

"You've turned the spotlight on Donald too frequently," began the doctor. "He probably is a wee bit jealous of his baby sister. A sure way to get your attention and that of everyone else is to kick up didoes at the table. When he gets finicky about his food everybody comments on it. Donald feels even unpleasant comments are better than being ignored."

The mother began to appreciate that it might be so.

"A husky six-year-old is not likely to starve himself," the doctor assured her. "See that plenty of good, wholesome food is served on the table. When Donald refuses a certain food just ignore his behavior. When he tries to eat the disliked food praise him. Instead of helping him to dramatize his naughty moods, dramatize his goodness. Give him the center of the stage only on good behavior."

Frequently a restless, worrisome child in kindergarten or at home is behaving that way not because he is a bad child but because he lacks affection at home, is jealous of someone, is a bit spoiled or because he is especially fond of some grown person. It is his driving desire to get into the limelight that makes him act so.

Let him really understand that he will be ignored in such moods but appreciated when good, and his dramatic instinct will right-about face in the more desirable direction.

Little Talks on Thrift

The Importance of Patience

"I would have to live to be as old as Methuselah to be rich at the rate I would be able to save money."

This sentence in a letter received recently is typical of the viewpoint of many who lack the patience to build up their personal resources through the slow, painstaking methods of thrift. Now and then someone does strike it rich, so to speak, and acquires a large sum of money through some caprice of good luck, but such instances are not common. Where one person, through impatience, recklessness and daring, may gain sudden wealth, a million others, trying the same thing, lose their last penny.

Check over the large fortunes in America and you will find that most of them started with small sums of money and grew to fabulous accumulations of wealth through the normal processes of sound business and investment. But the possession even of a small sum of money was necessary before the larger amounts could be built up.

There are literally thousands of substantial business men in America today who will tell you interesting stories of how they spent many years in their younger days in the accumulation of a few dollars. It is true that had they continued all their lives to save only the small amounts they were able to lay by at first, they never would have become well-to-do men. But their small savings and the discipline which was necessary to build up these sums, put them in a position to earn more money and occupy more important positions as the years went by.

If they had taken the same attitude as the one indicated by the quotation given at the beginning of this article, they probably would have died in financial want.

It is always to be remembered that one of the great elements in thrift is patience. It is hard for an ambitious, vigorous person to exercise this rare quality. The temptation always is strong with such persons to take chances and plunge. But patient saving and the slow, steady accumulation of funds will win out in the long run. Human experience testifies gloriously to this fact.—American Society for Thrift.

MOTHER

A Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious, Constipated

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Reddy Fox Loses a Breakfast and His Temper

An empty stomach often may
To loss of temper pave the way.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was a long time since Reddy Fox had been over near Farmer Brown's henyard. It was so long that Reddy felt sure that by this time Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy must have forgotten that foxes like chickens. Reddy had had a very good reason for keeping away from Farmer Brown's. His home and the home of Mrs. Reddy was on Farmer Brown's land. Reddy knew that Farmer Brown's Boy knew where that home was. But Farmer Brown's Boy never had bothered it, and so Reddy felt that it was wise not to bother Farmer Brown's Boy.

But now that snow and ice had come and it was real winter weather Reddy was finding it more difficult to get something to eat. There were many days when both he and Mrs. Reddy were hungry all day long. Now Mrs. Reddy had cut one foot on a bit of sharp ice and could not get around as spryly as usual. Reddy was sharing his food with her and some of their meals were pretty slim.

But despite this Reddy might not have thought of going to Farmer Brown's henyard had not a rooster crowed in a most provoking way as Reddy was trotting across the Green Meadows this morning. Ordinarily he would not have been out hunting at this hour, but he had no luck during the night, and his stomach was oh, so empty! And then the rooster crowed, which was more than Reddy could stand.

Swiftly Reddy ran up behind Farmer Brown's barn. He peeked around the corner of it toward the chicken yard. Probably those hens were safely locked inside the yard with its high wire fence. But there was always a chance, and Reddy is one who lives on chances. Can you guess how he felt when he peeked around the corner of the barn and discovered that the henyard gate was wide open and some of the hens were out in the barnyard? It seemed to Reddy that his stomach just turned right over. He just had to have one of those plump young pullets. Perhaps he might get two. If he could get two there would be one for himself and one for Mrs. Reddy. If he should get only one there would be less than half of one for himself and the rest for Mrs. Reddy.

Three of those hens were wandering down toward the barn. Reddy flattened himself right down close to the underpinning of the barn, with only his sharp nose and hungry eyes appearing beyond the corner. How slowly those hens moved. But they were coming. In just a few steps more they would be near enough, and he was sure of getting one, and perhaps two. He forgot everything else.

He worked his hindfeet under him to a position which would enable him to make a long, swift leap. He never for a second took his eyes from those hens. He fairly trembled with eagerness as he set himself to spring at the first one.

And then, just the very instant before he could spring, there was a sharp, hissing sound in the air, and before his very eyes the nearest hen was seized by a great gray bird. It was Terror the Goshawk. Of course the other hens fled, squawking at the top of their lungs. Terror did not stop. By the time Farmer Brown's Boy reached the scene, called by the noise made by the hens, all that remained were a few feathers on the snow and the footprints of a fox nearby. As for Reddy, he was under the barn in a frightful temper. He had lost his temper as well as his breakfast. And I don't know as I blame him, do you?

TEXAS MAN'S PETITION OVER SAVINGS BANK BOOK

Francis P. Sullivan of Dallas, Texas, is the petitioner in a suit brought in the common pleas court against his mother, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan of this city, and the Norwich Savings Society for a court order to have the bank pay over to him the amount of $746.57 on a certain deposit book in the bank.

According to the petition, prior to Jan. 1, 1918, the defendant, Catherine Sullivan, who is the mother of the plaintiff, deposited with the Norwich Savings society, various sums of money in the name of Catherine Sullivan, guardian or trustee for Francis P. Sullivan and Catherine Sullivan. The aggregate amount of these deposits approximates $746.57.

It is claimed that the deposits made by Catherine Sullivan represented and were wages earned by the plaintiff, Francis P. Sullivan for work and labor performed for Catherine Sullivan, her husband or her family; or the deposits represented were and are gifts of Catherine Sullivan, to Francis P. Sullivan; and this money belongs to Francis P. Sullivan.

The bank book representing the account is in the possession of the defendant, Catherine Sullivan, and although she has been requested to surrender the book to her son, she has refused to do so, and claims that the money represented by this account belongs to her, and the Norwich Savings society refused to pay over the amount due on the account to either persons unless Francis P. Sullivan can produce and tender to them the bank book representing the account or unless Catherine Sullivan can produce and tender to them an order signed by Francis P. Sullivan.

The petition asks that the bank be restrained by injunction from paying any person other than the plaintiff; and that the bank be directed to turn over the money to Francis P. Sullivan.

OCTOBER METEOR WAS SEEN OVER DANIELSON

Announcement from the Harvard college observatory has just been made of the investigation of a bright meteor made known by a dispatch of The Associated Press dated Portland, Me., Oct. 17, and reported to have passed over that city on Oct 18. From the 21 reports received, it is believed that there was more than one meteor, probably 12 over an area stretching obliquely from Eastport to western Long Island. Eight of them moved very nearly northeast to southwest about 10 p. m. One of these passed with its long tail from horizon to horizon, or nearly so, at Dennysville, Me., Cambridge, Mass., Thompsonville, Conn., Danielson, Conn., and ended above the southwest horizon of Seaford, Long Island. The observed path was very nearly overhead at these points, but half of it was over the Gulf of Maine. All of the fireballs of Oct. 16 were so bright that no observer heard an explosion-like sound.

COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY ELECTS F. S. ARMSTRONG PRESIDENT

F. S. Armstrong of Norwich was unanimously elected president of the New London County Agricultural society Wednesday evening at the society's 74th annual meeting held at the town hall. Mr. Armstrong succeeds Herbert R. Branche of Norwich, who declined a re-nomination, owing to business reasons which made it impossible to carry on the duties of the office. Louis M. Crandall of Norwich was chosen secretary, succeeding Frank T. Maples and Max Hanover, also of Norwich, was elected treasurer, succeeding John B. O'Brien.

Secretary's Annual Report

The meeting was called at 8 o'clock by the retiring president, Mr. Branche, and Secretary Maples read the call after which he presented his annual report as follows:

The secretary's annual report to the officers and members of our society.

You will remember one year ago, in this room, when the officers of the society for several previous years, had become weary of the burden of battling with stormy weather and other adverse conditions beyond their control, and an entire new board was chosen to try to save this institution.

The officers chosen by you at that time applied themselves to the task of injecting new life into the New London County Agricultural society.

Some of the things that have been accomplished:

The new board had been in office only forty-eight hours when fire destroyed the north barn entailing a loss to the society of about three thousand dollars. However, not discouraged, at a meeting held on the seventeenth of January it was voted to start a personal canvas for life members, the result being that our membership was nearly doubled.

There has been built a dance hall 35 by 60 feet, so constructed that it can be readily converted into a display room for flower show, style show and other smaller exhibitions.

A cattle shed has been built with stalls for twenty-four head.

The North grand-stand which was condemned as unsafe, has been partially new silled, new bleacher seats, new covering for the roof and the floor repaired. It has been examined by the insurance company inspectors and pronounced satisfactory.

The two buildings known as "Merchants Row" have been moved south 150 feet thereby making a much larger fairway or concourse for the midway attractions, the change being very pleasing to the showman and visitors.

The grounds, buildings and booths have been electrified to a degree unexcelled at any fair.

We are deeply indebted to Mr. Otto Ernst for the beautiful landscape decorating comprising thousands of foliage plants and flowers furnished and arranged entirely free from expense to the society. It was something new, something unusual and excited the admiration of all who saw it.

The office building has been given two coats of paint helping greatly to make the approach more attractive.

The work of Dr. Manwaring must not go unnoticed, she personally having secured 114 life members. She also under-wrote the expenses of the historical pageant "The Battle of the Big Plain," held on the grounds on Labor Day, turning over to our society all profits accruing.

Now as to some of the features of our fair.

There were pageants of floats for each day of the fair, Saturday being the industrial parade. Space forbids the enumeration of the firms taking part, this feature proved a success and the committee advocates that the plan be established upon the coming year.

The track events with the attraction of increased purses gave us one of the best racing programmes we have had, and those looking for a thrill to the word "go" certainly were not disappointed.

The executive committee have had the matter of raising funds to clear the society of debt under advisement for the entire year, and many meetings have been held to discuss the matter, but not until now, was a plan reached that had the unanimous support of the committee, that of a drive for funds conducted by a professional to raise enough money to retire the bonds thereby saving $1500 each year in interest.

To develop a recreational field of tennis courts, baseball and football grounds.

A large building for automobile and other industrial exhibits and demonstrations.

A poultry building large enough to house all branches of that important industry.

A horse barn that will take care of 100 horses.

A new grandstand and a bungalow for the caretaker.

The committee had arranged to go forward with the movement but as the time was so near the annual meeting it was thought wise to defer action until the new board of officers were elected that the new board might not be bound by obligations of some one else's making, but we most earnestly hope the matter will be viewed in the same light as has been mentioned here and the scheme may be carried forward to the consumption of the object so long sought viz: The best fair in the state with all obligations met and a snug amount in the bank to relieve the lean years which must some. This condition and this alone will inspire confidence, hope and pride in the membership and we can have a fair that will be an honor to the commonwealth and a source of pride to the country.

The money secured by the drive would be apportioned approximately as follows: $32,000 to retire the bonds and notes; $15,000 for recreation field; $15,000 for industrial building; $10,000 for horse barn; $8,000 for poultry house; $6,000 for track and fences; $4,000 for caretaker's bungalow and new gates; $10,000 for sinking fund for lean years.

A sanctioned dog-show was held with Sterrill Chase as superintendent, the entries including choice representatives of the various breeds and as a show was a success but owing to the limited time of display of one day was not a paying proposition.

From the county farm bureau we received much help by the exhibits of the boys' and girls' clubs.

The success of any enterprise is determined by the state of mind or minds supporting it. For the past nine months preceding the fair, your agents, the officers of the New London County Agricultural society, have by visits to every town in the county and to some towns many times, and by conversation and correspondence, with people of every walk of life, created propaganda having for its object the destroying of the state of mind, exclaiming that it was to be "the same old fair" and placing in its stead a condition of confidence, of satisfaction, of loyalty to new ideals, a fair of progress, a fair of advanced thought, a new fair and the fact that they pledged themselves to its support was evidenced in the attendance and enthusiasm displayed, and I challenge anyone to successfully deny that we had a most successful exhibition and one of which we hear from everyone "It was a good fair and we are going next year."

With this condition established who can estimate in dollars and cents the value as an asset to our society's future?

With the automobile show we were at a loss to know how to care for them as we had no space under roof and the cost of tents was prohibitive. But the dealers very loyally came forward and offered to display under blue sky, taking their chances as to weather, a parade around the track on the last day ended a most successful automobile show.

But this condition must not be allowed to prevail again.

The turnstiles which had been defective and out of use for several years were sent to the factory, reconditioned, installed and worked very satisfactorily showing in total admissions.

The display of vegetables and fruit were probably never better than that of this year.

The cattle shown while not quite so many in number, were of unusual quality, being composed, (with two or three exceptions) of registered stock. Swine representing the several families of blood and with the large entries the display was very satisfactory.

Only two sheep were exhibited which emphasizes the need of larger premiums and doing away with entrance fees in an attempt to encourage the bringing of sheep to our hillsides.

Of poultry there was really a capacity display of exceedingly fine birds.

Of entertainment, in addition to our pleasing vaudeville, a new feature was the pageant. The "Spirit of New London County" portrayed by a float from each town in the county, several towns through accident were unable to appear, the honors going to the New London float as Miss New London. In the evening of the second day the floats were in ensemble in front of the grandstand with the subjects of the New London and Norwich floats with electric lighting effect portraying "The Spirit of New London County."

The treasurer, J. B. O'Brien read his annual report which was given in detail and which showed the society to have experienced a most successful fair this year.

President Makes Report

Mr. Branche, the retiring president, submitted his annual report to the meeting as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

Following the custom of those who have preceded me, as president of this splendid old New London county institution, you may consider this my report:—

In listening to the reports of the secretary and treasurer, just rendered, I think you all must have been more or less enlightened with regard to the size and scope of the fair for the year 1927.

The total receipts amounting to $33,665 being more than double those of the previous year and will bear mute testimony of the degree of success met with through the efforts of the management, to give to New London county a fair in keeping with our agricultural, industrial, commercial and civic importance.

Thus early in this report, I wish to express my appreciation and the appreciation of the executive officers to the towns, cities, and boroughs, the civic, commercial, patriotic and social organizations who cheerfully cooperated by contributing to this year's successful fair.

From the moment in which I accepted the presidency of the society until the closing of the gates upon the grounds the night of September 24th, "the last day of the fair" my every effort was expended along the line of getting all county interests pulling for the fair's success. The society is indebted to the following gentlemen who as experts gave their full time and experience in promoting certain important divisions of the work: To Louis M. Crandall, for his splendid and business-like manner of superintending the exhibition hall. To Wilbur S. Williams who sponsored the best automobile show in the state. To J. H. Craney, race secretary, who has no equal in any other county in Connecticut, and to each and every other superintendent of departments who contributed to the fairs success.

The outstanding feature, the paramount thing of importance that stands head and shoulders above all else, to my mind, is the cementing of friendly relations between the twenty-one towns of New London county through and by the agency of this society.

Referring again to the total receipts, let us see just how this large sum of money was disbursed:— In round figures $3,000 was distributed in all towns as premiums for entrees; $2,000 was distributed to the press of the county for publicity; $10,000 for labor and material was spent right here, and without enumerating farther we feel that we have made our point that the New London County fair is a good thing to have functioning in the community, from a business standpoint, a non-commercial organization.

Should we lose this splendid 74 year old society, how long would it be before a united cry would go up all over the county to get it back again. Here's what happened to Kingston, R. I. Two years ago, after the trying experiences met with by all fairs because of the World war, the Kingston fair was discontinued and allowed to lie dormant for two years, when an aroused public conscience got busy. Over in South County there was something lacking, the soul of things had departed and with the result that $40,000 was raised by public subscription to purchase the old fair grounds and another $40,000 was raised on mortgage. New buildings and grand stand were built and during the past two years a successful fair has been the result. Who you ask, pledged the first $40,000. I will tell you who pledged it; the manufacturers, merchants and progressive citizens of South County pledged it and are as tickled as a child with a new Christmas toy today to think they did. As another illustration, Tolland county, nearer home, supports two fairs: Rockville and Stafford. Some years ago the Stafford fair was gasping for air and was about to pass out when one of Connecticut's public spirited citizens, a manufacturer of Tolland county, saw it as hundreds of citizens of New London county see it: that to lose their fair would be a blight upon the progress of the county and became interested in the preserving of the Stafford fair. In all, I am informed, Gardiner Hall Jr., contributed $75,000 to its preservation and today this is one of the best managed, best attended, best situated financially of any county fair in the state, and but 25 miles from the big Eastern States fair at Springfield. Any county holding a successful fair is first born of the spirit. The spirit of the way you enter into a thing, the faith to perform, and the courage to do or die is what makes a city, town or a county great. Fear is the biggest handicap to progress that I know of; determination to do is what brings success and plenty of supporters.

Your executive officers have made a survey of what the assets of the society are and what is needed to place the New London County fair upon a paying basis for all time. First: The grounds of the society are centrally located in the county in relation to the twenty-one towns of which it is composed. Secondly to maintain an overhead out of all proportion, to the income derived from a 3 day fair is not good business ethics. Thirdly, ways and means must be devised to have the grounds and buildings if possible made use of daily, monthly and especially on Saturdays and holidays in order that a steady income may accrue to the betterment and enlargement of the investment.

Twenty-eight acres of splendidly located, splendid arrangement and grouping of buildings, splendid race track and grand stand, dance pavilion—standing out doors 365 days in the year and out of the 365 put to practical use three or six days at the most. Your executive officers have been importuned by several people of means and versed in public and social service affairs, that we take steps to create a county civic and athletic center, a county athletic field where all kinds of athletic events of national importance may be held. A recreation center where each and every town in the county may enter in contests with other towns or athletic clubs from other counties or states, where the youth of the county may develop mentally, physically and where summer and winter sports may find full freedom and scope. Your committee have already received encouragement enough to warrant their voting unanimously, to put on a county drive for funds in keeping with such a program for the development of the society and the county. An explanation of the drive, how it is expected to carry forward and the necessary assistance that will be required in the way of cooperation from every member of the board of directors will be given in detail by our friends and co-worker Louis Crandall, a little later.

The high spots in the 1927 fair was the building of a new dance pavilion, automobile show, night and day fair, the lighting of grounds, big midway, parade of floats all three days of fair, style show, free admission for some 3,000 kiddies on Saturday and splendid display of fireworks opening night, together with one of the best exhibitions of horse racing ever seen on the grounds, the largest poultry show, and showing of high grade cattle of the country.

In closing I wish to express my grateful appreciation to each and every member of the committee for their 100 per cent assistance and support. For the generous manner the press of the county handled our publicity and to the merchants of the county who in a spirit of helpfulness closed their stores on Thursday afternoon the opening day.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

All of the reports were enthusiastically received by the meeting. The election of officers was the next business on the slate. Mr. Branche announced that he was not a candidate for re-election, owing to business reasons which make it impossible to continue in the office longer. In spite of his declaration Mr. Branche was renominated but stated that he was forced to decline the nomination.

Election of Officers

The meeting then authorized the president to name a nominating committee to retire and bring in a list of officers to serve the coming year. Mr. Branche named Max Hanover, Clinton E. Lane and J. B. O'Brien as the committee. Following a conference the committee presented the following list for nomination and election:

President, F. S. Armstrong, Norwich; vice presidents, Daniel Polsky, Norwich; H. R. Branche, Norwich, C. J. Ducy, New London, Fred Beckwith, Niantic, L. Kaplan, New London and J. K. Shaughnessey, Groton.

Secretary, Louis M. Crandall, Norwich.

Treasurer, Max Hanover, Norwich.

Directors, Dr. Ier J. Manwarring, Norwich; L. Kaplan, New London; Griswold Morgan, Salem; Thomas A. Ball, Lyme; Edwin Swanson, New London; J. E. Lathrop, Montville; W. A. Gordon, Norwich; S. E. Holdridge, Ledyard; R. Manning, North Franklin; Joseph A. Clarke, Ledyard; W. T. Clark, Gales Ferry; Allison B. Ladd, Sprague; Otto Ernst, Norwich; H. H. Gallup, Norwich; Charles F. Charon, Sprague; Gus Cramer, Colchester; C. E. Lane, Norwich; Alfred G. Lillibridge, Norwich; Thomas F. Burns, Norwich; James Graham, Lisbon; John D. Avery, North Stonington; E. A. Hoxie, Lebanon; A. C. Williams, Lebanon; John Fields, Bozrah; Otis A. Browning, Preston; Linwood Crary, Preston; F. N. Dimmock, Waterford; Walter Tanner, Voluntown; George Dennison, Stonington; Ray L. Harding, Lyme; George Norman, Griswold; George W. Dolbeare, Norwich; Charles E. Willard, Groton; Alfred H. Beebe, Norwich; Robert Montgomery, Norwich; Roy Beard, Norwich; F. T. Maples, Norwich; Jerome House, Montville.

The meeting authorized the secretary to cast one ballot for the election of the entire ticket. Mr. Branche presented the new president, Mr. Armstrong, to the meeting, and he was enthusiastically greeted. Mr. Armstrong briefly addressed the gathering, stating that his election was a surprise to him. He spoke of the spendid backing given Mr. Branche during his term of office and expressed the hope that he, in taking the office of president, will have the backing of everyone in the whole of New London county. Vice President Daniel Polsky was called on to address the meeting as were Mr. Avery, of North Stonington, and Dr. Ier J. Manwaring. All were heartily applauded. The meeting gave a rising vote of thanks to Dr. Manwarring for her services, given voluntarily and freely, to the fair society.

President Armstrong announced that he will call a meeting of the board of directors for December 19th, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of electing six members of the executive committee. Adjournment was taken shortly after 9:15 o'clock.

PREPARING AT SUB BASE FOR WINTER CRUISE

In preparation for the annual winter cruise nearly 1,500 men attached to vessels of the United States navy stationed at the submarine base at Groton are busy now in overhauling the vessels preparatory to joining the other vessels of the navy scouting fleet which will assemble off the Virginia capes to sail for Guantanamo, Cuba, on Jan. 7. The vessels will sail from Groton on Jan. 3 or 4.

Included in the vessels which will sail from there are all of the ships of the fourth division, all but one of the third division, consisting of the submarine tender Camden (flagship of the control force and of the two divisions) and her fleet of submarines, the mine squadron ships Lark and Mallard, the submarine rescue vessel Falcon, and the tender Camden and her fleet of submarines which comprise the 12th division of the control force and which is now located at Portsmouth. The Camden carries a complement of about 300 men, the Bushnell a complement of 250 men, Division 3 about 150, Division 4 about 200, and Division 12 about 200 men.

Street, of New Haven, state vice regent, were guests of Faith Trumbull chapter, Inc., of this city, Wednesday noon at a luncheon meeting at the Wauregan hotel. A special committee, appointed by the regent, Mrs. William H. Dawley, had charge of the luncheon arrangements, comprising Mrs. Herbert M. Lerou, chairman, Mrs. Adams P. Carroll, Mrs. Ernest J. Jones, and Mrs. William H. Oat, and co-operated with the programme committee of which Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen is chairman.

The attendance was about 50 and a delicious luncheon menu was served at prettily decorated tables, many small Jerusalem cherry trees being used in the decorations. Following the luncheon, an informal social hour provided an opportunity for the members to meet the guests.

The business meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Dawley. The report of the secretary, Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer, was omitted by consent of the meeting. Mrs. Albert S. Comstock, treasurer, presented her report which was accepted. Mrs. George A. Ashbey, the historian, reported the work for the state committee for Preservation of Historic Spots, has been completed and forwarded. Three copies of the report were made, and one copy is retained by the chapter historian.

The registrar, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins, reported one member transferred, two resigned, making the total membership now 183. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, chairman of the museum committee, reported receipts of $1,000 on a pledge for the building fund. The programme committee chairman, Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen, stated that at the January meeting, Miss Hannah M. Crowell will tell a travel story, illustrated by screen pictures. Mrs. Frank L. Royce, chairman of the committee on patriotic education, reported the presentation of the $5 prize offered the pupils of the eighth school bringing the greatest number of new pupils with a 75 per cent personal attendance record. Mrs. Royce asked that the members remember the request for essays on "Our Obligation to the Franchise," for the prize competition. She also announced that Mrs. W. Tyler Browne has given ten copies of her book, "Hot Suns and the Great Whiteness" for use in the public schools of the town. Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman of the ways and means committee reported on the very enjoyable dance held in the Wauregan hotel ball room Thanksgiving eve and a bridge party held at the home of Mrs. Arnaud J. LaPierre.

Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, with Miss Annie E. Vaughn at the piano, entertained with the following vocal selections; I Pass by Your Window, by May H. Breha; If I But Knew, by Wilson E. Smith; Until You Came, by John M. Metcalf; My Dear Jerusby, by Jessie L. Gaynor.

Miss Treat stressed the importance of the D. A. R. Americanization work, especially in Connecticut, where the foreign population greatly outnumbers the American-born citizens and where illiteracy is growing. With this situation in mind there are only two things, she said, we as Daughters can do. Either ignore the foreigner entirely or make him an American citizen. It is up to us as Daughters to teach him our ideals, if we wish to keep the ideals for which our ancestors gave so much. One of the best things we are doing, she continued, is the publication of The Manual. Over 1,900,000 copies have been distributed since 1921. Connecticut stands third in this work with only Massachusetts and California ahead. A natural supplement to this distribution is the work at Ellis Island. This work is growing in importance each year and already the spirit of the island has been transformed.

Another phase of Americanization work which is necessary, Miss Treat said, is the teaching of English to the women in their homes. By the establishment of small groups of such women with a teacher, those unable to attend evening schools may be taught American habits and ideals and made to feel more at home in our country. These groups of women are a supplement to the work being done in our night schools, where prizes are being offered for attendance.

Miss Nettleton, state regent, spoke of the necessity for every person, eligible to the society to become an active member. Only by filling up our ranks can the work for which we stand be carried on and the ideals of our ancestors be preserved. We are not a society for ancestor worship," said Miss Nettleton. "We tand for the ideals and ideas upon which our country was founded."

Miss Nettleton strongly urged that each member of the society support its national defense committee. The time has come, she said, where we must show that we stand for the constitution and the ideals of the United States. There is an appaling mass of pacifist propaganda at present masquerading under all sorts of innocuous disguises. We must combat this and we must be prepared. We do not want war, neither are we militaristic, but we must be prepared if war comes, not be caught napping as in the last war. Only by being prepared can we prevent war. As a people we are not war-like, we have never courted war, but we have never shrunk from it when it was a just war.

Miss Nettleton spoke briefly of the work at Ellis island and of the speedy completion of Constitution hall.

She urged evgry chapter member to subscribe to the magazine and thus keep in touch with the work of the state and national committees.

Her closing remarks were of the necessity for every member to avail herself of the vote at the coming election. Only by voting can we show that we support the constitution and its ideals. Let us use our privilege wisely and set an example to our foreign-born citizens. It is up to us to show them the right way.

At the close of Miss Nettleton's inspiring message, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard sang two very charming songs. Mrs. Bard was accompanied at the piano by Miss Annie Vaughn.

The afternoon's programme came to a close with the reading of a paper, Bits About Connecticut, by Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn. In part, Mrs. Vaughn's paper follows:

Connecticut was from the first busy, thrifty, inventive, above all conservative, sharp at trade, laughed at for steady pie-eating habits, wooden nutmegs, trading peddlers and blue laws, nevertheless dependable in times of national peril, quicker than most to establish schools, roads, use new inventions, and to manufacture everything from clocks to automobiles.

As a colony, Connecticut had shrewd politics; statesmen, never aggressive, but ever ready in independent action, both in time of peace and war; not an emotional community, often slow in coming to the boiling point, but foremost in hospitality to practical ideas, apiness in devising public trend of feeling toward science, sociology, and especially theology, through its pulpit has broken away less than others from its early Puritanism. Connecticut seemed never to have any responsibility in stirring up war, but was quick to provide its quota of men, munitions and provisions.

In speaking of witchcraft, one Mary Johnson was heard to say when cleaning grates, "the devil take these ashes" a sentiment echoed by most of us even now.

Movements of today put prohibition in a general sense as a goal of reform with about the same results as of old, failure. Our forefathers seemed to entertain a naive conception that the more laws enacted, the better the behavior.

Connecticut stood in the unique position of compromise between religious liberty of Rhode Island, and the rigid ecclesiasticism of Massachusetts, the love of rugged soil from which these early settlers wrung a hard-earned living, and the habit of independent self government have become traditional.

Connecticut was one of the first states to entertain anti-slavery sentiments, and the last to sanction cession of tegritory of the government.

The news of the Declaration of Independence was received calmly in Connecticut, her delegates having been authorized to promote it, it made Connecticut free and independent in words, but under the same form of government which had existed since the issue of the royal

WHIRLWINDS DOWN PLAINFIELD PROS, 33 TO 30, IN FIERCE BATTLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Dec. 7.—The Boston Whirlwinds had to extend themselves to the utmost to gain a verdict over the Plainfield Pros here tonight, 33 to 30, before a capacity crowd of 1000 fans. The game was a thriller and the crowd was in an uproar as one team would forge ahead and then the other. It was another of those spectacular Plainfield-Whirlwind battles which usually comes when these two teams meet.

Both teams started off cautiously when Bernot made good a free throw for the first point of the game. Plainfield led throughout most of the first half and at one time had the Boston outfit trailing by a score of 15 to 9. Boston near the end of the half flashed a burst of speed that concluded the half with the score deadlocked at 15 each.

In the second half Boston gained a commanding lead and at one time the score was 27 to 20 in their favor. Plainfield started a rally and with one minute to go were leading by one point but Kiley came through with a field basket, just as the whistle blew ending the game. Morley made good a free throw and the game terminated with the score reading Boston 33, Plainfield 30.

In the preliminary game the Plainfield Buddies defeated Jewett City 28 to 14 in an uninteresting game.

Next Wednesday night New Britain comes to Plainfield in a return game. The summary:

LACOSTE TOPS TILDEN IN TENNIS RANKING

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The rise of the French tennis star in 1927 is reflected in the annual classification of the "World's First Ten," by A. Wallis Myers, British tennis expert, which appears in the current official bulletin of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Rene LaCoste's four decisive victories over William T. Tilden, 2nd, place the French ace at the head of the ranking ten, but the dethroned king of international tennis dominion is rated second over Henri Cochet on the strength of match victories at Cochet's expense in New York and Paris and near-victory at Wimbledon.

Jean Borotra, fourth on the list, and Jacques Brugnon, ninth, complete the French roster that numerically equals the American representation marked by the absence of "Little Bill" Johnston and the arrival of two youthful recruits, George Lott and John Hennessey.

The rankings follow:

1—LaCoste, France; 2—Tilden, United States; 3—Cochet, France; 4—Borotra, France; 5—Alonzo, Spain; 6—Hunter, United States; 7—Lott, United States; 8—Hennessey, United States; 9—Brugnon, France; 10—Kozeluh, Czechoslovakia.

Youth swept into the women's ranking with the return of Helen Wills to the head of the list and the inclusion of Betty Nuthall of England and Esther Heine South Africa, both of whom are under 20 years of age.

The first ten women follow: 1—Miss Wills, United States; 2—Mlle De Alvarez, Spain; 3—Miss Ryan, United States; 4—Mrs. Mallory, United States; 5—Mrs. Godfree, England; 6—Miss Nuthall, England; 7—Miss Heine, South Africa; 8—Miss Fry, England; 9—Mlle Bouman, Holland; 10—Mrs. Shapin, United States.

HOBEN GIVEN REAL WELCOME IN HOME TOWN

TORRINGTON, Dec 7—(AP)—Johnny Hoben was given a real "home town" welcome here tonight, when he was the guest of honor at a banquet attended by 350 Torrington citizens at the Elks' Club. Hoben, one of the stars of Yale's 1927 varsity football team was presented with a gold watch by his admirers.

Torrington's other two Yale stars who made football history, "Jim" Hogan and "Ducky" Pond were not overlooked and their names, together with that of Hoben, were written on gold stars which formed part of a floral "Y" which was unveiled during the evening's festivities.

Phillips Carlin, radio entertainer, attended the affair and gave one of his usual entertaining talks. A telegram from "Tad" Jones, Yale football coach, praised Hoben as an outstanding athlete and a boy of whom any town could be proud. The wire also contained Jones' regrets at his inability to be present.

PICKING ALL-STATE SCHOLASTIC TEAMS

It is to laugh.—and laugh uproariously when we consider the All-State scholastic football teams picked by the three football wizards of Central High, Harding High and Naugatuck. It would have been much nearer the truth had they dubbed their selections the "All-Southwestern Connecticut team." As can be expected Central, Harding and Naugatuck players figure conspicuously with a sort of soothing balm given to Stamford by two of the mentors. Wilby high places one on two teams while Coach Johnny Mead gives Norwich Academy a place on his All-State team.

It is Mead's selection of the Norwich man that gives us the laugh. Not that we wish to take a slam at Berghinzo who was Mead's choice for right end for Berghinzo showed up mighty well in the games in which he played. Berghinzo was a second string end there being two other ends, LaCroix and Greene, who Coach Whitney considered better than Berghinzo. Either Whitney's judgment is below par which we doubt, or Mead is confusing Berghinzo with someone else. Berghinzo was not of all-state calibre.

Now it doesn't seem possible that Bridgeport and Naugatuck could praise such a bumper crop of football talent that the all-state team should be chosen from these two towns. There was some mighty fine football material in the eastern part of the state this season as well as in Hartford, Torrington, Waterbury, South Manchester and Willimantic. It takes more than three coaches in the southwestern part of the state to create any great furore with an all-state team. The teams of the three coaches follow:

RED SOX RELEASE FOUR TO MOBILE CLUB

BOSTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox have released four players to the Mobile club of the Southern association in part payment for two pitchers and an outfielder, James Price announced tonight.

The trade will send to Mobile, Walter Shaner, outfielder, Tony Welzer, right handed pitcher; William Moore, catcher, and Elmer Eggert, infielder. The Red Sox acquired Edward Morris, a right handed pitcher; Merle Settlemire, a left handed pitcher, and Johnny Williams, an outfilder who batted for .350 last season.

Announcement of the deal was received at headquarters of the Red Sox in a telegram from President Bob Quinn, who is attending the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues at Dallas, Tex. The deal is the second the Red Sox president has completed in as many days, he having previously acquired Douglas Taitt, an outfielder, from the Nashville club of the Southern association.

YALE POLO FIELD ALMOST READY TO PLAY

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7—(AP)—Phipps Field, the Yale polo team's new "home grounds" will be ready for play May 12, according to an announcement made today by P. W. Hoge, of Cleveland, manager of the team. The field, which is the gift of the Phipps family of New York, will have as its first contest, Yale versus Army on the date of dedication.

The new field is 1,010 feet long, 500 feet wide and has accommodations for 500 spectators. It is ready for play now with the exception that the turf is not quite in condition and is expected to be as nearly perfect as possible by May.

Yale went in for polo in 1921 and already ranks at the head of the intercollegiate teams, both indoors and out. Since the inauguration of the sport, university teams have captured several titles.

Other teams against which Yale will play next year are Princeton, Harvard and P. M. C. The team will also play in the intercollegiate at Rye in June.

SEVERAL SALES ANNOUNCED AT BASEBALL MEETING

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 7—(AP)—Although there was one activity in player trading today between major and minor league clubs, deals still were few and far between and not nearly so numerous as at former meetings of the National Association of Professional leagues.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association and one of the three founders of the National association, asserted that not in his memory had there been such a paucity of dealing.

Reasons for the dull market were explained in various ways. One opinion is that many ball clubs suffered reverses last year because of inclement weather and are looking for cash deals instead of trades as a way of replenishing their near exhausted coffers.

Inactivity of the major scouts in the trading pit is said to reflect the scarcity of promising recruits.

Today's outstanding deal came when Billy Evans, the former umpire and new business manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced that Art Fletcher, Yankee coach, had been appointed Cleveland manager, subject to his release by the Yankees. Fletcher replaces Jack McAllister.

Arthur Fraser, pitcher last year with Portland, Me., in the New England league was purchased by Toronto of the International, Bill O'Hara, president of the Toronto club, announced.

Charlotte of the Sally league purchased George Shatzer, southpaw pitcher from Chambersburg, Pa., of the Blue Ridge league.

Knoxville of the Sally league announced the sale of William Englishmen and Roy Curtain, infielders, to Evansville of the Three I league.

The Chicago Cubs will send Fred Brillheart, southpaw pitcher to the Milwaukee Brewers it was announced.

TAFTVILLE WHIRLWINDS DROP CLOSE GAME TO NOANK FIVE

Battling every minute from the first whistle until the last the Taftville Whirlwinds went down to a 23 to 20 defeat Wednesday evening at Parish hall at the hands of the Noank five. It was anybody's game right up to the last minute and the crowd was treated to some of the fastest basketball seen in the village in many a moon. The forward line, Durr and Paradis furnished the thrills for the Whirlwinds while Clark at center starred for the Fishermen. The Noank team had a distinct advantage in weight but the Whirlwinds made up for this in their aggressiveness. The summary:

YALE FRESHMAN HOCKEY TEAM TO HAVE TEN GAMES

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7—(AP)—The Yale freshmen hockey team will play ten games this winter, according to the schedule released tonight. The season opens here on January 10 with Springfield college freshmen as the opponents of the Yale yearlings.

In February, the yearlings will take on the Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard freshmen and during the balance of the season will play prep and high school outfits.

The squad now numbers over 50 and a final cut next will bring it down to about 20. The boys are working out under the direction of Coach Larry Noblew ho was last year's varsity captain.

YOUNG GRIFFO, VETERAN BOXING IDOL, DIES IN PROVERTY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(AP)—"The fastest and most perplexing boxer who ever performed under the Queensbury rules" is dead, an apparent victim of his own and Broadway's indulgence.

Thirty years ago "Young Griffo" fought the pick of the nation's featherweights at 126 pounds to be hailed as title contender and one of the fastest boxers in the ring. Today he dragged his 200 pound body from a rent free West Side basement room to die in the hallway before medical aid could reach him.

Born 56 years ago as Albert Griffith in Sydney, Australia, Young Griffo came to this country in 1893 after reaching the peak in the Australian boxing world. He fought as a featherweight and lightweight with most of his best battles ending in draws against such men as Joe Gans, Young Scotty, Georgie Dixon, Jack McAuliffe and George Mesmic.

He was rich in the sense that purses of that day went, but his worldly goods today consisted of the clothes he died in. More than once his trainer discovered him in a bar with barely time to reach the ring on foot in a race that was both a sobering up and training stunt. Most of the purse money later went for celebrations "for the house."

Griffo's ability to stand on a handkerchief and keep his head clear from blows held him to the ring until 1897 and later served to win him food and drink when increasing weight pushed him off the canvass. Broadway eased his backward slide with money for food clothing nad lodging and many celebrities who swept him into supper parties from his nightly perch outside a Broadway stage door expressed the belief that he died of overeating and lack of exercise.

Mrs. Jane Frazier Fish, author of children's stories, tonight spiked rumors that he would be buried in Potter's field for lack of funds. She ordered his body removed from the city morgue to an undertaking room to await funeral service arrangements for Sunday. From another source it was learned that Griffo's "rent free" basement room was hired by Mrs. Fish. Mrs. Rose Collins, the owner of the room, in turn lowered the price. She is the widow of a saloon keeper whom Griffo numbered among his friends of more fortunate days.

SAN FRANCISCO RECALLS GRIFFO IN HIS HEYDEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—(AP)—With the death of Young Griffo in New York today, another famous character of San Francisco's boxing heydey passed on to join the list that now includes Bob Fitzsimmons, Peter Jackson, "Spider" Kelly and many others.

Griffo came to San Francisco in 1893—old timers recall the day he walked off the ship that brought him from Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. He became a character from the start, eager to fight but unwilling to train.

Tim McGrath, famous second, describes Griffo as "one of the real phantoms of the ring," so elusive that "I've seen him go through more than one twenty-round fight without so much as being hit above the shoulders."

The little Australian refused to take training seriously and no handler ever succeeded in making him do so. If he had, McGrath says, he might have become a world's champion. Had he possessed a harder punch, he would have been the pugilistic marvel of all times, veterans of the ring here claim. But he was too fast and clever to have been a hard hitter.

Glory or money meant little to Griffo, but he was exceedingly fond of music and spent most of his time in Rosale's cafe, popular in the old days, but no longer in existance. Once McGrath hit on the idea of providing music for Griffo while he trained. He engaged a piano and singer, moved the musical combination to quarters about six miles out of town, and informed the press that Griffo had reformed. But at 3 o'clock the next morning while McGrath was sitting in a cafe reading a sports article about the novel training scheme, in walked Young Griffo in an old red flannel undershirt. He had traded his sweater for a wagon ride back to the bright lights.

Griffo mostly thought in terms of fighting. One evening he and McGrath were passing the grand opera house (now non-existent) and a big crowd was in front.

"What's that crowd there for" asked Griffo.

"Why, they're going in to see the great Patti," McGrath replied. (Patti was a famed singer).

"By the bloomin' cove," said Griffo, "why do they pay to see that bum? I stopped him in four rounds over in Sydney."

Griffo thought Patti was a fighter.

Although he met the best ringsters of his day, but few were able to defeat Griffo. His longest bout was 55 rounds with Ike Weit, the Belfast Spider.

DANIELSON TOWN TEAM PLAYS MILLVILLE TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Danielson Town basketball team is to try conclusions with the Millville, Mass., team at the town hall in Danielson Thursday evening. It should be a good basketball game. This early in the season the Danielson team is showing real promise, considerable form and a wealth of aggressiveness. And it should. The players are all experienced, fast and willing. These are things that enter to the making of a successful basketball team.

Danielson will have its work cut out for it tonight. Millville is bringing down such men as "Chet" Nichols, known all over eastern Connecticut as a speedy court performer, "Kitty" Kitteridge, who has made much basketball history, Kasper and Tisdell, Purple Collegian players, and Peloquin, fast enough to make trouble for any team.

There is no one very certain about who wins this game, all of which makes of even greater interest to the fans.

MAJOR-MINOR DRAFT CODE GETS AIRING

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Minor league grievances over the present major-minor draft code, and the controversy over the life of the agreement governing relations between the major and minor leagues were briefly aired on the floor of the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues here today.

No action was taken on the draft question, although it provoked a lengthy discussion, but the matter of the life of the major-minor agreement was referred to a committee for a construction of apparently conflicting clauses.

Hhe major-minor agreement was drawn up seven years ago to furnish the upper and the lower stratas of baseball a code to rule relations between the major leagues and the smaller circuits. One clause of the agreement seems to indicate that the understanding is to least seven years in which case the document would become inoperative next season.

RISKO GETS DECISION OVER PHIL SCOTT

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland Baker boy and contender for the heavyweight championship title won over Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of the British isles in the ten round main bout at Public hall tonight.

Risko was the aggressor all the way, scoring two knockdowns. The first came in the second round following a right to Scott's jaw. In the eighth round Scott sank to one knee with an expression of pain after a close exchange of body blows and took a count of eight. Jimmy Johnston, his manager, claimed a foul which was not awarded.

Lope Tenorio, Filipino lightweight champion, won a technical knockout over Stanislaus Loyza, of Chile, after seven rounds of their 10-round bout.

Dominick Petrone, New York Italian, took the decision from Willie Smith, European bantamweight champion, with three knockdowns in ten rounds.

Gaston Charles, former French featherweight titleholder, lost to Al Tripoli, over a six round route.

Chapman and Crowler Matched

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Red Chapman, Boston featherweight boxer, has been matched to meet Tommy Crowley in a 10-round bout at Pittsburgh, December 19, Charles Cardio Chapman's manager announced tonight. The match will be at 126 pounds.

Bud Stapleton Sold to Montreal

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Manager Frank Stapleton, of the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league was sold to the Montreal club of the International league today, according to advices received from President Fred Voos from Dallas, tonight. Stapleton is a first baseman.

Yale Beats Upsala

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Yale basketball five defeated Upsala college of East Orange, N. J., 19 to 13 here tonight in one of the queerest games ever seen on a local court. For more than 11 minutes there was no score and then Upsala had a free try for the basket and made it. Yale's first score came after 19 minutes of play. Paul Fodder clinched the game for Yale with two baskets in the last few minutes of play.

BASKETBALL

A meeting of the proposed Industrial league has been called for Friday evening at the Y. At this time it is expected to be definitely decided whether Norwich is to have a Dusty basket loop. To date little response has been noted to the calls issued by the Y. M. C. A., eager to sponsor such a project. It is understood that should success not come at this time then lines will be thrown for the formation of a City league similar to that run last year by the Y and similar to the one now in operation in New London. No doubt such a league would be stronger than an All-Dusty affair and also would be more representative. As was the case last year, the City league could contain industries with independent teams. C. F. C., Y. Seniors, Smoke Shop, Eastern Conn. Power Co., Marlatts, Bantams and Thermos are among those mentioned as possible entrants to such a league. The Y it will be remembered, won last year.

The Church league, planned to start within the next few days, should tend greatly to revive interest in basketball bereabouts. Last year found this popular winter sport resurrected after many seasons of lethargy and there is no reason but that the 1927-28 season will find basketball even more popular. It is getting a later start this year but once it gets on its way, things should go smoothly.

Stonington High has its most extensive scheddle in years outlined for the coming season. Eighteen games in all are planned, but only 13 are booked at present. Two games are down with N. F. A., at Stonington Feb. 22 and at Norwich March 2. A large squad, with many veterans reported to Coach Bill O'Brien this week. The Stonington Community house has been secured for home games this year to replace the diminutive Arion hall, previously used. The season opens Dec. 22 with the Alumni. Bobby Cragan is the captain.

The C. F. C. is getting in some stiff practice licks in preparation for its opener Saturday against Battery E at Westerly. Floyd Lambert is this year's captain, succeeding Art Armstrong. Coach Emory Davis has an all-veteran team with practically all having had several years' experience.

Windham High has 14 games listed at present, including two with N. F. A. Its season opens Friday, Dec. 23, against the Alumni. However, the schedule is as yet incomplete as several dates will be changed and additional games arranged. Windham has exceptional bright prospects. Last year the team had a record that entitled it to participate in the Yale tourney and this season's five has just as bright an outlook.

The Y Emps, who opened their season with a slashing win over the Willimantic Emps last week, intend to continue the inter-city feud with a game with New London Rotary Boys at the local gym this Saturday, it is reported.

The Y Outlaws-Plainfield Buddies game here Saturday, Dec. 17, should provide plenty of fine basketball. The locals seem to have a strong quintet lined up with such men as Gauthier, Eccleston, Pingree, Harris and Brown.

Incidentally, the Y Senior are now rounding into condition for a busy campaign. Coach McKean plans a strenuous schedule and he seems to have men capable of going through such a season.

Taftville, at least, has a court representative this year. It is the Whirlwinds, a junior team that has done pretty well.

Chapman Tech is another of eastern Connecticut high schools to swing into line with its schedule. It is one of the stiffest that a high school in these parts has ever undertaken, totalling 27 games, many of them of the strenuous variety. The season opens Friday against Pratt High at Essex and closes March 16 with LaSalle Academy at Providence.

According to the scheddle Tech meets the Academy here Friday, January 13 and at New London Tuesday Feb. 14.

Baltic is getting a taste of basketball with the Independents who have fared quite well to date.

Three Veterans Released.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Unconditional release by the Toledo American association club of three veteran baseball stars, Emil "Irish" Meusel, Everett Scott, and Bullet Joe Bush, was announced here tonight. Scott holds the world's record for playing in consecutive games.

WESTERLY

INTEREST IN DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST TOWN TREASURER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7.—The damage case for $5000, Frank W. Coy Real Estate Co. and Mrs. Catherine R. Welch vs. James M. Pendleton, town treasurer of Westerly, was heard for the second day of trial with jury, on Wednesday, before Judge Walsh in Washington county superior court in Westerly. Spare jurors were excused to report again Thursday at 11 a. m.

Following Frank W. Coy, president of the company, on the witness stand Wednesday appeared Thomas McKenzie, superintendent of the Westerly Water Works, and a member of the committee appointed by Westerly town council to relay and straighten out the Shore road, Sept. 5, 1905. Mr. McKenzie testified the work was done by the Rhode Island State Board of public roads. Other members on the committee with him, C. Clarence Manson, Capt. William F. Saunders and James A. Welsh are all dead and another member, Albert H. Langworthy, is not in the best of health.

William H. Rhodes, a resident of Quarry Hill, testified to having worked on the road and the present way east of replacing a stone wall which is claimed not to have been properly rebuilt when the road was re-located on the Coy-Welsh farm.

Miss S. H. Baxter, having appeared before the court at South Kingston and passed examination of federal examiner, renouncing allegiance to King George V of England, took oath as a citizen of the United States.

MISS A. E. MANN, TEACHER, DIES SUDDENLY WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 7.—The sudden death of Miss Augusta E. Mann, 79, for many years a grammar school teacher at Elm Street school, occurred at 2:25 a. m. Wednesday. Miss Mann had been down town the previous afternoon and her death from a stroke of apoplexy occurred at the home of Mrs. James P. Pascoe, on 12 Chester avenue. For many years she had been a teacher at the Elm Street school, but retired from active service some time ago.

Demetre Servidio, on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, was arraigned Tuesday evening in a special session of the Third District court before Judge Oliver H. Williams, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, a long knife, upon Frank Salmi, of Potter Hill. The offense was committed Monday, Dec. 5th, on Pierce street. Servidio, who was arrested by Officer George L. Madison, pleaded not guilty. He was released in $1,000 bonds for trial Friday morning. The force of the knife thrust was downward in the back of Salmi's neck. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon attended the injured man.

Westerly Grange, No. 18, Patrons of Husbandry, met on Tuesday evening in Grange hall, Avondale, when officers were elected as follows: Master, Roy Dawley; overseer, Wm. Owens; lecturer, Mary Coombs; steward, James Shaw; assistant steward, Harry Barber; chaplain, Hattie L. C. Barbour; treasurer, William H. Burdick; secretary, Grace E. Chapman; gate-keeper, Edward C. Brown; Ceres, Eunice P. Dawley; Pomona, Mary E. Chaplin; Flora, Elva Shaw; L. A. steward, M. Isabelle Chapman; member of executive committee for three years, George Champlin. Mr. and Mrs. C. Palmer Chapman were elected alternates to the State Grange.

The Men's club of the First Baptist church of Westerly held its annual meeting Tuesday evening in the vestry. Officers were elected as follows: Robert Hazard, president; Allen Crouch, vice president; Stephen J. Crouch, secretary; Arthur J. Edmond, treasurer. A number of committees were also elected to serve during the coming year and Judge Herbert W. Rathbun was unanimously re-elected teacher of the class.

Preceding the business meeting 75 members of the class and their families enjoyed a roast beef supper. Judge Herbert W. Rathbun was toastmaster and presented the Rev. Louis J. Shepler, pastor of the Union Baptist church, Mystic, who gave a spirited and inspiring address on "Manpower in the Church." Brief addresses were also made by Rev. B. U. Hatfield, pastor of the local church, and Deacons Frank Green and Stephen F. Crouch.

During the evening Gould's orchestra played and several songs were sung.

Harold W. Merrill Post, No. 16, American Legion auxiliary, held its meeting Monday evening in the post rooms, Traggis block, when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Mary Sherman; first vice president, Mrs. Louise Rose; second vice president, Lydia Brown; secretary, Mrs. Ida May Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Thelma Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Evelyn Barber; historian, Mrs. Adelaide De Fanti; chaplain, Lucy Landers. It was voted to accept an invitation from James Stanton Post, Central Falls, to attend a reception for the state commander, Francis B. Condon, and Mrs. Condon.

Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent, No. 2, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, met Tuesday evening in Mechanics Hall, when the first annual election resulted as follows: president, Sarah Vredenburg; senior vice president, Addie Ellis; junior vice president, Reba Main; chaplain, Mary E. Wright; treasurer, Ida M. Clark; color bearers, No. 1, Martha Naylor, No. 2, Jeannette Barber, No. 3, Annie Gill; patriotic instructor, Perle Brown; secretary, Monica Fidler; guide, Irene Murray; press correspondent, Annie Benson; guard, Ruby Brearly; assistant guard, Eleanor Brearly; musician, Annie Kinney; color bearers, No. 1, Edith Lamb, No. 2, Edna Brearly, No. 3, Ruth Bliven, No. 4, Mabel Crandall.

At the close of the meeting there was a pleasant social hour with music and refreshments. Friends were present, including the cast of the three-act farce "Aunt Jerushy on the Warpath" to be given in High School hall next week.

Henry G. Clark, from Providence, was in Westerly Wednesday.

Dr. Albert H. Spicer spent Wednesday in Boston.

James Hamilton, of Westerly highway department, has been taken to the hospital for treatment for an injury to his foot.

NOANK

Several members of the Golden Rod club paid their first visit to Ledyard Tuesday evening. The roads were in bad shape, but the members had heard much about Ledyard chicken pie suppers that they did not mind the bad traveling. They had the chicken pie, with all the trimmings and Oh, boy, the coconut cake was good! After feasting like a king, then it was over to the dance hall where Old Mystic singing orchestra of four music makers played for square sets. The committee in charge invited the Golden Rod trio to sing. With Mrs. Tuckerman at the piano, Stretch Moran, bass, William Franklin, tenor, and Sammie Reed, baritone, sang Three Thousand Years Ago. Bill Duncan, with his sweet potato whistle gave everybody something to talk about this winter at their country meetings as he played Lindy of the U. S. A. The good night song came and the Golden Rod members said "Hurrah for Ledyard!" and "What a good time in the old town tonight!"

Mr. and Mrs. William Tourjee have been callers in North Stonington.

Lewis Martin, of New York came to Groton Long Point to see how badly the storm used his cottage. He will stay for a few days.

Dexter Holiday has resigned as deck layer at the shipyard.

The Baptist church bell rang Tuesday morning to let everyone know that the county W. C. T. U. institute was beginning an all day session. Delegates from many unions in the country attended. The program was carried out as published in The Bulletin.

Every seat in the church was taken to hear the addresses. W. C. T. U. is getting stronger month by month as new members are joining.

Leland McGrath always wanted to see Cuba so he got the roaming feeling and started for Cuba. Getting to New York he took the steamer to the island but was seasick. It was his first time on a long voyage, but he made it, for a letter has come to Billie Fitzgerald telling all about the trip. Young MacGrath said it is a place of many horses, so he got a horse for an afternoon ride and came across an old friend, Mike Curley, doing mason work and who Leland expects to stay with for two months. That makes 22 states and countries he has been in since 1923, so he has seen quite a little of this large world. He wants The Bulletin sent to him every day, so he can see what the fishing town is doing and how the fishermen are making out with the flatfish for he claimed it is hard to get fish as good as real Connecticut fish there. A good fish chowder here does make a Noank boy wear a smile all day long.

Noank Crescents basketball team will be back on their home court this week end. Headquarters Co., team of New London will be on the list for the game. The fighting Crescents have been on the road for two weeks and have lost three games by close scores. Coach Billie Crane has held a blackboard talk and told the weak points of the team, so stiff practice is being put in.

Miss Betty Brown is confined to her home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fitch have gone to Ridgewood, N. J., for the winter. Dent Earl has been hauled up at Eathorn's ways until the lobster season opens next spring.

EARLY DECLINE IN PRICES OF STOCKS WAS OFFSET BY RALLY IN LAST HOUR

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Speculative sentiment was distinctly bearish in today's stock market despite aggressive bullish operations by pools in a few special issues. While a further downward readjustment of prices had been widely predicted on technical grounds, today's selling movement undoubtedly received much impetus from President Coolidge's reiteration of his determination not to be a candidate in 1928 and from the disappointing figures on steel output. Early declines in many popular issues ran from 3 to 14 points, but many of these were cut in half in a brisk rally during the last hour.

Fears of stiffer money rates after the turn of the year as a result of the heavy exports of gold during the past few weeks were again heard in the financial district. Rumors of an increase in the Boston Federal Reserve bank today proved to be unfounded. Call money renewed at 4 per cent. and held steady at that figure all day, as against a renewal rate of 4 1-2 per cent. yesterday. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Not all of the day's news was unfavorable. Reports that steel production was at a new low level for the year, undoubtedly stimulated the selling of the steel shares. U. S. Steel common reacting nearly 4 points to 140 3-8 and then recovering half its loss, but the weekly trade reviews emphasized the decided spurt in railroad buying which will be reflected in operations of the first quarter of 1928. The export price of copper was again advanced, but the copper shares declined with the best of the list.

Some disappointment was expressed at the failure of the directors of the Lehigh Valley railroad to declare an extra dividend this year, which President Loomis declared had been precluded by the smaller traffic in anthracite coal, but a series of substantial Christmas dividends were announced by banks and insurance companies, directors of the International Shoe company declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the new stock which had been split up on a 4 to 1 basis, a rate of $7 annually having been paid on the old issue. Secretary Mellon's annual report to congress today pronounced business conditions as fundametally sound, and took an optimistic view of the future.

Selling pressure today was most effective against some of the high priced specialties; Midland Steel Products preferred broke 14 points to 215 and rallied to 224, American Machine & Foundry dropped 11 and rallied 4 1-2, Houston Oil fell 9 1-2 and recovered 3 1-4, Dupont lost 9 and recovered 1 1-2 and Commercial Solvents reacted 8 3-4 and came back 3. General Motors dropped to 125 7-8 and speeded back to 127 1-2, off 1 1-8 net, and Radio Corporation rallied from a low of 39 1-2 to 42 1-2, off 3 1-2 net.

Rossia Insurance soared 10 points to 265 and closed within a fraction of the top, and Continental Insurance showed a net gain of 7 1-2 points at 265. Standard Milling rallied 5 points to a new high at 100, and moderate gains were recorded by Loews, Liquid Carbonic, Union Tank Car, Dodge Bros. issues and a few others.

Rails yielded with the industrials. Delaware & Hudson broke 6 1-4 points and Canadian Pacific 7 1-4 but each recovered about half their losses. Lehigh Valley dropped 5 1-2 points and recovered 1 1-2 and New York Central Wabash, Norfolk & Western and a few others lost 2 points or more.

Foreign exchange rates were reactionary. Demand sterling dropped 1-8 of a cent to $4.87 3-4 and the Canadian dollar, which has been at a premium for some time, was quoted at a discount. Moderate recessions took place in most of the continental currencies.

Commodity markets fluctuated within rather narrow limits. With the exception of rye, which yielded slightly, grain futures advanced a fraction of a cent a bushel. Cotton went slightly lower. Coffee prices were firm and sugar held steady.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—(AP)—Value of membership on the New York curb market soared to a new high record of $67,000 today, an increase of $2,000 over the previous peak, the seat of Benjamin P. Stein having been bought at the new figure by Harold S. Rothschild.

Pittsburgh dispatches to Wall street say millions of dollars will be spent by the Pennsylvania railroad in Altoona in the next few months to construct the largest railroad yard in the world, on which work has begun. Improvements involve the purchase of property in the center of the city from East Altoona to Pinecroft. An east-bound advance freight yard will be extended, and a relay yard built.

Net income of American Water Works & Electric Co., for the year ended October 31, was $5,125,106, equal to $2.97 a share on the common after accrued first preferred dividends, against $4,095,914 or $2.40 a share in the preceding 12 months. Net power output of its electric subsidiaries for October was 3 1-2 per cent. more than October, 1926.

National Fabric & Finishing Co., reports net operating profit of $339,021 for the year ended Sept. 30, in contrast to net operating loss of $259,361 the year before. Net profit for the year was $129,910 bank loans were reduced $500,000.

Forty seven per cent. of the country's blast furnaces were in operation on December 1, representing 170 of the 362 available stacks. A month ago 47.5 per cent. or 172 furnaces were melting and a year ago the rate of activity was 53.3 per cent. The present level is the lowest since October, 1924.

E. V. Peters, vice president of Tubize Artificial Silk Co., announced the company was opening its books for February, March and April business on all yarns, both coarse and fine sizes, at present published prices. He believed the booking of business for these three months would tend to stabilize conditions in the rayon industry, since it permitted manufacturers to go ahead with their plans for spring.

FED. BUDGET TOTALS $4,258,793,765

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—Presenting a budget of $4,258,793,765 for the next fiscal year to congress today, President Coolidge stressed the necessity for limiting the prospective tax reduction to $235,000,000, as recommended by Secretary Mellon. In his letter of transmittal he also cautioned against any action which might jeopardize the "balanced budget" of the government.

The total appropriations recommended by the president exceed last year's budget by $224,222,641, and the amount actually appropriated by congress for the current year by $113,649,219.

The president advised the house and senate, however, that a supplemental appropriation of $153,441,635 would be needed to meet deficits incurred by various government agencies this year.

The largest item in the new budget is for national defense, an appropriation of $646,000,000, as compared with a total of $625,000,000 available this year, being advocated. The increase is accounted for mainly by the navy building program, army housing and a continuation of the five year aviation program for the army and navy.

A reduction of even $225,000,000 in taxes, Mr. Coolidge emphasized, is dependent on "continued prosperity" and rigid government economy. He explained that the estimated surplus for the coming fiscal year is $252,540,000 of which $75,000,000 is from non-recurring sources.

Flood control and other projects not yet acted upon by congress are not provided for in this estimated surplus, he explained, and "it is reasonably certain that some of them will be enacted into law." Adequate flood control, he added, "meets the requirement of absolute and urgent necessity."

"The assurance that federal expenditures will be kept within federal receipts," the president declared, "has bulwarked public confidence. It has contributed measurably to the prosperous condition of the country. It has ministered to the justifiable pride of our people in their government and in its orderly and sane processes.

"To jeopardize our balanced budget, to do anything that in the most remote degree would threaten to interfere with the orderly processes of wise financing, to take steps in the interest of tax reduction that would necessitate either revolutionary curtailment of federal projects and activities or compel a later upward revision of tax rates, or both, is unthinkable. I am convinced the people of this country are overwhelmingly in favor of keeping the budget balanced and are just as overwhelmingly opposed to any measure or measures that would make any other results even remotely possible."

The budget shows a saving of $50,000,000 in interest which will be paid next year on the public over this year. In this connection, Mr. Coolidge called attention to the refunding of the second Liberty loan which he said had accounted for a considerable saving.

A table showing estimated receipts and expenditures for this year and next as compared with last year follows:

New England Industries

THE CANNING AND PRESERVING INDUSTRY

The overshadowing problem in the canning and preserving industry in New England is how to overcome the obstacles of extreme seasonal variation and providing for more uniform employment throughout the year, according to the reports of a survey conducted by the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the New England council. The reports of this survey show that from five to six times as many workers are employed in this industry in mid-summer or early fall as there are in January and April.

Supplementary products have been developed by 12 per cent of the companies reporting the production of jams, jellies, preserves, etc. being the usual procedure. One blueberry canning concern makes boxes in dull periods, and two companies canning fruit and vegetables have added beans and brown bread to their lists.

Many of the establishments reporting in this survey have made improvements in manufacturing practices: in the fruit and vegetable group, standardization of product, production control, inspection of product, and organization and executive control have been most emphasized, while in the fish canning group attention has been given to the improvements in inspection methods, standardization of product and prevention of accidents.

Sales since 1921 have on the whole increased, more so in the fish canning group than the fruit and vegetable group During the last three years 30 per cent of the establishments reporting showed increases and 33 per cent decreases. New sales methods account for increases, with outside competition in the fruit and vegetable group, and labor costs in the fish group accounting for decreases. Sales in New England are reported as slightly higher than those to other regions in the fruit and vegetable branch, and slightly lower in the fish branch. Ninety per cent of the canned fish products and 55 per cent of the fruit and vegetable products bear a brand or trade-mark, the reports indicate.

The main channels of distribution used by the companies reporting are through wholesalers and commission agents, with a few producers selling direct to the consumer, usually through mail orders.

Census figures show that Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island account for 95 per cent of New England's canning output, New Hampshire and Connecticut 3 per cent and Vermont 2 per cent. The industry as considered in this survey does not include the canning of meat-packing companies, the manufacture of condensed milk, evaporated milk and peanut butter, drying and packing of fruits on farms, or the shucking and shipping of fresh oysters in unsealed containers.

Thirteen per cent of the establishments reporting have started one or more branches.

Forty-five states and 17 foreign countries are reported among the 662 students registered in the Yale Graduate school this year, statistics of the school announced yesterday by Dean Wilbur L. Cross, show.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.

2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4—Original stories or letters only will be used.

5—Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

Loyalty.

Are we always faithful to those we meet?
True to the friends we address as "dear"?
In the quiet home, in the busy street,
Loyal to the distant, kind to the near?
Or, do we allow some words to be said
That would rend our heart if the friends were dead?

Truth is a beautiful glorious thing;
Friendship often a heaven-sent gift.
Shall we not help one another to sing?
Daily endeavor some burden to lift?
Who can foretell when the journey will end?
So, let us be loyal and true, my friend.
—Marcella, in "Girl's Own Paper."

How to Make Friends.

The way to make friends is as easy
As breathing the fresh morning air;
It isn't by an art to be studied
Along by the men who can spare
To ponder on classical lore
The time from their everyday labors;
It never is taught in a college
And it isn't a trick or a chore.

The way to make friends is to be one,
To smile at the stranger you meet,
To think cheerful thoughts and to speak
Aloud to the people you greet;
To hold out your hand to a brother
And cheerfully say, "Howdy-do"
In a way that he'll know you mean it—
That's all that's expected of you.

Be honest in all your dealings,
Be true to your word and your home,
And you will make friends, never doubt it,
Wherever you happen to roam.
Condemn not the brother who falters,
Nor fawn on the rich and the great;
Speak kindly to all who approach you,
And give up all whining at fate.
—Farm and Home.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Don't be one of those boys who kid themselves into believing something that isn't so.

Hardly a boy escapes this temptation to kid himself. He asks to be excused from going on an errand because of the pressure of school work, but in half an hour he has laid down his books and is absorbed in a story in his favorite boy's paper.

The boy who kids himself trots out a make-believe reason for the real reason. He is like the fox of the fable who wanted the grapes. Unless a boy takes himself in hand, the habit of giving make-believe reasons will grow with him, and when others are achieving success he will simply be a man who "kids himself."

In the billions who make up this teeming world, there are none who look just alike. Twins sometimes come very near it, but usually the members of the same family can tell the two apart. These facts are enlightening as to the value of personality. You are unique among your fellows, the only one of your kind. To try to make yourself over according to the pattern of some one else is to be at cross purposes with your creator. Imitation will not satisfy you. Your own duty is to make the most of your own personality. Be yourself. Don't try to be someone else.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

THE WAR TANKS.

Dear Uncle Jed: I just finished studying about the tanks which were used during the World war. A tank is a motor vehicle. It became the mightiest of all offensive weapons. It was used to carry all the supplies during the war.

During the time of the war the inventors substituted for wheels the revolving caterpillar belt of the American swamp tractor.

The tank is able to travel over any kind of ground.

Two belts, one on each side, pass entirely around the wheels.

It is made long enough to span the ordinary trench so that it would enable the caterpillar belts to sufficiently grip on the soil to pull out of the ruts.

It is usually inclosed with a quarter of an inch steel plate or armor and the large ones carry several small cannons and guns.

The big tanks weigh about 60,000 pounds and are slow. Some smaller tanks are nicknamed "mosquitoes" and "whippets" only about a third as big as a battle snake, were also built.

They are able to travel about 12 miles an hour. On level ground they can travel fast enough to keep up with the charging infantry.

The chief purpose of the tank service is to prepare the way for the infantry attacks by destroying machine gun nests and crushing the emplacements.

This new weapon received its name from the French people. They called it "tank."

This tank saved a great many soldiers from being captured. A great many soldiers thanked the founders for making this weapon.

TWO DUCKS.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have been reading the stories the children have written and thought I would tell you about our two ducks we are fattening for Thanksgiving.

They are black with some white under their necks. They have a very long body. I hope they will fatten fast for Thanksgiving.

HELEN M. GILLETTE, Aged 10.
Colchester, Box 186.

What I Did

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes what I did last Saturday afternoon.

About one o'clock my brother asked me if I wanted to go and set traps with him and of course I said yes.

We set nine traps and then ate lunch which we had brought with us. Then we set six more traps.

By that time it was getting dark, so we started for home.

When we got home my mother prepared a hot supper for us.

After eating I read about an hour and then went to bed tired but happy, after having spent a good afternoon in the woods.

FRANCIS BESSETTE, Age 11
Baltic, P. O. Box 161.

A Bag of Gold

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to you. I hope that this time it will be successful.

Two men were walking in the woods one day. As they went along one man found a bag of gold. He said: "What good fortune I have!" But the other one replied "Do not say I but say 'we'!" As they walked on, two robbers fell upon them. They captured the one with the gold. This one said, "What misfortune we are having!" The other one replied, running away, "Do not say 'we', now friend, but say 'I.'"

ALICE LYNN, Age 13
Baltic.

In the Forest

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I am going to write about the forest. There was once a boy who ran away from his home. His mother was worried. She sent the police to look after her boy but he ran far away from his home. He ran into the forest. Pretty soon he saw some Indians in the forest. He did not know who they were. They were riding in a canoe down the river. The Indians asked the little boy where he came from and he said he came from the city.

The boy was trembling with fear. The Indians asked him: "What are you doing here?" "I ran away from home," said the boy. The Indians took him to their camp and the little boy stayed with the Indians for a long time and learned the Indians' language and played with the Indian boys. The Indians told him to go back home and he said: "I will but how will I get there?" "It is so far from here we will take you there in our canoe." "All right," said the boy and they took him home. When he got in the city he went home and his mother was glad to see him home again and he fell asleep in his mother's arms.

BENNIE ADLER, Age 11

A Rare Find

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story.

Two boys were camping in the woods. They noticed that the ground near their tent formed a mound. As they hoped it might be an Indian mound they decided to dig it up. There might be arrowheads, tomahawks, or other Indian things in it.

When the boys had dug down about three feet, they came upon an iron ring. It seemed to be fastened in the cover of a large iron box. They tried hard to move it but could not. They decided to keep on digging around it. Both pulled hard and succeeded in getting it out. They were well repayed for their labor, for when they opened the box, they found ancient coins, and Indian souvenirs.

MARION MILNER, Age 9
Baltic.

A Doctor's Prescription

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you and I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. It is about, "Dr. Goodman's Prescription."

In a small town in England, there lived a physician by the name of Dr. Goodman. This doctor was a kind gentleman, who was liked by everyone. Whenever he saw anybody cold or hungry, he always clothed and fed them. The poor, he did not charge for his services.

One day, a poor old woman came into his office. He could see that she was ill from hunger. He put up a prescription in a box, and told her that when that was gone to come back for more.

When she returned home, she opened the box and found it full of gold coins.

FLORENCE STEFON, Age 11.
Baltic.

My Three Geese

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell about my three geese whose colors are white and gray. Their names are White, Muff and Besty.

They eat corn mash and many other things. Their tricks are running and flying a race. White would like to win but he could not fly fast enough. He gets angry and flies by himself.

SAM TASHMAN, Age 9.
Leonard's Bridge.

Has Pet Pigeon

Dear Uncle Jed: I have been reading the letters in the Norwich Bulletins, so I thought I would write you one. I have a pet pigeon. It is all white. Whenever it wants to eat it flies over to me.

One day a hawk tried to catch it. I told my brother that he should throw a rock, but he did not want to. The pigeon saw that I was standing near his house and flew over to me on to my shoulder. The hawk saw that he could not catch it so it flew away, and the pigeon was saved.

SOPHIE CHOTKOWSKA, Age 10.
Colchester.

The Fox

Dear Uncle Jed. I am a Lebanon boy twelve years old and have never written to you before. Should like to tell the Wide Awakes what Ihave just learned in school about the fox.

The fox is about the size of a small dog but not quite so tall. It has a sharp nose, a bushy tail and thick fur.

The fox is a sly animal and very cunning. He hides in the day time and at night goes out in search of food. The fox usually lives in a burrow that he digs in the ground.

The fox likes to eat small animals such as rabbits an hares. He is fond of birds and fruit especially grapes.

Father and mother foxes are very kind to their baby foxes.

The father fox brings them food. Sometimes he has to go a long way to get it.

There are many kinds of foxes. In Connecticut we have the red fox and the gray fox. The gray fox is not so cunning as the red fox. In the west is a fox called the prairie fox. The black fox is found in the state of Washington. The arctic fox is found in Alaska, Russia and Siberia. The fur of the arctic fox is bluish gray in color and is very valuable.

NO NAME.

A SMALL GIRL AND A PAIR OF SHEARS.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you, and I hope you will enjoy my story.

One Saturday morning when mother and I were cleaning the house my little sister, and Browny, my dog, went to play in the attic. While mother and I worked all forenoon we did not hear them play. So mother said that when children are so quiet they must be in some mischief. So mother went up in the attic to see what they were doing. Mary Jane had the shears and she cut the hair off Browny's back and head.

So mother took the shears from Mary Jane and she told her that she could not play in the attic with Browny any more.

LEGAL NOTICE

ATTENTION SIDEWALKS

The ordinances of the city of Norwich impose a penalty of $5 upon any owner, occupant or person having the care of any land or buildings abutting the public highways of the city where there is a sidewalk, either graded or paved, who fails to have removed therefrom all snow, sleet or ice within three hours after it shall have been deposited, or within three hours after sunrise when the same has fallen in the night season, and also upon any such party who fails to have the snow on such sidewalk removed or properly sanded within two hours of its becoming so deposited during the daytime, for each successive period of four hours thereafter that it so remains after proper notice given.

This will give notice to all affected by the foregoing ordinances that the same will be strictly enforced and anyone failing to comply therewith prosecuted from this time forward.

Proposed Ordinance of the City of Norwich

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to give you notice that at a regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of The City of Norwich in the State of Connecticut held on Monday, December 5th, 1927, at 8 p. m., in the Council Chamber of said City, the following was proposed and offered as an ordinance of the said City, and the consideration thereof and action thereon was, as required by law, postponed until a regular meeting of the said Court of Common Council to be held Monday, January 2nd, 1928 at 8 o'clock P. M., standard time, in said Council Chamber, when a public hearing will be had thereon:

An Ordinance of the City of Norwich Amending an Ordinance of the City of Norwich, Adopted December 1st, 1924.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COURT OF COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NORWICH:

Section 1. Section 28 of the ordinance of The City of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 concerning traffic, parking, etc., is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 28. No person shall park any vehicle on that portion of the east side of Broadway that is directly in front of the real estate owned by the Dime Savings Bank of Norwich for a longer period than five minutes or on that portion of the east side of Broadway from Main street to Bath Street which is not in front of the real estate of the Dime Savings Bank of Norwich for a longer period than forty minutes.

Section 2. Section 36 of an ordinance of The City of Norwich adopted December 1st, 1924 concerning traffic, parking, etc., is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 36. No person shall park any vehicle on either side of Thames street southerly of Thames Square for a distance of one hundred feet and no person shall park any vehicle on the easterly side of West Thames Street from the city line northerly to a point on said easterly side of West Thames Street two hundred and ten feet southerly of the junction of the southerly line of Shipping Street and the easterly line of West Thames Street.

The above is a true copy of said proposed ordinance and is published by me as directed by the said Court of Common Council and required by the charter of the said City of Norwich.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1927.

WESTON C. PULLEN
City Clerk and Clerk of the Court of Common Council of The City of Norwich, Connecticut.

NOTICE

FOR SALE: By order of the Honorable Court of Probate for the District of Norwich, I will sell the real estate, belonging to the estate of the late Anthony Wisneskie, and Victoria Wisneskie, both late of Franklin, in said District, deceased, which real estate is situated on the Easterly side of the highway running from Smith's Corners to Baltic, in the town of Franklin; also, lot on the Westerly side of said highway. Said real estate consisting of about 330 acres, more or less, consists of approximately 100 acres of tillable land and 230 acres, more or less of pasture and woodland, together with the dwelling house, barns, sheds and other buildings thereon. Said real estate will be sold as a unit, together with the farm tools, machinery and equipment thereon consisting of gasoline engines, wagons, plows, from 45 to 50 tons of hay, 85 tons of silage, 14 cows, 3 horses and about forty hens. Said farm is supplied with a brook and a never failing spring with running water in the house. The farm has a Westerly slope and is highly desirable as a dairy farm. The entire premises with the personal property will be sold to the highest bidder as one item of sale at public auction to be held at the house on these premises known as the Wisneskie farm, on Wednesday, December 14th, 1927, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Terms of sale to be 10 per cent. cash at time of sale and balance on or before January 1st, 1928.

This sale is to close the two estates and the personal property will not be offered for sale separately.

JOHN WISNESKIE,
Administrator

CONTRACT AWARDED AT NEW LONDON FOR NEW DORMITORY AT HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.— The H. Wales Lines company, of Meriden, today was awarded the contract for the construction of a four story fire-proof dormitory for the student nurses of Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Ground will be broken this week and already two sheds for the use of workmen have been constructed on the hospital grounds. The attaining of the new building was made possible through the generous contributions of Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, of this city, and New York and Mrs. Nicholas Pond, the former contributing $50,000 The building will be ready for occupancy early next summer.

MRS. JOHN C. GALLAGHER DIES IN BROOKLYN, N. Y.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—News has been received in New London of the death in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday, of Mrs. Sarah Gallagher, widow of John C. Gallagher, formerly of New London and Norwich. Mrs. Gallagher suffered a shock about a week ago. She is survived by one son, Capt. John K. Gallagher, of New York, a coastwise mariner. The funeral was held this morning at Brooklyn and burial was at Palmer Mass., this afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher formerly resided on Nathan Hale street and for many years Mr. Gallagher was freight agent in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad in this city and Norwich.

Carl Angale, sailor attached to the submarine base and residing in Bridgeport, was given a severe sentence in the West Haven court today when he received fines for reckless driving and driving while his license is under suspension. A fine of $25 and costs and 10 days in jail was meted out for the reckless driving charge and a fine of $100 and costs and 30 days in jail was given on the charge of driving while his license was suspended. Angale is well known here, having been stationed at the base several years.

The funeral of Aurora Pinnella, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donato Pinnella, of West Coit street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of the child's parents. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Miss Harriet E. Forsythe, a native of Norwich, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at 48 Shapley street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Four nephews of Miss Forsythe acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Nameaug Engine company held its annual meeting Monday night when much business was transacted, principal among which was the election which resulted in the following choice: Foreman, Charles W. Harvey; first assistant foreman, Elias Wentworth, Jr.; second assistant foreman, Nicholas Bandoni; secretary, James A. Woods; treasurer, L. E. McGrath; steward, Roy Hart; executive committee, Irving C. Larkin, chairman; Harold Ramus, Edward Winslow, Timothy Murphy and Charles Kelly; sick committee, Joseph Carsacuss, chairman; James A. Woods and Roy Hart. At the close of the meeting a collation was served.

An electric light pole on the east end of the municipal pier which supports a large electric light for the illumination of that end of the wharf, was smashed last night in a peculiar manner and caused a hazard for a half hour. A tug boat in making a landing struck the pier with so great force that the pole was broken. In falling to the pier the pole brought down live wires, making it dangerous for users of the dock. The police were informed of the danger and had a repair gang from the Connecticut Power company notified.

Charles Benson, 83 Blinman street, employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued six months.

Charles F. Manchester, 47, of 12 Coit street employed as conductor by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was presented on a charge of non-support. The case was continued six months. Manchester furnished a surety on his bond of $500 for appearance at that time. Mrs. Grace Newell Manchester made complaint to Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin yesterday alleging that her husband continuously refused to support her.

Tesfel Pukas, of 127 Winthrop street; M. A. Horen, 15 Pequot avenue and Lawrence E. Ketet, soldier at Fort Wright, were charged with violation of the city's laws in parking on the west side of Bank street. Neither appeared and all forfeited bonds of $2.

Adam A. Rother, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $10 and costs. Rother went to the lunch car, corner of Main and Church streets last night and after being there but a few minutes engaged in a fight with Everts Daniels, the waiter. Daniels went to the street where he made complaint to Patrolmen Carlos Selesnitsky and George Cockell, who arrested Rother.

Elias A. DeWitt, 51, of 71 Blackwell street, died yesterday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient since Nov. 20. He was employed by the Babcock Printing Press manufacturing company and is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Myra Davis, of Boston, and Mrs. Robert Toohey, of Fernandina, Fla.; a brother, Frank DeWitt of this city, two sisters Mrs. Mary Sizer, this city, and Mrs. Dora Rhinehart, of Fitchville, Conn. Mr. DeWitt was born in Kirkwood, N. J. but had resided in New London 27 years and during that period was constantly employed by the printing press company, excepting during the past two months when he was ill.

CHRISTMAS ILLUMINATION TO BEGIN SATURDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—Saturday night the Christmas illumination by the city will be started and will continue until after New Year's. Today linemen and electricians of the Connecticut Power company were engaged suspending vari-colored bulbs along both sides of State street, from Bank to Huntington streets, both sides of Main street from State to John streets, and both sides of Bank street, from Tilley to State streets. The city will pay $1500 for the use of the lights and power and will continue to do so for five years, after which time the lights and wires will become the property of the city and they will be used each year for Yuletide decoration.

The annual meeting of Thomas Hose company was held last night. Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin was elected foreman of the company, the election of Mr. Martin making the 19th consecutive year that he has been head of the organization. The meeting was attended by nearly 100 members, who, after transaction of business, partook of a New England clam chowder. The other officers elected are: first assistant foreman, George J. Enos; second assistant foreman, George A. Harran; secretary, Richard J. Carver; treasurer, Charles T. Chester; trustee, Elmer E. Kennerson; publicity representative, J. Goldberg; executive committee, Chas. A. Smith, chairman, Lester Martin, William Sullivan, Irving Whitney and George Dyer.

Patrolman Patdick Sheehan resumed police duty tonight after having been confined to his residence, Crystal avenue, two weeks because of illness.

An automobile driven by Charles E. Francis, 39 Mountain avenue, was damaged in Groton last night when it overturned. Francis escaped injury. The automobile was being driven along Thames street, Groton, and at the corner of Allen street the steering gear became disabled. Francis lost control of the auto, which struck a culvert and turned over.

Fred C. Towers, of New York, is seeking the whereabouts of Charles E. Davis, who, he has reason to believe, is in New London. Davis wa a member of Battery K, which was stationed at Fort Trumbull from 1894 to 1896. He was transferred when the battery was ordered to Fort Schuyler, N. Y., and later saw action in the Spanish-American war, being seriously wounded. At the end of the war Davis returned to New London and, Towers is informed, married a New London woman. Towers has communicated with the New London police in an endeavor to locate Davis, but the police have no knowledge of the man's whereabouts, neither does his name appear in the city directory.

Miss Helen Waterman, of 642 Bank street, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Miss Sarah Freedman, of 92 Hempstead street, and Mrs. George Lester, 175 Bank street, patients at Home Memorial ospital, were discharged today.

William C. Fox has not concluded his endeavor to obtain a seat in the city council, he believes that he was elected a councilor at the election last September, in spite of the fact the voting machines were opened recently and were found to have registered correctly, although a re-check of the voting list showed that checkers in the fifth ward, where Mr. Fox disputes the council made errors. Mr. Fox, through counsel, has caused papers to be served on City Clerk Julian Moran and other city officials and D. Moran and other city officials and Lucius E. Whiton, who, Mr. Fox petitioned the superior court for an entire rejection of the vote cast in the fifth ward as invalid and a certificate declaring Mr. Fox to have been elected to the council instead of Mr. Whiton, or that the election be declared invalid and a new election ordered. Papers in the case were served last night by Deputy Sheriff Nelson C. L. Brown, of Noank. A hearing on the matter will take place at the superior court room here Monday morning next at 10 o'clock.

The barge Tottenville, from Jacksonville, Fla., is in the lower harbor, having arrived in port yesterday with a cargo of 509,000 feet of lumber for the H. J. & A. F. Dawley company, Norwich. About 50,000 feet of the lumber was transferred today to a lighter of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company and taken to Gilder...eve landing, on the Connecticut river.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this evening, when a blaze was discovered in a chimney in a house corner of Connecticut avenue and West street. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Niagara Engine company responded. The fire was subdued with chemicals and without damage of consequence resulting.

A slight fire occurred last night in the wood pattern shop of C. R. Gates, 143 Howard street. A pedestrian observed smoke issuing from the building and rang in an alarm from Box 44, corner of Howard and Hamilton streets. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Niagara Engine company, Allen Hook and Ladder company and Ockford Hose company answered the alarm. Chemicals extinguished the fire, which was caused by an overheated stuffing-box on a wood-turning machine.

PRINCIPAL C. S. BUELL TO WED MRS. J. L. SPEIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 7.—Announcement is made of the approaching wedding of Colin S. Buell, principal of Williams Memorial Institute, and Mrs. Emma B. Speirs, of 43 Granite street. Mrs. Speirs is the widow of James L. Spiers, who died about five years ago from injuries sustained by falling on the sidewalk at the corner of Broad and Brainard streets. Mrs. Buell died several years ago. The announcement of the engagement of Mr. Buell and Mrs. Speirs was received with surprise by many of their acquaintances. Mrs. Speirs is president-elect of the Woman's League of the Second Congregational church, a member of Lawrence-Memorial hospital auxiliary and leader of the Red Cross and Y. W. C. A. campaigns to raise funds recently.

Mrs. Speirs has two daughters, Elizabeth, a junior at Connecticut college, and Mary, a sophomore at Wellesly, also a son, John, a pupil at the Jennings grammar school. Mr. Buell has been principal of Williams Memorial Institute for many years.

Benjamin W. Humphries, of Waterford, employed at the plant of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, made a complaint to the police this evening because of the method bus drivers and autoists park their cars away from the curb on Pequot avenue. Mr. Humphries said that the parking is done in violation of the law for buses and autos are parked away from the curb, a condition that interfered with autoists driving from a driveway to the highway observing approaching cars.

James Jackson, 12 Richards street, reported to the police today that his residence had been entered during the absence of himself and his wife in New York. Jackson said that he left his wife in New York yesterday and returned to this city. When he entered the house, he discovered the visit of the thief for there was much evidence of the house having been entered. Entrance was made by means of a duplicate key and all of the loot taken was apparel belonging to Jackson. None of Mrs. Jackson's effects were taken, but numerous garments were strewn about the rooms by the thief as he made his search.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

"Tea For Three," starring Owen Moore, Aileen Pringle and Lew Cody, is the title of the latest Metro picture which opens a three days' engagement at the Palace commencing today. The action of the story starts when Aileen Pringle visits her husband's (Lew Cody) office to find out whether he was speaking the truth when he stated he had a directors' meeting to attend. There she meets Owen Moore, who is a great friend of her husband, having acted as best man at the wedding. He invites her to lunch and they partake of food containing garlic. The husband on arriving home becomes suspicious when he kisses his wife and recalls having smelled garlic on Owen Moore's breath. His suspicions take an acute form and he invites his friend to play cards, the loser agreeing to commit suicide. From that point on there is not a dull moment in the entire picture and there are many exciting moments until the picture ends and hubby is cured of his jealousy.

The vaudeville program boasts as a headliner, Ted Leslie and Pals, a six people revue, presenting their specialty, A Breath from the Sunny South. Other acts on the bill include Payton and York, dispensers of comedy, Halligan and Edwards in "Painless Extractors of Mirth," Wood and Violet in a juggling novelty and Masters and Raymond in a series of popular melodies.

Broadway Theatre.

Manager Maxfield of the Broadway theatre feels that he is indeed lucky in being able to secure the Myrkle Harder company for a week's engagement starting Monday night, Dec. 12, at the Broadway theatre. The Myrkle Harder company is one of America's oldest traveling stock organizations, this being its thirty-first year on tour. The company holds a genuine place in the list of traveling organizations of its sort throughout the country. It is an institution in its own field. The company brings the latest Broadway successes at popular prices opening on Monday night with that famous comedy "What Anne Brought Home," that ran for six months at the Copley theatre, Boston, and was the sensation of New York and London last year. "What Anne Brought Home," a play filled with snappy dialog, spontaneous humor, tense dramatic moments, thrills and chills. The author has turned out a splendid plot which calls forth all the dramatic and comedy ability of the actors. It is promised that the audience will be thrilled every moment of the play. You will find "What Anne Brought Home" to be a delightful novelty an dsurprise. To follow will be "White Cargo."

Broadway Theatre.

If you like fast horses and beautiful women and if you admire the traditions of the south you will enjoy seeing Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "In Old Kentucky," an elaborate melodrama of the horseracing state which will be shown at the Broadway theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday. The picture was suggested by the famous old Charles Dazey melodrama of the speaking stage, said to be the most successful of all American stage plays.

Many of the most famous race horses of the present day, including "Whiskery," winner of the Kentucky Derby, and other fast horseflesh, will be seen in this picture and it also shows many of the well known horse owners, trainers and jockeys at Churchill Downs and Latonia.

Edward Connelly, famous stage and screen actor who played the role of the Kentucky colonel on the stage when Charles Dazey presented "In Old Kentucky," will be seen as the sheriff in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filmization of the famous racing play. The leading romantic roles are played by James Murray and Helen Costello and Wesley Barry. The picture was directed by John M. Stahl.

Desmarais Studio.

Before you decide where you will have those Christmas portraits made, we respectfully invite you to come in and examine our artistic productions and get our prices. You are not obliged in any way and it is a pleasure for us to have you visit our studio. At your service every day from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Desmarais Studio, 325 Main street.

STREET RAILWAY MEN MEETING IN HARTFORD

Following its new policy of sectionalizing meetings, all of which were formerly held in Boston, the New England Street Railway club will gather for its December meeting at the Hotel Bond in Hartford, Thursday, December 8.

The meeting will be divided into two parts: Lectures and discussion in the afternoon and a dinner in the evening. At the afternoon meeting Charles Rufus Harte, engineer of the Connecticut company, will address the club, taking the Connecticut company as his subject; and George Wood, power engineer of the Connecticut company, will speak about the Bridgeport Mercury Arc Rectifier Substation. Open discussion to follow each of these addresses is arranged for on the program.

Dinner is scheduled for 6:30 in the evening, and President Stearns will again preside. The Honorable Norman C. Stevens, mayor of Hartford, President J. K. Punderford of the Connecticut company, and Richard T. Higgins, chairman of the public utilities commission of Connecticut, will speak on the significance of the Connecticut meeting and the work of the New England Street Railway club. In accordance with the new policy of the New England Street Railway club, the February meeting of the organization will be held at Providence, Rhode Island.

The Cadillac-LaSalle dealer's word is good—this is one of the first requirements of the Cadillac Motor Car Company.

The proper merchandising of his used cars is a most important branch of his business.

Values in the Cadillac-LaSalle dealer's used car stock are high—prices are low, and the dealer must protect a good name. Anything less than square dealing means that he cannot remain a Cadillac-LaSalle dealer.

The New Idea of Cancer

Many Cases Can Be Cured If Reported Promptly

BULLETIN, No. 9

THE PREVENTION OF CANCER.

It is probable that as many cases of cancer can be prevented as cured.

Unlike most other diseases against which science is waging organized warfare, there are no sanitary precautions which have any effect upon cancer. The disease occurs without reference to the healthfulness of the environment. The rich and poor are affected alike. The ignorant and intelligent are equally victims.

Over and over again attempts have been made to connect the causation of cancer with some articles of food, either eaten to excess, insufficiently eaten, or harmful because of some property which it was supposed to possess or be deficient in. Many years ago the cause of cancer was supposed to be tomatoes; later, pork; just now it is salt. When subjected to the cold analysis of science, every theory which has thus far been put forward to connect cancer with food has broken down.

How, then, can concers be prevented? Cancers in some locations can be prevented very simply. It is said by reliable authorities that cancer of the mouth and tongue never occur among persons who keep their teeth and mouths in good and clean condition. The jagged tooth, the ill-fitting dental plate, rubs until it makes a sore which develops into cancer. Sores upon the lip may be produced by holding a hot pipe too much in one position. Cancers of the breast are believed to be due in part to stagnation of the natural secretions. Cancer of the stomach may be induced by too hot food, too much strong alcohol or any other abuse of that organ. Cancer of the uterus may result from lacerations at childbirth. Skin cancers may be caused by continual irritation of moles. The way to prevent cancers caused in any of these ways is to avoid the conditions which lead to them.

A Merchant Seaman

Wherever there are towns of men
Or bales of freight along the shores,
His feet have gone. He knows this earth
From Taku Bay to Helsingfors
Wherever there are heavy crates
Of merchandise on loaded quays,
Some slugging tramp has carried him,
Plowing the multicolored seas.

His ships have sailed in chill Black Sea,
Along the path that Jason went,
And he has stood in Buenos Aires,
Pride of the Southern Continent.
He has seen Dakar, Singapore,
East London, and the Spanish Main.
He knows the way the monsoon hits
Colombo in a wall of rain.

Rich Russian wheat has filled his hold,
Sweet Smyrna figs, Rosario hides.
Against the wharves for Chile ore
His ship has bumped her storm-scarred sides.
He has trekked oil from Vera Cruz,
Cork out of Lisbon; Cape Town, gold;
And yet he is a small, slight man,
A little queer, a little old.

Without one pride of lifted brow,
Without one glimmer of the eye
To note the pageant he has seen
Of places strange and mystery;
Without one trace in speech or walk
Of all his journeys to far lands
That have grooved wrinkles on his face,
And calluses upon his hands.
—Thomas Chaldecot Chubb, in The Bookman.

The Wild Geese.

The wild geese flying in the night, behold
Our sunken towns lie underneath a sea,
Which buoys them on its billows, Liberty
They have, but such as those frail barques of old
That crossed unsounded main to search our wold.
To them the night unspeakable is free;
They have the moon and stars for company;
To them no force but the remorseless cold,
And froth of polar currents darting past.
Time have been night the world's end lair of storm,
Enormous billows float their fragile forms.
Yes, those frail beings, tossing on the Vast
Of wild revolving winds, feel no dismay!
'Tis we who dread the thunder, and not they.
—James Herbert Morse.

"Spent three hours at the dentist's this morning, all on account of a slight imperfection in one tooth. How those fellows do magnify trifles."

"Make mountains out of molars, what!"—Boston Transcript.

Said the flapper, after she had introduced her new boy friend to her parents: "What side of the family do you think I take after?"

"Well, you have your father's eyes, nose and mouth," the B. F. replied, "but you get your legs from your mother."—County Gentleman.

"But you are not always bothered with poor light, are you?" inquired the gas company's clerk.

"Oh, not, not always!" replied the complaining householder.

"Ah, I thought so. It's only at certain times that you notice it, eh?"

"Yes; only after dark!" — Weekly Scotsman.

Smith returned from office one evening and eyed his wife gloomily.

"My dear," he said, "I've something important to tell you. Er—as a matter of fact, a receiver has been appointed to take charge of my affairs."

"Oh, how lovely, darling!" cried his wife. "Do tell me when he is going to hold the first reception."—Tit-Bits.

"How much for this little spool of silk?" asked Audrey, who was shopping in a neighborhood store. "Twenty cents? That is about twice what I usually pay."

"But most of the silkworms died last year," said the proprietor.

"I suppose if I wanted a roll of tape most of the tapeworms would up and die, too?"

Thereupon the astute little girl walked dignifiedly out.—Kansas City Star.

Airplane attacks with poison dust, similar to those used in the United States cotton belt against boll weevil, are being tried by the Canadian forest service to check the spruce budworm, one of the most formidable insect enemies of the evergreen forests of the west. The planes used are of the same type as those used in the cotton work, and the method of attack is similar. The aviator flies low over the tops of the trees, and releases finely powered calcium arsenate and lead arsenate from a hopper. The wind from the propeller swirls the poison dust out into a swath a 100 feet wide, which settles into the trees and gives the foliage a thin protective coat. If this year's tests show the method to be economically feasible, work on a larger scale will be undertaken next season.

NORWICH SOCIETY OF NEW YORK HEARS TWO ILLUSTRIOUS AVIATORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—The fall meeting of the Norwich Society of New York was held here Monday evening at the New York Athletic club. The two distinguished speakers of the evening, Col. Harold Hartney and Capt. Antrim Heinen, were introduced by J. Olin Howe, vice president of the society. Both spoke upon the subject of aviation, Col. Hartney of heavier than air craft and Capt. Heinen telling the society members his experiences with the dirigibles, or lighter than air craft.

Col. Hartney, a Canadian by birth, joined the Royal Flying Corps at the outbreak of the war and later joined the American aviation force. He gave a very interesting and entertaining address on the past, present and future of aviation and told of some of his experiences at the front with the Royal Flying Corps. His first actual fighting, after his training period at Norwich, England, was done at the Battle of the Somme, where he had his first encounter with the German pilots where he brought down his first German plane. Col. Hartney said that many of his friends considered him an idealist because he had stayed in aviation ever since the war, but he believes that in the next 25 years the greatest field for improvement is in the aviation work.

Capt. Heinen, who as navigator of the dirigible Los Angeles from Germany to the United States, is well known to the public, gave an intensely instructive and illuminating talk on lighter than air craft. The captain remarked that as a dirigible designer and instructor he was probably the only member of the German army who did not see the enemy once during the World war. He said that travel by airship is the safest mode of conveyance ever devised by the human mind; that in storms a person in an airship is far safer than a person on the ground, and that in a few years people with average incomes will be using their own airships to go on their vacation trips rather than using their own "flivers." In the same time that it takes now to travel by automobile to the White mountains or to Lake Champlain for a summer vacation trip, in the future we will be taking trips in our own ships to the North Pole, South Pole, Shanghai or anywhere on the earth.

At the conclusion of Capt. Heinen's address, President James H. Albertson proposed a rising vote of thanks to the two aviators, which was given. President Albertson then resigned his post as chairman to Francis P. Bent who proposed a song. With Jack Powelson at the piano the 50 members of the society at the dinner rendered some old-time harmony in the singing of "East Side, West Side," "In the Good Old Summer Time," and "The Bowery."

Chairman Bent then noted the fact that two of the members of the society, Austin Colgate and Fred messenger, had died during the past year, and the meeting stood in prayer for one minute in memory of the departed members.

Days of old Norwich and memories of his younger years were recalled by Mr. Bent, formerly a New York alderman, after which he called on Charles F. Noyes, who responded by telling of his enjoyment and interest in the talks by the two aviation experts.

James H. Albertson read interesting letters from Francis Gilman and Fred Lewis, two of the members of the society who could not be present to speak. Entertaining remarks were made by Edward J. Crawford, J. Olin Howe, William Klein, J. C. Shea, Charles Hurlburt, Dr. Alofsin, William Converse, Dr. Somers, Marco Parker, C. A. Hurd, Frank Lester, Howard Russ and William McNamara.

The success of the dinner was due in a large part to the generous members of the society who made the dinner possible by their subscriptions, to the excellent committee in charge, Howard C. Russ, Francis P. Bent, Charles N. Hurlburt, Edward J. Crawford and J. Olin Howe, and to the New York Athletic club and Mr. Bent for the bounteous feast that was provided.

The members of the society and their guests present were: Dr. Somers, John T. McHugh, E. C. Baldwin, Frank Fahey, Charles R. Michols, Sr., Charles R. Michols, Jr., William B. Klein, Charles H. Tirrell, Howard C. Russ, John C. Brooks, C. N. Hurlburt, Francis P. Bent, Charles F. Noyes, J. Olin Howe, Charles A. Beach, Jerry T. Riordan, Col. Harold Hartney, Captain Austin Heinen, John R. Powelson, Warren K. Dowe, J. D. Herr, Thomas H. Delaney, Louis Lahn, M. D., Harry Lahn, H. W. Kelgwin, Louis M. Alofsin, M. D., Myron W. Alling, J. H. Andrews, C. A. Hurd, Joseph E. Shea, Eugene Oelze, James H. Albertson, William McNamara, Walter L. Blackhall, Walter Davis, Edward J. Crawford, George Lucas, Fred Lewis, E. Harland Miller, Marco Parker, Harold Thresher, William Converse, Frank Lester, Albert Bard, Timothy Sullivan, Patrick O'Brien, Walter Post, Louis Dressler, William Gaylord.

DR. BROPHY TELLS OF FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Speaking Wednesday of what had been done in the last fifteen years of the fight against tuberculosis and what the Christmas seals sales mean in a continuance of that fight, Dr. E. J. Brophy, city health officer said:

"About fifteen to twenty years ago it was a common affair to see men on our streets in a sad state of health on account of the disease called consumption. It was a frequent spectacle to see them coughing severely and racking their skeleton like bodies and spitting about here and there.

"Likewise, in our homes we had the same kind of cases, who coughed hard and often, and who spat carelessly all through the house. It was during these times that we witnessed whole families being wiped out one after another by this dread disease. Sometimes slowly but surely. Further, if a physician told a patient that he had consumption, now more frequently called tuberculosis of the lungs, the medical man was in danger of being discharged from the case and in addition was sent away with some very abusive language buzzing in his ears. Neither was it good policy to inform the other members of the family of the sick one's true condition if one wished to remain in their good graces. Therefore the disease killed the patient and all or most of the others in the household became diseased.

"Now let's look at the present condition of affairs. We have the tuberculosis hospitals (less grating to the sensibilities than 'sanitoria') which have taken the unfortunate sufferers from the street and helped to restore their health and at the same time protecting the other family members from contamination.

"Our local Uncas hospital has done first class work in restoring patients to health and we all know that the kindness, patience and skill of the superintendent, Dr. Hugh Campbell, are second to none. Do we see the living skeleton walking the streets now? Do we see whole families exterminated now? Do we fear to tell patients or their families the real nature of their sickness? No!

"Education and perseverance have done away with all of these things Among the greatest aids are our public health nurses, fostered by the United Workers. Our local staff of public health nurses, by the way, is not surpassed by any in the land. I have known these nurses to enter homes where consumption (tuberculosis) was raging—in the lungs, skin and glands and patiently labor to teach the family how to take care of themselves and how to prevent the spread of this disease. And their reward is plain to be seen.

"We want to be able to state fifteen years from now that we have made as much progress at least and more if possible as we have in the past fifteen.

"How can we help? By buying the Christmas seals. Buy often, buy as many as we can by using them on our cards and letters. This money goes directly to help those who are sick, to prevent others from becoming sick and to continue the campaign of instruction, the object of which is to put tuberculosis out of business.

"Remember, every time we buy the Christmas seals, we are landing a good solid body blow on the solar plexus of the germ which causes tuberculosis (consumption).

"Hit him again!"

FRANKLIN COMMUNITY CLUB MET WITH MRS. RATHBUN

A most interesting meeting of the Franklin Community club was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Austin Rathbun. With Mrs. Belle H. Robynson home demonstrating agent, in charge. Fifteen were present. Christmas suggestions and recipts were the projects of the day. Patterns and recipes were taken by each one. A delicious buffet lunch was served at noon by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Walker. It consisted of sandwiches, salads, cakes, also a delicious Christmas pudding, prepared by Mrs. Robynson. The next meeting will be Jan. 5 with Miss Edith Mason of Connecticut Agricultural college in charge. Much interest is being shown in the club.

DR. THOMAS SOMERS DIED SUDDENLY IN NEW YORK

Dr. Thomas Somers, 37, who has cousins in this city, died suddenly last week in the kitchen of his home on the first floor of 840 West End avenue, New York city. Death was said to have been caused by heart disease.

Dr. Somers returned home shortly after 10 o'clock at night from several professional calls, and, according to his wife, Gladys, did not appear to be ill. He went into the kitchen after talking for a few minutes with Mrs. Somers, who remained in the living room.

When Dr. Somers did reappear after an absence of about ten minutes Mrs. Somers urged him to "hurry back," adding that she wished to show him a new coat she had bought the day before.

Receiving no response, Mrs. Somers went to the kitchen and found the body lying on the floor. She called one of his personal friends, Dr. Robert C. Leddy, who came at once and found that Dr. Somers was dead.

Dr. Somers was a native of Bridgeport, Conn. He saw service as a physician during the world war.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT SPEAKS BEFORE ROTARY CLUB

Twenty-nine members of the Academy football squad with Coach Courtland Whitney were the guests of the Norwich Rotary club at luncheon at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. Dr. Benjamin T. Marshall, president of Connecticut College for Women delivered a very inspiring address to the boys on the value of a college education. Incidentally Dr. Marshall remarked that he was the proud father of young Ben Marshall, a Bulkeley player who in the 1925 game scored the points that beat the Academy.

Dr. Marshall, who was presented to the boys by Harold D. Larrabee, chairman of the program committee, in opening his talk said that while he had little to do with the boys from Norwich Academy the girls graduated from the Academy had proved to be some of the best students that ever attended Connecticut college. If a boy is willing to apply himself to study and make the sacrifices that are necessary in gaining a college education he should be encouraged. But if he is not willing college will do him little good and may do him harm. The average boy's entire life is molded during those years in high school and college and if he does not make the most of his advantages then it is a case of God help him. Dr. Marshall told of the growth of Connecticut college and the advantages of the policies of the institution.

Dr. Marshall was accorded a hearty vote of appreciation for his talk.

At the business session Dr. Clarence A. Spear presided and Emory Davis acted as song leader. The football squad was called on for songs and they responded, singing the Alma Mater in closing. The Rotary club responded with the Norwich Rotary club song. Those members of the squad present were introduced by Coach Whitney and were Captain Jack Marks, Captain-elect Aimee LaCroix, Tirrell, Aldridge, Brock, Fagan, Covey, McGlone, L. Gilman, S. Gilman, Hertz, Kahn, Shea, Welch, Berghinzo, McCarthy, Pitt, Lillibridge, Kelly, Vitiliano, Ingalls, Bugle, Murphy, Stevens, Fox, Dion, Cruickshank, Henschel and Taylor.

Charles L. Taylor spoke of the "Pet and Hobby" to be held on Saturday Dec. 10 at the store on Main street formerly occupied by the Mohican company. Mr. Taylor said that at present he had about 30 entries and hoped to increase this number to 100 before the show.

In tribute to the memory of the late Frank H. Pullen, a member of the Rotary club, the members stood for a minute in silent prayer.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB PLANS LITTLE SISTER PARTY

The Business and Professional Women's club held its regular meeting Wednesday noon at Gregory's on Broadway with a large attendance and with the president, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, in the chair. Miss Abbott addressed the club on customs of the Chinese in the neighborhood of Pekin and also related some of her personal experiences in Pekin and the rural districts.

The club voted to hold a "little sister party" on January 16th. Each member will be expected to bring at least one deserving little girl to enjoy a program which will be arranged especially for the occasion. Further details of the party will be announced later. Several new members were taken into membership at the meeting.

A Spanish war soldier from Norwich and one from Jewett City appeared before the county pension board, Dr. Lester E. Walker, president, Dr. J. H. Allen secretary and Dr William T. Driscoll, at its December meeting in Norwich Wednesday.

MORRIS VS. ANDERSON SUIT IS ON TRIAL

Before Judge John Rufus Booth and a jury in the superior court here on Wednesday morning trial was begun in the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Morris of 78 McKinley avenue against Morris J. and Lucy A. Anderson, husband and wife, of Bentley avenue, in which Mrs. Morris sues for $5,000 damages and the defendants make a counter claim for $3,000.

Mrs. Morris, the plaintiff, was called to the stand by her attorneys, John D. Hall and George H. Gilman, giving testimony in support of her claim that she loaned the Andersons $2,000 on a note, $1,750 to buy an automobile, $300 on a certificate of indebtedness, that the Andersons failed to keep their agreement to board and care for her in consideration of leasing the house to them from April 1, 1926.

Other witnesses called for the plaintiff were Irene L. Buteau, Rose D. Valentine, Mary Valentine, Florence W. Olson, a nurse, and Mrs. Hulda R. Hannis.

Attorneys for the plaintiff rested after Mrs. Hannis had testified and witnesses for the defendants were called after the court had taken a recess late in the afternoon. The defense alleges breach of contract, claiming that Mrs. Morris ordered them out of the house after she had agreed to give it to them upon her death in consideration of their giving her care and board.

Miss Dora Doolittle, nurse, who took care of Mrs. Morris from Jan. 28, 1927, to the first of February, told of her duties and stated that Mrs. Morris told her she intended to give the property to Mrs. Anderson but changed her mind. The witness said that Mrs. Anderson supplied the food supplies for Mrs. Morris and looked after Mrs. Morris for four hours each day while the nurse was off duty. The witness told of Attorney Hall coming to see Mrs. Morris on Jan. 29 and on Jan. 30.

On cross examination by Attorney Hall, he asked her if she sat in a rocking chair in her room and tried to listen to the conversation while he was calling on Mrs. Morris. The witness denied this and said she went downstairs while he was there.

Miss Sarah Elizabeth Botham, another nurse, who followed Miss Doolittle in taking care of Mrs. Morris, testified to the food Mrs. Morris had from Jan. 31 to March 12.

Miss Rachel L. R. Pierce, who was employed for three weeks from March 13 by the Andersons at the Morris house, testified to the meals that Mrs. Morris had.

Mr. Anderson, the defendant, now living at 47 Bentley avenue, testified that he had known Mrs. Morris for about fifteen years and lived at her home for part of the time while he was attending high school here. Their relations were friendly, he said, and he called her aunt Lilly. In January, 1924, Mrs. Morris loaned him $300. The first year the interest was given as a Christmas present, but the two following years the interest was paid. The $2,000 was loaned to him, the witness said, when the witness needed money to build a house and asked her to endorse his note at the bank. She said she would rather lend the money herself so as to get the interest. Interest on the note, he said, had been paid to May 1, 1927.

Some time before they moved into the Morris house, the witness said Mrs. Morris telephoned for them to come there and showed them a signed deed of the house made out to him. The deed wasn't recorded. She wanted the Andersons to come there and take care of her and pay the general expenses of the place.

The witness testified to taxes he had paid and $40 expenses for moving to the Morris home. The witness said he could give no reason for misunderstandings and trouble arising between him and Mrs. Morris and she never said what the reason was. He said he could recall no time when Mrs. Morris wanted to go riding and he refused to take her.

Trial of the suit is expected to take at least another day, the case probably reaching the jury late this (Thursday) afternoon.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peck of New London, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Olson, of Ann street.

Steamer President Van Buren, from Naples, on which Miss Mary H Paddock is returning, after a year's stay in Europe, is due at New York the coming Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott are remaining at their home on Church street until after Christmas, when they will leave for Useppa Island, Florida, as in previous seasons.

Mrs. Augustus Cleveland Tyler entertained with a dinner Sunday evening at her home at The Pequot for Charles Chapman Richards, of Chicago, formerly of Norwich, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grant.

The Wednesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. Albert H. Chase is president, met with Mrs. William B. Birge, of Huntington Place. Mrs. Birge had the interesting paper on The Barnard Cloisters.

Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Eastman and the Misses Fuller have had as their guest at Norwich Town the Russian pianist, Leo Podolsky, whose acquaintance they made abroad and who is in America for concerts in Boston, New York and Chicago.

Yuletide decorations of scarlet and green, including Jerusalem cherries, princess pine and red candles made the tables especially attractive at Lighthouse Inn when Mrs. C. Royce Boss gave a luncheon bridge for the Tuesday club. There were four tables, the prizes being won by Miss Hannah M. Crowell, Mrs. Leonard O. Smith, Mrs. Ralph H. Melcer and Mrs. Frank B. Ricketson.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grant, of Chicago, who have been guests in Norwich of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Chase, and in New London, of Admiral and Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, have left with Mrs. Grant's father, Charles C. Richards, for Hotel McAlpin, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Grant are to fill a dancing engagement at Lynnhurst, Long Island, this week-end.

PRESENTATION OF COMEDY DRAWS BIG AUDIENCE

There was not a vacant seat in the social room at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday night when a three-act comedy, Dearies, was given by the C. L. class. A well chosen cast gave an admirable presentation of the play and the audience expressed its enjoyment by enthusiastic applause. The furniture for the stage settings was generously loaned by Schwartz Bros. Inc., and musical selections were rendered by a trio consisting of Janie F. Lambert, violin, Archie Gionet, saxaphone, Velia Gionet, piano.

The following was the cast:

Deborah Main, matron of orphans' home, Gladys B. Newbury; Barbara, Kate, Lena, orphans, Susan M. McNeely, Isabel H. Shearer, Lillian D. Stelzner; Mrs. Langthorne, the mother, Josephine E. Moore; Sylvia, the daughter, Marguerite M. Hill; Mrs. Chase, the grandmother, Katherine J. Floyd; Mammy, the cook, Florence L. Allen; Dixianna, mammy's twin, Florence L. Allen.

The play was coached by Dr. J. S. Hinrichs and the committee in charge consisted of Miss Mary E. Gray, Mrs. William Stelzner, Miss Isabel H. Shearer, Mrs. Lloyd R. Cochrane, Miss Gladys Newbury and Mrs. Lichenstein.

DAMAGE ALONG SHORE FROM RAIN AND "FULL MOON TIDE"

At Pine Orchard, Short Beach and Branford Heavy Concrete Seawalls Were Washed Away—Ocean Beach Was Completely Under Water—Shore Line Electric Railway Was Halted and Train Service Was Delayed—At Portland Me., Waves Went Over the Wharves and Inundated the Water Front—In the West Terrific Gales and Zero Weather Caused More Than Twenty Deaths.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8—(AP)—A high wind, heavy downpour of rain and a "full moon tide" combined today to cause heavy damage in Connecticut shore towns. Concrete sea walls which have withstood the storms of many years at Pine Orchard, Short Beach and Branford Point, were washed away and stretches of the New Haven-Milford shore road were closed to traffic when the waters of the Long Island sound rose more than two feet above their usual height and flooded the highway.

Docks and wharves were under water and waterfront warehouses reported their cellars filled and their stocks swimming about.

Traffic on the Shore Line Electric railway and on several divisions of the Connecticut company street railway was halted. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad reported trains delayed on the New London division.

At New London, steamships docked with difficulty and Ocean Beach, the playground of eastern Connecticut was completely under water.

As the day wore on, seepage and the natural recession of the waters at low tide brought conditions back to somewhere near normal and by night, traffic was running smoothly on the majority of the previously flooded roads.

COLD WAVE AVERTED THE DANGERS OF FLOODS

BOSTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The approach of the western cold wave sent the temperature down rapidly this afternoon and tonight in New England and averted danger of a serious flood from the heavy rain of last night and this morning. Considerable damage was done by swollen streams in New Hampshire and Vermont and by unusually high tides along the coast.

Water flooded some of the streets in Vermont communities of Montpelier, Barre, Rutland and other places. This was caused largely by debris from the November flood choking culverts and lodging behind the piling of temporary bridges. At Rutland and Monpelier, the debris was dynamitted and the water quickly receded. A freak of the storm at St. Albans, Vt., was a rainbow by moonlight, seen by early risers just before dawn.

At Bath, N. H., streams went over their banks and flooded a state highway. One cottage was carried from its foundation and others were damaged by surf at Hampton beach, N. H.

A high tide at Portland, Me., sent waves over the wharves and inundated waterfront streets. At Winthrop, Mass., the surf broke over the sea wall, flooding streets and cellars.

TERRIFIC GALE WITH ZERO WEATHER IN NORTHWEST

(By the Associated Press)

Sliding out of Canada and the northwest on the crest of a terrific gale, winter yesterday overspread virtually the entire country, causing more than twenty deaths and resulting in heavy damage to lake shipping, disrupted transportation and communication facilities and much misery and suffering.

Temperatures ranging from near zero to 22 degrees below prevailed throughout the northwest states and while this section attempted to dig out of high snow drifts brought by the blizzard and tumbling mercury, the cold wave passed rapidly east of the Ohio river and south to the Gulf of Mexico, reaching cold fingers toward the New England states on the east and California on the west.

Weather bureau forecasts indicated severe cold for another day at least, although some relief from sub zero temperatures in the northwest was anticipated.

The coldest point in the United States yesterday was Culberton, in northeastern Montana, which claimed 32 degrees below zero while at Glasgow, in the same state it was 47 below and numerous points reported 15 or 20 below zero.

Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and upper Michigan, in addition to the cold were hard hit by the snow storm. In Minnesota and some places in other states schools were dismissed while telegraph wires and poles were down and train service was hampered.

Air mail service virtually came to a standstill as the storm vented its fury, but when the weather cleared committee having mail contracts prepared to take the air again.

In central Illinois there was a menace of floods as well as of cold as many streams were reported running bankful and some were overspreading the valleys. In addition to half a dozen deaths reported earlier as the cold wave reached over Canada, deaths attributed to the weather were reported from Iowa, four, Illinois, seven, including four in the Chicago district; South Dakota one, Wisconsin, one, and Montana, one. Some of the deaths were from exposure, some from accidents and some from heart attacks attributed to the cold.

Lake vessels at Buffalo, Detroit, Milwaukee and other ports were menaced by the gale.

Fire added to the suffering caused by storm and cold and at several points disastrous fires were reported. A group of students and several families were driven from their homes in Chicago to zero temperatures by fires attributed to overheated furnaces and a blaze at East Chicago, Ind., starting from the same cause, wiped out part of a business block with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Chicago, the largest city in the path of the zero temperatures, found hundreds of homeless clamoring for shelter as the first real winter weather struck. Scores were given temporary quarters in police stations and relief organizations were attempting to provide food and warmth for many others.

Parts of the northwest were almost isolated from the outside world by the combination of snow and rain.

ANOTHER FLOOD OF THE CONN. RIVER PREDICTED

HARTFORD, Dec. 8—(AP)—Another flood of the Connecticut river was predicted by the local station of the United States weather bureau tonight in a warning issued by Harry E. Adams, head of the bureau here, it was said that the crest of the flood would be 16 feet at Hartford by Saturday morning.

Mr. Adams' warning read as follows: Rapid rise of the Connecticut river from Holyoke south, probably to flood stage, is indicated for the next 24 to 36 hours. Probable crest at Hartford about 16.0 feet by Saturday morning.

CANADIAN STEAMER WAS DRIVEN ASHORE

HOUGHTON, Mich., Dec. 8—(AP)—The Canadian steamer Altaboc, believed to be loaded with grain was driven ashore off Kee Weenaw Point, Mich., late today, according to a wireless message received at the coast guard station at Copper Point. The message said the crew was safe. The ship's wireless receiving set was damaged, hampering communication with the vessel.

Coast guard officials at Copper Point said it would be impossible to go to the assistance of the stricken ship tonight because of the 50-mile gale and raging snow storm in the district. The coast guard has been unable to obtain the exact position of the steamer and a blind search in the storm would be foolhardy, officials said.

TWO STEAMERS STORM VICTIMS IN GREAT LAKES

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 8—(AP)—Two steamers are reported victims of the storm that has swept the Great Lakes during the last two days.

The steamer "F. B. Squire," of the Jenkins Steamship company, is reported to have foundered, but no particulars have been received at Keewenaw Point, probably a total wreck.

No word has been received as to the fate of the crews of either boat.

The Altaboc is a 5,600 ton steel freighter out of Fort William, Ont., and usually carries a crew of about 35 men. After the first wireless message stating she was aground and that the crew was safe, no further word was received from the vessel. The coast guardsmen at Copper Point planned to await further possible word from the ship and proceed to her assistance at the first break in the storm. If no further word is received the coast guard ship will shove off for Keweenaw Point at four A. M., and make a general search of the district. The distress message said the ship was somewhere off Keweenaw Point but failed to give the exact position.

BRIDGE ACROSS WINOOSKI RIVER SWEPT AWAY

WATERBURY, Vermont, Dec. 8—(AP)—The bridge across the Winooski river between this town and Duxbury and leading towards Montpelier was carried out today when the river reached flood stage as a result of a prolonged downpour of rain.

The bridge was wrecked in the great floods of early November, but a part of the steel work had been salvaged and replaced in position. One half of the structure carried away today was of temporary construction.

The water was very high but no buildings were threatened. Cold weather which set in this afternoon removed the flood menace.

KILLED HIS FATHER IN DEFENSE OF HIS MOTHER

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 8—(AP)—A 14-year-old boy shot and killed his father today in defense of his mother who had been attacked by the man.

The boy, Joseph Cucinnotta, after firing a load from a double-barreled shotgun into his father's back, ran to the home of a neighbor and asked that he send for an ambulance. The father, John Cucinnotta, died on the way to a hospital.

The father, was alleged to have been intoxicated. Five younger children were in an adjoining room crying when their brother rushed to the aid of his mother.

The boy was arrested.

DEER KILLED BY AUTO ON MILFORD TURNPIKE

MILFORD, Dec. 8—(AP)—The Milford turnpike claimed another victim today. This time, however, it was a deer and not a human that went down before the wheels of an automobile. The deer was killed by an automobile driven by Miss Margaret Beach. Miss Beach said that as she was driving along a wooded strip between New Haven and Milford, a deer suddenly sprang out from the trees, vaulted over the hood of an automobile which was approaching Miss Beach's car and halted directly in front of her machine. She was unable to stop her car and hit the deer head-on. It died almost instantly.

BOLIVIAN AND CHILEAN TROOPS CLASHED AT LLICA

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 8—(AP)—A clash between Bolivian and Chilean troops took place today near Llica, a small town in Bolivia near the Chilean frontier, it was announced officially here. Most of the Chileans who had entered the territory, it was said, had done so in violation of the terms of the protocol of 1907 which set the boundary there, though neither nation has since accepted it.

A rigid investigation of the occurrence was started by Bolivian officials and the Chilean government, it is understood, will be asked for an explanation.

PROHIBITION INFORMER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 9.—(AP)—(Friday)—Reginald E. Walters, prohibition informer, was found guilty of first degree murder, without capital punishment, by a jury in Washington county at 12.10 this morning.

The verdict carries a term of life imprisonment in the state prison.

Walters was charged with the murder of Hunter R. Stotler, western Maryland dry chief, whom he slew on a lonely road near Boonsboro last July.

The jury was out just an hour and a half.

507 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN THE STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Five people were killed in automobile accidents in Connecticut during the week ending December 3, according to a report from the state motor vehicle department. The number of fatalities showed a decrease of three in comparison with the corresponding week in 1926, but the total number of accidents, 507, was greater than the number for last year. In the 14 largest cities in the state, there were 294 accidents last week, as compared to 276 in the same cities, and 452 in the entire state during the last week in November, 1926.

Those killed during the past week were as follows: Muriel Clark, East Hampton; Mary Davis, New Haven; Helen Davis, Northford; Morris Rosenblum, Stamford; and Frances Kyiatkoisake, Stratford.

By days, the accidents totalled: November 27, 90 accidents; November 28, 88; November 29, 53; November 30, 58; December 1, 55; December 2, 83; December 3, 75.

FAILED IN ATTEMPT AT NEW INDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A third attempt to surpass the world's endurance flight record of 52 hours and 23 minutes failed here today when the spirit of California, tri-motored monoplane, was forced to return to Mills field three and a half hours after taking off. Two breaks in the gas line led to abandonment of the effort. Another attempt will be made tomorrow.

Forced to descend, the two men in the plane dumped 300 gallons of gasoline in the Pacific ocean, making 3,400 gallons that the plane has dropped since they first attempted to break the endurance record ten days ago. It is necessary to dispense with excessive weight in gasoline to enable the ship to make a landing.

Captain Charles Kingford-Smith and Lieutenant George Pond, U. S. N., piloted the plane, which weighed more than 15,000 pounds at the take-off.

REPORT HAVING SEEN A FALLING METEOR

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Report of what appeared to be a falling meteoric body in a north westerly direction from Bridgeport, was reported to the Telegram tonight.

The falling body, described as an electric green in color, was first observed at an elevation of approximately 35 degrees and dropped nearly vertically with a slight trend to the north. It was observed at 7.41 p. m. and seemed in size, larger than the largest planets appear to the earth.

As the body fell, what appeared to be smaller particles of its mass broke away and disappeared. Sight of its final descent was obscured by buildings in the line of sight. The time required to fall from the point where it was first observed until it went out of sight was estimated by the observer at one-half to three-fourths of a second.

Joseph R. Clark

MILFORD, Dec. 8—(AP)—Joseph R. Clark, Civil war veteran, former postmaster and a printer for more than 50 years, died at his home tonight at the age of 93. Old age was given as the cause.

Clark served as postmaster under three presidents, his term ending with President Cleveland. He worked at his printer's form until he was 91, and remained active and in possession of a keen mind until his death. Mr. and Mrs. Clark celebrated their golden wedding anniversary four years ago.

Talk Fest in Senate As House Saws Wood

House Approved $5,500,000 Toward Purchase of the Cape Cod Canal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The new seventieth congress showed incipient but unmistakable signs today of developing the attributes which would mark it a full-fledged, lineal descendant of the congresses that have gone immediately before it.

The senate grew increasingly talkative while the house sawed wood. The oil scandal and the administration's policy in Nicaragua and China got into the senate, while the cloakrooms overflowed with politics. Not even a presidential reminder—this time a message outlining the president's views on flood control—was lacking.

If the house did the work, spending a trying and monotonous day over the deficiency appropriation bill, it was the senate which provided the show. As the senatorial batteries thundered away without appreciable advance on the Vare election case from Pennsylvania, crowded galleries looked on and long lines of those who could not get in stretched down the corridors.

Even the senators' private gallery was jammed, and there were many privileged visitors on the floor itself.

With Senator-Designate Vare himself in a floor seat over in a far corner, the senate argued all day long and a vote on the resolution to bar the Pennsylvanian, as Smith of Illinois was barred yesterday, went over until tomorrow.

Some of the debate was dull to the point of drowsiness, but some of it was highly colorful. At one point Vice-President Dawes, in the chair of the presiding officer, became so interested that he all but missed keeping an appointment to speak at the unveiling of a statue in another part of the capitol.

Both senate and house interrupted their regular procedure momentarily to listen to the reading of the presidential flood message, recommending a relief program costing $296,000,000, and the house also heard at intervals short digressions on subjects apart from the public building and other appropriations items in which it had been immersed for hours.

Blanton of Texas made a characteristic demand for inquiry into the jury system of the District of Columbia, and its relation to the Fall-Sinclair fiasco. Schafer of Wisconsin renewed his attack of last session on the use of American marines in China and Nicaragua, and Wood of Indiana entered a formal denial that Mayor Walker of New York was shadowed through Europe this summer by state department detectives.

Although it did not reach a final vote on the $200,000,000 deficiency bill, the house did make progress that will be regarded in many quarters as appreciable. It approved the administration's public building program, dear to the heart of many a large and small community that will share in the projects.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The expenditure of $5,500,000 toward purchase of the Cape Cod canal was approved today by the house.

$296,400,000 ASKED FOR MISS. FLOOD CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Calling for an expenditure of $296,400,000, the administration's plan for curbing the turbulent waters of the Mississippi was received today by congress.

Delivered simultaneously to the senate and the house in the form of a special message from President Coolidge, the program which was drafted by Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of Army engineers, proposed a system of diversion channels and strengthened levees to prevent future disastrous inundations in the lower Mississippi valley. The president, in his message, declared the plan was "comprehensive and adequate," and urged its adoption.

SENATE DEFERS VOTE ON THE CASE OF VARE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Consideration of the case of Senator-elect William S. Vare, republican of Pennsylvania, brought forth so much oratory today in the senate that a vote on the proposal to deny him the oath of office pending a further hearing was deferred until tomorrow.

Senators who favor administering the oath and deciding later whether Vare is to be excluded opened five hours of discussion and their observations stirred up the opponents of that proposition with Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, contributing the principal address against giving the oath.

At intervals during the debate, the original Norris resolution to exclude Vare without ceremony was modified to accord him the same treatment meted out yesterday to Frank L. Smith, of Illinois—a hearing before the special campaign funds committee and the privilege of the floor to speak on his own behalf before the exclusion vote is recorded.

RUTH SNYDER'S MOTHER APPEALS TO GOV. SMITH

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 8—(AP)—The mother of Ruth Snyder, convicted murderess of her husband, today made a short and desperate appeal to Governor Smith for commutation of the death sentence of her daughter. The appeal, lasting less than two minutes, was denied by the governor, who directed the mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, to make her appeal through an attorney at the expected hearing for clemency of Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray.

Legion to Conduct Poll on Prohibition

Object is to Ascertain the Will of the People on a Vital Question.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Edward E. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, announced tonight that the organization will conduct a poll of its entire membership and that of its women's auxiliary on the prohibition question.

He made the announcement at the annual dinner of the legion's department of New York, and prefaced it with the statement that "in a democracy, no law should be enforced except such a one as has the approval of the majority.

The legion, he said, is neither "wet" nor "dry" and that the meeting halls of all Legion posts from now until May 15, when the poll will be taken, will be thrown open for a discussion of the question.

"No government can long exist which does not enforce its laws," he declared, "or which resorts to a breach of the fundamental principles of liberty in order to enforce some law which has not the sanction of the best thought of the community."

Commander Spafford pointed out that the eighteenth amendment was adopted by the acts of state legislatures and that a popular vote by the people never was held on the question.

The prohibition law, he said, seeks to govern individuals, not states, and "inasmuch as the strength of any law rests upon the strength of the governed" it should have the unqualified consent of the people.

The legion cannot but view with grave concern, he continued, such conditions as the operation of gangsters in many cities; the profiting of officials by graft; the closing of restaurants and clubs by padlock and murders by bootlegging and hi-jacking gangs.

"We fought for this government of the United States," Commander Spafford said, "and are willing to fight for it again, and we feel that the expression of the will of the people should be called for, and, when given, should be acted upon.

"If the will of the people is for the retention of the of the eighteenth amendment and of the Volstead act, every effort of the government should be bent toward its enforcement. Gangsters should either be reformed or annihilated. The man who lends his property or countenance to illicit acts should be ostracized from the society of law-abiding citizens.

"If, on the other hand, these provisions have not the approval of the majority of our citizenry, they should not remain a dead letter, which permits people to scoff at our institutions, but should be removed from our public records. It was for such expression of opinion that our ancestors formed these United States."

"Shall the eighteenth amendment be continued?

"Shall the Volstead act be amended so as to permit the use of light wine and beers, with the usual natural percentage of alcohol?"

The results of the poll will be registered by states, said Commander Spafford, and "the great political parties will have our contribution toward the solving of this, the greatest problem which faces the nation today."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IS TO RAISE $10,000,000 FUND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A $10,000,000 fund will be sought by the Anti-Saloon league to finance, during the next five years, the activities of its new department of publicity and education.

Announcement that this would be attempted was made tonight by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, director of the department, at the banquet concluding the league's convention. It immediately brought forth an offer from S. S. Kresge, of Detroit, to match from his own pocket the first half million dollars raised.

Declaring that he thought it "good business to put the booze business out of business," the head of the Kresge chain of Five and Ten Cent stores, offered to aid in raising the fund. His announcement of a willingness to contribute $500,000 brought those attending the banquet to their feet, cheering. Then they sang "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

TOTAL OF $15,000 FINES IN CHICAGO WINE SCANDAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 8—(AP)—About 50 defendants in the sacramental wine scandal of two years ago were fined a total of $15,000 by Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe today, disposing of the conspiracy plot.

Those fined, including several former prohibition agents, either had pleaded guilty or had been tried and convicted. The fines ranged from $100 to $1,500. No jail sentences were imposed. Cases against 12 persons were dismissed.

LOCKED IN BANK VAULT TO TEST OXYGEN MACHINE

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—(AP)—Three men were freed tonight from a bank vault in which they had been locked for 12 hours to test an oxygen machine invented by one of them. They showed no ill effects of their experience.

The men were Robert E. Rodes, the inventor, and John Tobin, of Stamford, Conn., and William Lloyd, of New York. Rodes claimed his device will produce sufficient oxygen to sustain life for 200 hours.

PASADENA BANKER KILLED HIS TWO SONS AND THEN SHOT HIMSELF DEAD

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 8—(AP)—Francis E. Stevens, prominent Pasadena banker, today shot and killed his two sons, George, 18, and Francis, 20, and then ended his own life at a sanitarium in Lamanda Park, a suburb.

Stevens who was vice president of the First National bank and First Trust and Savings bank of Pasadena, killed the younger son outright, police said and wounded the other so badly that he died an hour later in a hospital.

Stevens had taken George to the sanitarium where Francis, who was convalescing from an automobile accident injury, was found playing tennis. After a short conversation with the older boys, the father shot him and then killed himself. Nearly an hour later police also found the body of the younger son in the automobile. No motive for Stevens' act could be assigned.

Hospital employes said when Stevens left his car and approached the older son on the tennis court both appeared in cheerful mood.

In the meantime Mrs. Stevens had come to the sanitarium with police investigators.

The Stevens were prominent socially.

VOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER THE LILLIENDAHL VERDICT

Both Mrs. Lilliendahl and Willis Beach Were Convicted by Jury—Verdict Was Brought in at 4.44 P. M. Yesterday—Jury Had Been Out 23 Hours and 9 Minutes—Maximum Penalty is Ten Years Imprisonment or $1,000 Fine, or Both—Sentence Was Deferred on Plea of Counsel For Mrs. Lilliendahl—Mrs. Lilliendahl Wept Quietly as the Verdict Was Rendered—Beach, With a Sneer on His Face, Did not Flinch.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A jury that had deliberated for more than 23 hours today convicted Margaret Lilliendahl, bob-haired housewife, and Willis Beach, bald-headed chicken farmer, of voluntary manslaughter in the killing of the woman's aged husband.

Mrs. Lilliendahl wept quietly as the jury forewoman rendered the verdict that made her liable to a prison sentence of not more than 10 years or a fine not to exceed $1000, or both. Beach, his face set in a sneer, did not so much as flinch.

Imposition of sentence was deferred until Saturday morning over the protest of Assistant District Attorney Hinkle, who prosecuted the case.

"I ask for immediate sentence of these defendants," Hinkle said, "with out commiseration. We feel that all the mercy that should be given the defendants has already been given by the jury."

Robert H McCarter, trial lawyer for Mrs. Lilliendahl, however, pleaded that new evidence had been discovered and that he wanted time in which to examine it more thoroughly and to prepare motions for a new trial.

The trial opened a week ago Monday and reached the jury at 5:35 p. m. yesterday. All night the seven men and five women deliberated and throughout the day they stayed shut up. And it was not until 4:37 this afternoon that the jury reported it had arrived at a verdict. Mrs. Carrie Calkins, the silver-haired forewoman, seemed far more cheerful than late last night when she reported with tear-wet face that no agreement had been reached.

Immediately after the verdict was announced there was wild commotion as a hundred reporters fought to get out of the courtroom and to their telegraph wires upstairs.

Mrs. Lilliendahl, her widow's veil partly concealing her sharp features, seemed to shrink further into herself. Though she wept, she was never hysterical.

The defendants were immediately taken back to cells where they have lived since they were indicted October 6, Mrs. Lilliendahl leaning heavily on the arm of the sheriff and Beach strolling beside a deputy with a diligerent swagger.

While the trial was in progress both defendants frequently gave evidence of enjoying the proceedings. Mrs. Lilliendahl, at the close of each day's session, held an informal reception in court for her friends, laughing and chatting gaily, and Beach would sometimes drop down among the spectators during an intermission to shake hands and joke with people he knew.

Mrs. Lilliendahl during the trial took the stand to defend herself with her story that her husband had been shot September 15 by two Negroes who made her drive her 72-year-old husband into a sandy lane near Hammonton. Beach's defense was an alibi. The main witnesses for the state were Samuel Bark, a circus lariat twirler from Texas, and Harry Sanderson, a kitchenware salesman from Ohio.

DARROW TESTIFIED IN REMUS MURDER TRIAL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8—(AP)—A confessed gunman once willing to have slain George Remus for $10,000 Harry Truesdale of Hamilton, Ohio, today completed the witness stand narrative which yesterday sent Remus into an emotional outburst that halted court.

Remus sat quietly while Truesdale testified that Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, herself slain by Remus last Oct. 6 the day after Truesdale's story of a murder conspiracy was pounded into his ear, had sat in front of a hotel in which she had expected to trap her husband with another woman, twirling a pistol and ready to shoot him herself.

It was the fear that he might be "double crossed" which sent him to Remus with a tale of his wife's perfidy he said. He denied that he had "double crossed" Mrs. Remus by trying to entice her into the hotel where she would have been found with a man instead of herself finding Remus with a woman.

Total payments to him by Mrs. Remus were $450, one $250 and again $200 for expenses.

Conclusion of Truesdale's testimony saw a string of character witnesses paraded to the witness stand to tell of Remus' personal and legal standing in Chicago prior to the time he deserted law practice to become the "king of bootleggers."

Clarence Darrow, the famous defense attorney, testified in a low, slow voice, which found its way to every ear.

Remus' reputation for peace and quiet was good, he said, as he had never heard anything against it.

Remus' standing as a lawyer never had been questioned, Darrow said.

"I knew he was a very emotional fellow and somewhat unstable," said Darrow.

DIPLOMATIC RECEPTION AT THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The most colorful event of the white house social season—the annual diplomatic reception—took place tonight. Prominent among the guests were the governor general of Canada and Viscountess Willingdon.

In addition to the whole diplomatic corps of Washington—the largest in the world—cabinet officers, ranking administration, army and navy officials and eminent social figures of the capital were invited. The reception provided the usual brilliant spectable with all the foreign diplomats in their embroidered and gaudily decorated uniforms and the scarlet tunics of the United States marine band in the background.

Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon, who during their two day visit in Washington have enjoyed sovereign status, had the opportunity during the reception of bidding goodbye to President and Mrs. Coolidge. They will leave tomorrow for New York and Ottawa.

More than 1,500 guests passed down the receiving line and shook hands with the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

RUM RUNNERS MAY HAVE PERISHED IN BLIZZARD

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Dec. 8—(AP)—Two rum runners which left here last night during one of the worst blizzards in years were unaccounted for today. No word had been received from the package freighters Saskatoon and Selkirk, headed up the lake.

Unestimated damage was done by the storm. The town itself is a mass of debris, store cellars are submerged and many streets blocked.

MARRIED 34 MINUTES AFTER GETTING DIVORCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 8—(AP)—Just 34 minutes after James V. Condinella, theatrical producer, was divorced today he acquired another wife.

From the court he went to the clerk's office where he produced a license and a moment later he married Miss Beatrice Wilson, who had been a witness in the divorce.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND IS LOSING NONCHALANCE

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 8—(AP)—Deserted by the nonchalance that bore her up for 48 hours after the killing of her husband and carried her last night through the writing of a detailed confession, Mrs. Velma West, 31 year old bride, was in the Lake county jail tonight awaiting a preliminary hearing Monday on a charge of first degree murder.

She entered a plea of not guilty today to a warrant alleging that she beat her 36 year old husband, T. Edward West, to death with a hammer in the bedroom of their bungalow at Perry, Ohio, early Tuesday night after a quarrel over whether she should attend a bridge party in Cleveland. She attended the party, leaving the body of the man she married just a little more than a year ago, covered with the sheets from his bed on the floor of the death room.

Arrested late yesterday in Cleveland after a shopping tour in which she bought a Christmas present for her husband, she admitted after several hours questioning that she had killed him.

The jaunty air did not leave her until after a second session today in the sheriff's office where she was questioned by Rasmussen and Seth Paulin, county prosecutor. She broke down then and cried hysterically after she was told that the first degree murder charge would be filed.

Today she declared that she had struggled with her husband when the quarrel over the party became bitter and he struck her.

HUGHES MAY BE CHAIRMAN OF REP NAT'L CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—As leaders of the republican party today moved toward laying the ground work for its convention in Kansas City next June, there was talk that Charles Evans Hughes might be chosen as temporary chairman of the meeting.

Those members of the republican national committee who are charged with making arrangements for the convention were called into conference by Chairman Butler to map out the general program, other committeemen began to start for their homes convinced that the party must look elsewhere than to President Coolidge for its candidate. They also felt that Mr. Hughes had eliminated himself definitely from the field.

A good share of the committee, which yesterday decided to hold the convention in the heart of the grain belt, expressed satisfaction when the word was passed that the former secretary of state was being mentioned for the convention's keynote speaker. He was practically the only name figuring in discussions.

YALE MAN PENALIZED FOR THEATRE DISTURBANCE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8—(AP)—What appeared to be the final episode in the near riot of Yale students at a local theater last night became known today when university authorities confirmed the suspension from mid-year examinations of William D. English, 20, of Brookline, Mass.

English, a junior was the one man arrested in connection with an outbreak which Miss Roberta Arnold, starring in "Sisters," stepped out of character to quell with scathing remarks. After investigation had indicated that English was not a leader in the affair, he was released.

His suspension will mean that he will lose all credits for first semester work, and will not be allowed to resume his studies until the second term opens in February.

LEGISLATIVE RESTRAINT APPROVED BY OIL MAGNATES

CHICAGO, Dec. 8—(AP)—The American Petroleum institute, representing all phases of the industry from the field prospector to the filling station distributor, today declared its approval of legislative restraint, where cooperation of operators is lacking, in the conservation of natural gas and oil.

Approval by the directors of state action to prevent unnecessary waste of gas in oil production was the final act of the institute's four day meeting.

LIGHT CO. EMPLOYES HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 8—The sixth annual dinner of the Rockville-Willimantic Lightning company given to its employes was held at the Nathan Hale hotel this evening with a large attendance including several of the officials of the concern. The gathering opened with a dinner served under personal supervision of Hotel Manager Daniel F. Daley. As pointed out in the principal address of the evening, which was made by M. J. Warner of Pine Orchard, secretary-treasurer of the company, the purpose of the annual get-together and banquet is to instill mutuality and a co-operative feeling of good will and good fellowship between the officials and employes of the public utilities concern. In adition to entertainment provided by a Hartford amusement bureau and a dinner concert and ance music by the Peerless orchestra there was a series of singing, musical and recitation stunts carried out by the employes. John F. Ahern, assistant treasurer and manager of the local office was master of ceremonies for the exercises. Among officials called upon for remarks were R. M. Whiting, of Pine Orchard, assistant secretary; R. W. Porter, manager of the Fulton, N. Y., Light, Heat and Power company; W. L. Bradley, auditor and David Lores, superintendent of the works department. The menu cards appeared under the heading of "Plant Report, 6:30 to 12:00 P. M. Shift." The motto of the evening was taken from "Selah" and was, "Let us eat, sing and ance—let us have laughter, mirth and wholesome fun, so that we may better meet the problems of tomorrow."

The program: Opening—Introduction of New Employes; song, Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here, played and sung by freshman of 1927; song, Oh see! Oh see! Yes, that's our Tommy Dee, sung by Bud Moran, Ralph Gibson, Dan O'Brien and Curt Reinhardt; welcome address, John F. Ahern; song, Howdy, by assembly; Clements entertainers, Dunn-McNally trio and accompanist; reading, "Our Banquet," by Dan O'Brien, read by "Bud" Moran; song, Howdy song, by all; Clements entertainers; song, It Isn't Any Trouble, by Connie Vincent and Milly Chism; dance, soft shoe, by "Les" Russell; entertainers, song, There Are Sales That Make Us Happy, sung by Len Black, Jimmie Brown and Billy Parker; concert, The R. W. L. 66,000 volt symphony orchestra, leader, Ralph H. Gibson, violin, Tony Meehan, bass horn, Ray O'Brien, mouth harp, Louis Paulhus, chevrolette, Clif Greene, saxaphone and Len Black, drums; entertainers; song, Long, Long Trail, sung by Tommy D. Sullivan, Charlie Burney and Bob Hancock; song, Old Black Joe, sung by officers of the company; song, Ain't They Sweet, and Yes, Gang They're Our Babies, sung by romantic couples; entertainers, song, When You and I Were Young, Maggie; song, Sweet, Adeline, by members of the line gang; speaking, Messrs Ahern, Warner and Whiting; dancing, Peerless orchestra.

One of the features was the presentation of the R. W. L. Review of 1927 by George Leonard Black, sales department manager at the local office. Characters in the review were: Ben Black, marshall; Tony Meehan, band master; Ray O'Brien, 1st ass. band master; Louis Paulhus, 2nd asst. band master; Connie Vincent, prima donner; Milly Chism, nymph and members of the male chorus, Jimmie Brown, Les Russell, Billie Parker, Tommie Sullivan, Charlie Burney and Bob Hancock. Arrangements for the event were in charge of an energetic committee headed by Paul L. Moran and comprising, Ralph H. Gibson, Curtin H. Reinhardt, Robert Hanna, Daniel O'Brien, Rae Hevrin, Bessie Hochberg, Vesta Stone and Maud C. Cosgrove, the latter of the Rockville office. There were 85 employes from the local and the Rockville and Stafford Springs offices in attendance.

An attractive holiday decorative scheme will be installed along Main and Union streets today as part of the Christmas decorative program of the Willimantic Business Men's association. The old method of setting fir trees in tubs along the sidewalk will not be used this year, a more elaborate system having been arranged for. At each of the 14-foot ornamental standards of the white way two fir trees will be placed and illuminated by 20 colored lights each. The system will be identical on the business sections of Church and North streets and a large tree, highly illuminated, will be placed at the junction of West Main street and Columbia avenue where the state highways from the west enter the city. It is also planned to erect a similar tree at the junction of Ash and Natchaug streets where the Providence highway enters the city. In addition it is expected that the usual municipal Christmas tree will occupy its prominent place on Lincoln square. The decoration work is in charge of a committee comprising James H. Hurley, chairman, P. D. Donahue, Walter S. Barnes, Harry Cohen, Nelson A. Daniels, James B. Fullerton and William B. Sweeney.

JUDGE RESERVES DECISION IN SHAUFFLER-GRYSWICZ SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—The Killingly town court was concerned today with the trial of civil cases, growing out of counter claims involving residents of the town in a section north of East Killingly. Ernest G. Shauffler brought suit against Phillip and Mary Gryswicz, and they in turn brought a suit against Shauffler. Attorney A. G. Bill was counsel for Shauffler, while Attorney Irving H. Miron represented the Gryswicz.

In his b" of particulars Shauffler named various items for which he claims the Gryswicz owe him, this including charges for the use of a horse and harness, for transporting milk, for labor, grain, groceries, a lamp purchased from a mail order house and for articles of hardware. His claims total $96.68.

In their claims against Shauffler, the Gryswicz list stanchions, a lumber wagon, a harrow, a plow and money due for pasturing cows, in all a total of $96.

Judge W. Penner Woodward who presided during the hearing of the cases, reserved decision.

LITTLE DAMAGE HERE FROM WIND AND RAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8.—Danielson and all the territory hereabouts took another drenching today from a wild southerly storm that broke during the early morning hours and continued with some interruptions, into this afternoon. Sheets of rain driven by a gale that crashed in windows in some instances here in the borough, tore limbs from trees and did other damage threatened for a time to duplicate the storm that caused the flood of Nov. 3. However, the rainfall of today's storm was far less than in the storm mentioned, being just over an inch and a half in this immediate territory. There was some flooding today in low-lying sections, but nothing of serious proportions. The temperature remained between 50 and 60 degrees during the storm. While a cause of inconvenience, today's heavy rain did one splendid service in practically clearing the clinging mass of hail, sleet and what not that came down in the storm of last Sunday, and has been a handicap to easy and safe travel ever since. The piles of snow in the business section disappeared under the pouring rain and high temperature.

Acting as members of the transportation and parking committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Francis E. Storer and W. H. G. Herklots this morning perfected arrangements for special parking privileges for motorists who will be here during the Christmas season. From the town school committee permission was gained for the parking of cars on the

PUTNAM

JOHN KEMPF, VETERAN TELEGRAPH OPERATOR, DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 8—John Kempf died about 3 o'clock this morning at the home of I. K. McNally on Lyon street, where he has made his home for several years.

For more than twenty years he has been a telegraph operator for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, stationed at the switching tower on Front street.

He was at work as usual yesterday morning, his trick ending at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. During the evening he was at home listening to a radio concert until a late hour and was apparently well when he went to bed. His death occurred a few hours after midnight, supposedly from an attack of acute indigestion.

Mr. Kempf was 47 years old, unmarried. Three brothers and a sister survive him. They are Chris Kempf of Pomfret, Joseph Kempf of Woodstock, Frank A. Kempf of Providence and Miss Mary Kempf of New York city.

He was in his 48th year and for nearly a score of years had been in his present position. When a youth of 14 he lost a leg as the result of a railroad accident but he was apparently as active and got around as well as a man with two legs. He was an active member of the Putnam lodge of Elks and attended the memorial services on Sunday.

Walter J. Sherman of Farrows street in this city, died Wednesday night at the State sanitorium in Norwich of tubercular trouble. He had been a patient of the Norwich hospital and other hospitals for the past two years.

He was 57 years of age and for eight years prior to being incapacitated by illness had been an employe of the Belding-Hemingway Silk company. Mr. Sherman was born in Edgecomb, Maine, but while a young man went to Blue Mountains, Alabama where he lived for a score of years.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Katherine Balloch and has relatives in Abington. There are six children, Roy Sherman, who is employed by the Zaitas company at Norwich, Rainsford Sherman, who is employed in the shipping department of the National Rhea company, Russell, Louise and Pauline who are attending school here and Gordon, the youngest. There is also a sister, Mrs. Austin Johnson of Norwood, Mass., whose husband is a brother of the late John J. Johnson, who was one of Putnam's most prominent citizens. There is also one brother, Russell Sherman of Hyde Park, Mass.

The body will be taken to Dedham, Mass., for burial.

At the monthly meeting of the staff of the Day Kimball hospital on Tuesday evening the following physicians were in attendance. Dr. S. B. Overlock of Pomfret; Dr. Marguerite Bullard, Dr. B. P. Murphy, Dr. Carl T. Phillips of Putnam; Dr. A. Lapalme of North Grosvenordale; Dr. R. C. Paine of Thompson; Dr. Garcin of Dayville and Dr. F. P. Todd and Dr. W. A. Tanner of Danielson. Many interesting discussions took place and a supper was served by Miss Bloxham, matron at the hospital.

The regular monthly meeting of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter D. A. R. will be held Monday afternoon, December 12 at the Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street. Miss Katherine A. Nettleton, state regent, and Miss Emeline A. Street, state vice regent will both be present and the address "Out Where the West Begins," will be given by the state historian, Mrs. Lawrence Monant. The music for the afternoon will be arranged by Mrs. Lewis T. Champlin and will consist of duets and trios by Miss Alice Stevens, soprano, Mrs. A. A. Cross, second soprano and Mrs. Mary Medbury, contralto.

At a meeting held Wednesday evening of Jessamine chapter, No. 58, O. E. S. at the Masonic temple on Grove street and the following officers elected for the coming year: Worthy matron, Mrs. Grace Bruce; worthy patron, J. H. McCulloch; associate matron, Mrs. Sophie Metcalf; treasurer, Miss Hallie Corbin; secretary, Miss Emma Roberts; conductress, Mrs. Rhode D. Moss; assistant conductress, Mrs. Jeannette K. Smith. They will be installed at the next meeting.

Through the efforts of Peter A. Gardner, health officer, the state board of health has promised to send to this city a film entitled "New Ways for Old" which will be shown at the local theaters. The picture deals with the treatment of the dreaded disease, diphtheria.

The Goodyear soccer team will play the Putnam team on the Putnam high school grounds on Saturday. A game was scheduled for last Saturday between the Putnam team and the state trade school team but through some misunderstanding, one of the teams failed to put in an appearance.

LEDYARD

A Christian Endeavor meeting held at the residence of Enos M. Gray Sunday evening, was in charge of Ralph Krout, who gave a very interesting talk about his teaching among the Negroes in the south. The topic was "If I was a Home Missionary, Where Would I Like to Work?" The Endeavor meeting Sunday evening, Dec. 4, was held in the Congregational church. This was the monthly consecration meeting.

Ledyard Grange held its meeting in Grange hall on Friday evening, Dec. 2. Members of Mystic grange were to give the program in the Lecturer's Hour at this meeting, but the stormy night prevented them from coming, so Mrs. Sarah Gallup furnished an interesting program. Mrs. William I. Allyn was acting master in the absence of Harry Hanks, master, who was unable to attend on account of illness.

Mrs. Fannie Clark, Red Cross representative for Ledyard, has announced the following names as enrolled for this worthy cause: Ralph Krout, Mrs. Carl Holdridge, J. Kellog Hall, Mrs. J. Kellogg Hall, Sidney Hall, Miss Nellie W. Geer, Mrs. Isaac G. Geer, Billing T. Avery, Mrs. B. T. Avery, Mrs. Joseph Clark, Mrs. S. E. Holdridge.

"The Unalterable Purpose of Jesus Christ" was the text preached from by Ralph Krout in the local church Sunday morning to a fair sized audience for a stormy Sunday.

Mrs. Clara Vallette, of New York, was the guest of Mrs. C. D. Geer Thursday night en route to her sister's in Hartford.

The Sunday school teachers of the Congregational church met at the residence of Joseph A. Clark, superintendent of the school, Saturday evening, and discussed plans for Christmas and the coming year.

A meeting of the town school committee was held in the Bill library Tuesday afternoon. It was voted upon the suggestion of Supervisor Connelly, to purchase several text books to replenish the stock in the various schools. Bills were approved and ordered paid.

Frederick W. Burton and Calvin R. Main attended the Pomological meeting in Hartford Dec. 2 and 3.

A chicken pie supper and Christmas sale followed by dancing in Grange hall, was given at Ledyard Center Tuesday evening. Although the traveling was difficult, a good number attended and a good sum was realized.

S. E. Holdridge, from this town, L. R. Peckham and Frank Avery, of Norwich, with R. J. Whitham, of Groton, attended the annual meeting of the Connecticut Vegetable Growers' association at Hotel Garde, Hartford, Dec. 7 and 8.

Miss Nellie W. Geer was a recent guest of Miss Mary Avery, of Norwich. Mrs. Florence Smith and children, of Franklin, were guests of Mrs. Isaac G. Geer during Miss Geer's absence.

Newspapermen called frequently to the offices of the United States Steel company to await for lengthy periods the outcome of official meetings, long wondered why Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board, apparently was so deeply interested in romance. Volumes of "Romances of History" occupied shelves in office cabinets otherwise given over to business and reference books. A reporter, growing impatient one day, sought to find in "romance" respite from the weariness of prolonged waiting, only to discover that the volumes were merely fabric backs pasted on cardboard, a camouflage for heaps of catalogues, pamphlets and old papers.

HARNESSING THE MISSISSIPPI

With the army engineers' plan for controlling the Mississippi river put before congress by the president that body will be able to get right down to business at an early date for the determination of what will be done for the prevention of future disasters.

This report has been awaited with keen interest. It represents the result of a careful study by experts of what the conditions are, and what at present contributes to flood conditions and what can be done in the way of prevention. It is to be realized that there can be no control of the elements, but when it comes to facilitating the progress of high water in the big river the engineers believe that it can be done.

With the measure calling for nearly $296,000,000 to be spent over a period of years attention will at first be directed to the section from Cairo south with the government standing 80 per cent. of the cost and the states 20 per cent.

There is and must continue to be a limit to the amount of water the river is able to take care of. The problem is to handle any excess amount and the scheme is to do this by means of spillways which will carry a certain volume off through other outlets. Though not ordinarily used these outlets can be employed when the water gets to the necessary height and when floods will result if such relief is not provided.

For many years the government and the states have been spending millions in an effort to prevent floods. This has resulted in the prevention of many floods but it was conclusively shown this year that such plans were inadequate. The river was not being fitted to as strong a harness as it needed. Other methods must be employed and that is the purpose of the plan that is now suggested. The value of this expert advice must be carefully considered by congress. Something better than snap judgment is needed but the decision should not be indefinitely delayed. In making a beginning the engineers have directed their attention to the region where the quickest protection is possible. Later the beneficial effects of other work including reforestation and possibly huge reservoirs will come in for attention.

ROUTES THAT SKIRT CITIES

In these days of traffic congestion, especially during the summer time when there are so many tourists, efforts are made to guide motorists around cities, or through cities by means of streets on the outskirts that will avoid the main streets.

Such efforts are made for the purpose of aiding those whose destination is beyond, who are anxious to avoid delays as much as possible and who are eager to keep out of the city traffic, avoid the possibility of not complying with strange regulations and the uncertainties that go with unmarked streets.

To many this seems like taking away the opportunity of giving the stranger a view of the city, a chance to be impressed by stores, business houses and modern streets and it is an understandable protest that is made by business men when such steps are taken.

For the motorists who have the time there is invariably a desire to see the center of the various cities. Directing motorists to ways of skirting a city has no effect upon them. They know their minds and their desires and decide what they want to do, but there is a considerable number of motorists who welcome what they regard as the short cuts, for even though the distance may be longer they can probably make it in less time than by getting into the city jams and holdups.

Pointing out the short cuts must therefore be regarded as a valuable service to those who want to know them. Nothing obligates drivers to follow such a route and it is evident that those who want to skirt a city are not going to be greatly moved by what they see if they are obliged to go through its irritating traffic situations. After route detouring travelers about a city has been marked it rests with those who ride to do as they please. Each can make his own selection and in so doing each will have his good word for the enterprize, service or attractive appearance of that city. One may make quite as lasting an impression as the other for the effort to assist and please is invariably recognized.

BILLBOARDS

Efforts to eliminate the disfiguring signs from the highways have received widespread support. They have been accompanied by legislation, which prohibits such displays on the roadsides, and the evidence of opposition has brought about voluntary action on the part of sign owners to give more attention to the placing of boards where they will serve their purpose and yet not mar the landscape or shut off the view of the highway users.

The reaction of the billboard men is disclosed in an interesting way by an official of one of the big outdoor advertising associations when he declares that no more billboards will be placed by his organization at street or highway intersections that will reduce safety, that none will be erected in or near parks, churches or residential districts, nor along the edge of the public highways.

This indicates a disposition to cooperate with public sentiment. Resistance in most instances would be futile, and while the association's official clings to the belief that 90 per cent. of the steps to improve the ethics in outdoor advertising has come from within that industry it was probably more from the fact that it was realized that the public meant business than from desires that this attitude was taken. It would have been folly to have maintained a policy of resistance for it was apparent from the expression of the public in tearing down the boards where they remained contrary to law, and from the organized efforts to have them legislated out of existence, that extensive opposition had been aroused. The use of the highways has greatly increased This has not been lost upon the billboard men who thoroughly understand that if they are going to avoid antagonizing from the very ones upon whom they depend for their business they must give heed to public sentiment and by their action create as favorable a sentiment as possible. This can be done by keeping their signs where they will neither shut off vision nor contribute to accidents.

BASKING IN HOPES

There are those who still cling to the belief that President Coolidge has not eliminated himself from the possibility of being a candidate for the presidency in spite of his brief statement of last year and the further statement which he has made this week.

This is based in the first place upon the feeling that Mr. Coolidge is the outstanding individual for the nomination, that the country wants him and that his record is such that in spite of his statement he should be drafted for the place. It doesn't concede the need of turning to other persons, for though he has said he does not choose to run for the presidency next year and added that he regarded that as eliminating him and declared that it will be respected it is contended that it does not represent a decision upon that contingency of being drafted, or being turned to by a deadlocked convention.

Hope is gained by those who will listen to nothing else but a renomination for the president from the difference in the statements which have been made by Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hughes. Both have said they would not seek a nomination next year, but Mr. Hughes has said that he would not accept a nomination.

Each occupies a different position before the country when making such a statement. Nevertheless Mr. Hughes spiked his own candidacy only when he learned with much regret of the president's amplification. That indicated the interpretation he placed upon the expression Mr. Coolidge made before the republican national committeemen. Those who are not ready to accept it as such are buoyed up by hope that future developments will be such that a refusal at the showdown will be impossible.

ACCOMMODATING AUTO OWNERS

We are getting to the season of the year when auto registrations should be renewed by those who drive all the year, and when there is bound to be a rush during the closing days for 1928 markers by those who wait until the last minute.

Out in Michigan they endeavor to overcome this congestion by permitting those who get their 1928 tags to put them on their cars this month. That seems to work all right until the fellow who buys a car this month applies for his registration. It is expected of course that he will get his license for the final month of 1927, but it is claimed that in order to avoid this many are deferring their purchases until January and thus slowing up the automobile business.

In endeavoring to overcome one situation Michigan has gotten itself into an additional difficulty. It is to be expected that all auto owners will pay their proportional registration fee. If that state exacts a full year's fee for those buying in December it could easily overcome the difficulty by prorating the fee according to the months left in the year, or by letting those who buy in December pay an additional month's registration fee and put on their 1928 markers.

And yet the situation would seem to be complicated by the arrangement whereby the state permits the use of 1928 markers before the eve of 1928's arrival. By trying to accommodate some of the owners, even though it is doubtful if there is any real advantage in the plan, Michigan makes additional trouble for itself, or at least gets the blame for delaying auto sales.

Connecticut's method eliminates all this trouble, but the trouble in Connecticut is that there are not enough branches of the motor vehicle department at the end of the year to properly accommodate the auto owners.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The rush to get the hat into the political ring has gotten away to a quick start.

The man on the corner says: Perhaps congress cannot be put off but it can be and too often is prolonged.

You might as well get busy and assist in the delivery of those presents before Christmas by mailing them early.

There are those who have faith in soviet Russia's disarmament plan but there are also those who believe in the shell game.

Probably Copenhagen people would like to know why Mrs. Grayson is now talking about flying to Stockholm instead of to their city, even though it may be all talk.

With a car for every person in five it was thought autos were becoming numerous, but saturation is a long way off when it is declared "at least four cars per family is correct."

FEED THE BRUTE

"But there's just no pleasing him!" wailed Helen. Her mother sniffed a significant sniff. When Jack had married her daughter their many friends had pictured the feathery cherubs of high heaven wandering about the pearly streets with their little halos at a discontented angle and their pale eyes clouded by envy, Mrs. Crawford, however, had reserved judgment, then she had received Helen's grief-stricken letter, written less than a year after the ceremony. Since there was nobody near enough to hear her say "I told you so!" she packed her biggest valise and caught the fastest train to Chicago to inspect the wreckage.

"He's just plain grouchy," continued the disillusioned bride. "If he pays any attention to me at all he growls in a perfectly unbearable manner. Do you suppose some unscrupulous woman can have fascinated him? He's perfectly cruel to me."

"I should think he'd choke you!" announced Mrs. Crawford, and made the most of her daughter's speechless amazement. "It's 10 o'clock and you're still going around in a negligee. The breakfast dishes are on the table. This apartment looks like the last stages of a cat fight."

"I always wear a negligee to breakfast because Jack thinks they're pretty, and I haven't had time to change yet." Mrs. Crawford snorted.

"Time to burn! If you'd kept your eyes open when you were living at home you would have noticed that most of the housework was done by 10 o'clock. No wonder Jack's coming out of the anaesthetic; he works hard all day at his job and comes home to find that you've been lying down on yours. First, we'd better give this place a real going over."

"What are you planning to have for dinner?" Mrs. Crawford inquired hours later.

"Why, I really hadn't thought about it yet; it's only 4 o'clock. Some kinds of chops, I suppose."

"Chops! Good heavens, what kind of fodder is that for a working man? What you need is a good healthy stew with plenty of vegetables and home-made bread."

"But it doesn't pay to make for two," protested Helen, "and Jack is very fond of chops."

As she prepared the nutritious meal her experience dictated, Mrs. Crawford began to sympathize with her son-in-law, but when he burst into the apartment for dinner she felt that something could be said for either side.

"Helen!" he called from the doorway. "Can you—" He must have recognized the initials on the immense valise about that time, for an even more pronounced blight seemed to settle upon him. He greeted his mother-in-law with as little enthusiasm as politeness permitted and sat down to dinner in sullen suspicious silence.

There was no improvement after dinner either.

"Who shuffled the manuscript of this prospectus? What happened to my pipe? No, not that one! Has anybody seen the book I was using last night?" Mrs. Crawford poured oil on the troubled waters with a practiced hand, resurrecting the masculine playthings from their places of retirement and indicating how the highest ends could b served by keeping them only in those places.

She retired to the precarious comfort of the davenport bed with the sense of a duty well performed. But the anguished howl of her daughter awakened her the next morning.

"He's gone away! He got up early and packed his bag! He left this note stuck in my dresser!" Mrs. Crawford blinked sleepily and focused her attention upon the note clutched to Helen's grief-wracked bosom."

"What does he say?" she demanded.

"I don't know. Oh, I just can't open it. What made him do it?"

"Idiot!" murmured Mrs. Crawford kindly. "Let me see it." She captured the envelope and tore it open drowsily.

"Dear Helen," she read in silence. "Tell your mother that I have been called away by a business crisis, and phone me at the Hastings hotel when she leaves. Sorry to run out on you, but I'm just finishing up a big deal that has worried me for weeks. It drives me mad to have my things hidden, and this is too important a time to risk irritation. One of the reasons I married you was so that I would never have to eat stew again. We will go off on a nice, long, stewless vacation together when your mother leaves and I finish up this matter.

"Love, JACK."

"How could he do it?" sobbed Helen. "What does he say? Oh, how I love him!"

"The brute!" snapped Mrs. Crawford.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Protest.

Mr. Editor: In a recent issue of The Bulletin, the business and professional women entered a protest, calling themselves the superior sex. Now wherein consists the vaunted superiority? Would it not be well to prove it? It is not denied that in the different fields of endeavors women have done good work. American women have so far achieved but little in the arts, sciences and professions as compared with men. In the field of the drama for instance, the sex can boast of no dramatist who even approaches Eugene O'Neil. In the realm of music they offer no composers of great note. In painting and etching they can point to no woman who has been recognized as the peer of the best men. In sculpture the names of Malvina Hoffman, Gertrude Whitney and Janet Scudder come to mind; yet even their admirers do not claim that they rank with the leading men in literary criticism. The sex loses still another count for there is no woman who ranked high as a critic, although the late Amy Lowell undoubtedly exercised a formative influence on the new poetry.

At the same time women are very nearly the peers of men in the field of creative literature. Indeed Edna St. Vincent Millay stands out as unquestionably America's most distinguished and gifted lyrist, whose work is extolled by the critics of both America and England, and bought by the public probably in greater thousands than any other recognized poet of the day. And in fiction it can fairly be claimed that there are no men who are doing more significant work than Edith Wharton and Elinor Mylie. In politics the advent of women has done little to change the machine line-up for they are seldom accorded high position or real authority.

In the field of publishing there are but two women who control large enterprises—one who virtually directs a great Metropolitan newspaper, and another who shapes the policy of a leading woman's magazine. It is a fact that the other large woman's magazines are controlled by men. Finally in business, more women have obtained high rewards than in any field, although the great majority appear to be content with average mediocrity. As to their status in the professions it might fairly be claimed that they have scarcely had time to get a running start.

When Colchester Postponed Thanksgiving.

Mr. Editor: In this holiday season some of us interested in the antiquities occasionally turn our thoughts to the holiday festivities of our ancestors.

Two hundred years ago Christmas had no meaning at all in Connecticut and its acceptance as a holiday came only after the Protestant Episcopal had obtained a strong foot-hold in the colony

Besides the Sabbath, which was generally and strictly kept as a holy day, there were annually observed Thanksgiving after the harvest and a day of fasting and prayer on occasions such as drought, flood or any adversity. About 1800 this day became fixed and although it then fell on Good Friday, that day was observed as Fast day rather than the anniversary of the Crucifixion.

The early records of Colchester (town and church) show some interesting facts. One year a town meeting was held December 25th and church meetings were customarily held on Fast day. But strangest of all is a vote to postpone Thanksgiving.

"At a legal town meeting held in Colchester, Oct. 29, 1705, it was voted that whereas there was a Thanksgiving appointed to be held on the first Thursday of November and our present circumstances being such that it cannot with conveniency be attended on that day it is therefore voted and agreed by the inhabitants as aforesaid considering the thing will not be otherwise than well resented that the second Thursday in Nov. aforesaid shall be set apart for that service."

Tradition says the postponement was occasioned by a lack of molasses! There being no roads as we know them, a cask was lashed to a cradle and carried between two horses or dragged along behind all (a method of transport later used among the Indians of the western plains).

YOUR HEALTH

HOW TO CURE CONSTIPATION

By John L. Kantor, M. D., New York Member Gorgas Memorial

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of Gorgas Memorial as part of its better health and longer life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.)

In general, constipation may be said to be due either to internal or external causes. Let us first consider the external causes. Among the chief of these are irregularities in eating, working, resting, and bowel habits. Much in this group of cases are often inborn and are more complicated and technical than those in the first group. Here, obviously, the patient, no matter how intelligent, is unable alone and unaided to cure his condition. He should, therefore, seek competent medical diagnosis and treatment.

Leaders in commercial aviation summoned to Washington to consider the government's part in air development, was told today by Secretary Hoover that the commerce department's only purpose in laying down air regulations was to aid the progress of aviation. He asked for advice and suggestions.

can be done by the patient alone to overcome these.

Meals should be eaten at a regular time. The daily diet should contain a sufficient amount of roughage, such as coarse cereals bread, raw vegetables, and raw fruit. Thin people should also eat fat meat, butter, and cream.

An adult should drink about eight glasses of pure water daily,—part of it immediately upon arising, and the rest one-half hour before meals.

One's work should permit of regular and sufficient time for meals and for moving the bowels.

Sufficient rest, particularly sleep, should be provided. It is difficult, for example, to move the bowels after a sleepless night. Freedom from mental strain and worry also aid materially in overcoming constipation.

The bowels should be moved at least once daily. They should be trained to function at the same time each twenty-four hours.

The habitual use of cathartics and enemas inevitably weakens the inherent power of the bowels to move spontaneously. The first step in the cure of constipation is the complete withdrawal of all cathartics and enemies. When such habits are stopped, it is often impossible for the bowels to resume function immediately. An inactive period of from two to three or even more days may follow, during which the weakened intestines are resting and storing up energy. It is important to be patient and to practice the foregoing suggestions carefully during the waiting period. In long-standing cases, it is best to consult a physician.

The internal causes of constipation have to do with the shape of the bowels, their nerves, and the condition of their outlet. The factors operating

Today and Tomorrow

If Fortune with a smiling face
Strew roses on our way,
When shall we stoop to pick them up?
Today, my friend, today.
But should she frown, with face of care,
And talk of coming sorrow,
When shall we grieve, if grieve we must?
Tomorrow, friend, tomorrow.

If those who've wronged us own their fault,
And kindly pity pray,
When shall we listen and forgive?
Today, my friend, today.
But if stern justice urge rebuke,
And warmth from memory borrow,
When shall we chide, if chide we dare?
Tomorrow, friend, tomorrow.

If those to whom we owe a debt
Are harmed unless we pay,
When shall we struggle to be just?
Today, my friend, today.
But if our debtor fail our hope,
And plead his ruin thorough,
When shall we weigh his breach of faith?
Tomorrow, friend, tomorrow.

For virtuous acts and harmless joys
The minutes will not stay.
We've always time to welcome them
Today, my friend, today.
But care, resentment, angry words,
And unavailing sorrow,
Come far too soon if they appear
Tomorrow, friend, tomorrow.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

There is an old man living in Switzerland who has found happiness because he has passed through the turmoil of political conflict and been deposed from a throne. He is the ex-Sultan Mohammed VI., of Turkey, who was erroneously reported dead at San Remo last year. Far from being dead, the ex-ruler of an empire, High Caliph of the Moslem religion and late lord and master of a harem containing 500 women, is now busy with preparations for his wedding to Mlle. Juliette Lepeon, a charming young French woman whom he is going to marry. Mohammed VI. began his reign at the turning point of the World war. He saw the Ottoman armies broken by a vigorous British offensive, and in 1922 he was forced to abdicate to make way for the so-called Turkish republic with the redoubtable Kemal Pasha at the helm.

ASPIRIN

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. The genuine Bayer Aspirin has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

OBITUARY

Albert L. Allen

Following an illness of about a week with pneumonia, Albert L. Allen, 75, of Scotland, former well known Norwich grocer, died in Norwich Thursday morning about 11:30 o'clock. Mr. Allen was born in Scotland, this state, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allen. At Poquetanuck, Sept. 12, 1877, Mr. Allen was united in marriage with Miss Martha Elizabeth Stafford, who died in 1902. For about 15 years Mr. Allen conducted a farm in Scotland, and for some years conducted a grocery store at the corner of Main and Market streets, this city.

He resided in Preston at one time and held the office of town clerk and agent of the town deposit fund in Preston. He was a member of Mt. Vernon lodge, F. and A. M. Mr. Allen is survived by an only daughter, Mrs. C. E. Anderson of No. 46 Hamilton avenue, Norwich, and one sister, Miss Josephine Allen, 80 years of age, who resides in Scotland.

Mrs. Ernest H. Hart

After illness for several years the death of Pauline Hoffman, wife of Ernest H. Hart, occurred Thursday afternoon at their home on Ridge road, Wethersfield.

Mrs. Hart was born in Hartford Oct. 29, 1894, and was the daughter of Frances R. Denison Hoffman and the late C. F. Paul Hoffman. While she was a girl the family removed to this city and resided here on Rockwell street during a period of years when her father was court stenographer in the superior court. She attended the Norwich schools and was a member of the Central Baptist church, but after her father's death she returned to Hartford and Wethersfield. Prior to her marriage she held a responsible position in Hartford during the war with the Connecticut state draft board and later was secretary to the late Governor Simeon Baldwin. She was married in 1921 to Ernest H. Hart of Wethersfield.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hart is survived by one daughter, Mary, her mother who made her home with her, two brothers, Karl T. A. Hoffman of Hartford and Denison Hoffman of Wethersfield and one sister, Mrs. Clifford Turner of Wethersfield.

Mrs. Hart had been a frequent visitor in this city during her residence in Hartford and Wethersfield, having a large number of warm friends who will feel her loss deeply.

LYME P. O. LEASE FOR ANOTHER FIVE YEARS

The Lyme postoffice will remain in its present quarters for another term of five years, it was announced at the post office department in Washington Wednesday.

The department announced that it has accepted the proposal of Pythagoras lodge, No. 45, A. F. and A. M., to lease the present post office quarters on the west side of Main street, between the Episcopal church and Academy lane, for a five-year term. The old lease expired on May 1, 1927, but the post office department only Wednesday announced it would continue the office in its present location.

Under the terms of the lease the lessor is required to furnish equipment, light, water, safe, power for electric fans, parcel post and postal savings furniture when necessary.

McLEAN ASKS DISINTERESTED TRIAL IN VARE CASE

Senator McLean, republican, Connecticut, took up the cause of Vare at the opening of debate in the senate at Washington on Thursday, lamenting the "inability for a disinterested trial" for the Pennsylvanian.

"For more than four centuries," he said, "it has been the Anglo-Saxon custom to give men a trial before disinterested persons. We know every man here has a deep personal political interest in the result of this case. Maybe we shall subordinate that interest to the still deeper sense of justice."

"Shall we, the senate of the United States, claiming to be the highest court, with power to remove presidents and justices, hazard our reputations for honesty, while filled with party zeal?" he asked.

"This senate cannot endure a series of political lynchings, I care not who leads them."

BENEFIT WHIST AT BALTIC FOR FREE HOSPITAL BED

At Baltic Tuesday evening, in St. Jean Baptiste hall, a whist was given to provide a free bed in St. Teresa hospital, Boswell avenue, Norwich, for women unable to pay. Twenty-two tables were filled. The prize winners were: first, Miss Marie Riel, Baltic, pyrex pie plate in silver standard; second, Miss Mable Gladue, Greeneville dinner gong; third, Madame Remi Gauvin, Baltic, red candle and stand. Men's first honors went to David Kane, Norwich, who won a fountain pen, with stationery; second, George Rondeau, Baltic, silver ash tray; third, Romeo Aubin, Taftville, a pack of cards. The whist cleared $40.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Kappa kappa kappa fraternity at the Academy has its dance this (Friday) evening in the gymnasium.

The Aftermath Bridge club was entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. Joseph E. Burns, of Williams street. Miss Mary G. Shannon took the prize.

Mrs. Charles M. Olson, of Ann street was hostess to the Thursday Afternoon Bridge club at its first meeting for the season. Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, playing as a substitute, won the prize.

Mrs. Walter Chadwick Noyes, of 1010 Fifth avenue, New York, is to give a dance on the night of December 31st for her daughter, Miss Ruth Brewster Noyes. Among the guests will be Mrs. Noyes' cousin, Mrs. Frank H. Smith, of Washington street, who goes to New York the 23rd to visit Mrs. Noyes for a fortnight.

Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, of Sachem Terrace, her daughter, Miss Louise Marion and sons Norris and Harry Jr., will go to Hartford today (Friday) to remain until Monday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Brown. Tonight, Mrs. Higgins' sister, Mrs. J. L. Robbins of Bishop road, Hartford, is giving a dinner for Mrs. Higgins.

SIX JURY TRIALS FOR SESSION OF CRIMINAL COMMON PLEAS COURT

Unless changes are made before the trial dates are reached, there is promise of six jury trials for the term of the common pleas court which opened Thursday morning in New London and adjourned to next Wednesday after 19 cases on the docket of 46 had been called up.

Judge C. B. Waller presided at the court session and Prosecuting Attorney C. B. Whittlesey presented the cases.

Those pleading not guilty and electing to be tried by jury were the following:

Peter Pappas, alleged proprietor of a restaurant on West Main street, arrested Sept. 18 and charged with violation of the liquor law. He had appealed from the fine of $200 and a ten day jail sentence which was given him in the Norwich city court.

Mary Capozza of Waterford, accused on two counts of violation of the liquor law.

Joseph Spandaro of New London, arrested June 21 on the charge of non-support.

Morris Paster of Preston, accused of violation of the liquor law on which he appealed from the Preston court to the common pleas court.

Joseph Zenkowski of this city, accused on two counts of violation of the liquor law. He was arrested in July and was given a fine and jail sentence in the city court.

Rose De Stafeno of this city, against whom there were two counts of violation of the liquor law in July. She was given a fine and jail sentence in the city court. Attorney Thomas M. Shields appeared for Zenkowski and Mrs. De Stefano.

Other cases disposed of by the court were as follows:

A nolle was entered in the case of George Grossos of Lyme, charged with violating a town ordinance by keeping his store open after a stated closing time. Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey said the ordinance only stated the hour of closing but said nothing about reopening again.

Charles W. Caulfield of Norwich, charged with violating the motor vehicle law, had his case nolled on the payment of $25.

The case of Percy Miner of Norwich, charged with non-support, was nolled when it was brought out that he had paid for a while and that since a divorce had been granted to his wife.

A nolle on the payment of $25 was entered in the case of Edward Halper of Waterford, charged with speeding. The prosecuting attorney stated that the night of the accident was foggy and that the defendant had driven for 21 years, this being his first accident.

A nolle on the payment of $10 was entered in the case of Dwight Kelsey, charged with a violation of the game law, in which he was found with a female pheasant in his possession.

Michael Makowicki of Norwich, charged with breach of peace, had his case nolled on the payment of $15.

Marion Pont of Stonington pleaded guilty to a charge of breach of peace on Nov. 1, 1927, when he was alleged to have been drunk and to have ordered his wife out of the house. He was given a jail sentence of 10 days, suspended for six months.

On recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey the case of theft of a gun against John Nowakoski of Norwich was nolled. It was claimed he took a gun away from Constable Hill of Preston in a raid on the Nowakoski place.

Martha Bogdanski of Norwich, charged with breach of the peace, arising out of a quarrel with another woman, had her case nolled on the payment of $15.

On the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney, the case of Benjamin Stumman of Montville, charged with a violation of the motor vehicle law, was nolled on the payment of $35.

Howard F. Mainelli, charged with breach of the peace, wherein he used abusive language to a local traffic policeman, had his case nolled on the payment of $20.

An absolute nolle was entered in the case of Granville Rust of Groton, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law.

The case of Konstantin Raskevich, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law, was continued until the next term.

GLASSWARE AND TABLE DISPLAYED IN COURT

A small round table and a basket of glassware which are articles of property which both sides claim in the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Morris of 78 McKinley avenue, against Morris J. Anderson and his wife of Bentley avenue, were produced in the superior court here Thursday in the trial of the suit before Judge John Rufus Booth and a jury. Mrs. Morris claims that these were taken away by the Andersons who answer that they were gifts from Mrs. Morris.

Testimony in the case was concluded Thursday afternoon after Mrs. Anderson, Charles A. Anderson, Joseph H. Anderson and Alice A. Ames had testified for the defense and Mrs. Morris had been called to the stand again by her counsel.

Arguments for the plaintiff were made by Attorneys George H. Gilman and John D. Hall and for the defendants by Attorney Edmund W. Perkins. Judge Booth is to charge the jury next Tuesday morning.

Attorneys for Mrs. Morris argued that the Andersons were engaged in a money-grabbing scheme, while counsel for the Andersons admitted the debt shown by a $2,000 note and $275 on a certificate of indebtedness, but claimed that a $1,750 automobile was a gift from Mrs. Morris and that they were entitled to be reimbursed for the expenditures and expenses they had been put to while occupying her house.

The jury on the case is Frederick A. Gallup, Ashley T. Boon, Norwich; Erva L. Barnes, Wm. W. Service, Preston; Joseph Roode, Otto Anderson, Jr., Griswold; Wm. G. Totten, Lebanon; Edward A. Bishop, Bozrah; John E. Frink, Franklin; John Morrison, Sprague; Clarence Fitch, Lisbon; John H. Herbert, Voluntown.

EDWARD HAGAMAN HALL IS HONORED IN NEW YORK

A former assistant editor of the Norwich Bulletin received signal honor in New York Wednesday night, when the Laymen's club of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine gave a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Commodore to Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall, one of its oldest and most active members. Bishop Manning spoke and Dean Howard C. Robbins presented Dr. Hall an illuminated book expressing appreciation for his services of many years. Henry M. Sperry, the president, presided.

Dr. Hall was twice president of the club and is chairman of the ushers at the cathedral. He is the author of the cathedral guide book, the profits from the sale of which have been turned over to the fund the Laymen's club is raising for the Pilgrims' Pavement in the nave of the cathedral. Members of the organization have sold memorial stones at $5 each to visitors from all parts of the world, they have raised $43,891.68 toward the needed $100,000, it was announced.

NORWICH RADIO CLUB ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The Norwich Radio club elected the following officers at its meeting held Wednesday night at the store of Louis J. Smith, 73 Franklin street: President, Charles B. Lucas; vice president, Arthur Wilbur; secretary, Walter Weldman; treasurer, Louis J. Smith.

The retiring president, Joseph A. French, presided at the meeting at which there was a long discussion on the matter of interference with local radio sets and the members expressed surprise that the 8,000 letters sent out by the chamber of commerce had brought less than 50 answers from people indicating an interest in a plan of cooperating to cure radio interference. The club would be glad to have any who are interested communicate with the chamber of commerce or the club treasurer, Mr. Smith.

FOR POSTMASTERS AT BALTIC AND STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—Congressman Freeman today recommended reappointment as postmaster, Louis J. A. Stefon at Baltic, and Frank B. Stanton at Stonington.

COUNTY LEGION POSTS TO MEET IN MYSTIC

A monthly meeting of the New London County Legion posts comprising the Fifth district will be held at Mystic this (Friday) evening in Grange hall commencing at 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock a chowder will be served by Chefs Lamphere and Franke, after which dancing will be enjoyed until midnight.

It is expected that nearly 100 Legionnaires and their ladies will be present from the various posts within the district which are New London, Lyme, Colchester, Norwich, Taftville, Baltic, Jewett City, Stonington and Mystic.

EIGHT PENSION BILLS BY CONGRESSMAN FREEMAN

Eight special pension bills have been introduced in congress by Representative Richard P. Freeman in which pensions of $50 per month are asked for widows. They are for the following:

Mrs. Mary C. Bishop, of New London, widow of John Bishop, late of 29th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

Mrs. Nancy Emelie Harrison, of Groton, widow of Robert Harrison, late of the United States navy.

Mrs. Amanda W. Kerwin, of Mystic, widow of George W. Kerwin, late of Company E, 18th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

Mrs. Caroline Williams, of Middletown, widow of Charles K. Williams, late of the First Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

Mrs. Mary A. Brown, of Stonington, widow of George E. Brayton, late of the 26th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Perkins, of Groton, widow of Edwin Perkins, late of the 10th Regiment, Connecticut Volunteer Infantry.

MANSFIELD NEW BUILDING PLANS ARE ACCEPTED

Plans for the two new buildings at the Mansfield state hospital and training school submitted by Middletown architects were selected by the executive committee of the state board of finance and control at its meeting Thursday at the state capitol, at Hartford.

By a special act in the last legislature $110,000 was appropriated for the construction and equipment of a boys' dormitory at Mansfield to accommodate approximately 100 children. An appropriation of $25,000 was also made for a contagious pavilion. The board will call for bids on these plans in the near future.

The buildings are to be of brick with concrete trim, fire-proof throughout and without cellars. It is said that this latter feature allows considerable saving in the cost of excavation and obviates any danger of flooded basements or other unhealthy conditions. The building is to be three stories high and will include many modern features. The contagious pavilion will be one story and erected on similar lines.

POWER LINE BROKEN ON WEST MAIN STREET

A limb blown from a tree on West Main street near the corner of Ann street Wednesday morning about 6 o'clock caused the most serious damage in the high wind storm in this city as it fell across two 4600 volt wires, which burned through and fell to the ground.

This cut off the power line feed to the Joseph Hall & Co. mills in Trading Cove, International Silver Co., United Metal Co., Wernan Shoe factory and the J. B. Martin plant in Franklin street for fully an hour and a half. The wires were placed back in position at about 7.30 o'clock.

BURGLARS WERE AFTER MONEY IN PITCHER SAFE

Burglars ransacked the office of Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher at 539 Main street some time Wednesday night, but nothing was found to be missing Thursday morning. Entrance was gained through a door located at the rear of the building which was pried open.

It is understood there is good reason to believe that some one had knowledge that $400 had been placed in the safe late Wednesday afternoon and it was this that they were after but they did not dare to make much noise in an attempt to crack the safe for fear of alarming the family which sleeps upstairs over the office.

WHITE LEGHORNS HEAD HONOR ROLL FOR WEEK

Laying 62 out of a possible 70 eggs in the last seven-day period, a pen of ten White Leghorn pullets owned by Broadview Farm of Winsted, Conn., headed the honor roll for the fifth week of the seventeenth Storrs laying contest. This is the third time since the contest started last November that these Connecticut Leghorns have made the best weekly score, and in the other two weeks they placed second. A total of 303 eggs in five weeks is the score of Broadview birds,a figure that score of Broadview birds, figure that all entries considered.

Rhode Island Reds owned by Homestead Farm from Newtown, Conn., present leaders in the Red division, placed second for the week with a production of 56 eggs. Then followed a pen of Reds and Leghorns to tie for third place with a score of 55 eggs each. The Reds are owned by Charlescote Farm of Sherborn, Mass., runner up in the Red class, and the Leghorns by Bournedale Farm of Millerton, N. Y. Two pens of Leghorns owned by George Lowrey of West Willington, Conn., and Amakassin Farm from Yonkers, N. Y., each laid 52 eggs to tie for fourth place.

Production Drops Slightly.

There was a slight decline in egg production during the fifth week, the 1400 pullets producing 4,207 eggs for a lay of 44.1 per cent. This is 279 eggs less than last week but 45 eggs more than the production for the corresponding week a year ago. Total production to the end of the fifth week was 21,566 eggs, or a lay of 15 eggs per bird.

Only thre changes took place among the leaders during the past week. In the Rhode Island Red division, the entry of the Globus Poultry Farm from Attleboro, Mass., climbed up into third position, displacing the entry of Fred H. Sampson from Springfield, Mass. In the White Leghorn classification, George Lowry's entry passed the pen owned by Alfred J. O'Donovan from Katonah, N. Y., to take second position among the Leghorns and fourth place among all competitors. Entries owned by the State College of Washington, Pullman, Wash., and Tom Barron, of Catforth, near Preston, England, each tied for sixth place among the Leghorns, passed the pen owned by Harry Burns, of Millington, Mich. It is interesting to note that the ranking Leghorn pens come from such widely divergent points as Connecticut, Washington, New York, Michigan, New Jersey and even England.

"Fall and Winter Ailments of Poultry" will be the subject of the radio dialogue from WCAC next Wednesday evening, beginning at 6:45 p. m. This talk will be by Prof. David E. Warner Jr., and Wallace S. Moreland.

THE SEASIDE WORKING CURE FOR SHIRLEY SNITMAN

When Shirley Snitman was but a baby, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Snitman of 319 West Main street, noticed that one of her legs was bent backward at the knee and she was unable to straighten it out. They consulted doctors, one after another, but none gave them any hope but that their girl would be a cripple for life.

Then they heard of the Seaside at Crescent beach, the state sanatorium where children with non-pulmonary tuberculosis are treated. Shirley was taken there and her trouble was diagnosed as tuberculosis of the knee. That was two and a half years ago. Now Shirley is no longer crippled, but a happy child able to walk like other children. The transformation which Mr. and Mrs. Snitman have seen in their own daughter is similar to what they have seen in scores of other children as they have visited The Seaside every Sunday since Shirley has been there. But Mr. Snitman speaks of one thing that disturbs him every time he visits the sanatorium. This is to see the large frame building which houses the children, many of them strapped to frames and unable to help themselves in case of fire. He feels that if the people of Connecticut were only aware of the peril in which these little ones are placed, they would see to it without delay that another building which would be safe against fire would be built to house these helpless little patients at The Seaside.

THAMESVILLE PLAYERS SCORE HIGH IN PINOCHLE

At this week's meeting of the Thamesville Pinochle club, high scores for the evening were: Peringer 7850; Streich 7765; Cook 7480; Crawford 7345. A feature of the evening's play was that no score was under 6000. Streich moved up to first place, Peringer moved into second place and A. Kirchner dropped back to third place.

The standing to date: Streich 35,275, Peringer 35,065, A. Kirchner 34,935, Schuler 34,885, Cook 34,815, J. Kirchner 34,295, Huntington 34,185, Wenzel 34,135, Baer 34,110, Schaffhauser 34,035, P. Kirchner 33,330, Schilenz 33,295, Rossoll 32,820, Crawford 32,520, Aldrich 31,745, Gresser 31,205.

JUNIOR BRANCH OPENS BIG HOLIDAY BAZAAR

A bazaar which opened Thursday night in Germania hall under the auspices of Junior branch, No. 11, O. D. H. S., had an attendance of 500 and generous patronage for the articles offered at the prettily decorated booths. The bazaar was formally opened by President Linius Charnetski and remarks made by Mitchell J. Clouthier, Jr. A large attendance is looked for this (Friday) night.

Testimony for the defense was practically completed in federal court in Hartford in the trial of Frederick C. Sutherland, of New Haven, former employe in the internal revenue bureau in Washington. At the adjournment of court, Sutherland was still on the witness stand after five hours' examination.

A jury in the Aroostook county supreme court at Houlton, Me., returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against Harry Wood, young Presque Isle farmer, on trial for murder for the shooting of Game Warden Lee Parker, on September 2 last.

Wins Prize For Most Outstanding Achievement Of The Year

L. J. Delamarter, manager of the Grand Rapids, Michigan street railway company, awarded the $1000. annual award of Charles A. Coffin for the most outstanding achievement during the year. Mr. Delamarter, on assuming managership of the line, employed circus methods of advertising, that of painting the cars bright colors, parades and etc., which boosted the company's business two-fold.

DANIELSON TOWNERS LOSE CLOSE AND FAST GAME TO MILLVILLE QUINTET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 8—Before an enthusiastic and large crowd of fans in the Danielson town the Danielson Town team lost defeat at the hands of the Millville Quintet, 41 to 35. There was no question but what this was one of the finest games ever played on the local floor and every man on both teams deserved a good deal of credit for the wonderful brand of ball contributed to make the game what it was. The Millville team had such stars as Casper, Pelequin, Tisdale and Curran, with Kettridge in the pivot position and these players need no introduction to basketball fans of Eastern Conn., or Massachusetts.

The first half started with each team exhibiting some very clever teamwork and after about 5 minutes of play Schofield of Danielson made two beautiful baskets and then the teams played nip and tuck for the remainder of the half, with Danielson leading 21 to 18. The second half opened with a burst of speed by both clubs and Danielson soon had a seven point lead with the Millville boys apparently on the run. At this point the Millville team called time out. Coming back into the fray the Millville boys scored four baskets, putting them one point to the good. The last five minutes of play was well worth watching. Finally Tisdale, after several hard tries, succeeded in making two baskets and Casper came through with a foul terminating the score at 41 to 35.

Although beaten the Danielson team showed great results from Billy Schofield's coaching as they played a brainy game of ball and it can easily be predicted that they will round themselves into a very formidable team and should be able to give the best teams in Connecticut and Massachusetts a run for their money before the season is over. Curran and Tisdale starred for the winners while Danielson's whole team led by the flashy Schofield equally divided the honors.

Next week the Norton A. C. of Worcester, which is composed of three Purple Collegian players will furnish the opposition for Danielson. The summary:

ANOTHER DRAFT SQUABBLE IS BEING ANTICIPATED

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Possibility that baseball might see another controversy such as that which shook the game before the present major-minor league accord was reached, was seen here tonight when the National association of professional baseball clubs ordered five of its members to discontinue their modified draft agreement with the major league.

The American association, the International league, the Pacific coast league, the Three-I league and the Western league were ordered to discontinue the modified draft immediately fourteen leagues voting yea on the resolution and five no.

By its action the association automatically put five leagues in a strictly non-draft classification.

Under the previous system, representatives of the other minor leagues charge, the majors have scoured every college, sandlot and industrial team, signed a majority of the new crop of players every year and then placed them with the five clubs under the modified draft, knowing that they can reclaim them through the draft. Smaller leagues complain that the practice had made it difficult for them to obtain promising youngsters at reasonable salaries and also claim that it enables the major leagues to sell a man for a large sum in the spring and then reclaim him for the standard draft price in the fall.

Acceptance by the five non-draft clubs of the modified draft, other minor league club owners claimed, violated the major-minor agreement in that it was a modification of the agreement without the consent of all parties.

Walter Morris, owner of the Dallas club in the Texas league, and Herman J. Wichman, president of the Eastern league, introduced the motion yesterday and John Conway Toole, president of the International, came to their aid today and supported the resolution despite of the fact that several of the club owners in his league changed their stand on the matter as the roll call started.

BERLENBACH-DELANEY BOUT FEATURE FOR TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney, whose rivalry in recent years for the world's light heavyweight championship resulted in the most stirring battles in the history of that division, will come together for the fourth time tomorrow night, engaging in a ten round encounter at the Coliseum.

The match will draw upward of $75,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $16.50, in contrast with the $442,000 gate at their last encounter when Delaney defeated the one-time "Astoria assassin" in their 15 round battle at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, to win the world's light heavyweight title.

Their previous contests resulted in each winning a decision over the 15 round route, with Delaney scoring a sensational knockout in four rounds in their first battle.

Both warriors finished training siege without mishap. Delaney will weigh about 177 pounds tomorrow night, only two pounds above the light heavyweight limit, with Berlenbach weighing about 172 1-2. Delaney probably will enter the ring a 7 to 5 favorite, with little or no betting on the result.

Berlenbach is considerably annoyed over the insinuations that he is only "a hollow shell," and that he should retire from the ring.

"I am continuing to fight for only one reason," Berlenbach said. "And that is to show a certain clique that I am not through. I want to regain the light heavyweight title."

TO FORM FUND FOR AGED BALL PLAYERS

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 8—(AP)—Preliminary steps toward the collection of a fund to be used in caring for aged, sick and indigent ball players and umpires were taken here today when the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues voted to raise the nucleus of the fund in the coming year.

Class AA leagues will contribute $750 each while smaller sums will be collected from class A and B clubs.

Under this plan the minors would raise at least $5,000 the first year the plan is in operation. The majors are expected to at least match the minor fund. The payments will be made annually until the fund reaches $50,000 and then suspended until such a time as further contributions become necessary.

LITTLE HELD FOR MURCHISON'S RECOVERY

DECATUR, Ills., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Loren Murchison, 28, famous sprinter and Olympic athlete, who is suffering from influenza and complications at St. Mary's hospital here, was believed tonight to have a slight chance for recovery. Murchison became ill in his hotel room here Wednesday and was taken to a hospital. Tonight he showed signs of regaining consciousness.

MYSTERY ABOUT MEEHAN'S RESIGNATION IS DISSOLVED

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The mystery surrounding Head Coach John F. Meehan's disagreement with athletic authorities of New York university was dissolved today with announcement of the board of athletic control revealing the "circumstances" that prompted the young football mentor to disclose on Saturday his intended resignation.

The announcement of Assistant Dean G. Rowland Collins, chairman of the board, also revealed that Meehan, on of the most successful of the younger coaches, signed a three year contract last October 18, replacing a similar agreement expiring at the close of this month.

The new contract, however, has been dissolved "by mutual consent," Mr. Collins said, and negotiations entered for a new agreement. Final action, however, has been postponed for ten days. Meehan also is said to desire a part in making up the university's annual football schedule.

PELTZER PAYS VISIT TO UNIV. OF PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Dr. Otto Peltzer, German track star, paid his first visit to an American college today in his tour of this country to study athletic conditions.

Accompanied by his cousin, Miss Herman, who acted as his interpreter, the record-breaking runner was escorted through the University of Pennsylvania athletic plant by H. Jamison Swarts, assistant graduate manager.

Peltzer said he would be unable to accept the invitation to participate in the Pennsylvania relay races next April. He said he would accept the ruling of the German Athletic association that he not enter competition while in this country. The German authorities insist that he should conserve his strength for the Olympics.

The great German athlete expects to return to Europe in March. He holds the world's record for 880 yards, 500 meters and 1500 meters.

ANDY RUSH IS TRADED INTO WESTERN LOOP

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Jesse H. (Andy) Rush, leading shutout pitcher of the Eastern league last season was traded to the Des Moines club of the Western league today by President Fred Voos of the Bridgeport club, according to word received tonight from Voos in Dallas, Tex. President Voos also announced the purchase of Alfred McCurdy, first baseman of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league to replace Manager Frank Stapleton sold yesterday to the Montreal club of the International league.

Rush was credited with a no-hit, no-run game against Springfield here last season and pitched and won a double-header to complete the first "iron man" stunt here in years.

BIKE RACERS STILL HUDDLED AT 97TH HOUR

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Riders in the 43rd international six day bicycle race were still huddled at the front at 10 o'clock tonight with three teams tied for the lead and the next two combinations pedalling in a deadlock also.

The leaders, Belloni-Debaets, Spencer-Winter and Lands-van Nek, had covered 1,682 miles and nine laps on the mad whirl of wheels at the 97th hour of the event. One lap behind were the entree of McNamara-Georgetti and Petri-Hill while the Faudet-Marcillas outfit trailed three laps from the front.

McNamara and Georgetti were crowding the leaders hard during the evening sprints. A crowd of 20,000 occupied every bit of available space around the Madison Square Garden saucer.

Walsh Sold to Reading

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Charles (Tweet) Walsh, of Woburn, second baseman of the Pittsfield baseball club of the Eastern league, has been sold to Reading of the International league. Walsh formerly played third base for Holy Cross. He was with Lewiston of the New England league in 1926.

Call for Writers' Meeting

BOSTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Burton Whitman, president of the Baseball Writers' association of America, has issued a call for the winter meeting of the organization to be held in conjunction with the joint meetings of the National and American leagues at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, on December 15th.

FORMATION OF EASTERN CONN. HIGH SCHOOL CONFERENCE SEEMS PROBABLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 8—Formation of a strong conference, truly representative of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island, loomed brightly tonight after a meeting of the four regular members of the present league supposed to embrace the section mentioned augmented by invited guests from three high schools. It was announced that a special meeting will be held in Norwich Monday, Dec. 19 for further discussion of the project.

The presence of Coaches William R. Canty of Bulkeley High of New London and Thomas A. Callaghan of Windham High of Willimantic lent considerable support to a long desired move.

Wheeler High of North Stonington, a smaller school, had its athletic director on hand. Others present were Earle E. Brigham and Peter Riley of Norwich, Joel B. Sherman, Westerly, William O'Brien of Stonington and E. Stanley Taylor of Chapman Tech.

This was the annual meeting of the eastern Connecticut-western Rhode Island Interscholastic athletic council and was held at Westerly High school. President William O'Brien of Stonington presided.

Sherman Elected President

Joel B. Sherman of Westerly was elected president for the ensuing year with Retiring President O'Brien receiving the vice-presidency. E. Stanley Taylor of Chapman Tech was chosen secretary and Matthew J. Sheridan of Norwich Free Academy was named treasurer.

A general discussion followed and a generally favorable attitude seemed to be taken by those present toward the enlarging of the league. The Windham and Bulkeley men showed great interest in the proposed loop and it is practically certain that if a workable plan can be decided upon they will enter this league.

It is the desire of those in charge to have the new league open with the 1928 football campaign. Schedules for the intervening sports have already been drawn up.

Although Windham and Bulkeley were the only logical aspirants for posts in the proposed loop on hand today still there is a possibility of even greater membership for it was reported that favorable attitude has been taken by Putnam, Killingly and Plainfield.

A desire to take up the Norwich Morning Bulletin's plan announced the early part of the year was foreseen during the course of the meeting. Although nothing definite was done by those present, still it is desired that this plan be talked over with the sports editor of that paper.

The Bulletin announced early this year that it would place a cup or trophy (whichever was desired) for competition and that the worth of this cup would be at least $100.

The tentative plan was for the organization of a league or conference that was representative of the high schools in the eastern part of the state, at least six teams to be members of the conference. The original plan was for the cup to be awarded each year to the high school that excelled in the major sport, the standing to be figured on a point basis. The school winning the cup or trophy three years would become permanent owners.

BRADLEY TO MAKE ALL ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR EVANS

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8—(AP)—Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland American league baseball club, in a telegram from St. Louis tonight advised friends here that as yet he had not conferred with Art Fletcher, New York Yankees coach, as to Fletcher's managing the Indians next year and that when the announcement of any new manager was made it would come from Alva Bradley, president of the club.

Roger Peckinpaugh, White Sox infielder and right hand man to Manager Schalk, and "Muddy" Ruel, Washington Senators' catcher, are among the leading possibilities for the managership, in the view of local baseball men.

Evans conferred with Peckinpaugh at the latter's home here several times last week.

Fletcher intimated to sporting writers here recently that he did not want the job.

CONN. WOMEN'S GOLF MEETING ON TUESDAY

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Connecticut Women's Golf association will hold its annual mid-winter meeting and luncheon Tuesday afternoon, December 13, at 1 o'clock at the Lite Cabin, at Cheshire, it was announced today by Mrs. Russell Fenn, of New Haven, secretary-treasurer of the C. W. G. A.

Mrs. M. J. Lawlor, of Waterbury, president of the association, will preside and a schedule for the 1928 season will be adopted including the setting of a date for the eleventh annual state championship tournament at the Farmington Country club and the selection of dates for the open day tournaments, team matches, and the annual two day match with the Boston Women's Golf association team.

Officials of the C. W. G. A. who will attend the meeting include Mrs. M. J. Lawlor, Mrs. George Seeley, New Haven, vice president; Mrs. Russell Fenn; Mrs. Wendell G. Raycroft, Bridgeport, member of executive committee; Mrs. J. K. Williamson, Bridgeport, chairman of handicap committee; Mrs. Burnside Winslow, New Haven, member of executive committee; Mrs. H. A. Martelle, Hartford, state team captain; and Mrs. Herbert House, Farmington, member of executive committee.

ACADEMY BRIEFS

The election of the committee for the annual football dance resulted in three of the team being raised to the honor of planning the event. John Kahn, Billy Tirrell and Sherrod Ingalls were the successful candidates.

Representatives from the school were in attendance at the league meeting in Westerly Thursday.

The Academy's league season officially opens with the basketball team, nowadays. The Red and White is not represented in dual competition in this loop during the fall months, the only activity of league flavor being the annual cross-country run.

Present rumors have it that the first basketball practice will be held next week.

The campus now looks little like the merry playground it has proven to many during the past spring, summer and fall months. Slush and mud now hold it in their slimy grip.

Since January 1 Academy varsity teams in dual competition have won something like 33 games, lost 18 and tied one. This is not so bad when it is considered that approximately half of the defeats were administered by a basketball team in its first year.

The state championship baseball team, of course heavily bolstered the victory side with 16 decisions and but two losses.

The football team was the guest of the Rotary club Wednesday in keeping with the annual custom.

Reminiscent of the memorable 6-6 tie in the traditional grid battle this fall someone has suggested that Bulkeley sure Can-ty.

"Y" EMPS HOLD FINAL PRACTICE FOR SATURDAY NIGHT'S GAME

The "Y" Emps held a fast workout last night in preparation for their coming game with the speedy New London "Y" Rotary Boys this Saturday night at the local "Y" gym. The inter-city feud in basketball promises to be as exciting as the other games in different sports during the past year. In anticipation of a hard game Coach Conklin sent the boys through a one hours workout that included several games between the first and second teams. Coach Conklin told of the faults in the last game and during practice pointed out other bad faults. In view of the fact that this is an inter-city game and the only game scheduled in town for Saturday night, a large crowd is epected. There will be a fast preliminary game.

NEW YORK AMATEUR TEAM WINS TWO AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8—(AP)—The New York amateur boxing teams won two of its bouts and lost three here tonight. Larry James of Derby, furnished the upset of the evening by defeating Phil Battick, local favorite in an overtime bout, while Jack Beasley, another favorite beat Frank Rybeck, of Boston, who knocked out Beasley last week.

The other bouts:

Nick Florentino, New Haven, won from Ralph Lombardi, Worcester, 110.

Alex Turan, Putnam, won from Bobby Pease, New Haven, 145.

Jackie Faulk, New York, knocked out Joe Banks, Worcester, 126, third.

Al Peters, New York, won from Steve Vane, Derby, 110.

Joe Masselli, New Haven, won from Walter Lacey, New York, 118.

Wilfred Savguce, Worcester, knocked out Billy Mesko, Bridgeport, 126, second.

SUSIE IS WITH US AGAIN

Well! Well! Look who is back in print again. If it isn't our old friend Susie, Mrs. Susie to be more explicit. Yep, Susie has "done got married" but we'll let her tell it in her own way in the letter which she writes to the Sports Editor as follows:

Hello Ed. Old Socks:

It's been a whale of a long time since I penned a missive to you and believe me Ed there's a lotta dirty water run under the trestle in the meantime, also down the old sink spout. Between washing dishes, mending socks, undressing spuds, sweeping etc. for my better or worse, the last preferred, I don't get much time to put my thoughts, if you can call 'em that, down on paper. Yep, me and the boy friend is working in double harness now. Gosh, you know I never thought that kid was going to get up spunk enough to ask me if I was willing to wash his dirty shirts, but he did and I do. So that's that.

But you should of seen me and the kid getting spliced. Boy, I laugh ever time I think of it and that's about all the time, if you know what I mean. Don't get me wrong, I aint crabbing. I went into it with my eyes open, only somebody musta stole my glass and I'm near-sighted. Well, me and the kid, didn't have no brilliant wedding where they throw rice and old shoes etc. Sometimes I wish we did 'cause then maybe them old shoes would have come in handy and they say the Chinamen get fat and healthy on rice. We stole away one night and goes to a minster and he does the knot tying, the son of a gun. We stands up before him and there's a coupla mourners hanging round to see that there's no slip knot being tied. I thought they was witnesses at first, so you can see how a iggerrant I was. The sky pilot says a lotta words about obeying etc. and simple Susie says, yes. He says do you take him for better or worse and I guesses better but I'm wrong again.

Well, after we'd been tied the padre says to the boy friend "salute the bride" and that darned kid steps backs one pace and gives me the neatest military salute, a la Pershing, you ever saw. I hears a mourner snicker and the minister says, "kiss her" and then the boy gives me the skimpiest scrimiest kiss a he-man ever gave a sheba and I don't mean perhaps. I was disappointed knowing how that kid can do a real job.

When the sad rites was complete we goes home to break the news of the fatality. Now, Ed, don't think I'm trying to make fun of the grand institution of marriage, 'cause I ain't, there ain't nothing funny about it, never was and never will be. It's like going down a flight of strange stairs in the dark, you never know when you're going to fall. Well, as I said we went home and before I could say a word both ma and pa rushes over and with a "bless you my children" and a kiss. Funny how they knew about it. After the condolences me and the boy takes a trip to Atlantic City, "The Display Ground of the World." And Oh! what they display. We gets there about the time the bathing beauty show is on and we see Miss America. When the boy sees me in my bathing togs he calls me Miss Creation. I feels mighty complimented till I see what old man Webster says about miscreation and then I slapped the kid's face. Well when the kid had spent all but his fare home we treks back to the Rose of New England and here we is and where I expects to be for some time to come. In other words I don't expect to go nowhere, no time and no more. I'm married and being married I can say with enthusiasm that the guy what said two can live as cheap as one is cuckoo in the most concentrated sence of the word.

Well Ed. I see a nother baseball and football season has come and went, like my money, Mr. Waters is still mayor and Johnny Donovan is still street commissioner, so all's well with the world. Christmas is coming and the snappy giftide which don't mean nothing in my young life. I read the papers and keep up with the pinochle scores and the latest Social Corner recipes so life ain't so bad if you are married.

Well I gotta go into conference with some Irish pomme de terres before the kid gets home from the foundry and as its pay night I gotta do my prettiest. You know the way to a man's pocketbook, especially a married man, is through his tummy.

So Long,

MRS. SUSIE.

Forsman Has Retired

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Paul Forsman, National sprint skating champion, announced his retirement today to devote his time exclusively to business. Forsman won the National title at Saranac Lake, N. Y., last year.

In addition to the national crown, Forsman won the Metropolitan sprint title for the past five years and is Eastern outdoor and Interstate outdoor champion. He holds a world record of 18 2-5 seconds for 200 yard outdoors, made in 1923. Forsman is 24 years old.

RED SOX RELEASE CATCHER HARTLEY TO CLEVELAND

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Boston American league club has released Grover Hartley, catcher, to the Cleveland club of the American league on waivers, Secretary James Price of the Boston club announced tonight. The news came from President Quinn of the Red Sox, now in Dallas, Tex., attending the meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

RECENTLY GIVEN HIS UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Last week saw building activities slow down considerably due to the bad weather and from now on it is expected that work will be hampered more or less by cold weather, rain and snow. November was very favorable to building operations and all of the contractors took advantage of the weather to rush their work along. At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton there were but a few applications for building permits received and these were for small buildings and alterations to present buildings.

Last week work on the new house on Carrol avenue that W. S. Spencer is to build for himself started. The cellar was excavated and the foundation work has been laid. The work on the superstructure will begin this week. The house is to be 27x38 feet and will also have a two-car garage. There will be eight rooms and a bath which will be finished in all hardwood and hard-finish plaster.

Contractor W. S. Spencer has been awarded the contract for the new house for Flint Brayton to be erected at Norwich Town. Work began Saturday on the excavation for the cellar. It is to be of frame construction, 28x32 feet, two and a half stories high, with a brick garage attached. The first floor will contain four rooms, a hall and a lavatory. The second floor will have seven rooms and four baths, and the third floor two rooms, a bath and a storage room. There will be a fireplace in the living room and den.

Work on the remodeling and addition to the Silberman building on Main street is progressing rapidly and has reached the stage that it is not slightly hindered by the changing weather. The steel work on the addition has reached the eighth story and the brick walls are only a story behind the steel work. The new brick front on the Main street building is practically complete with the exception of the window casings and windows on two floors.

Other projects in the city have been brought along with good progress and there is every prospect that the slack season this year will be of short duration. The work on the new ward buildings at the Norwich state hospital being erected by the H. Wales Lines Co., moves along with good speed and the steel work on one of the buildings is nearing completion.

WESTERLY.

Most of the building construction in Westerly had advanced far enough so that the cold wave at the first of the week did not materially hinder the workmen. The new building of the Green Stores, Inc., replacing the northerly half of the old Alling Rubber company block on High street was completed even to the laying of front cement sidewalk and reflector glass prismatic glass transom windows. Store fixtures are now being installed.

Window sashes are now being installed in the new brick business block of Marrone & Castagna on Canal street in front of the Alba inn property. The work of removing the former residence of the late Dr. John L. May from Canal street to the rear, near the Alba inn has so far been completed that the Nardone Construction company has been able to take the moving blocking to the Panciera house at 11 Union street, which is now jacked up in readiness to be moved.

Westerly Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning permits, which are identical with the building permits issued by Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills from his office in the Washington Trust block. They are as follows:

Nov. 28. Merton L. Scott, 12 Spruce street. Reshingling roof with wooden shingles. Thomas H. Morrison, contractor.

Nov. 28. William E. Walling, Meadow lane, Watch Hill. Reshingling one-half roof. Lewis S. McNeil, contractor.

Nov. 28. Mrs. William D. Carpenter, 35 Beach street. Reshingling roof of garage and tool house with slate coated roofing.

Nov. 28. George C. Moore company, Beach street. Addition 13 feet by 25 feet of three stories to residence of Thomas Moore, Moore road. Walter E. Hiscox, contractor.

Nov. 28. James Nacarato, 136 Central park. Addition of 8 feet to present garage.

Nov. 28. Alexander Beattie, 22 John street. Reshingle roof with slate coated shingles. John Beattie, contractor.

Nov. 29. Mrs. Domenica E. Samsataro, 33 Granite street. Reshingle roof at 33 Granite street with slate coated shingles. Nu-Art-Tile Roofing company, Norwich, contractors.

Nov. 29. Timothy Cronin, 27 Newton avenue. Reshingle roof with slate coated shingles. Nu-Art-Tile Roofing company, Norwich, contractors.

Nov. 30. Panciera Brothers, 92 Granite street. Remove wooden frame dwelling house from No. 11 Union street to new location in southwesterly direction. Samuel Nardone & Company, contractors.

Nov. 30. William Minchen, 82 Main street. Remove wooden stairs at side of Minchen block, 2 Union street to permit a cut on to Union street.

Nov 30. Margaret L. Casey, 53 Railroad avenue. Remove portion of old Kenyon house, from 114 Main street to a location 300 feet back from East avenue on property leased by South County Rod and Gun company.

Nov. 30. Willard H. Bacon, 33 Spruce street. Two car garage at 33 Spruce street. William Rinne, Contractor.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were five sales of real estate as compared to eleven sales for the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $24,800 and $24,350.

The sales of real estate in New London during the past week numbered six as compared to seven sales during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $37,367 and $49,700.

New London.

Williams street extension, west of the Connecticut college has been the scene of extensive developments in realty during the past few years during which a former barren stretch of land along the Norwich-New London highway has been changed to become a residential section with all improvements under way.

During the past two years four new homes have been built along that stretch of road and it is quite probable that next summer will see the construction of a museum and possibly the erection of a chapel for the Connecticut college.

The city has already voted to lay sidewalks along the newly-developed section and indications point to further expansion of the college colony from the east side of the campus, which is beginning to feel cramped for space.

Work will be started in the near future on the construction of a brick garage, 25 by 29, in Howard street for the Southern New England Ice Co. application for permit to build the structure has been filed with Building Inspector William Gunn.

Ground has been broken for the construction of a new dwelling to be erected in Cutler street for Silvin Bartolucci. The new structure will be 49 by 28 feet, of brick construction, designed for two-family occupancy.

Work is soon to be started on the construction of a new cottage in Montauk avenue for Joseph A. St. Germain. The new dwelling will be 27 by 32 feet, of frame construction, containing seven rooms with all modern improvements and conveniences.

Work is well under way on the construction of a large brick addition and the general alteration to the building occupied by the City Dye Works in Bank street, and owned by Jeremiah Twomey. The addition is being erected in the rear of the present building.

One foundation has been completed and work is under way on the second of two new houses to be built in Colman street for Gildo Minucci. The new houses will each be 26 by 34 feet, of frame construction, designed for single family occupancy and of modern cottage architecture. Work is being done by the day from private plans. The new houses are located near the Jefferson avenue end of Colman street in a section recently opened and which is the location of several new houses in the past year.

Work is progressing on the construction of the foundation for a new house to be built in Ledyard street by H. R. Griswold. The new house will be 22 by 40 feet, of frame construction containing all modern improvements and conveniences.

The stone foundation for a new two-family house to be built for Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ready in Raymond street is practically completed and work about to start on the upper structure. The new dwelling is 26 by 47 feet and work is being done by the day from private plans.

Plans specify all modern improvements and conveniences.

Building Permits.

M. J. O'Connell, cottage, Neptune avenue, $6,500.

A. H. Beckman, cottage, Lester street, $6,000.

T. F. Moran, cement block garage, Bellevue place, $600.

New London & Norwich Sign Co., steel frame with steel covering, 166 Bank street, $600.

Total number of permits issued for the week, 4; estimated cost of buildings, $13,700.

NORWICH TOWN

MISS HELEN WOODWORTH TO ADDRESS C. E. UNION

Miss Helen Woodworth of Wilson, Conn., corresponding secretary of Connecticut Christian Endeavor union, is expected to arrive in Norwich, Saturday evening from Hartford. She will be the guest over the week end and Monday, of Miss Jessie E. Hyde, of Washington street.

Sunday afternoon, Miss Woodworth is to tell a story to the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the First Congregational church. That evening in the chapel, she also will address the Y. P. S. C. E., at its regular service, on "Christian Endeavor in Our State."

When the executive meeting of Norwich C. E. union is held at Miss Hyde's home Monday evening, Miss Woodworth, will give a talk to the members, along the lines of Christian Endeavor work.

The president of Norwich C. E. union, Harold Muttart, and Mrs. Muttart, of Preston City, when attending the state executive meeting of Christian Endeavor, held Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., Hartford, had as their auntomobile guest, Miss Jessie E. Hyde, who with President Muttart, is a member of that committee.

A successful supper, under the auspices of the Drop-in class of the First Congregational Sunday school, was held Wednesday at six o'clock, in the chapel. This was preceded by a sale of Christmas articles, from four o'clock on, and this also had good patronage.

The menu consisted of chicken pie, mashed potato, mashed turnip, celery, rolls, cranberry sauce, cake and coffee. The table decorations were Christmas candles and evergreen. The pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, said grace before the 150 patrons were served. Over $100 was realized. The supper was in charge of Mrs. David M. Dean, who was ably assisted by the following members of the class: Mrs. Charles P. Learned, Mrs. Frank E. Sterry, Mrs. Orrin F. Merry, Mrs. Charles Schwenk, Mrs. Frank Wheeler, Mrs. Philip B. Whaley, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. Frank Skinner, Mrs. Frederick Ross, Mrs. Michael Buckley, Mrs. C. H. Nylen and Miss Louise Hopping. The waitresses were: Misses Rose Durr, Lucile Browning, Ruth Taylor, Eleanor Smith, and Marian Buckley, Reginald Avery and Crosby Peck, poured coffee. Henry T. Frazier was cashier. Others from the Men's Forum who gave valuable service were Clyde M. Beebe, Charles P. Learned and Frank Skinner. In attendance at the supper were many from the city. During the afternoon hours of the sale, Mrs. Henry T. Frazier and Mrs. Charles P. Learned sold homemade candy, while Mrs. Frank E. Sterry and Mrs. Frank Wheeler, were at the apron and fancy work table.

Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters, held a meeting Tuesday evening, at the home of one of the members on East Town street.

Master Junior Bressette of Hallville, has been visiting his cousin, little Miss Louise Hoppman, of 34 Town street.

There is to be a roll call of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, its December meeting, and the closing one for 1927, at the Johnson Home, Monday afternoon.

Since the recent severe rain storms, Yantic river is running high, having overflowed its banks in many localities.

While Mrs. King visited a Lawrence newspaper office to advertise for the lost bird, Tiny flew through the open window of the newspaper's counting room and alighted on the shoulder of an employe and was caught.

The New Idea of Cancer

Many Cases Can Be Cured If Reported Promptly

BULLETIN No. 10.

THE SURGICAL TREATMENT OF CANCER.

Surgery is the most scientific branch of medicine, and in no direction is surgery capable of greater accomplishments than in cancer.

Standard procedures exist for the surgical treatment of cancer in nearly every part of the body. The operative technique employed by one surgeon is practically idenical with the procedure used by another.

There is no secrecy about the surgery of cancer. Nobody has a proprietary method of an exclusive instrument. What is done by one surgeon or at a given clinic is known to all. Through meetings of their associations, by means of their profusely illustrated journals and by visits of investigation and study the surgeons of one country are made familiar with the work done elsewhere. All over the United States, as in Europe, skillful surgeons are available to perform what would have been regarded a hundred years ago as miracles.

Surgery is the main weapon with which civilization is seeking to combat cancer. It is used as a preventive and cure. It is employed as a preventive when it removes precancerous conditions and as a curative when it eliminates the cancer itself. Not uncommonly radium and X-rays are employed in connection with surgery.

It is a relic of barbarous times when unreasoning fear is allowed to prevent a patient from getting the benefit of surgical treatment. It is reminiscent of the days before anaesthetics were employed, before aseptic operations were performed.

Surely the triumphs of which so many brilliant examples were afforded by the great war should teach the public that surgery is one of the most beneficial resources of modern times.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Hub—Where do you want to go this summer?

Wife—Oh, I don't know—anywhere where I can spend money.

Hub—But I thought you wanted a change.—Boston Transcript.

"Look here," shouted the agitated customer, rushing into the chemist's shop, "you gave me strychnine instead of quinine."

"Then that will be another dime, sir," said the assistant.—Tit-Bits.

He—If you'll give me your telephone number, I'll call you up some time.

She—It's in the book.

He—Fine! What's your name?

She—That's in the book, too—Life.

Customer—"Say my chest measurement is 36—not 42!"

Tailor—"That's all right, sir. You'll puff out your chest to beat the band in a suit like this."—Exchange.

Browne—Did you give your wife that little lecture on economy you talked about?

Baker—Yes.

"Any results?"

"Yes—I've got to give up smoking"—Answer, London.

"Is your husband's hardware business prospering?" the young bride was asked.

"Indeed, it is," was the confident reply. "He must be taking lots of money, for he told me last night they had had to appoint a receiver to assist him."—Good Hardware.

The Christian names of the baby were "Alfred Homer," and the minister, making the usual entries, paused.

"Strange," he thought, as he recalled Homer, the Greek poet. "A queer name for the son of a laborer!" Then he turned to the proud father. "Your favorite poet?" he asked.

"Poet, sir?" repeated the man with a surprised look; "No, I keep pigeons!"

KALEIDOSCOPE

Although most disease germs can not stand intense heat, the germs of lockjaw can survive for ninety minutes in boiling water.

Since blacksmith shops are going out of existence, the United States department of agriculture has published a bulletin to show farmers how to shoe their own horses.

By raising an aerial ladder and reaching the top of a four-story building in 22 2-7 seconds, a company of Denver (Col.) firemen claim to have broken all records. The time was made at a county fair.

Harold Saunders, a rancher and airplane owner in southern Oregon near Memford, recently planted ten acres of land to winter blue grass, using his airplane. This grass, peculiar to this country, grows from a bulb and it is tossed on the ground and left to mature in the winter and spring. The land was seeded in a few minutes.

"Hard work never killed anybody," says Mrs. Charles Gould, eighty-three of Hillsborough, N. H., and points to herself and the seven cords of rock maple and birch wood that she split and piled in the shed this summer to prove her statement. Furthermore, Mrs. Gould expects to reach the century mark by dint of hard work alone and challenges any woman of her age to duplicate the splitting and piling of seven cords of wood.

The squirrels that abound in the environs of Ottawa Park, Toledo, O., are due for a disappointment when they open their stores of nuts this winter. They have been garnering golf balls from the golf course at the park. To prove this, some golfers placed a number of slightly soiled balls on a fairway and then hid behind a clump of bushes. Sure enough, a few moments later a number of squirrels darted out into the open and dashed away, leaving not a single ball.

school grounds at the School street school after 5 p. m. week days excepting Saturday, when all day parking will be permitted there. Other temporarily parking sites obtained are near the state armory and at the plant of the Danielson Oil company on Railroad square. These arrangements provide for parking space for a large number of cars over and above the number than can be accommodated when only the usual parking spaces are available.

This afternoon all checks going to members of the Christmas club of the Windham County National bank were mailed out, and as early as this evening some of them were in the hands of those who having been saving a year to have one for the holiday season of 1927. This bank, some 15 years ago, was the first to establish the Christmas club plan in Danielson. The growth of it has been remarkable for a community of this size, for this year well over 2,000 checks have gone out from the different banks to club members. Today's releases by the Windham County National and the Danielson Trust company, which also mailed out its member checks, completes the release of this money in Danielson for this year. Exact figures of the total releases are not available, but it is in the neighborhood of $125,000, it was said today.

Perhaps it is a bit early to grow too enthusistic about it, but it so happens that Danielson has been given up so far this holiday season by houses that mail out cheap neckties and other such things, without their being ordered, and then start writing letters to get money for the mechandise. This nuisance has been inflicted on Danielson in two or three Christmas seasons and proved a great irritant to many people. This year is promising to be an exception. However, if it is not, and such things come through the mails, one has but to write and inform the sender that they are being held until the people mailing the goods call for them. This system has proved a great curative for this merchandising evil.

Cashier Francis E. Storer of the Windham County National bank said this afternoon that since that bank pioneered the Christmas club plan in Danielson about 15 years ago, the institution has paid out in Christmas club funds, including this year's distribution, $250,000. Without exception, the club disbursements have been larger in every succeeding year, this year topping all the years that have gone before.

LIONS ARRANGING FOR CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Norwich Lions club held their regular luncheon meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with President William R. Frisbie in the chair and with a large attendance. There were a number of guests present, Edward Carpenter was the song leader and Miss Evon M. Broadhurst, a guest, assisted at the piano. The meeting opened with the singing of America and E. C. Dunbar said grace. Max Hanover, chairman of the New Year's theatre party for the poor children of Norwich, stated that in company with Abner Schwartz and Louis M. Crandall, he visited Manager Fink of the Palace theatre and secured his cooperation in providing a free theatre party for the children.

Mr. Hanover introduced Mr. Fink who told of his whole hearted interest in the coming event. He stated that he had secured the picture A Kiss From Cinderella which he is sure will greatly please the children. The theatre party will take place Saturday morning, December 31st. Mr. Fink was given an ovation at the close of his talk.

L. H. Taylor of Sydney, Australia, gave a very interesting account of Camberra, the Australian capital, and told of its growth and civic and social relations. Mrs. Ida Hirst Gifford of the American Foundation for the Blind of New York, addressed the meeting. She read an excerpt from a paper, "The Social Adjustment of the Blind" prepared by Murray B. Allen, the blind field agent of Utah Commission for Adult Blind. In closing Mrs. Gifford paid tribute to the Lions International for their philanthropic work which they carry out in distributing the Lions Braille magazine for the blind of America and urged the Norwich Lions to contribute one copy of "Elizabeth in the German Garden," by Russell, written in Braille, at a cost of $312. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Gifford for her instructive talk.

The singing of the Star Spangled Banner, followed by the Lions roar brought the meeting to a close.

Car-loads of Christmas trees from points north continue to run through Norwich.

MISS MINNIE SCHULMAN TO GRADUATE AT CHICAGO

THE CURSE AND CHARM OF FARMING.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

If there is any one field of human activities in which superstition has no rightful place it is farming.

The farmer is up against a universe of hard facts all his life.

Not only hard facts, but prosaic, commonplace,—one is tempted to say sordid facts.

Facts such as those of dirt and stone and stumps and weeds and weather.

No farmer nowadays thinks of his farm as a fairyland whereon he is liable to meet either hostile giants or friendly pixies.

What he has to meet are the forces of an exactly just but neither personally hostile nor personally friendly nature.

He finds out, sooner or later,—and it is lucky for him if it be sooner rather than later,—that these forces show absolutely no consideration for him, either helpful or harmful.

They move on their regulated but wholly impersonal way with no more regard for his interests than for the interests of the pussley which infests his garden.

All is fish to their net,—a net fine enough to inclose microscopic bacilli yet strong enough to control a wild elephant or a thunder-storm.

He also learns,—if he is capable of so much education,—that there is nothing freakish about the action of nature's forces.

They move with the irrestible push of the universe behind them, but with absolute and unvarrying certainty. They do not veer a hair's-breadth from their allotted course to help the farmer or to harm him, not even to warn him that they are coming.

Effect always follows cause,—the same effect invariably succeeding the same cause. Nor is there ever an effect without a cause. The two are welded together into a chain which no human effort avails to break.

The only effective course of action open to the farmer is to find out, so far as he can, what are the natural causes producing natural effects, and get in line with them, so far as it is possible for him to do so.

He must tune his fiddle in harmony with the universe if he hopes to keep his place in the band-wagon.

His success in cultivating land and growing crops depends upon his wisdom in finding out what are the causes of the effects he wants to secure, and upon his sagacity,—his "gumption,"—in selecting such a position in the onward-moving ranks as will naturally tend to bring closest to his desired goal.

But he must do so with the assured conviction that the onward march of the forces he allies himself with won't deviate one inch from their ordered advance.

If his goal is on their route, they will carry him towards it; but they won't swerve sitiher to right or left in order to take him to it if he has mistaken its compass bearings.

All farmers recognize this basic truth to an extent. No one is such a ninny as to plant corn in November. Ask him why not and he will reply that it won't grow in freezing weather.

But that isn't the "why" at all. One natural law requires that the germ in the corn kernel must have a certain amount of warmth and liquid moisture to start it into growth. Another natural law, known to the astronomers, calls for certain changes in the position of sun and earth to each other on account of which, for certain months of the year, adequate warmth does not reach that germ. The ground freezes, water freezes, even the clouds freeze into snow. So the farmer waits till the natural movement of sun and earth has again brought them into such relations to each other that warmth and moisture can do their work.

Wintry weather may be the cause of his corn failing to grow, but wintry weather is itself but an effect,—the effect of a fixed astronomical order. That astronomical order is the cause of winter. Yet it, also, is but the effect of the still farther distant cause which holds both sun and earth to stated orbits.

This may seem to some of you like going a long ways round to get to the same door. Practically, what difference does it make whether you ascribe the refusal of a corn kernel to germinate in December to the fact that "it's winter," or to the fact that the orbits of the sun and earth have changed in their annual procession?

Well, if you'll stop right there, with that single illustration, it will not make much practical difference. The empiric ("blindly and narrowly experimental") method is sometimes necessary. Also, it sometimes leads to real knowledge. But it is, also, the mother and grandmother of superstition.

It may lead to correct action in one case. It is just as likely to lead into a quagmire in another.

Of all men engaged in productive labor, the farmer is the one who needs to know most fully and certainly the "why" of things. Of course, he must also know the "how." But his skill in knowing how to till is of small avail if it isn't based on some degree of real knowledge as to why he tills in that particular way.

Once an old farmer of my acquaintance raised a prolific crop of luscious watermelons on a certain gravel ridge. He kept on planting them on that ridge for years and years,—and never got another melon from it. Because that ridge once produced a crop, he jumped at the conclusion that it was the soil which was responsible. And he couldn't and wouldn't learn that it must have been something else. Nor would he try to find out what that mysterious something else was.

I think I've told you of the other two old farmers who were both fond of green cucumbers, but fought all their lives over the question when was the right time to plant them. Gad said they must be planted in the young of the moon; Phineas swore that they must be planted in the old of the moon. For forty years they grew cucumbers within a quarter of a mile of each other. One year Gad would have a bouncing crop. Whereupon he'd call Phineas and brag and gloat and dogmatize. Another year Phineas would have cucumbers by the cord. Then he, in his turn, would make fun of Gad. So they kept it up hammer and tongs, cat and dog fashion, till they both grew too old even to care for cucumbers.

Neither one of them attempted to discriminate between a coincidence and a consequence.

It was easier to ascribe the quality of the crop to a distant satellite, which changed its position and appearance in accordance with the laws of gravitation and optics, regardless of cucumbers, than to try and find out the real causes which lead to a copious production of kukes. As a result one sometimes failed; sometimes the other. They followed the ignis fatuus of superstition, instead of the steady lamp of reason.

It is not superstition to assume that the moon governs the ocean tides, because 10,000 times 10,000 tests and experiences have led to the adoption of this theory as the only workable and dependable hypothesis.

But when one "old Indian" is quoted as saying that it will be a dry month when the new moon's cresent stands on its tip "so the powder-horn will fall off," and another "old Indian" is quoted as saying that will be a wet month because the hook is too straight up and down "to hang a water-bucket on" both sayings may be taken as closely akin to superstition. For the shape and illumination of the crescent depend solely upon the relative positions of sun, earth and moon at the time.

These positions are fixed by astronomical, not meteorological, laws.

It is a curious fact that our word "lunacy" is derived from the Latin name of the moon, "Luna."

And moonstruck farming is, if not lunacy, a close relation thereto.

The moon is held responsible for altogether too many maggots whose real breeding-place is in inactive brain matter.

Herein resides one motive for my constant harping upon the need of the working farmer for more and more knowledge. He can't possibly know too much, always provided he doesn't, in Josh Billings' phrase, "know too durn many things that aren't so."

For his productive attainments depend almost wholly on his ability to know the relation between natural causes and the effects he wants to secure.

—This doesn't, necessarily mean his financial success. That depends upon other knowledge of social and economic laws. I'm talking, now, merely about his competence as a producer.—

The more he knows about why this law works this way and that law works that way, the more likely he is to make the two work together for his good.

That sounds about as simple as saying that two and two make four. Yet even that proposition isn't so universally accepted. The world is chock-full of men and women who insist that two and two make five or twenty-two and a half, or some other number they happen to have at heart, just then.

And I'll be the first to admit that no farmer can ever know half or a quarter of the things it would be for his benefit to know.

That's at once the curse and the charm of our calling.

It's a curse because, dozens of times every season, we're confronted with puzzles we don't know the solution for and must chance our way through. One sighs miserably, "If I only knew." But he doesn't and has to go at it "by guess and by gosh." Incidentally it may be remarked that, if he uses reason to base his guess on, it is more apt to turn out right than if he bases his guess on superstitions, however time-hallowed.

It's also the charm of farming, just because it does keep us guessing.

If I knew "for sartin sure" that planting an acre of corn on such a day with such fertilizer and such tillage would yield me a hundred bushels, every time, without fail, it might simplify matters. But I could just as well be a wooden man with a cabbage for a head.

They say a few fleas are good for a dog; scratching after them keeps him from scratching up the Missis's flowerbeds.

A few uncertainties about our farming keep us alert. Suppose they do keep us guesing? To a Yank of the ninth generation, like old John Farmer, guessing is one of the most interesting parts of living.

But for the land's sake, do your guessing with your brains and not with your superstitions!

THE FARMER.

LIBERTY HILL

Twenty nine persons braved the biting air and cold wind to attend church Sunday morning, some coming five miles. Rev. L. L. Harris' sermon was developed from Galatians 1st chapter, 11th and 12th verses, "But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man. For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ. The storm prevented any evening meeting and mercury did not go above 28 degrees during the day. The wind was quite strong from the northeast. The storm was fine snow and hail.

The December meeting of the Men's club was held at the church rooms, 26 persons and two visitors were present. Henry Lafleur, Eugene Lafleur and Seth Oden furnished refreshments.

Robert B. Harris received a painful injury to his foot while working on the highway. A cart loaded with gravel passed over his foot. He is able to be about.

Harold Ladd of Chicago visited his uncle, Everett C. Payson and family last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Watler Cleland and son Walter, Jr., and daughter Marion of Plainfield, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. John Kinnaird, Saturday. Miss Marion stayed over the week end.

An ice storm followed the hail and snow stor mearly Monday morning.

Mrs. Gordon Kinnaird of Hartford visited Mr. and Mrs. John Kinnaird from Suday until Thursday, last week.

Everett C. Payson with his two horse team carried the milk Monday. The heavy sleet in the roads made traveling very tedious Monday. It was much improved Tuesday.

P. J. Griffin and family of Southington visited Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Choquette Sunday.

EAST HADDAM

Mrs. Frederick Tracy was a week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, in Woodstock.

At V. O. Herrier's over the recent holiday were his children, who are Mr. and Mrs. George Herrier and son of Madison, Mrs. Amy Narratil and Mrs. Mary M. Fara of South Willington and Miss Julia Herrier of Westchester.

Friends of Mrs. E. M. Wetherell, who suffered a slight shock last week, are encouraged to learn that she is recovering.

Mr. Wetherell's niece, Mrs. George Clark of Hartford, is assisting in the care of Mrs. Wetherell.

Several from here attended the twelfth annual meeting of Middlesex Farm Bureau, Inc., at Pythian hall, Middletown, Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Alice Lecrenier is visiting at the home of her son, Frank S. Lecrenier, in New Britain.

C. Palmer Spencer of Hartford was a recent visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Spencer.

Mrs. Fanny Tracy and Master Charles Peck of Wethersfield spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tracy.

Miss Helen Rafferty of Bennington, Vt., and Miss Louise Carroll of Newington were recent guests at Miss Carroll's home.

THOMPSON

Mrs. R. C. Paine entertained the Missionary society Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. E. S. Lyon will speak Sunday morning on the subject, From Carmel to the Cave. In Sunday school he will speak on Drawing a Circle.

The Yeomen of King Arthur met Saturday afternoon. A championship contest in the games has been started. The boys have invited the Girl Scouts to a Christmas party, Dec. 17th. Dec. 24th the girls furnish a Christmas tree and program assisted by Mr. Lyon at the town farm.

The Howe Marot students are to give their annual Christmas fair for the Day Kimball hospital in their library. They go for their Christmas recess Dec. 1. Thursday night they have an old English Christmas party.

The Girl Scouts had a worth while talk on Health Habits, by Miss McDonald, Tuesday afternoon. She also demonstrated bandaging and the use of the clinical thermometer in answer to questions. Mrs. Everett S. Lyons was the guest of the girls.

The apple pie contest was a most interesting affair. The judges were Mrs. Durant of Putnam, Miss Bertha Clark and Michael White of Senexet. The prize winners were Mrs. Henry Robbins, Mrs. Robert Ware and Mrs. Napoleon Auger. In a guessing contest, Mr. Elwell Kimball came the nearest and in a word contest Mrs. Kimball won. There was a program of readings and music. Mrs. Bogardus resigned as lecturer and Mrs. John Bates was named to succeed her.

CLARK'S FALLS

Mrs. Bard Bill has returned to her home, after spending several days caring for her father, Eugene Congdon, at the Laurel Glen farm.

Howard Main has repaired and shingled his home in the village.

The Ladies' Aid society held a supper and sale at the chapel Thursday evening.

A large number attended the funeral of Mrs. John Richardson last Friday.

CONSTIPATION IS THE ENEMY OF HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings prompt, natural relief!

Rid your system of constipation and help yourself to health. Headaches, bad breath, insomnia, muddy complexions are only a few of the symptoms of this widespread evil.

Constipation is the actual cause of more than forty diseases. No wonder good health is impossible when it is present. Guard against it! Protect your health!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls eaten daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend Kellogg's because it is 100% bran. Because it works as no part-bran product can do.

Delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Mix it with other cereals. Use in cooking. Sprinkle over soups. Recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served by restaurants, hotels, cafeterias. Sold by all grocers.

RELIABLE JEWELERS

The most important thing for you to do when you come to select a watch is to make your selection of a jeweler whom you can trust, a jeweler who services his watches, inspecting and regulating them when they come from the factories of the various manufacturers. We have served for a period of thirty-one years and hope to serve many more. Examine our stock. We carry the best movements manufactured.

What we have said in reference to watches applies also to rings and bracelets, etc.

Selections made now may be laid aside until Christmas.

Engagement and Fancy Diamond Rings, priced fro m $25.00 to $1,000.00.

the church, and Mr. Pate possesses exceptional virtues for the place he is to fill.

At the annual meeting of McGregor, W. R. C., last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Cora D. Page; senior vice president, Mrs. Flora E. Kennedy; junior vice president, Mrs. Nellie V. Moran; treasurer, Mrs. Hattie E. Bailey; chaplain, Mrs. Ida E. Thomas; conductor, Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson; guard, Mrs. M. A. Sayles; first delegate to convention, Mrs. Ella C. Mills; first alternate, Mrs. Harriet L. Wood; second alternate, Mrs. Eva B. Shoals.

The annual Every Member canvass for the Westfield Congregational church will be conducted next Sunday by members of the Men's club. A committee made up of Frank J. G. Bailey, Judge Sabin S. Russell, Robert M. Tyrell and A. P. Woodward is in charge. Two budgets, aggregating $6,500, are to be raised. Of this amount $5,373 is to be raised by pledges from members.

James N. Tucker reports from East Killingly that deer are unusually plentiful in that region and that some of them are so tame that persons can approach within a few feet of them before they attempt to move away.

Miss Lila Fitzpatrick, who recently underwent a surgical operation at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, is making a steady recovery and is expected to be able to return to her home in about a week.

Hundreds of the members of the parish attended the masses in observance of the feast of the Immaculate Conception at St. James' church this morning.

It is announced that the office of the county Y. M. C. A. organization is to be moved from Putnam to Danielson, and located, after January 1, in the new Dowe building.

Frank H. Elliott, 70, who is dead at his home in Putnam, was a native of the town of Killingly.

Goodyear has a soccer team again this season, and on Saturday is scheduled for a game with a Putnam team at Putnam.

The mails have given up within the past few days one of the formal notices mailed by the selective service board in Putnam to a Danielson man during the World war. Where it has been remains a mystery.

The Pomfret Nativity play is to be repeated this year, it is announced, on Sunday evening, December 18. This presentation has become famous in the United States and has been the subject of many feature stories in big daily newspapers and magazines.

A very considerable number of Danielson people already have attended to the matter of paying their personal taxes, which were due on November 15.

G. Rene Caron of a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce has reported to the organization the advisability of not undertaking the painting the name Danielson on the roof of the Powdrell and Alexander mill, as a guide to aviators, until the ice and snow of winter have gone and spring is here again.

Digging out burrows to get at furbearing animals that are in the protected class is forbidden under the game laws of Connecticut, Game Warden G. E. Withey pointed out today. Among the animals this regulation applies to are skunks.

An unusual number of squirrels are living about the borough this winter, and from friendly hands are getting an ample supply of food.

The fund to supply Christmas cheer to needy families of Danielson is slowly growing. Receptacles into which contributions are dropped are in various business places about town.

Dr. F. P. Todd and Dr. Warren A. Tanner attended a monthly meeting of physicians at the Day Kimball hospital. Dr. C. R. Garcin, of Dayville, also was in attendance.

AMSTON

Mrs. C. B. Kinney and daughter, Ruth spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fries, in Norwich Town. Mr. Kinney and Leslie Kinney motored down Sunday and brought them home. The former also went to see his brother, Clarence, on Bean Hill.

Mrs. Parkhurst, of Higganum is keeping house for E. A. Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Raymond and son have returned after spending two weeks in Canterbury, during which time Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Dean went to Cornwall, their former home, for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jacobowitz have gone to their home in New York after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Turshen. Mrs. Jacobowitz was formerly Miss Elsie Gross. The newlyweds arrived here from Washington.

Mrs. Alice Pease and daughter of Hartford recently called at Mr. and Mrs. Kinney's farm.

JEWETT CITY

POSTAL EMPLOYES RETIRE, BUT NOT ON A PENSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 8.—In the Willimantic column of Thursday's Bulletin, a story tells of the retirement on a pension by the post office department, of Arthur P. Ellsworth, a rural free delivery mail carrier.

Local United States civil service employes of whom there are five in Jewett City; three post office clerks, the R. D. man, and a railway postal clerk, are anxious that the readers of this paper shall know that civil service employes are not pensioned. Instead, they are retired on an annuity. All the thousands of civil service employes contribute 5 1-2 per cent of their salaries every payment, to be applied to their retirement fund. A pension is an annual allowance paid by the government, for past services, and applies notably to the personnel of the army and navy.

The retirement of civil service employes carries no expense to the government, except such as is necessary to carry on its administration. And in the case of the local clerks, they are retired automatically at a certain age, as prescribed by the civil-service law, with an annuity. They are not pensioned.

MOURNING FRIENDS ATTEND MRS. THORNTON'S FUNERAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 8.—The funeral of Mrs. George H. Thornton was held from her late home Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. The home was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends, representatives of the organizations of which Mrs. Thornton was a member being present also. Rev. J. W. Carter, pastor of the Methodist church, read the scripture and spoke most consolingly and hopefully, emphasizing the lesson to everyone to be learned from her helpful, cheerful life. He read a prayer by request and closed the service with prayer and benediction. The burial was in the family lot in Moosup. The bearers were Herbert E., Thomas B., Lewis H., and Walter C. Gray. The committal service was conducted by the pastor. There were beautiful flowers. Relatives and friends were present from Mystic, Pawtucket, West Barrington, Naugatuck, Norwich, Hartford and Waterford. Undertaker E. E. Gilbert had charge of the arrangements.

The news of the death of Henry Derusha, 85, in Chicopee Falls, Mass., Wednesday night, was received by relatives and friends here Thursday. Mr. Derusha was born in Jewett City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Derusha. He was employed by the Lague barber shop, and later went to Plainfield. His wife was a Plainfield girl. He leaves his wife and four children in Chicopee Falls, his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Wilfred Liberty and Mrs. Alcide St. John, of Jewett City. The body will be brought to St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon for burial.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church held its Christmas party in the vestry Tuesday afternoon with fifty in attendance. The decorations were in the holiday colors of red and green and a gaily decorated hemlock tree added a bright touch to the general scheme. The devotional service was conducted by the president, Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, who read from John's gospel and spoke on the Stewardship of Time. Following the business meeting, Mrs. B. R. Gardner took charge of the program which she had prepared.

"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," was sung by the audience and then Mrs. Gardner gave an outline of "New Paths for Old Purposes," one of the study books being used in the school of missions. This was a splendid preparation for the play, "Pilgrim's Progress," which followed. Those taking part were Gatekeeper, Mrs. Gardner; Pilgrims, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur and Mrs. John McLean; Materialism, Mrs. Lewis Hewlett, who was draped in yellow; Racialism, Miss Doris Bliven, in red; Nationalism, Miss Winifred Scates in the national colors. Love, Mrs. John Davis, robed in white and carrying a lighted candle.

Hanging at the rear of the platform were four huge keys. These the pilgrims examined in turn as the characters appeared but soon found that the keys of materialism, racialism and nationalism were not at all suitable. It remained for the key representing Love to unlock the gate to World Fellowship.

Mrs. Charles F. Gardner read "The Dream Star," Mrs. George H. Prior sang "As with Gladness Men of Old" and Miss Florence Quimby read "My Christmas List." During the play, Mrs. Prior, Mrs. F. Post, Mrs. John Hanson, Miss Quimby and Miss Margaret Jordan sang very pleasingly.

At the close of the program all present marched around a decorated table upon which they deposited their gifts and then in circle formation with clasped hands they stood with bowed heads while Mrs E. E. Scates offered a prayer of thanksgiving and dedication. The gifts, together with five dolls which members of the society have dressed, will be sent to Miss Pearl Harris, of Puerta de Tierre, Porto Rico, for the children among whom she works.

A supper of cold meat, potato salad, jelly, cake and tea was served at the close of the social hour. Miss Mabel McBroome, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur and Mrs. Arthur M. Brown poured tea, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Sherman, Mrs. John McLean and Miss Florence Quimby. Mrs. Gardner was assisted by Mrs. Edward Raney, Mrs. Helen Swift, Mrs. H. A. Sherman, Mrs. Prior and Mrs. Brown. The afternoon was one of inspiration and pleasure and the program the finest ever presented. The play met with such favor that Mrs. Gardner has been asked to repeat it next Wednesday evening at the close of the session of the Church School of Missions.

Shirley V. Peterson, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peterson, celebrated her third birthday with a party at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Gill, 24 Asplnook street, Wednesday afternoon. The dining room was decorated with pink and yellow crepe paper, with a large bouquet of yellow roses in the center of the table. A lunch of salad, sandwiches, fancy cakes, cookies, home made candies, fruit and cocoa was served by Mrs. Gill, assisted by Mrs. Charles Peterson and Mrs. Walter Gray. Present were Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mrs. Charles Peterson, Jr., Mrs. Henry Robinson, Mrs. Albert Lafrenier, Mrs. Emil Liberty, Mrs. Chester Stafford, Mrs. Walter Gray, Elizabeth and Richard Peterson, Jr., Robert Stafford, Mary Fergerson, Phyllis Campbell, Annie Gray, Henry Robinson, Jeanette and Robert Lafrenier, Avery Post, Robert Liberty and Shirley Peterson. A large birthday cake decorated with fancy candies and three candles stood in the center of the table. The little girl received many gifts.

Probably never again will the local railroad be honored with such distinguished visitors as passed over the branch last month. The Sunday following the big washout on the Boston and Albany, four of its finest expresses were rerouted this way, thence to New York (Mott Haven) and up the Hudson to reach Albany.

These trains were: The Wolverine, South Western Limited, Sunset Limited and 20th Century Limited. A little earlier, the Shore Line sent a half dozen of its de luxe named expresses this way to get around the Stonington washout. Within two days nearly all the trains that stand for the very last word in elegant and efficient New England railroading, passed over the local iron.

The local linemen had to shut off the current 10 minutes at 5 p. m. to remedy difficulty on one of the main street poles.

Ben Hur showed every night of the three, to good sized houses at the Finn theatre. The high class pictures which are being secured by the manager, John Barnett, are finding favor with local patrons.

A southeast storm did business in this section all Wednesday night and well into the forenoon Thursday. Over an inch of rain fell, and with the temperature up to 60, the first snow storm shows hardly a trace remaining. Thursday night the ponds were as open as in summer. Last year 16 inch ice was cut in late December.

WESTERLY

RUSSELL HEMPHILL MASTER OF PAWCATUCK LODGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 8.—Russell Hemphill, of Pawcatuck, was elected and installed worshipful master of Pawcatuck Lodge, No. 90, A. F. and A. M. of Pawcatuck, at the 65th annual and 730th stated communication of the lodge, held in the Masonic rooms this evening. Presiding at the election and installation was Past Grand Master Thomas McKenzie and acting as deputy was Past Grand Master Arthur N. Nash. Other officers elected and installed were: Senior warden, Robert D. Vennard; junior warden, Raymond E. Pendleton; treasurer, Elbert W. Clarke; secretary, Frank L. Friend; senior deacon, Thomas J. Burdick; junior deacon, Charles L. Westcott; senior steward, Stanton S. Green; junior steward, Arthur E. Peckham; chaplain, Samuel Girven; marshal, William R. Chapman; organist, Caroll W. Hoxie; tyler, Earl D. Barker; trustee of the permanent fund, Thomas McKenzie, for three years.

RUSSELL HEMPHILL
Master Pawcatuck Lodge

The annual report of the secretary showed a present membership of 226. There have died during the year 1926 Jasper A. Richards, December 26, age 61; 1927: James W. Simpson, January 16, age 87; Mallory O. Maine, February 22, age 79; Charles S. Gates, February 22, age 72; John W. Johnson, March 14, age 52; John C. Parker, September 1, age 48; Charles D. Leonard, October 9, age 55; William Thomas, October 10, age 76; W. Abram Lewis, November 13, age 65.

Favorable condition was shown by the reports of the finance committee and trustees of the permanent fund. Retiring Master George A. Stillman was presented a past master's jewel by Past Master William A. Hillard. The past master's apron was presented by Past Grand Master Arthur N. Nash. Members of Franklin Lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., of Westerly, were guests for the evening.

A pleasing surprise was the showing of some pictures taken at the Masonic home in Wallingford, Conn., showing some of the work done by the Masonic charity foundation of Connecticut. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, Robert Hazard, commander, held a regular conclave in the asylum Wednesday evening. The Red Cross degree and Order of Malta were conferred by the commandery officers. For the annual Christmas observance, by direction of George W. Vallery, most eminent grand master of the grand encampment of Knights Templar of the United States, and Norris G. Abbott, grand commander of Rhode Island, the time has been set as Christmas Sunday at 12 o'clock noon. The committee from Narragansett Commandery consists of Past Commanders Lewis Stanton, J. A. Pawson and Arthur C. Card.

Harold W. Merrill Post, No. 16, American Legion, held its annual meeting Wednesday evening in the post rooms, with a large attendance. The officers selected by the nominating committee were elected as follows: Commander, D. Gerard Shea; first vice commander, John Nield, Jr.; second vice commander, James I. Rose; adjutant, H. Russell Burdick; treasurer, Robert M. Freestone; chaplain, Rev. Arnt L. Cehoning; sergeant-at-arms, H. Wayland Lanphear; historian, H. Russell Burdick; executive committee, Walter F. Thorp, John B. Taillon, Rogers E. Trainer, George Kemp and Grover C. King.

The officers probably will be installed Thursday night, Dec. 29. Commander-elect Shea named Past Commander Abial B. Browne, Edwin Foote and James I. Rose a committee to make arrangements for the installation, which probably will take place in Mechanics hall. The newly elected commander also was authorized to appoint a committee of five to promote the annual automobile show in the State armory.

This (Friday) evening Connecticut Department Commander William P. Dibble, of Meriden, Conn., and staff, will be present at the meeting of Harley P. Chase Post, No. 1265, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Vets hall. Joseph Perrone, New London County council commander and other county officers will attend this meeting. Several candidates will be initiated.

When Westerly Chapter, No. 339, Women of Moosheart Legion met Tuesday night with Mrs. James McCormick, of 69 Moss street, new officers were elected and at the next meeting they will be installed. The members were invited, by the Loyal Order of Moose, to attend their annual Christmas Tree social, Dec. 20, in Mechanics hall. After the meeting piano selections were given, singing enjoyed, also radio. Refreshments were served.

Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck left Wednesday evening for New York.

Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, returned Thursday night from attendance at the national conference of the Anti-Saloon league, held in Washington, D. C., having been a delegate from the Westerly Pastors' association.

D. Harold Rogers returned Thursday afternoon from Providence.

Mrs. William Bamford was in Providence Thursday.

F. Clarke Brown, Jr., of East Greenwich, R. I., was a visitor Thursday at Weekapaug and Pleasant View beaches.

Large brass hand rails were set up Wednesday afternoon on each side of the upper flight of stone steps leading to the main entrance of the Westerly town hall from Broad street.

Owing to the downpour Thursday morning the no-school signal was sounded at 7:30 a. m. for the morning session.

PACKERVILLE

There appears to be no hopes of a business revival here in spite of the oft told tale, "We are going to start up soon." The mill is still and has been for a long time.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Thomas J. Brown our old post master and Albert L. Harkell, another old resident are very ill in Plainfield.

MYSTIC

Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R. met in Masonic temple Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elisa G. Scott the regent presided, Mrs. Carl Cutler assistant chaplain conducted the opening exercises. Two applications for membership were accepted. After the business session a short and pleasing musical program was given. Mrs. John Myers in costume, sang a group of old songs, Silver Threads Among the Gold, I Cannot Sing the Old Songs and Long Long Ago. Miss Edith Latrop of Stonington sang the state D. A. R. song written by the late Fanny J. Crosby, blind hymn writer and a D. A. R. member and gave another song for an encore. Mrs. J. H. Hammond accompanied both singers. Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer of Hartford, state chairman of the Ellis Island committee then gave a most interesting talk on the work carried on by the D. A. R. for those detained upon entering the country. She showed work done by men as well as the women. The newly arrived men like to knit and the women do many kinds of fancy work. Mrs. Elsie McGaughey had a pretty Christmas tree and after the talk, all who had brought articles for the box to be sent to Ellis Island placed them on the tree. The attendance was larger than usual. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Plus Ultra class of the Old Mystic Baptist church met with Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Chesebro on Pearl street on Monday evening with an attendance of twenty three.

Miss Agnes Austin sang and Mrs. Emily B. Holmes played piano selections and for the singing of many songs by those present. George Robinson presided at the short business session. The hostess served rosettes and shrimp wiggle, cake and coffee. Mrs. Herbert B. Hutchins of Quaker Hill was a guest of the class.

Masses were said in St. Patrick's church at 5.30 and 8 o'clock Thursday morning, it being a holy day of obligation, feast of the Immaculate Conception.

Frank A. Backus of New Haven was a business caller here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGowan and daughter Alma of Black Hall called on relatives in the village Wednesday.

Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer of Hartford was a guest of Mrs. George S. Scott Wednesday.

Alfred Noyes is a patient in a New London hospital.

Andrew Roux of Willimantic was a business caller in Mystic Tuesday.

Mrs. Dayton Crary and daughter Jean have gone to New York to visit, before going to their new home in Canada, where Mr. Crary has a position. Miss Nellie Glaeser will join her niece, Mrs. Crary and go to Canada with her.

J. Elliot Enneking attended the Providence Art Association meeting Tuesday.

The Senior World Wide Guild of the Baptist church is to meet in the vestry Friday evening to do white cross work.

The Parent-Teacher association of Mystic academy will meet this (Friday) evening. Among the features for the evening is a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Harry F. Hill is substituting in Broadway school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Main, Hazel Main and James Main attended the chicken pie supper given by Westerly grange Wednesday.

NOANK

Kid Sherman, featherweight boxer of the village has come to the front again, after not being heard from at his training camp in three weeks. Sherman is still on the wood-pile with the saw and axe, getting down to fighting trim. With three people in his rowboat the Kid with the oars did five miles of rowing for his muscles. Then his trainer, H. Brown, put him under the cold water shower, then a rub down with an hour of rest. Then came breakfast of Cream of Wheat and buck wheat cakes, with a glass of water; coffee cuts the wind, the boxer says. Then in his green tights he was ready for 15 rounds of boxing with three fast fighters. Cannonball Jerry Weeks known for his speed, and a T. N. T. left hand, began for 5 rounds. The pride of the fishing village was using his left for the head, but Cannonball Jerry was boxing at long range. In the 4th round Cannonball hit Kid Sherman on the chin with his cross-fire right and down he went for the count of 9 but he held on until Timer Edward Mahoney rang the bell. In the last round both men stood toe to toe and fought hard for three minutes; it was a good draw. The second battle was Bear Cat Allen Starr, a man with foot work but a light right. It was for 6 rounds. Starr won by a wide margin, but the last match of the evening found Blondy Joe Moran, of New York, who is on a short visit in town, up for four rounds—a boy from the West Side. In the second round Sherman sent two hard rights and soon the West Side fighter hit the deck on his way to Dreamland, for it was a knockout. Sherman told his brother workmen at the Sea Sled Co. that for fun, money, or marbles he would put Buck Shea away for the count if they will match them up again.

Kid Sherman has trained hard and earned his right to fight anybody that a matchmaker puts up before him, anytime down to 122 lbs. He is only waiting for the bell to ring for a championship fight.

Miss Pauline Christie of Groton was at the local school and gave the pupils a singing lesson this week.

Miss Dorothy Baker has returned to North Stonington after a short visit in Noank.

Four large pigs got away at the farm of Sam Long. Nearby, several carpenters were repairing a house Wednesday afternoon, the pigs were doing a fast mile and right under the feet of the workmen and one man was knocked over which raised a lump on his head. They could not do any work until the pigs were caught, so they chased them for over an hour through the apple orchard till at last the pigs were safe back in their pen.

Miss Evelyn Mathewson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mathewson of Sylvan street was united in marriage Monday with Alfred Balestracci at the bride's home, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Lyman G. Norton, pastor of the Methodist church. The house was decorated in green and white and the ceremony was performed under an arch of roses, carnations and wedding bells. The bride wore a gown of white canton crepe and Spanish lace. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and lily-of-the-valley. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. Cornell. Mrs. Cornell wore pink crepe de chine and a picture hat to match and carried pink butterfly roses and carnations. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. G. Greene of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Balestracci, Shannock, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilcox, Voluntown, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Weeks, Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. A. Balestracci, Miss Anita Coleskie of Mystic, H. Cornell and son Walter, of Noank and Ernest Driscoll of U. S. S. Bushnell, N. H. A wedding supper was served. NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Going back in the files of the Norwich Courier for 75 years ago the first two weeks in November it is found that Norwich was in the midst of a presidential election in which Pierce was victorious. The country was thrown into deep mourning when Daniel Webster, one of America's greatest statesmen, died at his home in Marshfield just before the election. A number from Norwich made up a delegation to the funeral which was a very impressive affair.

Extracts from the files of the Courier follow:

Tuesday, Oct. 26, 1852 — The Norwich Evening Courier of this date was draped in black as it carried the news of the death of Daniel Webster at Marshfield, Mass. at 22 minutes before 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, Oct. 24th, 1852. Webster's death had been expected since late Saturday afternoon and his family and intimate friends had been called to the bedside and as had bid them a fond farewell. Shortly after 2 o'clock on Sunday morning he aroused from seeming unconsciousness and looked around at those assembled by the death bed and smiled saying "I still live." These were his last words for he dropped into unconsciousness from which he never aroused. There was a general period of mourning throughout the country and until after the funeral.

At a Whig mass meeting in New Haven, Hon. John A. Rockwell in a speech said that Norwich would donate a prize banner to be awarded to the town in the state showing the greatest gain over the 1848 election but stated that his own town would strive to win it.

Thursday, Oct. 28, 1852—At a meeting of the common council on Monday evening the mayor read a communication from the president of the New London, Willimantic and Palmer Railroad Co. in relation to a new depot in this city.

At a meeting of the directors of the New Haven and New London Railroad Co. held on Monday last, Gen. A. Elliott of Clinton, was elected president of the corporation.

Saturday, Oct. 30, 1852—The issue of the Courier of this date was filled with advice to the Whigs to vote "early and heavy" at the presidential election on the forthcoming Monday. Impromptu Whig rallies and torchlight parades were a nightly pre-election occurance.

Tuesday, Nov. 2, 1852. — A lengthy description of the funeral of Daniel Webster was contained in this issue. The account was written by Norwich representatives of the Courier who made the trip to Marshfield to attend the services. The trip was made by steamboat to Boston and thence by rail to within seven miles of Marshfield where carriages conveyed the delegation to the Webster home. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. Ebenezer Alden, pastor of the Orthodox society in Marshfield.

Thursday, Nov. 4, 1852—Although several states have yet to report it is evident that Pierce has been elected president, says the issue of the Courier of this date. In Norwich the Whigs won out by a good plurality.

Postmaster General Hubbard has made a contract for the supply of stamped envelopes under the new postoffice law, at a rate one-third less than those previously paid for plain envelopes.

Saturday, Nov. 6, 1852—The ordination of Rev. J. A. Goodhue, as pastor of the Central Baptist church in this city was held on Tuesday.

Pierce's majority in New York state will be from 26,000 to 27,000. Connecticut gave Pierce a majority of 3,000.

Tuesday, Nov. 9, 1852.—On the afternoon of the 5th as George M. Robinson, a lad of 13 years of age, an only son of the late Isaac P. Robinson of Canterbury, was assisting some workmen in hauling a log, the oxen became frightened and unmanagable, and upset the load, striking the boy such a blow on the head as to cause death in half an hour.

President Sparks has resigned his situation as president of Harvard college.

The Hutchinson family write home that their journey in California, in one year, has furnished more solid gold profit than a lifetime would in the states.

The New Haven papers announce the death of Mrs. Martha S. Woolsey, wife of President Woolsey of Yale college. Mrs. Woolsey was in the 40th year of her age.

Counterfeit fives on the Ocean Bank, Stonington are in circulation in Boston.

The members of Stonington Steam Fire Engine Co., are making arrangements for a Christmas party in their rooms Dec. 23rd. There will be a tree and a chowder will be served.

Miss Hannah Hyde and Deacon Theodore W. Hyde attended the funeral of their cousin, Miss Lucy E. Palmer, 70, in Groton Thursday afternoon. She formerly lived in Canterbury.

Mrs. M. L. Sliney spent Wednesday in Norwich.

James Smith of New York is at his home here for a brief visit.

J. F. Trumbull, W. A. corp. Christmas sale which was held at the Schepis store Tuesday was well patronized. The proceeds will be used for the War Memorial fund. The sale was in charge of Miss Margaret McGrath.

The 42-foot power boat "Lindy" built by Andrew W. Perry and son was put overboard Tuesday morning by the large derrick of Richard Davidson. The "Lindy" is owned by Capt. Burdick of Watch Hill and will be one of the Stonington fleet.

A joint meeting of James W. Harvey post No. 58 and the Woman's auxiliary was held in Muller hall Wednesday evening. The post has postponed its tag day until after Dec. 10th. The receipts will be used to bring cheer to sick comrades at Christmas time.

Mrs. Rbbinson instructed a class of women Thursday morning in the Baptist church parlors on food values and the making of Christmas candy. Mrs. Robinson is from the farm bureau, at Storrs.

Farmer Brown's Boy Tries to Be Fair.

Justice seldom moves with speed
Lest haste should to an error lead.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy stood out back of the barn looking over toward the Old Pasture, where he knew that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy had their home. There was a frown on the usual merry, freckled face of Farmer Brown's Boy. In one hand he held a few feathers. They were the feathers from one of his choicest hens. In the newly fallen snow he could see a line of footprints. He knew whose footprints those were. They were the footprints of Reddy Fox.

Farmer Brown's Boy shook his head sorrowfully. "Reddy," said he, speaking aloud, just as if Reddy were there, "I've been a good friend t you, and it isn't right for you to treat me this way. Somehow, I thought you had decided to leave my hens alone. Now I've got to keep them shut up, or else somehow I have got to teach you a lesson which you will not forget."

Now all this time Reddy Fox was right behind Farmer Brown's Boy. He was in the darkest corner under the barn. You will remember that he had lost a breakfast and he had lost his temper. He was feeling very, very cross indeed. He just longed to tell Terror the Goshawk what he thought of him. You will remember that Terror had snatched that chicken from almost under the very paws of Reddy. the other hens had started to squawk and Reddy had heard the slamming of the door as Farmer Brown's Boy ran out. It was then that he had darted under the barn instead of racing back across the snow-covered Green Meadows. So, all the time that Farmer Brown's boy was talking, Reddy Fox was only a few feet back of him.

Suddenly Farmer Brown's Boy turned and stared very intently at the tracks in the snow. "That is queer," said he, frowning a bit. "Yes, sir, that is queer. I don't see but one line of footprints, and those footprints are coming from the Old Pasture. Reddy wouldn't have run back in exactly the same line. I wonder if the scamp is hiding around here somewhere?"

So Farmer Brown's boy began to look around. Almost at once he discovered where Reddy had crouched down in the snow. Then he saw footprints that led toward the opening under the barn. They led in, but none led out. "Ha, ha!" said Farmer Brown's Boy. "Ha, ha! I believe you are under that barn, you red thief!"

So Farmer Brown's Boy went under the barn. In a dark corner he caught the gleam of a pair of eyes. He went right straight toward those eyes. There was a scurry of feet and some one darted past him and out. He turned just in time to get a glimpse of —who do you think? It was Black Pussy the Cat. Yes sir; it was Black Pussy the Cat. Farmer Brown's Boy was so surprised, because, just like you, he had been sure that it was Reddy Fox. He stood there just staring out where Black Pussy had darted. Then he turned toward the other dark corner. He didn't see any eyes this time, but when he moved over toward that dark corner some one darted past him and almost upset him. This time it was Reddy Fox. Farmer Brown's Boy hurried out just in time to see Reddy scampering across the Green Meadows toward the Old Pasture, and Reddy wasn't carrying a chicken.

Farmer Brown's Boy went back to the house and got a flashlight. Then he returned and hunted all about under the barn. Not a feather of that hen did he find. He scratched his head thoughtfully. "Can it be," said he, "that Reddy didn't catch that chicken? I must to be fair. I think I'll look around a little more."

Deep Chest Colds or a Raw Sore Throat

END QUICKLY WHEN YOU USE CAMPHOROLE

Stubborn Coughs and Colds that do not clear up quickly, may lead to serious trouble of the Nose or Throat, such as Fullness in Nose, Deafness and Head Noises or extend into Chest followed by Bronchitis or possibly Pneumonia. You can avoid them with CAMPHOROLE, the new ideal treatment, which acts two (2) ways, as it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane, and loosens up a Cough or Cold in the Throat or Chest. It kills the germs. Then you'll know how soon a nerve-racking Cough with a sticky, clinging mucus can be eased.

It's surprising how promptly it opens up clogged nostrils, and takes hold of a stubborn Cough, as it soothes and heals the sore irritated lining of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and Chest, loosens up phlegm, stops annoying tickle in the throat. You'll then know why thousands prefer CAMPHOROLE, once you have tried it for Colds in Head, Throat and Chest, Asthma, Tonsilitis, Bronchitis and Catarrhal troubles.

SHARP BREAK IN STOCK PRICES UNDER STEADY STREAM OF SELLING ORDERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A steady stream of selling orders poured onto the floor of the New York stock exchange today and carried prices of leading issues down 1 to nearly 7 points. "Bear" traders started the selling movement, but the swift declines in some of the speculative issues resulted in substantial liquidation of weakened marginal accounts, and further realizing by "bull" traders who had built up large paper profits on the recent advance. Recessions, as a rule, were orderly in character and the day's sales, although well below those of yesterday, were still above two and one-half million shares.

Wall street found several explanations for the selling movement. Commission houses laid considerable emphasis on political uncertainties, nomination was bound to have an unsettling effect on business. The new treasury financing on a slightly higher basis than November also revived fears of a tightening of credit facilities. Banks called between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 in loans but there was a plentiful supply of call money at the renewal figure of 4 per cent. The New York Federal Reserve bank announced no change in the 3½ per cent. rediscount rate.

Outside the stock market, speculative interest centered largely in cotton, which advanced moderately on the publication of the final government crop estimate of 12,789,00 bales, a drop of 53,000 bales below last month's figure, and then broke more than $2 a bale below last night's final quotations on selling inspired by unfavorable trade reports. Corn fell more than 2 cents a bushel and wheat, oats and rye sold down a cent or more. Sugar and coffee prices were steady.

Weakness of U. S. Steel common and General Motors attracted widespread attention in the stock market. Steel sold down 3 5-8 points to 138 1-2, closing at the bottom, and General Motors showed a net loss of 1 5-8 at 125 7-8 despite repeated efforts of "bear" traders to break the stock through 125 on information that large "stop loss" orders were in the market under that figure.

National Biscuit, which soared nearly 19 points yesterday, lost 7 points of its gain today. Net declines of 4 to 6 points were recorded by nearly a score of issues including American Beet Sugar preferred, Continental Insurance, Greene Cananea Copper, Houston Oil, International Harvester, Mathieson Alkali, Midland Steel Products preferred, National Lead, Radio Corporation, and Warren Bros.

There were a few independent strong spots in the industrial group. Wright Aeronautical was bid up 6 points to a new high at 69 3-4 on optimistic forecasts of the company's business for next year. Transue & Williams Steel touched a new top at 44 1-2 on expectations of increased earnings through new Ford contracts. Davison Chemical, Liquid Carbonic, Paige-Detroit Motor and Standard Milling also showed independent strength.

In the railroad group, chief interest centered in the brisk advance in Southern Railway common, which established a new high record for all time at 149 in reflection of an increase from $7 to $8 in the annual dividend. Sharp recessions took place in Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, "Boo" preferred and Texas & Pacific.

The weekly federal reserve report of brokers' loans showed an increase of nearly $52,000,000, bringing the total on Dec. 7 to a new high record of $3,567,995,000, or nearly half a billion below the total of stock exchange member loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged today.

Renewed advance in sterling exchange to around the recent high record was the only feature of consequence in the foreign exchange market, cables on London being quoted at $4.88 1-4. Continental rates were slightly lower.

AFTER PERIOD OF TORTURE, MAN FINDS RELIEF FROM ITCHING

"Is now entirely healed

Charlestown (Boston), Mass., Dec. 12:—"Last June I had an itching irritation on my back, principally between the shoulders, and also on the back of my hands, extending to the shoulders. The skin was apparently clear of any disorder, but the itching was intense. After a vigorous rubbing with a Turkish towel there would appear two spots, about an inch apart, which bled from the effects of the rubbing. I used Bay Rum and other lotions before I tried your Resinol Ointment. At bedtime my back received a thorough washing with Resinol Soap and a very generous application of Ointment, after which I would rest quite comfortably until about two or three in the morning, when I received another application. A third upon arising would be enough to make me feel at ease during the day. Thanks to the above treatment, the trouble is now entirely healed." (Signed) John John W. Matthews, 1 Crystal Pl.

AIRSHIPS TO BRING BRITAIN NEARER COLONIES

By ANDRUE BERDING.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

HOWDEN, England, Dec. 8.— The eyes of the aviation world are turned to this little Yorkshire town where Britain, to unite her far-flung colonies, is completing the two greatest dirigibles ever conceived.

Built at a cost of $8,000,000, these Leviathans of the air will carry 100 passengers, 150 tons of freight, an aerial lounge and a flying ballroom.

Here the new airship R-100, and nearby the R-101, are being rushed to completion. These aerial liners will bring India, Australia, South Africa and eventually Canada within two and three days distance of London.

The specifications of the dirigibles are filled with astounding figures. The airships will be 736 feet long, capable of carrying 100 pasengers in the utmost comfort, and 150 tons freight. Even a dance floor of unsurpassed quality will be contained within the liners. There will be a dining room for 50 covers and sufficient sleeping accommodations for all on board.

Accommodations on the whole will equal those of a steamship, but the government air engineers point out that a large airship has two advantages over an ocean-going vessel: The airship files with considerable less rolling and pitching, and there is no vibration, since the engines are carried in cars slung away from the main structure.

The airships will have a speed of 70 miles an hour at 5,000 feet, with a cruising speed of 62 miles an hour. At this speed the ships should be able without refueling, experts say, to fly in still air a distance of 4,000 miles miles with a normal commercial load.

One of the principal tasks in developing the inter-empire airship service secondary only to the completion of the dirigibles themselves, is the building of mooring masts. The masts at Cardington and Ismaila are ready for the Indian service, and a shed is nearing completion at Karachi.

The masts are of a new and improved design, nearly twice as high as the mast at Pulham, from which the R-33, famous forerunner of the R-100 and R-101, operated. They are designed to resist a pull at the mast head six times greater than that which the Pulham mast can resist.

Powerful and sensitive winches to draw the airships to the masthead are operated by oil-fired boilers and controlled electrically from the top of the mast. Pumps can deliver fuel at the rate of 2,000 gallons an hour to the moored airship. A fast elevator is located in the center of the mast structure. Similar masts are being constructed near Durban, South Africa, and in Australia.

The return to airships opens up the old conflict between proponents of heavier-than-air craft and advocates of lighter-than-air vessels. The advocates of the airship say that the cost per ton per mile by airship is 11 cents and by airplane 60 cents. They point to the fact that in the early days of flying, between 1910 and 1914, five German airships, constructed for passenger traffic, carried 42,000 passengers in 2,000 flights without mishap to a single passenger.

LEGAL NOTICES

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, District of Connecticut, in the matter of Frank Protas, in Bankruptcy No. 8825, bankrupt. Upon petition for discharge,

Notice is hereby given that Frank Protas of New London, in the County of New London and State of Connecticut has filed his application, dated Dec. 1, A. D. 1927, for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all his creditors and other persons interested objecting to such discharge may attend before Thomas M. Shields, Special Master, at his office in Norwich, Conn., on the 9th day of January, 1928 at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to examine the bankrupt, and to show cause if any they have, why such discharge should not be granted, and to determine whether or not to authorize the trustee to interpose objections to such discharge.
THOMAS M. SHIELDS,
Special Master
Norwich, Conn., Dec. 9, 1927.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 8th day of December, A. D. 1927.

Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Mary Kaminski, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased. The Administrator appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application, and that some person other than the Administrator be appointed and authorized to make such sale.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 13th day of December, A. D. 1927, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

BANK ST. MERCHANTS, NEW LONDON, WANT SHARE OF DECORATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—Mayor James A. May has called a special meeting of the city council for tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock for the purpose of taking action on a petition he received today from Bank street merchants. They are aggrieved because of the action of the city council in designating the parts of streets that will be decorated at Yuletide. The merchants declare that discrimination has been markedly displayed in the designation of the streets that are to have the varied colored lights and streamers of evergreen from the electric light poles. The merchants want the display continued a greater distance on Bank street and it is understood that some of the members of the council will urge that the petition be granted. The decorations now adorn State street on both sides of the street, between Bank and Huntington streets, but are not extended to the Union station. However, there has been only a slight expression of unfavorable comment heard because of that. On Main street, between State and John streets the lights and evergreene have been suspended and on Bank street between State and Tilley and it is because of this latter display that merchants are voicing their complaint in the form of the petition to the council. The merchants on that street insist that the decorations be continued at least to Howard street. They declare that as taxpayers and large ones they are entitled to the same consideration as the merchants on the upper part of the street, State and Main streets and insist that the added decorations be made. To do this will entail an added cost of $600. The lights will be turned on Saturday night and will continue to be lighted until after New Year's.

The parents of Genes Taskas, 14, of 24 Robinson street, Pawtucket, have requested the New London police to maintain a watch for the boy, who ran away from home yesterday. He started to go to Stonington high school to pursue his studies, but he never reached there and it is believed, might have come to this city. The boy is described as being four feet, 10 inches in height and weighing about 105 pounds.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the driver's license of Garwood F. Siegel, 106 Shaw street suspended, also denied the right to drive of Henry W. June, 405 Jefferson avenue, a motorist of the hit-and-run type. The automobile June was driving a week ago collided with a motionless car owned by Andrew Frioni, Bank street merchant. Jane drove away without stopping and nearly ran down Patrolman Harry Watterson, who attempted to halt the fleeing driver. June was arrested the following day and was penalized in the police court.

Joseph Dean, 73 Belden street, was arrested today by Patrolman Edward Riordan charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law. Dean drove his truck on the grade at Bank street and Montauk avenue without being in gear. He was detected by the officer and when arrested was held in bail for his court presentation.

The Norwich police have requested the New London police to be on the lookout for a Hudson auto stolen in the former city last night. The auto carries Massachusetts registration, 173145.

At 5:50 o'clock this morning the police discovered live wires of the Connecticut Power company down at the corner of Union and Federal streets, the wires having been loosened by the wind and with a wet street surface existing caused danger to pedestrians. The power company was notified and a repair gang had the wires to be placed back in position on the poles within a short time.

Farris Angel, of the United States Coast Guard; Mrs. Morris Bernstein, 73 Montauk avenue; Miss Gertrude Paquette, 29 Darrow street; Mrs. William Sanford and infant son, 107 Baker avenue, Groton and Mrs. John Achelis, 908 Ocean avenue were discharged from the hospital today.

Letitia Gardner has sold a one-third interest in a building lot on Ocean avenue to Silas Maxson, Jr. and wife.

Frank J. Smith and Mary K. Chase have sold a house and lot, corner of Mohegan avenue and Deshon street, to Connecticut College for Women.

The funeral of Miss Lucy E. Palmer was held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at her residence, 35 Church street, Groton and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry F. Hurlbut, pastor of Groton Heights Congregational church. The bearers were C. S. Woodhull Davis, A. B. Cone, Charles F. Vincent and Huntington Lathrop. Burial was in Adams cemetery, Canterbury.

The funeral of Capt. Charles A. Havens, former tugboat master in the employ of the Thames Towboat company, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at his residence, 35 Meridian street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Duck River cemetery, Lyme.

Funeral services for Merwin Chapman was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of his son, Fred Chapman, 70 West street, the services being conducted by Rev. Edward L. Nield, Uncasville. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Thieves visited the shoe store of I. Herschowitz, 700 Bank street, last night for when Herschowitz opened the store for business at 8 o'clock this morning he discovered evidence of visitors. A report of the burglary was made at police headquarters and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith was assigned to the case. Entrance to the store was gained by forcing a window and the plunder taken was not great.

STATE OFFICER HAS A HEART—HELPS NORWICH LABORER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—In the Waterford town court yesterday afternoon, Joseph Carriere, of Berlin, employed by the Gammino Construction company, Providence, which is doing highway work in Norwich, was charged with intoxication, but Judge Fred N. Dimmock ordered a nolle to be entered upon payment of costs. Carriere did not have $2.28 to make the required payment, but he was allowed to return to work upon his promise to send the money to the court. In order for Carriere to get back to Norwich, the arresting officer, State Policeman John Smith paid Carriere's fare, also supplied him with his supper. Carriere was liberated from the county jail at Norwich Tuesday where he had worked out a fine of $10 and costs imposed in the Norwich court on a charge of intoxication. He immediately got drunk again and was found Tuesday night lying on the tracks of the Connecticut company at Quaker Hill. A motorman of a trolley car that nearly ran over Carriere notified the state police of the man's danger and Officer Smith arrested him.

WILLIAM H. FARRELL DIES AT WETHERSFIELD, CONN.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—William H. Farrell, 57, formerly of New London, died last night at the residence of his sister and only survivor, Mrs. John A. King, of Wethersfield. Mr. Farrell had been in ill health many months. He underwent an operation of peritonitis at Lawrence-Memorial hospital about a year ago, at which time he hovered between life and death about 10 days. After many weeks of confinement in the hospital and at his home, Mr. Farrell's health improved, but he did not fully regain his strength and former physical fitness. After the death of Mrs. Farrell he moved to Hartford. His health showed symptoms of declining and he had been under the care of a physician for many weeks. Death was due to an internal disorder. Mr. Farrell was widely and favorable known throughout the state. As a young man he was employed on the former Norwich line steamers and later entered into business, starting a produce business. Later he opened a cafe at the corner of Golden and Green street, which was know as the "Cozy Corner." After prohibition became operative, Mr. Farrell was appointed collector of internal revenue and as such officer he was located at various times in New London and in Hartford. He was one of the oldest members of New London lodge of Elks and had served that organization in various offices, including that of exalted ruler.

DISABLED OFF BLOCK ISLAND, FISH BOAT BROUGHT TO PORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—The gas screw fishing boat R. D. Stenson, laden with fish and bound to New York, was disabled in Block Island sound last night and towed into port where repairs will be made to the engine. When the Stenson became disabled she was several miles southwest of Block Island. A call for assistance was sent out and resulted in the United States Coast Guard patrol boat Nemaha, from this port, being sent to bring the boat into port. The Nemaha and her tow arrived here this morning.

Charles Hilliar was in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. The case was continued to Saturday. Hilliar furnished a bond of $25 for his appearance on the latter date. Hilliar was arrested yesterday by Patrolman William Riordan, who was off duty. The officer and Hilliar engaged in a controversy on State street, which resulted in Hilliar being arrested.

Several sailors, all of the United States Coast Guard were about the streets intoxicated last night and their conduct became such that four of them were arrested. Two were discharged when presented in the police court this morning and the others were turned over to the shore patrol.

Patrolman Clarence Wells is indisposed at his home, Tilley street and because of the indisposition of the officer, he did not perform duty tonight.

Mrs. John J. Corman, 49 Chappell street, entertained last night at bridge. Those present were Mrs. Leonard C. Sheflott, Jr., Mrs. Arthur M. Beckwith, Mrs. William V. Ryan, Mrs. George Hanley, Mrs. Otto Eames, Mrs. Harold W. Cruise and Miss Elizabeth T. Roath. The prize was won by Miss Roath and Mrs. Sheflott was awarded the consolation prize.

The funeral of Elias A. DeWitt, of 71 Blackhall street, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 43 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

STORM LASHES WAVES TO MOST UNUSUAL HEIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 8—The storm of this morning was one of the worst that has visited the city in a long time. While no great damage was occasioned, much inconvenience of pedestrians in certain parts of the city was experienced. At Ocean Beach and Pequot avenue, while the storm was at its height the waves from Long Island sound and the Thames river reached to the highways. At Ocean Beach the surf was carried to Bentley avenue, washing between cottages and over the board walk. On Pequot avenue the water deluged the roadway in places, especially at Green's harbor so that it reached the body of automobiles. At the government pier, Water street and at the municipal pier the water reached a height which prevented government craft from either departing or landing until late in the day.

At the next meeting of Mohegan lodge of Odd Fellows, officers for the coming year will be nominated. At the meeting, held last night after business a collation was served.

The announcement that the city is to continue its drive to collect back taxes is causing concern to numerous property owners, some of them who have not paid their taxes in many years. However, the drive will be gotten under way within a few days and if the plans formulated by the tax collector are not successful in bringing in the money due the city, papers will be given a sheriff and service will be made tending to collect the tax.

W. W. Perkins post, Grand Army of the Republic, No. 47, has a new head for Lewis L. Baker, was elected commander Tuesday. Other officers elected were: Senior vice commander, John C. Goddard; junior vice commander, George W. Meyers; surgeon, Michael Cleary; quartermaster, Francis Bracken; officer of the guard, Cephas Bell; chaplain, Lafayette Starr, succeeding William L. Davies; adjutant, George Haven.

Fred Smith, wireless operator on the ship City of Delhi, has concluded a visit with his uncle, George Smith, of Bragaw street, and will sail shortly for Australia.

State Policeman Ray C. James of Waterford has announced his resignation after more than two years as a member of the department. Mr. James trained at the Ridgefield training barracks, under Lieutenant Bushey, present commandant of the Centerbrook barracks, and upon completing his probationary course served at Ridgefield for a year, later going to headquarters barracks at Hartford. A short time ago he was transferred to the barracks at Stafford Springs, where he was stationed at the time his resignation was submitted.

PLAINTIFFS GIVEN $3,000 VERDICT IN DAMAGE SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 8—The $5,000 damage case, Frank W. Coy Real Estate Co. and Mrs. Catherine R. Welch, vs. James M. Pendleton, town treasurer of Westerly, and growing out of the relocating of the Shore road nearly twenty years ago, went to the jury about 4 p. m. today. Forty-five minutes later the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiffs for $3,000.

This afternoon Thomas McKenzie, a member of the committee on re-location was recalled to the stand as the last witness. Town Solicitor John Ferguson of Westerly made his plea for the defense before the jury, which had considered the case for the past three days. He was followed by Attorney John J. Dunn for the plaintiffs and the charge to the jury was made by Judge Charles A. Walsh.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

"Tea For Three," starring Owen Moore, Aileen Pringle and Lew Cody, is the title of the latest Metro picture which opens a three days' engagement at the Palace commencing today. The action of the story starts when Aileen Pringle visits her husband's (Lew Cody) office to find out whether he was speaking the truth when he stated he had a directors' meeting to attend. There she meets Owen Moore, who is a great friend of her husband, having acted as best man at the wedding. He invites her to lunch and they partake of food, containing garlic. The husband on arriving home becomes suspicious when he kisses his wife and recalls having smelled garlic on Owen Moore's breath. His suspicions take an acute form and he invites his friend to play cards, the loser agreeing to commit suicide. From that point on there is not a dull moment in the entire picture and there are many exciting moments until the picture ends and hubby is cured of his jealousy.

The vaudeville program boasts as a headliner, Ted Leslie and Pals, a six people revue, presenting their specialty, A Breath from the Sunny South. Other acts on the bill include comedy, novelty and variety entertainment.

Strand Theatre.

With the support of an able cast, Billy Sullivan, the Rayart star, appears as a fun-loving American in the royal romance "The Gallant Fool" now showing at the Strand. Hazel Deane has the leading feminine part. Others in the cast are Frank Baker, F. Schumann-Heink and Ruth Boyd. Billy Sullivan appears as an American adventurer who trades jobs with a foreign prince for a day, a gamble with a princess and a kingdom as the stakes.

Midnight Watch is a story of New York night life and has a splendid cast including Roy Stewart, David Torrance and Mary McAllister. It has both action and romance in this latest Trem Carr Production.

Breed Theatre.

Again Buck Jones shows us something new in the way of thrills in his latest western feature "Good as Gold," which will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. Hanging over the edge of Eternity from the ledge of a cliff by a thin rope, Eternity indicated by a thousand foot deep chasm below him, is one of these stunts. And then a girl comes down the Bright Angel trail and Buck swinging around to get a better view of her frays the rope, which breaks and he plunges to—well, it must be seen to get a thrill such as is seldom given on the screen. But this is only one of the many hazardous and daring stunts performed in this delightful Fox Films feature. And all of them against a background of the rocky gorges, divines and many mile-wide panorama of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

The story itself is a fast moving absorbing life history of a boy whose father's rich mine was stolen by claim jumpers and the father killed. Then of course, things become very complicated and humor as much as pathos and suspense carry forward the absorbing story of the picture.

The girl is played by Frances Lee, a 1927 Wampa star, and a charming and dashing heroine she proves herself to be. Of course in the end the matter of the mine becomes a family matter and all ends well in this charming picture.

"Good as Gold" is a thorough all around entertainment that will please every member of the family.

Broadway Theatre.

The Myrkle Harder company will open their week's engagement at the Broadway theatre, Monday, Dec. 12, with that wonderful comedy of real life "What Anne Brought Home," a play with the pen of Larry Johnston and was presented at the Wallach's theatre in New York city, by no less than Earl Carroll. It was whispered about Broadway, prior to the play's first night, that the sponsor was producing "What Anne Brought Home" to demonstrate that a clean, wholesome human play of American life can come into any big city and become a favorite. Earl Carroll decidedly proved his contention with "What Anne Brought Home." The New York critics hailed "What Anne Brought Home" as a comedy filled with laughs and pathos and prophesied that it would have a long life on New York's theatrical boulevard, and a happy one.

"What Anne Brought Home" became one of the outstanding hits of Broadway during the past season. Mr. Harder is indeed happy in being able to present to Norwich a play of this stamp so shortly after its presentation in New York.

Tickets for the Myrkle Harder opening in "What Anne Brought Home" are now on sale at the box office of the Broadway theatre. Reserve now and prepare for an evening of exceptional entertainment.

Broadway Theatre.

Just as Charles Dazey's old racing melodrama proved a startling stage success for many years, "In Old Kentucky," which is the feature attraction at the Broadway theatre today and tomorrow and which was produced recently by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has proved a sensational screen success.

The picture, based on an original screen play by A. P. Younger, is said to have been suggested by the Dazey play, and has some of the earmarks of that old favorite of the speaking stage, yet it is far better from an entertainment viewpoint because it has been modernized and the characters move in our own times, act as we would under similar circumstances and look like the people of today.

Horse racing has always been one of the favorite sports and will always continue to be, because there is a sort of glamour and thrill about it that cannot be touched by the more modern races of automobiles, airplanes and other vehicles driven by gas engines.

For this reason stories and pictures laid against a background of race-tracks, speedy horses and beautiful women can't fail to thrill the blood of any American-born movie-goer.

"In Old Kentucky" is one of the best racing pictures which has ever come to the screen from a directorial, color and acting standpoint.

Sufferers from Rheumatism and Neuralgia Agony

Here's Sure Quick Relief.

Here is marvelous news to all who suffer from swollen, painful joints in shoulder, foot, ankle, knee, thigh, and to all who are tortured by stiff, cramped muscles. An amazing new French formula known as Dr. Beaupre's Treatment for Rheumatism has been used successfully in thousands of cases both here and abroad. It works with astonishing rapidity. Usually one package, containing a 10 days' treatment is sufficient to clear up the most painful cases. Chronic sufferers sometimes require a second and third package.

No matter what you may have tried before, you owe it to yourself to give Dr. Beaupre's Treatment a trial. Just ask any good druggist for a package of Dr. Beaupre's Treatment for Rheumatism. Take it according to directions and see for yourself how quickly all Rheumatism agony is banished.

GREENEVILLE

The Ladies Aid society of the Greeneville Congregational church held its December meeting Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room with 48 members being present. Mrs. S. S. Lathrop, the president, was in the chair, in which capacity she has faithfully served for 25 years. The members were seated in a large circle in the center of which was a decorated Christmas tree. Mrs. R. C. Brittin and Mrs. James W. Semple, secretary and treasurer, respectively, gave their reports showing that after all appropriations were made a substantial balance still remained in the treasury, which was very gratifying to all present and all indications point to a happy and prosperous year to come. After the business session, Santa Claus appeared in costume and distributed gifts to all, causing much merriment.

The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Leonard Prentice and Mrs. Robert C. Brittin had provided a Christmas guessing game and a musical romance. Mrs. Earle Christman was the successful guesser and winner of both prizes. Sandwiches, fancy cakes, coffee and tea were served by the following women, who were hostesses for the evening: Mrs. Charles Levitsky, Mrs. George Drescher, Mrs. Jabez West, Mrs. George Turner and Mrs. Alfred Smith. The singing of Christmas hymns and carols brought the enjoyable evening to a close.

The H club held its regular weekly meeting Monday evening in the club room on Fourth street with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted.

The Euphemian circle of King's Daughters held its annual Christmas sale in the parlors of the Congregational church Thursday evening with an attendance that taxed the seating capacity of the hall. Attractively decorated booths lined both sides of the hall, all of which did a brisk business. The entertainment for the evening was a comedy "Almira Pease's Album," presented by some of the members of the society assisted by men of the parish of the Greeneville Congregational church. Some of the members made their bow to the public, having never appeared behind the footlights before. The production was most enjoyable from start to finish and caused those in the audience many a hearty laugh. The cast was: Mother, Mrs. John McNeeley; father, Rev. Charles Ricketts; Me, a little girl, Alice Quinley; Eben, my husband, Kirk Ricketts; twins, Jeane Mitchell and Lorraine Prentice; the parson, Frank Crooker; the parson's wife, Mrs. Thomas Haslam; Sophelia, Natalie Service; the bride, Harriet Anderson; parson's son, Lloyd Thompson; sister Jane, Mrs. Frederick Fox; village beauty, Viola Levitsky; Grandma Hobbs, Alexander Finlayson; Sister Jane's husband, Howard Spaulding; Aunt Eliza, Miss Esther Chapman. The members of the cast dressed in old fashioned costume, played their parts to perfection. Almira Pease's Album part was taken by Mrs. Frank Crooker, who did the reading. Janice Service turned the Album leaves. During the evening a quartett, Mrs. Leonard Prentice, Miss Charlotte Fowler, George Hollingsworth and Albert Turner, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Waters at the piano, rendered several solos in a very pleasing manner and were well received by the audience. Much credit for the successful affair is due to the general committee, Miss Florence Tilley, Miss Jeanette Beattie and Miss Mary Henderson.

Mrs. Frederick Fox, Mrs. James Semple and Mrs. James Service were in charge of the apron table. The candy table was in charge of Mrs Frank Waters and Mrs. Harry Stebbins; cake table, Mrs. Howard Spaulding, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Anna Bjork; grab-bag, Mrs. James Service, who had the gifts stowed away in pockets of an old fashioned gown that she wore. In the dress were one hundred pockets and the gown drew much attention from the people attending the affair.

Mrs. James W. Semple had charge of the sale of tickets at the door.

TO MAKE REPAIRS AT THAMES RIVER BRIDGE

Work will be started on extensive repairs to the fender racks of the Thames river highway bridge in about a month by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Corp., it was announced Thursday. The company was recently awarded a contract for the work, which is now being held up only pending the arrival of a shipmen of western timber.

COMMUNITY SURVEY IN NORWICH IS TO BE BEGUN DURING NEXT WEEK

The Babson Statistical organization has been engaged by the local chamber of commerce to make a community survey. This survey is designed particularly to arouse the interest of Norwich citizens in our liabilities and assets as a city. It is planned to compile all the data into loose-leaf form, any page of which can be changed and brought up to date as conditions change.

The chairman of the industrial survey committee, Charles W. Taggart, in an interview today, stated: "We are not interested in the mere compilation of statistics. We are primarily interested in the analysis of Norwich as a business, the same as you would proceed to analyze and recommend changes which tend toward improvement in any line of business and naturally we are interested in facts which would be of particular benefit to any new industrial prospects.

"We are also hoping to have a question answered by the survey—'Of the 200 or more different lines of manufacture in the United States—which ones might be more economically located in Norwich, without conflicting with our present industry and why?'

"The Babson method in completing this work will be to interview various groups in the community, obtaining from them their own appraisal of local conditions.

"The man who will assist us in this work, representing the Babson organization, is an experienced engineer, who has conducted several similar surveys in various parts of the country. He will arrive in Norwich some time next week and undoubtedly remain for two or three months."

The industrial survey committee is composed of the following members: S. B. Palmer, C. J. Twist J. J. O'Rourke and C. W. Taggart.

This is the first survey undertaken by the Babson Statistical organization in New England.

GROTON $40,000 SUIT AGAINST N. H. ROAD

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co., is made defendant in a suit for $40,000 damages brought by John F. Schutz, president of the former Bridge Head Motor Car Co. Inc. of Groton, now of Milford, who alleges that the railroad company obtained a deed to certain property at the easterly end of the Thames river highway bridge, on the pretence of borrowing it for 24 hours, that the company kept it, knowing that the state was about to condemn it; and that the state did condemn it. Papers in the suit were served upon the defendant in New Haven Thursday and is returnable to the superior court for New Haven county.

The plaintiff alleges in his complaint: "On October 21st, 1925, the plaintiff for the valuable consideration of $4,000 purchased from the defendant, three certain tracts or parcels of land situated in the town of Groton, containing respectively 3,400, 3,100 and 34,400 square feet, these lands being subject to the highway slope rights of the state of Connecticut.

"The defendant corporation duly signed, sealed and executed a grant and deed of the premises described in paragraph 1 and delivered the same to the plaintiff and the plaintiff herein became the owner in fee of the parcels of land, it is claimed.

"On Dec. 4, 1925, the defendant corporation requested the loan and use of this deed, which the plaintiff deposited in the New London City National bank, for the sole purpose, as the defendant corporation stated to the plaintiff, of clearing a small portion of parcel No. 1 on which had been constructed a cement sidewalk, according to the complaint.

"The plaintiff loaned to the defendant corporation, and placed the same with and in the hands of the officers of the New London City National bank for this purpose and no other, the deed, with the promise and agreement on the part of the defendant corporation to clear that portion of parcel No. 1 within 24 hours, it is alleged.

"The defendant corporation has neglected and refused to secure and return to the plaintiff his deed of the premises, to the date hereof, although often requested so to do.

"On or about Feb. 2, 1926, the state highway department took possession of all of the property described in paragraph 1 of the plaintiff's complaint, without due and legal notice to the plaintiff, and has held and still holds possession and occupancy of said premises.

"On or about Dec. 4, 1925, at the time of the delivery of said deed to the plaintiff, the defendant corporation, through its officers, agents and representatives, and unknown to the plaintiff, was then holding conversations with representatives of the state highway department with respect to the acquisition and use of all of the premises by the state highway department, for public use and occupation, it is claimed.

"The plaintiff further claimed that the conversation and negotiations referred to in the plaintiff's complaint were carried on until the condemnation and acquisition of said premises by the highway department of the state, on Feb. 9, 1926.

"The defendant corporation, well knowing that the highway department intended to condemn and acquire the premises for public purposes, received communications and notices from the state highway department with respect to the acquisition and condemnation of the property, and notwithstanding the delivery of said deed referred to, failed and neglected to notify the plaintiff of the fact or to advise the plaintiff of the steps or procedure by the state to acquire the lands, and failed to transmit to the plaintiff the correspondence, letters and notices filed with the defendant corporation by the representatives of the state highway department.

"The premises were acquired and condemned by the state, without any due and legal notice to the plaintiff on Feb. 9, 1926, and benefits and damages were assessed with respect to the acquisition of the property, without any notice to the plaintiff by the defendant corporation or by the state highway department, and the benefits and damages were assessed after the conversations, letters and notices had been given to the defendant corporation and by it, withheld from the knowledge and rights of the plaintiff herein.

"At the time of the acquisition by the plaintiff of the premises the premises were worth $40,000, and by reason of the conduct of the defendant corporation, the plaintiff was deprived of the right, use, occupation and value of the premises and of the right to defend against the acquisition of the premises by the state highway department and the right under the statute to the benefits and fair condemnation value of the premises."

FRANK E CLARK DIES THURSDAY AT HEBRON

(Special to The Bulletin)

AMSTON, Dec. 8.—Frank E. Clark, representative to the legislature from the town of Hebron about six years ago, died this morning in Hebron, following a short illness. He suffered a shock Monday morning while dressing. He was born in Connecticut 73 years ago and preceding his residence of about 16 years in Hebron, he made his home in Hampton. Besides his wife he leaves a number of children.

FEAST OF CHRIST'S MOTHER NOTED AT ST. PATRICK'S

Masses at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock Thursday in St. Patrick's church commemorated the Feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Psalms, prayers and music were reminders of the singular privilege by which, through the merits of Christ, the mother of Christ was preserved from the taint of original sin from the very moment she was conceived. Low mass at 5 o'clock was read by Rev. John J. Reilly, at 7 mass was read by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, and that at 8 was read by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. Each service was largely attended and there were hundreds at holy communion. At 8 o'clock, Father Galvin aided Monsignor May in administering the eucharist. In all masses the gospel was the annunciation of the Angel Gabriel, Luke I. 26-38. The gradual was Judith 13-66, "O Virgin Mary, blessed are thou of the Lord most high, above all the women of the earth." The vestments were white and gold, as were also the altar hangings and the flowers were white.

At the offertory, Roderick F. Sullican sang Rosewig's beautiful setting of Ave Maria, and Mr. Sullivan and the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, sang "Sanctus" as a duet. "Agnus Dei" was sung by a quartet, Miss Sabourin, Mr. LaFontaine, Mr. Sullivan and John Kelly.

The pupils of the parish school attended the 8 o'clock mass with their teachers, the Sisters of Mercy, being dismissed for the day, after the service.

EXPERT OUTLINES METHODS FOR PEDESTRIAN CONTROL

Three requirements essential to the success of regulations designed to control jay walking and prevent the congestion and danger arising from the conflict between pedestrians and vehicles at intersections are outlined in a recent report by the Albert Russel Erskine bureau for Street Traffic Research.

"Primarily the regulations must appeal to the public as being reasonable," states the report, prepared by Miller McClintock, director of the bureau, which is endowed in Harvard University by the Studebaker corporation. "Pedestrians will willingly wait at an intersection for their turn to cross it, while they are waiting, traffic across their path is comparatively heavy and regular, at least sufficiently so to make crossing at the time appear to be difficult.

"When pedestrians are forced to wait at intersections during periods when there is no traffic to interfere with their immediate crossing the entire system of regulation appears unreasonable. For the success of pedestrian control it is therefore necessary that traffic should be heavy, and that the flow of vehicles should be reasonably constant during the pedestrian stop interval. This is naturally accomplished by keeping the stop and go intervals as short as possible—a requirement for good vehicular control as well as for pedestrian regulation. One of the chief faults at the present time of both automatic signal control and control by traffic police is the tendency to hold traffic for intervals that are unnecessarily long.

"In the second place, provision must be made for all pedestrians to reach the sidewalk before cross traffic begins. When vehicle traffic is released without adequate warning pedestrians who have been obeying the signals will often be caught in mid-street. Naturally, this leads to a disregard of regulations which place restrictions on pedestrian movement without offering the pedestrian an equivalent value in definite protection. Proper manipulation of the neutral interval will make it possible for all pedestrians to reach the sidewalk before vehicle traffic is released.

Finally, pedestrian control is a type of regulation which must be accepted voluntarily by the public. It is seldom successful when forced on by police power. To this end it is important that the traffic police should be thoroughly instructed in their duties before the system is put into effect, and it is likewise desirable that the public be carefully educated by a suitable campaign of publicity before pedestrian control is attempted."

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES SUPPLEMENT SANATORIA

The three tons of 1927 Christmas seals sent into Connecticut for sale from national headquarters should make available in this state over $200,000 for the control of tuberculosis. This will supplement the work of the five state tuberculosis sanatoria, Cedarcrest at Hartford, Undercliff at Meriden, Uncas-on-Thames at Norwich, Laurel Heights at Shelton and Seaside at Niantic and the other large sanatoria, Gaylord Farm sanatorium at Wallingford, Wildwood sanatorium at Hartford and William Wirt Winchester hospital at Allingtown.

Through the sanatoria and educational and preventive work that such yearly sums of money make possible in Connecticut the death rate per 100,000 from this disease has been gradually decreasing until in 1926 it was 78.0 in comparison with 186.6 in 1900, and 244.0 in 1885.

With the knowledge that tuberculosis makes greater inroads in youth than in adult life more and more emphasis is being placed on health work among children in the preschool group and the adolescent group to the end that better physical health may prevent this most dreaded of diseases.

Every community in Connecticut has the tuberculosis problem to cope with. Educational work is a big factor in its prevention and its cure.

Christmas seals have been distributed to seventy-six tuberculosis agencies in Connecticut. The money from their scale (eighty-five per cent of which remains in the local community) will do much to lessen the tuberculosis problem. So each community that buys Christmas seals invests money in its own tuberculosis work.

COMPENSATION AWARD IS MADE FOR LUMP SUM

Compensation in the lump sum of $176.88 is awarded to Rosario DiMaggio an employe of the water and sewer department of New London, according to a finding and award by the Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey.

DiMaggio, on April 25, 1927, received a muscular strain of the back for which he has been receiving compensation weekly at the rate of $11.36. The respondent at this time, claimed that DiMaggio was able to resume work with the result that a hearing was conducted before the compensation commissioner to decide this issue. Commissioner Bailey, upon the evidence introduced at the hearing, found that DiMaggio would be incapacitated for three months longer, and the insurance then agreed to settle in a lump sum.

MAN AND WOMAN ARE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Charged with adultery on July 20 Peter Gaganis, 34, and Mrs. Athena Angelopolous, 24, both of Cliff street, will be presented in the city court this (Friday) morning. They were arrested about 10.30 o'clock Thursday morning and bonds were set at $2,500 in each case. Gaganis secured bonds. The woman is the wife of Constantine Angelopolous.

She was arrested in a rooming house on Main street by Officer Barney Keenan and Gaganis was arrested by Officers P. Murphy and M. Carroll at the Main street building where he is employed as fireman. The woman and her husband were in court several months ago on charges of breach of the peace when a man was found in front of their home on Elm street, bleeding badly about the head. At that time Gaganis was mentioned as a friend of the family. It is said that Angelopolous has started divroce proceedings since that time.

TEACHERS TAKING LECTURE COURSE ON "ARITHMETIC"

The first of a course of fifteen lectures upon "Arithmetic" for the school teachers which have been arranged for by Superintendent E. J. Graham in cooperation with the state board of education was given Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Broadway school by Frederick R. Noble of Willimantic Normal school.

Over 50 teachers have enrolled for the course, which entitles the teacher taking it to credits of an equal standing in such institutions as Yale and Teachers' college.

The lectures will be given each week on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Broadway school.

M'Lean Introduces Petitions

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9—Senator George D. McLean of Connecticut, introduced the following petitions in the United States senate today:

Petition from The Y's Men's club, Y. M. C. A., New London, Connecticut, urging the enactment of legislation to prevent a recurrence of the Mississippi flood.

TAFTVILLE

The annual meeting and election of officers of Council Gagnon, No. 208, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique was held Thursday evening with a very large attendance. The election resulted as follows; Chaplain Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault; dean, Joseph Gauvin; honorary president, Joseph S. Tellier; secretary, J. Omer Tellier, Jr.; assistant secretary, Marius Reguin; collector, Adelard Adams; treasurer, J. O. Tellier, Sr.; first marshal, Omer Gauvin; second marshal, Mathias Paradis, Jr.; sick visiting committee, Corentin Jacuen, A. Bourgeois, Mrs. Gabriel Paquette and Mrs. Marie L. St. Amour; master of ceremonies, Alphonse Provost. A private installation ceremony is to be held on January 5th, with Rev. Father DesSureault as the installing officer. The council is in excellent financial condition and has at present 446 members in good standing.

Ovilaand Leo Paul have purchased a thoroughbred Walker foxhound from H. E. Holden of Lebanon.

Miss Ruth Anderton of North Third avenue has returned to her work after a two weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Airey and their daughters Phyllis and Elsie were visitors early in the week in Pawtucket, where they were the guests of relatives.

Miss Edith L. Heap of South Second avenue has as her guest her cousin, Miss Edna Baldwin of Plainfield.

Mrs. Douglas, who has been the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis of North Third avenue has returned to her home in Montreal.

A meeting of the July Six was held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Jeanette Legarde on Norwich avenue. Miss Legarde had arranged a very entertaining program of games, and prior to adjournment she served delicious refreshments.

Edwin Pollard of Boston, is the guest of his father William Pollard of South Second avenue.

A bit of Dixieland was transported to Ponemah hall Wednesday evening, when a number of the members of the Dramatic club gave a pleasing minstrel show on the second and closing night of the annual fair of the Taftville Congregational church. As on Tuesday evening, the hall was packed to capacity. The club famous for many years for the quality of the minstrel shows which they staged, fully sustained its reputation. The song numbers were all well done, the choruses snappy and up to the minute, and the jokes and cross fire between the interlocutor and the ends, including many local hits, won favor from the crowd.

The program was as follows: Opening chorus, Hello Cutie; Red Lips, entire company; saxophone solo, Indian Love Call Claude Leathers, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Augusta Nolan; Moonflower of Love, Miss Edna Krodel; Hobo Convention, Edward Thoma; Are You Lonesome Tonight? Miss Celena Adams and Robert Schmidt; She Don't Wanna, Victor H. Davis; Me and My Shadow, Miss Betty Newton and Miss Mildred Treoger; Roam On, Richard Oat; I Ain't That Kind of a Baby, Miss Flossie M. Meyer; Just A Memory, Miss Elsie Heap; That's What Louie Uses, Edward Thoma; Dawn of Tomorrow, Gladys Thoma; Is It Possible? James Heap and Jack Houston; You Only Want Me When You're Lonesome, Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree; Spanish Cavalier (in Spanish Costume) Miss Elsie Heap; Solomon Levi (in Jewish costume) Miss Flossie M. Meyer; solo dance, Miss Mary Martin; closing chorus, Sometimes I'm Happy; Side by Side, entire company.

Richard Oat was interlocutor and the end men were Edward Thoma, as a hobo, Victor H. Davis, a station agent, and James Heap and Jack Houston, a couple of negro porters. Those in the chorus besides the soloists were Miss Mary Martin, Miss Helen Thoma, Miss Freida Saroski, Miss Melba Monty, Ralph Hunt, John Archibald, Earle Mathewson, Edwin Heap and Lester Pingree.

Miss Louise Sigrist was pianist for the evening. The entire show was under the management of Richard Oat. The booths again reported lively business and all of them sold out before the evening's affair ended. It is believed that a large sum will be turned into the treasury of the church.

VARE DENIED SENATE OATH PENDING INVESTIGATION

Senator-Elect From Illinois Must Wait Until Special Committee Can Further Investigate and Report Upon the Charges of Fraud in Both His Primary and General Election—Will Have an Opportunity to Present His Case Before the Senate Committee—Then Will Be Heard on His Own Behalf on the Senate Floor.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, trod the pathway today upon which the senate recently started Frank L. Smith of Illinois.

Vare, a republican, was, in effect, stopped at the senate's door. The oath was denied him until the special campaign funds committee can further investigate and report upon the charges of fraud in both his primary and general election.

Like the senator-elect from Illinois, he will have an opportunity to present his case in person and through counsel before the committee and then will be heard on his own behalf on the senate floor.

Hopes of the friends of Vare that his case would prove stronger than that of Smith were shattered for the senate vote to deny him the oath of office was 56 to 30 while that in the case of Smith was 53 to 28.

After more than two days of oratory, those leading the fight on behalf of the Pennsylvanian went down fighting and the tenacious Reed, of Pennsylvania, carried the battle beyond the last roll call by holding up temporarily a resolution of his distant cousin, Reed, of Missouri, reaffirming the authority of the special committee to act.

It was over a similar resolution that the two Reeds, the one a republican and the other a democrat, fought so bitterly during the senate filibuster at the end of the last session. As a result of this fight the committee was rendered powerless to act during the recess of congress. After the Pennsylvania Reed had asked that the resolution go over until the next session of the senate, which will be on Monday, the Missouri Reed, the chairman of the special committee, declared that this would cause a delay of three days in getting the investigation under way.

"For that three days delay the senator from Pennsylvania must again accept the responsibility," Reed of Missouri, declared with a show of heat. Reed of Pennsylvania made no reply.

Under the resolution denying Vare the oath, offered originally by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, and subsequently modified, the special committee is directed to report back to the senate as quickly as possible, but in no case later than next February 5. No time limit was set on the Smith investigation, which was ordered Wednesday.

After more than two hours of oratory, in which the constitution, partisan politics and senate precedents were discussed, the senate rejected, 55 to 31, a substitute by Reed of Pennsylvania, under which the oath would have been given to Vare and his case subsequently investigated by the privileges and elections committee, which usually handles cases involving senate seats.

Five democrats, four of them from southern states—joined with 26 republicans in proposing to seat Vare immediately, while republicans and the one farmer-labor, lined up with 38 democrats in opposition.

Reed of Pennsylvania, then proposed that the oath be administered and the case referred to the campaign funds committee, but that was rejected, 31 to 55.

TAX REDUCTION BILL DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—Opening its legislative throttle, the house took up the $232,735,000 tax reduction bill today, discussed it for slightly more than two hours and adjourned with leaders in agreement to close general debate tomorrow night.

This would clear the way for consideration of the measure the first of next week under procedure permitting the offering of amendments from the floor. A number of members are expected to call for changes in various provisions but there is little likelihood that their efforts, except in perhaps a few cases will prove successful.

Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, which whipped the bill into shape before congress convened, opened debate on it today, explaining that every effort had been made toward simplifying the administra of the revenue law.

Green did not make a reference to the possible fate of the measure either in the house or later in the senate as was done by Representative Garner of Texas, senior democrat on the committee, who predicted the senators would boost the cut from its present figure to about $500,000,000.

REPUBLICANS ASSURED OF CONTROL OF SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—Continuation of republican control of the senate was assured today with an announcement by the five western independents that they would assist the Old Guard in organizing that body.

Their declaration was made after Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, had assured them that a majority of the republican senate conference took the position that there should be no unnecessary delay in securing a vote" on the three measures which the independents had proposed.

These are a farm relief bill along the lines of the McNary-Haugen measure; a bill to curb the issuance of labor injunctions by the federal courts and a resolution proposing an inquiry into the administration policy of Latin-America.

With their majority of one reduced to a minority of one by the temporary exclusion of Frank L. Smith, of Illinois and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, the republicans need every one of the votes of the five independents to organize the senate.

Vote on organization were deferred today until next week.

DEATHS FROM COLD NOW WELL ABOVE THE 30 MARK

(By The Associated Press.)

The wake of the blizzard which swept with sub-zero weather across the country found more than 30 storm-ridden vessels on the Great Lakes in distress, wrecked or limping toward port yesterday.

A though no deaths were reported, thousands of dollars of damage was done to shipping. The gale leaving a trail of smashed shore property, wharves and ships.

An 84 mile an hour gale snapped four vessels and a passenger steamer from their moorings at Buffalo, two of the ships being badly battered. Two package freighters headed up the lakes and two rum runners, said to have left Port Colborne, Ont., Canada, were unreported.

The snow choked roads of Wisconsin, upper Michigan, Minnesota, and the Dakotas took the attention of the occupatnts of those states as they attempted to restore rail communication and travel. The weather to the north was still sub-zero, Hibbing, Minn., reporting 34 degrees below and snow was predicted.

Several additional deaths attributed to the cold wave were reported, sending the total for the storm well above the 30 mark

LAKE FREIGHTER ASHORE NEAR MARQUETTE, MICH.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A large lake freighter, heavily coated with ice was driven ashore off Shot Point in Lake Superior near here tonight. Coast guardsmen were dispatched to her aid. The ship's identity was not determined.

The bow of the boat is hard aground not more than 600 feet off shore and she is in about seven feet of water. It is expected to be several hours before the coast guard ship can plow her way through the heavy ice formations to reach the stranded vessel. The crew can be seen from shore walking about the deck and are in no immediate danger. Shipping men here are of the opinion the vessel is the Ogiebay, upbound from Sault Ste. Marie for Duluth with a cargo of grain, which has been missing.

DOROTHY CUMMINGS HAS BEEN GRANTED A DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Miss Dorothy Cummings Dakin, known on the motion picture screen as Dorothy Cummings, was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Frank Elliott Dakin, who as stage director, goes by the name of Frank Elliott. Mrs. Dakin recently was defendant in a suit brought by motion picture producers seeking to prevent her from obtaining a divorce during the filming of a picture in which she portrayed a sacred part.

The couple was married April 4, 1922, and separated three years later. Custody of two children was awarded the wife.

HEAVY CASUALTIES OF REBEL OFFICERS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Twenty-five rebel generals, four colonels and two lieutenant-colonels have been killed, mostly by execution, since the beginning of the Gomez-Serrano revolutionary attempt, says El Universal Grafico today.

The newspaper says that in the same two months period the federals have lost only two colonels and two lieutenant-colonels, who were killed in skirmishes in the mountains of the State of Vera Cruz.

No estimate has yet been made, either official or unofficial, of the number of casualties among enlisted men of either rebels or federals but it is believed that the number will not be greater than two or three hundred as there were not really big battles, the rebels in most cases surrendering before battles became serious.

A GREAT DEMAND FOR MARINES IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Nearly every department in Nicaragut is calling for United States marines and for constabulary under their control, according to Colonel Mason Gulick, commander of the marines in Nicaragua.

Bridegroom Arrived Too Late For Wedding

But the Bride-to-Be Postponed the Ceremony When She Learned of Groom's Plight.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A dash across the continent after a delayed voyage from China ended here tonight when Forsythe Sherfesee, financial adviser to the Chinese government, climbed out of an airplane and greeted his fiancee, Mrs. Emily Ryerson, wealthy widow, six hours too late for their wedding which was to have taken place at noon.

Sherfesee flew to Chicago from St. Paul in a final effort to arrive on time for the wedding, not knowing his bride-to-be has postponed the wedding after she learned he would be too late for the ceremony as planned.

Mrs. Ryerson, widow of Arthur Ryerson, wealthy steel maker, who went down with the Titanic, had arranged for the air trip from St. Paul as her own effort toward keeping the wedding date after she learned her fiance was delayed at sea by ocean storms and further hindered by snow blockades on his train trip from the coast.

Before postponing the wedding, she had chartered the airplane to meet Sherfesee and bring him to Chicago After deciding to delay the ceremony she was unsuccessful in notifying the airport of her change in plans.

Mrs. Ryerson and a party of friends were at the airport as the big plane glided out of the sky.

Mr. Sherfesee joined Mrs. Ryerson and her son and motored to her home. They announced the wedding would take place tomorrow morning and the couple expect to depart immediately after the ceremony, and to sail from New York on Dec. 13 for Italy and a wedding trip to Persia.

Coolidge Suggests Aviation Conference

An International Affair For Thorough Discussion of Civil Aviation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The calling of an international conference in Washington next December for a thorough discussion of civil aviation was suggested today by President Coolidge in a letter to the Civil Aeronautical conference in session here.

At the same time, Mr. Coolidge recommended that an aeronautical exhibition be held in connection with the meeting as a means of increasing the interest of the public in the accomplishments and possibilities of aviation.

The message of the president shared attention at today's session with an address by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The flier recommended the promulgation of commercial flying regulations, and inspection and licensing by the commerce department of planes and pilots to increase the confidence of the public, popularize flying, and develop the industry.

Pointing out that next December will mark the 25th anniversary of Orville Wright's first flight in a heavier-than-air machine, President Coolidge informed the conference that he had "had in mind that this important anniversary might be properly celebrated by holding here in Washington an international civil aviation conference and exhibition in conjunction with your annual meeting."

Assistant Secretary MacCracken, of the commerce department, who presided over the conference, read the president's letter. The communication was a complete surprise and aroused much comment and enthusiasm

The conference, attended by about 30 representatives of flying concerns, schools and institutions closed today its five day session after discussing commercial flying in all its aspects.

Colonel Lindbergh in a short address said that despite the improvement in modern aviation methods the aeronautical "industry can never become truly great until it has the full confidence of the public. In order to gain that confidence we must assure the user of aircraft of both reliable equipment and experienced personnel for it soreration.

"The geratest mission that can be accomplished by the department of commerce is that of guaranteeing safety in air travel to the public through intelligent regulation and guidance of training schols, operating personnel and commercial air craft construction."

"Not to be Opened Until Christmas!"

Nothing is worse than last minute Christmas shopping.

And nothing gives a man or woman a greater measure of the right kind of holiday spirit than a neat pile of tissued and red ribboned packages all ready in plenty of time to be mailed or delivered before the great day of days.

The label "Not to be opened until Christmas!" is the true symbol of the shopper who considers others and does his buying early, and most often this enviable person is a reader of advertising.

Advrtising is one of the greatest aids to the buying of Christmas gifts early. The Bulletin is an unfailing suggestion list of things that father, mother, sister, brother, sweetheart, wife, husband, nephew, niece, uncle and aunt would really appreciate.

Get your shopping done early. Why not make this a merry Christmas for yourself. Advertising will do more to help you solve the Christmas shopping problem than anything else.

CHICAGO THREATENED WITH STREET CAR STIKE

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—William D. Mahon, national presider of the Street Car Men's union, today wired Mayor William Hale Thompson from Detroit, asking the mayor to aid union officials in reaching a settlement of the traction controversy that threatens a tie-up of surface and elevated lines.

Thompson replied that he intended conferring with Judge James H Wilkerson, of the United States district court, tomorrow, and invited representatives of the unions and the companies also to attend the conference. The mayor extended the same invitation to Mahon. Judge Wilkerson is interested in the traction situation because part of the surface lines are in receivership.

Officials of the surface lines said a meeting with union heads had been arranged also for tomorrow.

The present street agitation dates back to last June when the men sought an increase in wages. Both factions agreed to arbitration, each to name an arbiter, and those two to select a third The two could not agree on a third member, and the men last week demanded immediate action. The employes ask 15 cents an hour more; the company wants a five cent reduction.

TROUBLE CONTINUES IN OKLAHOMA LEGISLATURE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Reiterating his refusal to sanction the present self-convened session of the Oklahoma legislature, Gov. Henry S. Johnson in a statement tonight declared he would "not submit to having the constitution grossly outraged and a miniature revolution set up here in the state house."

The special session was called by opponents of the governor to conduct an inquiry of affairs of state departments, including the executive office The supreme court has ruled the session is without legal power.

Declaring he was conscious of his own rectitude in office, the uprightness of his personal conduct and of his solemn intention to uphold the constitution, Gov. Johnston called upon the people to uphold his course of conduct.

MEX. LIFTS CENSORSHIP ON CABLES AND TELEGRAPHS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Mexico is again without censorship of cables and telegrams.

Government censorship was officially announced lifted this morning through efforts of William Wiseman, manager of the Western Union in Mexico City.

Censorship was first clamped down on April 21 when the Mexican Catholic archbishops and bishops were deported and continued effective until it was lifted September 12, being again restored on October 2 with the Gomez-Serrano revolutionary attempt.

GOV'T MOVES TO END LABOR TROUBLE IN COAL FIELDS

Secretary Davis of the Labor Department Has Called Conference of Coal Operators and Union Leaders in Washington at 10 A. M. Next Tuesday morning—The Secretary States That His Action Was Taken With the Knowledge of President Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—(AP)—The federal government moved tonight to end the labor controversy in Ohio, Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia bituminous coal fields.

Stating specifically that his action was taken with the knowledge of President Coolidge, Secretary Davis of the labor department sent out telegrams calling a conference of coal operators and union leaders in Washington at ten o'clock next Tuesday morning.

"You are requested to attend a conference in my office in the department of labor, Washington, Tuesday morning, December 13 at ten o'clock," the message read. "The attendance will consist only of bituminous operators of western and central Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia, and Ohio, and representatives of the United Mine Workers.

"The meeting will be for frank discussion of problems affecting the industry with the object of bringing about, if possible, a satisfactory and peaceful situation.

"The conference is called with the knowledge of the president. Very important your company be represented."

In making a public announcement of the conference call, the labor department issued a statement which said that "Secretary Davis had expressed the hope that the outcome might be peace in the bituminous industry by Christmas.

"At least, the secretary believes," the statement continued, "the meeting may witness a decided step in that direction, so that the holidays may see a situation in soft coal mining satisfactory not only to operators and miners but to business in general in all the districts that have lost by existing conditions.

"It is the secretary's earnest desire to bring to an end, if possible, not only this financial loss, but the human hardship resulting from the present conflict of interests. It is with this purpose in mind that Mr. Davis has called the conference."

The conference call issued tonight has been under consideration by the labor department chief since labor leaders appealed to President Coolidge two weeks ago for intervention.

Bituminous mines in the section affected by the controversy shut down last April when a union wage agreement expired, and after the union and operators had failed in repeated attempts to fix a new wage scale.

In succeeding months a number of the coal mines, particularly those in Pennsylvania, have re-opened on a non-union basis, and in some parts of the territory, the controversy has been embittered by violence and by ejectment proceedings before courts, by which miners and their families have been dislodged from mining company-owned residences.

In Illinois and Indiana, partial settlements have been effected between the unions and the operators, ending partially suspensions of mining which began last April, but the conditions have grown more severe from the labor point of view in the northeastern sector. A determination to seek the aid of organized labor as a whole as evinced last month when the executive council of the American Federation of Labor was called to the assistance of the mine workers. This resulted in the appeal to the president, backed by all the leadership of the federation.

In sending out the call, Secretary Davis addressed each coal operators' association, each of the larger producing corporations, and a considerable number of individuals. It was declared that none of the important factors in the industry in the region had been overlooked.

OIL CASE JUROR TELLS OF HAVING BEEN APPROACHED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., juror in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial who has bobbed in and out of the limelight since the case was declared a mistrial, popped through the curtain of secrecy again today and gave to District Attorney Gordon, a statement that he had been "approached" by persons Gordon refused to name.

Kidwell, timid and apparently frightened at the unusual publicity surrounding him, was charged in affidavits filed prior to the mistrial with talking freely about the oil case and with having said he expected an automobile "as long as this block" when the trial was over. Since the mistrial, except for occasions when he sought to get his denial of the affidavits before Justice Frederick L. Siddons, in the supreme court, the juror, has been nearly forgotten.

Every day this week he has come silently into the court room where criminal contempt proceedings against Harry F. Sinclair, the oil man William J. Burns and their associates, were being heard by Justice Siddons. Arriving just before court convened, he usually slipped into a seat near the door, where he would be little noticed. When Assistant District Attorney Burkinshaw told him yesterday that he would not be called as a witness in the contempt proceedings for a few days, he asked if Burkinshaw would be willing to let him make a further statement.

Arriving at Burkinshaw's office at 9 o'clock this morning, he was closeted with the assistant and a stenographer until shortly after noon when he was taken into the private office of District Attorney Gordon. Gordon characterized his statement as highly important and refused to divulge what the juror had told.

DAUGHTER OF THE STEEL MILLS IN GRAND OPERA

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Kathryn Witwer, a daughter of the steel mills, tonight reached the goal of her ambition—a grand opera role.

As the piteous Miscaela, discarded sweetheart of Don Jose, in "Carmen," the twenty-four year old soprano, who lived most of her years in Gary, Ind., made her operatic debut with the Chicago Civic Opera company.

It was an occasion for tribute by the heat-seared mill workers to one of their own. Many of them came to hear the daughter of a former fellow toiler.

Those who first heard possibilities in Kathryn's voice—her parents Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Witwer, came from their Cumberland, Md., home to see and hear their aspirations realized. With them was the singer's 19-year-old brother and a married sister.

ALLEGED SMUGGLING OF CHEAP SWISS WATCHES

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Customs officials today believed they had cut off a supply of suspiciously cheap Swiss watches with the arrest of a trio of alleged smugglers.

The prisoners, arraigned before a United States commissioner, were charged with bringing $50,000 worth of dutiable watches across the Canadian border in spare automobile tires.

They were Isadore Tarnow, Abraham Bloom and David Gilden, all of Brooklyn, arrested yesterday just as they crossed the border from Montreal. Complaints by jewelers that Swiss watches were sold here below cost led to their capture.

ALLEGED LEADERS OF RUM RING INDICTED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The federal grand jury today indicted eleven alleged leaders of a country-wide rum-ring said to be operating along the Atlantic coast.

The men are John McCambridge, said to be the operator of tugs in New York harbor.

The indictments follow a government investigation instituted by United States Attorney George W. Coles after the Balko was seized while attempting to unload her cargo here September 10.

INSANITY PLEA MADE FOR SLAYER OF BRIDE

EUREKA, Kas., Dec. 9.—(AP)—A defense of "communicative insanity" was introduced today in the trial of Evan M. Hart, Eureka banker on trial for killing his bride of three weeks, Mabel Marmont Hart, by cutting her throat with a knife.

Hart testified yesterday that his bride pleaded with him to kill her because of her fear of motherhood and that he was unable to refuse her request. That Hart was temporarily insane at the time and that he derived his insanity from close association with his wife, was the testimony of defense witnesses who said that Mrs. Hart was mentally abnormal.

Dr. Karl Menninger, of Topeka, Kas., specialist in nervous and mental diseases, testified that communicative insanity is a reality and that, in his opinion, the killing of Mrs. Hart was followed. Its occurrence is "very infrequent," he said, but these are records of numerous cases.

To become afflicted with communicative insanity, he said, the relationship between two persons must be very intimate, so much so that one means more to the other than anybody else in the world, they adopt the same likes and dislikes, he added, and when one becomes abnormal, the other's mind is affected in a similar manner.

$2,601,557.93 PAID STATE IN SUCCESSION TAXES

HARTFORD, Dec. 9.—(AP)—More than 2,500 estates paid the state amounts ranging from $12,988.52 to 15 cents, making a total of $2,601,557.93 paid in succession taxes during the fiscal year ending June 30 last, according to the annual report of State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers. The estate of Romulus R. Colgate, probated in Sharon, paid the highest tax, while that of Emilien Roch, of Thompson, paid the smallest tax.

The succession tax constituted the third largest source of the state's income during the 1926-27 fiscal year, being exceeded for the first time during that year by the gasoline tax receipts As in other years, motor vehicle fees, bringing $6,508,238.94 formed the largest single revenue source. The gasoline tax during the fiscal year brought in $2,840,518.30.

The succession tax receipts during the past fiscal year, by a gain over the preceding year, then the total was $2,506,930.17 of $94,627.76, while the rate of the tax was unchanged, is an index of the increasing prosperity of the state, it was pointed out by tax department officials. The gasoline tax increased $496,092.21 from the $2,344,426 total from this source for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926.

JURY DISAGREED IN THE SUTHERLAND CASE

HARTFORD, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Unable to reach an agreement after three hours of deliberation the jury hearing the case of Frederick C. Sutherland, of New Haven, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government by revealing secret information of the internal revenue bureau was discharged by Judge Edwin S. Thomas in federal court here this afternoon.

Inasmuch as the case cannot be tried again in the same term of court, Sutherland was released under the former bond of $1,000. He was represented by Lawyer Henry W. Syfrig, of Washington, D. C.

CONFESSION MADE BY HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

STAMFORD, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Joseph Bobrovicz, 19, of 33 East Walnut street, admitted at a coroner's hearing today that he drove the truck which ran down and killed Morris Rosenblum, 65, of 83 Hawthorne street on November 28.

Rosenblum was left dying in the road by the truck driver who fled but a chain of circumstances is said to have pointed to him, ending with his admission before Coroner John J Phelan today. Bobrovicz was held on a manslaughter charge in $2,500 bonds after the inquest.

YEMBO SANCTORUM INSTITUTED AT WILLIMANTIC FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 9—The two-day ceremonies attending the institution of Yembo Sanctorum No. 261 A. M. O. S. opened here tonight in I. O. O. F. hall at 7 o'clock where the institution ceremonies were in charge of Supreme Monarchos Edgar S. Mosher of Auburn, N. Y., Supreme Counsellor Frank W. Whiton of Hartford and Supreme Secretary John L. Hayden of Schenectady. These officials were assisted by Ahab Sanctorum No. 230 of Mystic. This was followed by the election of officers.

At 8:15 o'clock a public installation was held at the town hall in the presence of a large and interested gathering. The proceedings were in charge of District Deputy Supreme Monarchos John McIntyre of Korom Sanctorum, Ancient Order of Samaritans, of Hartford. Assisting the district deputy was the following staff in addition to the famous "daughters": Deputy Supreme Vizier Frank W. Arnold; Assistant D. S. Vizier Miles Johnson; Deputy Supreme Stentoros H. E. Harrington; Deputy Supreme Treasurer J. B. Woodruff; Deputy Supreme Secretary E. N. Griffin; Deputy Supreme Prince H. C. Bronson; Deputy Supreme Counselor George C. Eck; and Deputy Supreme Khalifah, Gilbert P. Hurd. An exhibition drill was given at 9:30 o'clock by the Korum Sanctorum patrol of Hartford. Daughters of the district deputy who participated in the ceremonials were the Misses Edith Moodie, Grace Harper, Eleanor Mabee, Catherine Harris, Doris Dewey, Ruth Waterhouse and Betty Brosnan. Mrs. N. M. Harper was wardrobe lady, W. L. Henderling, property man and W. M. Woodford, district deputy's representative, all members of the Hartford staff. At the close of the unique program dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

The program scheduled for Saturday begins at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with a public concert by the Korum Band; a moonfeast at 5 o'clock in I. O. O. F. hall and a street parade at 6:30 o'clock. The program will then again adjourn to the town hall where they will be a few short remarks by supreme officers and an elaborate display of 28 acts of stage vaudeville.

The officers of Yembo Sanctorum elected and installed this evening were: Grand monarch, C. P. Palmer; vice grand monarch, J. McNeeley of Norwich; grand counsellor, W. J. Smith; registrar, George H. Millerd, Jr.; collector, A. J. Mathewson; banker, Louis B. Wilson. Grand Monarch Palmer then named the following appointive officers: Grand executioner, P. Brumme of Norwich; grand director, John Hersant; grand monitor, W. Keiley of Norwich; grand chief guide, W. Stevens and grand herald, W. Verguson of Norwich.

There is an enthusiastic tension through the business element of this city as plans are being launched for the making of a bigger and better Willimantic, notable among these being a drive to secure a paid secretary of the chamber of commerce and furnishing the chamber with a working fund. Teams have already been chosen and committee appointed with Attorney E. Frank Bugbee and William P. Jordan as chairmen of the drive. The executive committee consists of Messrs Bugbee and Jordan, Frank P. Fenton, president of the chamber of commerce, H. Clinton Lathrop, Andrew Roux, John F. Carr, P. J. Twomey and the team captains as associate members. Other committee are: Prospect lists, John F. Ahern, James P. Mustard, C. C. Case; publicity, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, John B. Harvey, Harry N. Bullard; printing, Edward G. Kenney, Lyndon E. Little, John R. Pickett; advertising, James E. Fullerton, Walter S. Barnes, James H. Hurley; team captains, general chairman, Frank P. Fenton; captains, Charles W. Hill, Kenneth N. Hillhouse, Raymond A. Parkes, Roland B. Jordan, Edward G. Kenney, Nelson A. Daniels, Joseph B. Riordan, Louis H. Arnold, Aime J. Martineau and Stanley J. Sumner. The first workers' supper will be held December 15 when the intensive campaign will be declared officially opened.

The team captains met at the Nathan Hale hotel at a luncheon meeting this noon, the presiding officers being Albert B. Smith, Frank P. Fenton and James E. Fullerton. Mr. Smith outlined the preliminary plans for the campaign. Final reports will be received Tuesday evening, December 20. The teams of ten members in addition to the captain were announced.

Arthur P. Ellsworth whose retirement on pension as mail carrier on Rural Route No. 2 was effective December 3, is to receive about one-half of the salary drawn by him at the time of his retirement. Mr. Ellsworth is giving some interesting data of his experience as a rural mail carrier, at this time. During his service of 25 years and 28 days he has covered about 175,000 miles and used 36 horses and six automobiles. Three of the faithful "dobbins" died on duty, two sustained broken legs and two of the automobile swere damaged while covering the route.

The success of Christmas shoppers were swelled by the handsome of $50,000 mailed out today to 1,300 members of the Christmas club of the local Trust company.

A farewell party in the nature of a Christmas celebration was tendered as a surprise to Miss Edna Day, member of the Natchaug grammar school faculty, at her home Thursday evening. Miss Day, who assumes a new position as teacher in a Norwich school Monday, was presented with a handsome set of book ends. Mrs. Olive Caswell Robinson, will substitute in Miss Day's position for the remainder of the school term.

Cold weather this morning checked a rapid rise in the Willimantic and Natchaug rivers where an excess flow of three feet was noted Thursday evening. Water pouring over the dam at the Mansfield pumping station was measured to a depth of 31 inches before the cold spel. Another measurement at noon today showed that it had dropped an even foot.

Jacob Chus has sold a half interest in two tracts of land, the first of 40 acres on Ash street and crossed by the boundary of the Windham and Mansfield towns and the second in the town of Mansfield on the Conantville road with dimensions of 500 to 1,190 feet to Meyer Rosen of New York city. This transaction was filed in a warranty deed at the town clerk's office today. Another deed filed today shows the sale by George M. Flint of this city of a tract of land of 20 acres near Bricktop to Filiberto C. Coughi of Windham.

JEWETT CITY

LOCAL RED CROSS CHAPTER HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 9—At the annual meeting of Jewett City chapter, American Red Cross held in the chapter room in the town building Thurs- A. Burdick presided. The annual call day evening, the chairman, Miss M. and report of the last regular meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Tracy. The annual report of the secretary showed: Six executive board meetings held, with an average attendance of six. The officers invited by the board to serve for the year 1927, were Miss M. Adelaide Burdick chairman; D. L. Phillips, vice chairman; Mrs. J. H. Tracy, secretary and Miss Rosana Des Jardin treasurer. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox is chairman of the executive board; Dr. G. H. Jennings, chairman of home service; Katherine L. Barnett, secretary to Dr. Jennings. Publicity committee, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox; production committee, Mrs. Rary and Mrs. Anthony; nursing service, Miss Magaret Desseault; life saving director, Mr. Prentice W. Chase; representative of the National Travelers Aid society with which society the board is affiliated, Miss Katharine L. Barnett.

By invitation Miss Breman, public health nurse attends the board meetings.

The board voted that seven would constitute a quorum for an annual meeting.

It was voted to contribute $500 toward the maintenance of the public health nurse, also voted that the Red Cross Courier be sent to the clergymen in Pachaug, Newent, Glasgo and Jewett City with two subscriptions for use of the board. In February there was a call from headquarters for sewing and knitting children's clothes, sweaters and beamies, also layettes and hospital garments for insular possessions and refugees. The board voted to send $25 as its share in place of sewing or knitting which was gladly accepted.

The board received a communication from Mr. Enlow, national director of life saving that Prentic W. Chase had qualified as a Red Cross life saver. After signing his credential card by a representative of the chapter Mr. Chase became local life saving director and continues in that capacity.

Mrs. Hiscox reported that the roll call membership for 1926 totaled $821.75. National headquarters share would be $401, $420.75 remaining in our chapter. $19.75 being contributed, which remains in this chapter.

In April we received a telegram from Judge John Barton Payne, executive chairman of the National Red Cross, advising us of the terrible flood in the Mississippi valley. Funds would be called for and the quota of this chapter would be $300. We immediately called a meeting and voted to send $100 from the chapter's treasury. Other organizations generously contributed and we feel quite proud to report that $637.17 (including the $100 from the chapter) is accredited to your Red Cross.

We also solicited a good whole clean clothing and were most successful. Two cases were sent by express to N. Y. free of charge, containing 503 articles.

The report also gives in detail the successful results of the recent Red Cross call, also the aid rendered the Vermont flood sufferers.

DANIELSON

CAR CLIMBS CURB TO CRASH INTO ANOTHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, December 9—Things that automobiles will do under certain circumstances were done right out in public this morning by a machine driven by Ellen G. French of Willimantic. This particular car was being driven north along Main street and had just come over the railroad crossing when some traffic difficulties presented themselves, largely created by trucks that were in motion. Somehow or other the French car left the street, climbed an 8-inch curbing to the sidewalk, ran along on the sidewalk about 50 feet and then crashed into the rear of a closed car owned by Agent J. F. Gardner of the Quinebaug company that was parked at the curb. A fender on the Gardner car was crumpled, while the colliding machine came out of the mishap with a bent forward axle, fender damaged and a broken windshield. This was taken to a local garage for repairs. Chief John McFarland took a statement relative to the accident, in which no one was injured.

Legionnaires here were admittedly surprised today when they read that a referendum on the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act is being arranged for members of the American legion and its auxiliary, as announced by National Commander Edward E. Spafford. No information is as yet available as to when the poll will be taken in the local post and its auxiliary.

Discussing the subject with Legion members, one found that they have and have had for a long time some very definite ideas about prohibition. Be it recorded here that opinions vary all the way from wringing wet to desert dry. So, before the poll is taken, it may be written as a practical certainty that there will be no unanimous vote, one way or the other, in Danielson. Predicting whether a wet or a dry majority will be shown would be but hazarding a guess. However, the polling proposition has aroused the imagination of the veterans.

The death of Agnes Eugenie Thomas, 59, occurred this morning at the home in Moosup. Mrs. Thomas, a native of Williamsburg, N. Y., was the wife of John A. Thomas, who survives her. She also leaves a son, Raymond, and a daughter, May, and a sister, whose residence is in Cleveland.

During last night the death of Joseph Boucher occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Smith, in East Killingly. Mr. Boucher had been a resident in East Killingly and vicinity for years. He was a very active man up to the time his eyesight began to fail and more or less so even after he had become totally blind.

A moment of forgetfulness made a bit of difficulty for Former Selectman A. E. Hall of South Killingly last night—a brilliant moonlight night—when he drove a short distance from his home to near the South Killingly church without turning the lights on his car. It so happened that state officers were on the state highway near the church and they ordered Mr. Hall to appear in court. Mr. Hall came to Danielson about the matter today, but Prosecuting Attorney A. G. Bill said that nothing had been done about the case as yet.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the church in Clayville funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Pierce were conducted by Rev. F. M. Baker of Anthony, R. I. The bearers were Frank Brayton, Olney Knight, William T. Lynch and Everett Howard. Burial was in the Clayville cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Newly elected officers of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., are: W. M., L. S. Ingalls; S. W., Walter Anderson; J. W., Howard G. Franklin; secretary, A. M. Thompson; treasurer, Charles S. Bill; tyler, F. O. Armington; S. D., Byron Barrowclough; J. D., Homer C. Browne; S. S., Charles Carver; J. S., William Sangster; chaplain, Harry Brearley; Marshal, E. L. Darbie; trustee for three years, William Sangster.

Holiday parking regulations for out of town visitors to Danielson, this applying, of course, to their cars, will be in effect today and time limit restrictions are lifted for them; they may park in one place as long as they desire.

A great mark-down sale of Jersey dresses at the Alice-Eleanor Shop. Dresses that were $7.98, now $3.98. Others that were $8.50 and $10.50, now $6.98; others that were $16.50 now $12.98. Also a lot of silk dresses that were priced at $12.98 and up to $29, now going at $8.98, $12.98 and $17.50. —adv.

Some personal tax cases claimed the attention of Judge W. Fenner Woodward at this morning's session of the town court. A small group of citizens to pay such tax assessments in 1925 or 1926, did so today, having officer's fees added, and, of course, that made settlement more expensive.

Mrs. Gertrude W. Cavanaugh of Furnace street is to leave December 15, for St. Petersburg, Fla., to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Attorney and Mrs. J. J. Lawless, formerly of New London.

Mrs. Elsie Taylor of Prospect street will have the members of the Queen Esther circle at her home for a meeting Tuesday evening.

Byron Woodward, one of the younger hunters of the town of Brooklyn, is credited with having shot four foxes this season.

This evening members of the Girls' choir of the Westfield Congregational church were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beckett on Maple street.

It is understood that parking regulations in that section of Furnace street between Main and Cottage will be made effective after the holiday season.

Mrs. Eric V. Johnson will have the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at her home for a meeting next Thursday afternoon.

A bit of the Arctic cold that has been frigidizing the northwest swept into Danielson this morning, sending the temperature down to 18 degrees.

This morning at All Hallows church in Moosup there was a funeral service, conducted by Rev. J. E. McCarty, for Gerard Tetreault, two months old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baptist Tetreault. Burial was in All Hallows cemetery. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Margaret McBride of Academy street is to leave later in the month to spend the winter in Florida.

Repair work is far advanced on the highways that were damaged in various sections of the town of Killingly through the flood waters of November 3.

A man and woman, representing that they were husband and wife, asked Chief John McFarland to lock them up at the police station and then prefer charges of drunkenness against them, no care of which proposition appealed to the officer. The couple claimed they came here from Eagleville. They were not intoxicated. Finding that this town was not warm to providing them with winter quarters at the county jail, they boarded a bus and left for Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Stone of Riverview have gone to Sanford, Fla., as is their annual custom, to remain through the winter season.

The Well Child conference for December is to be held next Tuesday afternoon in the Health station in the town hall building.

Maurice C. Gendron of Fall River is spending the week end with relatives in Danielson.

PUTNAM

LA FONTAINE AND KIES ARE ELECTED THOMPS'N SELECTMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 9.—At a special town meeting held Thursday in the town hall of the town of Thompson, Joseph LaFontaine, of North Grosvenordale, and Frank P. Kies, of Thompson, were elected selectmen to fill the vacancies made by the resignation of C. V. Chase and the death of Wilfred Bellerose. Since the death of Selectman Wilfred Bellerose on November 5, the town of Thompson has had but one selectman and he alone could not attend to the business of the town. A few days prior to the death of Mr. Bellerose, C. V. Chase had resigned his office as selectman to accept that of town treasurer and clerk, an office made vacant by the resignation of Dyer S. Elliott.

Other matters attended to at the meeting was the appropriation of money for the repairs to the grade schools and for repairs at the Tourtelotte house. Permission was also given the school board to employ one of their members as secretary for the board.

The following members of the football squad of the Putnam High school for the past season have been awarded their letters in this sport: Captain Walter Cody; Captain-elect William Shann; Walter A. Wheaton, Jr., Frank Donovan, Charles Bove, Jr., John Elliott, Henry Arnold, James Hall, Milton Nelson, Eugene Dumas, Augustus Wilson, Stuart Sabin, Thomas De Bernardinis, Floyd Green, Carolus Tourtelotte and Manager Karl Whitehouse.

The members of Cargill Council, Knights of Columbus, and of Israel Putnam Lodge of Odd Fellows held the second series of their card and billiard tournament Thursday night at Odd Fellows hall on Pomfret street. There were fifteen tables of cards in play and one billiard table, fourteen of the tables were in use for bid whist and the other one playing cribbage. The total score for the evening resulted in a tie, 8 to 8. The interest in this contest is growing in popularity, there being eight more people playing this week than last week. The Knights of Columbus are in the lead in the total score, as they won the first contest with a score of 8 to 4.

The members of the Putnam Tri-Y's will meet on Monday evening to finish the work they begun at their meeting on Tuesday evening of this week. The girls are making Dinah dolls for the girls at the Children's Home and bean bags for other children. The following are working on these Christmas things: Miss Judkins, Miss Barber, Miss Gregg and Misses Rachel Huribut, Rose Bove, Doris Smith, Maryland Payne, Winifred LaPierre, Eleanor Richardson, Phoebe Franklin, Doris Dean, Alma Potter, Doris Johnson, Judith Sabin, Frances Carpenter and Helen Moran.

Word has been received here of the death of Dr. John Paine, formerly of Woodstock, aged 44 years. Dr. Paine was a successful surgeon and pneumonia was the cause of his death. He was a graduate of Woodstock Academy.

Mrs. Ellen Boyle Smith, widow of the late Barrack Smith, Sr., is critically ill at the home of her daughter, Miss Mae Smith, at Webster. Mrs Smith has been a resident of Putnam for many years but has been with her daughter at Webster for the past few months. She has been in failing health for several years and no hope is now entertained for her recovery.

The series of special meeting that began last Sunday evening at the Methodist church in this city will continue during the coming week with the exception of Saturday night. Rev. F. C. PERIGEE TIDE PROVES HIGHEST IN TWENTY YEARS

The fishermen were roused from their beds at 2 a. m. Thursday when the wind was blowing a 60-mile gale to put on extra lines. One boat broke all lines and was ready to drift away as the owner got a rope on just in time. At 7 o'clock the village saw a perigee tide. The highest tide in 20 years. Right over the docks the waves were rolling high as a house. Lobster pots and row boats were washed up on the street on Riverside avenue. Even the fishing boats were higher than the docks. Cellars had two to three inches of water in the houses near the water front. The lower road to Groton Long Point could not be seen as the water covered the road and no automobiles could pass over at the point. In the cottages along the board walk the cellars were filled with water about a foot deep. Lumber and shingles were washed away from a cottage on Middlefield street. One old fisherman, Joe Terry says: "When the moon is full look out for the perigee tide; it does lots of damage."

Two squirrels have been around the yard at Leon Sistare's on Railroad avenue for two weeks. They are tame and Sistare has named them Mike and Ike. They will run right into the kitchen. The squirrels go for their morning milk and stay where it is warm. One is building a nest in the wood-shed. Sistare can pick either one up and hold it on his arm like a kitten. The only thing that has them guessing is the dog Rover. He will chase them up the apple tree, but each day the squarrels are looking for their trainer Leon Sistare and for their morning milk. It is some trick to turn a wild squirrel into a tame one.

Arthur Fitch of Westerly was in the village Thursday.

William Plumstead is in New York for a few days.

West View bowling team in charge of Capt. Earl Bogue played its second match with Prospect Hill Giants Five at the Travers alleys Thursday evening. The West View team were some happy that a new man was on the list —Herman Fisher from Hanover, a good man with a steady aim. A good sized crowd was on hand to cheer when a fine shot was made. Scotty Pray was on the right alley. MacLane for Prospect Hill team getting a strike on the last block, beat out his rival 280 to 270. Next came Lefty Bogue for West View with Sure Shot McNulty and the latter's steady bowling beat out Capt. Bogue by 25 pins, 250 to 225. Long Range Bill Burns for the Giants tried his luck with the new man Herman Fisher for the fighting West View boys; Burns' strikes and 9 pin run beat out Fisher by 30 pins. Burns 290 to 260, making the series a tie.

The final score was West View team 755, Prospect Hill Giants 830. Scotty Pray was high man for West View 280, while Long Range Burns was high for Prospect Hill team 290, also was high scorer for the evening. The outstanding star was Burns. A lunch was served of hot roast beef sandwiches with hot cocoa and sponge cake. Braford Burbine passed the good things to eat around to the players.

The Daughters of American lodge held a penny social in Liberty hall Thursday evening, the children with their Christmas pennies filled the hall. Young and old were out to help make the evening a success. A short program was carried out consisting of singing and reading, a sign on the door read: "A pocket full of pennies, this is the place to go to spend them."

Word has just been received here of the death of Capt. Edward Rowley two weeks ago at his home in Hartford, from pneumonia. He had been a summer resident of Crescent Beach for many years and was staying late this year at his cottage when he was stricken. He was removed to his home in Hartford and five days later passed away. He had been a summer resident of Crescent Beach for about 35 years. He is survived by a son, Philip Rowley.

Mr. Lawless and family have vacated the Potter cottage in the Grove and have moved to the village for the winter.

The Harmony club is to meet Thursday next at the home of Mrs. Daniel Huntley.

The Alter society held its weekly whist Tuesday evening at the rectory. The first prizes were won by Miss Lillian Halpin and George Peabody, the second by Mrs. Howard Gavitt and Joseph Gardiola. Following the playing light refreshments were served.

SPREADING GOOD FELLOWSHIP

This is the season of Good Fellows. For a number of years such organizations have been in existence in different cities for the purpose of insuring a real Christmas for those who might have in no other way a means of distinguishing the day from any other.

The methods of operating differ in different cities, but the goal is the same whatever the route that is taken. With the aim of providing a Christmas treat for every boy and girl in a community these organizations appeal for funds, setting forth about what will be required as the result of previous years' experiences, and then putting it to the best possible use through the acquisition of presents to be distributed at a Christmas tree or trees and also in some instances by furnishing dinners for those homes where they are needed. There are those cities where Christmas dinners are provided for the poor children who are gathered in one or more large halls for the treat.

This idea of good fellowship couldn't be given a better expression at this season of the year. There are always those who do these very things individually, knowing where such help is needed and will be appreciated. But there is always a large number of people desirous of doing something of the kind without being sufficiently well-acquainted to go ahead on their own initiative. Frequently are people heard to say, "I'd like to do something for someone this Christmas," or, upon hearing about what someone else has done, remark, "Well, I'd have been glad to have done as much if I had only known where it was needed."

These organizations which are ready to distribute the Christmas spirit have made it a point to find out where Christmas dinners and Christmas toys are needed. They not only know where but they are ready to see that they get there if the necessary funds are provided. Locally, through the kettles of the Salvation Army, there is certain to be a distribution of food and gifts to deserving homes and children this Christmastide. This is one of the ways Norwich has to show its good fellowship.

PARKING SIGNS

According to the Automobile Legal Association there has been no previous time when there have been so many cases clogging the courts as those now being tried for minor traffic offenses. This is found to be due, as the result of an investigation, to the fact that only 2 per cent. knew they had no right to park. Nevertheless all took a chance, although the majority of the 98 per cent. claimed to have misunderstood the situation because the signs were poorly placed.

It is also pointed out that many of the streets are poorly marked and that the lack of uniformity creates confusion.

Whether the disposition to take chances in regard to parking was due to the laxity in the enforcement of such regulations in the past does not appear. It would seem from the fact that the arrests have been made that the violators were brought in in the ordinary pursuit of the enforcement work, but when it is claimed that they are serving to clog the courts there is either a duty resting upon the communities to provide better markings, or else the motorists must learn by experience that they cannot regard parking regulations with impunity.

Parking problems increase each year. Regulations are made necessary because of the traffic conditions and the need of keeping a sufficient amount of the highway open to accommodate the moving vehicles. The Automobile Legal association believes that uniform markings and a universal scheme of curbstone colors would go a long way toward solving the difficulty in correctly informing the motorists. Doubtless that would help many who are now disposed to take a chance, but there are too many instances of chance taking because of a knowledge that regulations means something only spasmodically. This is borne out by the fact that cars are often parked right beside a no-parking sign, quite the same as they are driven with one headlight and occasionally without any headlights without having this deficiency even called to attention. When the impression is gained that anything goes, it is invariably due to the fact that anything does go.

WHERE CHANGE IS NEEDED

When the representative of a transatlantic steamship company talks of what might be done that would tend to encourage European travel it is suspected at once that he is interested in what will be a distinct aid to his particular business. That is, of course, human, but there are times when such statements are based upon justice and involve really more than might otherwise appear.

This is to be noted in connection with the claim of a steamship man that international travel would be helped and good feeling increased if there should be a reduction in the charges which are made in giving approval to passports. These visas seem to be fixed upon a sort of give and take basis. Because the United States makes a charge of $10 other countries are encouraged to do the same thing. This means that when aliens come to this country on a visit it is necessary for them to pay the fee. When Americans go abroad the same is exacted from them. This might seem all fair enough, and it would be if there were as many coming to this country as there are Americans going abroad, or if all the other countries were as large as the United States, which they are not.

The exaction of a $10 fee from Americans every time they step into a new country means that they are paying a sizeable amount for visas before they get through seeing Europe, but the European who comes to the United States can do more traveling see a much greater expanse of country without getting over the border and all it costs him is $10. The many countries in Europe make many fees.

When the question of getting rid of such fees, or possibly going back to the practice of exacting a fee of one dollar as was the case before the war, it is invariably claimed that one country is only doing what the other is. The truth of that is quite evident but the fact that it exists seems to be reason enough for getting together for the purpose of bringing about a general reduction, each country cutting if the other will. With each making the same charge the situation could be easily met and American travelers know how much they would be in pocket.

IMPRESSING MEXICO

In this season of good will it is quite as important that it should be manifested between nations as between individuals. It is therefore pleasing that there is so much evidence of a better feeling on the part of Mexico toward the United States. It is in decided contrast to what has prevailed, no more than ought to exist and it is desirable that it should continue and be increased.

The turning point came to all outward appearances at the time Ambassador Morrow was selected to represent this country at Mexico City. His was an outstanding selection. He filled the bill in many respects and ever since he has been at his post his efforts have proved most effective. All the difficulties have not been eliminated but progress has been made to such an extent that there is more confidence in a favorable outcome.

Though by no means in the Morrow class, Will Rogers by his visit to Mexico has taken out rather than placed obstacles in the way of smooth and friendly relations with that country, and all this we have reason to believe will be furthered by the visit which Charles A. Lindbergh has agreed to make to the country to the south of the Rio Grande. There was a remarkable response to his appearance in Europe and it is reasonable to suppose that equally as favorable, even though not as great, will be given by Mexico.

Ambassador Morrow has definite tasks ahead of him but even though the other messengers of good will are not directly concerned therewith such reaction to their visits as has been indicated cannot fail to be of much benefit.

AN INTERNATIONAL PARK

Ever interested in the work of conservation and the extension of proper protection to game of all kinds, the Izaak Walton League of America is advocating the union of the Superior National forest in Minnesota and the Quetio Province park of Ontario as an international forest preserve.

These parks are one except for the international boundary. The conditions in them are similar. They have common bird and plant life. No one would know that he had crossed from one country into the other if there was not something to mark the line. For the preservation of wild life and the conservation of plant life the league hopes to get the two countries to regard the effort as so desirable that they will enter into the negotiation of a treaty that will insure efforts on the part of the respective countries to carry out this protection.

It isn't recalled that any similar treaty has ever been signed but with the good feeling that prevails along each side of the border and the manner in which the common problems are handled it is not improbable that sufficient interest can be awakened to put it through. Certainly the steps already taken by the league should be sufficient to bring out the undesirable features of such an arrangement if there are any, and while such are being sought it is likely that the desirability of such a move will be more and more appreciated. Sportsmen cannot fail to be interested in the effort and be eager to lend their efforts in bringing about its accomplishment when they realize that what would govern in that united park on one side of the border would also govern on the other.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There's no use fooling yourself any longer, you might as well put 'em on.

This is one of the seasons of the year when the dangers of thin ice must be kept in mind.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Scientific emphasis is being more and more put upon intelligent planning if farming and similar pursuits are to be a great success. Prof. J. Russell Smith of Columbia university recently gave an interesting address on the subject: "Plan or Perish." He was speaking along the line of more careful conversation of our natural resources. If the farming industry is to become more prosperous, man must gain a greater control over nature. We must call a halt to the present tendency to the clearing up of old swales and swamps in order to create more arable land. At first thought this seems to be a challenge to the trend to convert waste land into that which is productive, but there is another side to consider. The swamp is nature's reservoir. It holds back the heavy rainfall and gives out the water in sufficient quantity to stimulate vegetation. With the swamp gone the flood easily comes. Is not Prof. Smith right? It is "plan" or perish."

In regard to the "personal liberty" matter as applied to prohibition, I have seen nothing better than an article appering lately in Harper's magazine, written by Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Phillips academy, Andover, Mass. He says: "To its ears (the ears of youth) the constant and noisy talk about 'personal liberty' does not ring true. On every side it sees accepted conditions where personal liberty is glaringly surrendered for the common good, the more gladly when that common good reacts to the direct benefit of one who makes the sacrifice. Father and father's relatives may talk themselves hoarse of their right to their personal liberty in the matter of drink, but would speedily call the police if the drunken driver of an automobile, exercising what he considered his personal liberty, decided to drive his automobile on the wrong side of the street and collided with their car."

We ought to keep constantly before us the dangers that actually—or even seemingly—threaten the very existence our democracy, and by democracy I mean those things that menace our moral and spiritual, as well as our political, liberties. The first great danger comes from the singular fact of our national large-heartedness. Because we have always been, taking our country by and large, a sympathetic and generous people, and because we are interested in the general uplift of humanity at large, in the past we have opened wide our doors to the unfortunate and downtrodden peoples of all the earth. Down deep in the national heart there has been no respector of persons in the matter of immigrants. We have said virtually to all the weary and heavy-laden: "Come, and I will give you not rest exactly but the opportunity to live as becometh all the sons and daughters of the one God." At first they came largely from northern Europe: those from of Anglo-Saxon blood and language, and at last everything came from everywhere.

But soon after the Civil war there came a change. The people from other nations began to flock to our shores who did not come with the same sincerity of purpose as the earlier immigrants. They looked upon this country, to be sure, as the land of opportunity, but not to contribute their share in building it up into a mighty nation, but merely as a place where they could build themselves up; where they could enjoy greater ease and comfort than they had ever before known. I am not speaking from prejudice in making this statement, but stating actual history when I assert that the later comers did not seem to have either moral fiber or the strong patriotic impulse as those who came earlier. Some of them suffered so severely from the tyranny of despotism that they felt that all governments were merely devices of the rich and strong to crush the poor.

The second great peril to the democratic system of government is its tendency to disintegration. Long continued hesitation on the part of any new comers to amalgamate with their new political environment has a weakening effect upon the whole body politic. Instead of being a help they become a hindrance as viewed from a political standpoint, because a government of the people if not governed by the people can easily degenerate from a democracy to an oligarchy. When the people in any considerable numbers refrain from any voice in public affairs the shifting of power is more and more into the hands of the few, and just in proportion as power is limited to the smaller group does the liberty of the masses decrease. Now in order to escape from the logic of such political conditions have not the hordes from continental and southern Europe shifted their residence to the United States? Brain, muscle and character are ever welcome here, but they must do their part to save us from disintegration.

The third peril we have to face today is the wide-spread existence of lawlessness. The individual is assuming that no power outside of himself has any right to regulate his action. He alone can legislate and execute in matters pertaining to himself. Worse than this he does not believe that others have any rights that he is morally bound to respect. We will not submit to any law that interferes with his personal wishes and desires. This is the doctrine of the supremacy of might; it is the belief in the survival of the fittest. If generally carried out it would at once bring in the reign of anarchy. All law would be abrogated and every one would do, or attempt to do, just what his own selfish propensity would urge. This is directly opposed to the principle of democracy which is built up on the principle of the "greatest good to the greatest number."

The fourth peril that we need to carefully guard against is the incompetence of officials. Not all of them by any means, but altogether too many are occupying positions for which they are not qualified by nature, character or education. If ignorant and degraded people vote their choice will naturally fall on ignorant and degraded officials, who always pander to that class of constituents which they use as pawns in helping them to loot the public through the offices to which they are elected. Once office was looked upon as a means by which he could serve his country, and which many of them still do, but there is a large and increasing number of men who look at office as a means of serving themselves, and they are very generous in the service they render. The enormous increase in taxation that marked a few years past was not entirely due to an increase of the nation's wealth. Hence this has become a great moral question.

The near approach of the season which marks the anniversary of the landing of The Mayflower on our shores, reminds of what we ought to do to keep inviolate the precious heritage which they have left us. It seems to be a growing impression that we must rigidly limit immigration—even more so than at any time in the past. We must have some intelligent forethought of the posterity of those who are now resident of this country. We are morally bound to pass on to our children's children fully as good a heritage as that which we have received of our fathers. More than that the possession which we pass on ought to be enriched in our hands. I see nothing wrong in asking high standards of those who come to us from foreign lands. Nobody complains because our colleges are constantly raising the standards of entrance. Why not ask a little more of our immigrants?

MELLON DECLARES FUNDAMENTALS OF BUSINESS ARE SOUND.

Although business suffered a recession during the last year it now is approaching a normal expectancy with sound underlying fundamentals, Secretary Mellon said in his annual report to congress.

Under the heading of "the present situation of business," the treasury secretary asserted that business activity began in the spring months of this year to fall below the totals of last year. As a result of this recession, he said, business is now being conducted on a basis that conforms more nearly to the normal expectancy as judged from the regular rate of growth of the country that has prevailed on the average for some years."

"While business is not as active as in most of 1926, it can hardly be said to be subnormal and the underlying fundamentals appears to be sound," he added.

"Another indication of healthy business conditions is the recent recovery in commodity prices due in the main to the rise in agricultural prices.

Credit conditions he describes as sound is indicated by the handling of the peak load of crop financing without strain and with interest rates easing in the middle of October.

Construction Large, Wages High

Explaining that the treasury accumulated vast amounts of information on business and finance, Secretary Mellon said a survey of this data suggested the following conclusions as to business in the past year:

1—A large volume of business was done simultaneously with declining commodity prices—an unusual combination of circumstances.

The volume of new construction remained large, as engineering, industrial and public work projects were in sufficient volume practically to offset a decline in construction of dwellings.

3—High wages, due to increased average productivity per worker and lower living costs, due to declining prices, resulted in a sustained purchasing power for a large variety of consumers' commodities.

4—Business was free from the accumulation of excessive inventories, advance ordering subject to cancellations and unreasonable speculation in commodities and a spirit of caution prevailed generally among business men.

Dangers of Slump Lessened

5—Automobile production continued at a pace somewhat reduced from the year before, and dangers of a serious slump have been lessened as demands for replacements are now sufficient to absorb about half of the year's output.

6—Competition became more intense and the largest profits were made by those concerns capable of introducing economics or capturing the market by adaptation of their products to the demand.

7—Charges for the use of fixed capital were reduced both on industrial and government securities and on farm lands.

8—Banks in the United States increased their loans and investments about $2,000,000,000 at the same time they reduced somewhat their dependence upon the federal reserve system, due mainly to gold imports and a decline in requirements for currency.

Although internal revenue collections showed an increase of only $31,774,965 during the last fiscal year over the previous 12 months, Secretary Mellon declared that a "closer analysis of the collections showed more denitely that ta changes were responsible for the failure of such receipts to increase."

Receipts from internal revenue totaled $2,869,414,342, while income from customs and other miscellaneous sources amounted to $1,259,080,099, or an increase of $234,863,786 over the an increase of $134,863,786 over the Expenses Cut $124,000,000.

The $3,493,584,519 total expenditures of the government for the last fiscal year, the report said, represented a decrease of $124,000,000 over the preceding year, while receipts totaled $4,129,394,441, which left a surplus of $635,809,922. Of this margin $611,754,538 was applied to retirement of the public debt which was $258,000,000 more than was applied to the debt in the previous year. This left a debt total at the close of the fiscal year last June 30 of $18,510,174,266.19 after normal retirement of $949,568,844.78 had been effected.

In an analysis of the distribution of expenditures, the report showed that payments to the public debt in the last fiscal year absorbed 51.1 per cent. of the total, military functions 31.8 per cent. and ordinary civil functions 17.1. Emphasizing that the cost of past wars occupies an important place in government finances, the secretary estimated that the World war cost the United States $35,119,622,144.

No Surtax in U. S. Securities

Reiterating his recommendations for ta legislation as outlined to the house ways and means committee, in which he urged limitation of reduction to $225,000,000, Secretary Mellon further urged congress to remove the surtax from government securites so that corporations and individual investors would be on a parity and government securities would be placed on a more even footing with tax-exempt state and municipal issues. He again requested congress to pass the alien property bill and the amendment to the farm loan act, which were introduced at the last session.

Federal Reserve Banking

During the past fiscal year there was a decrease of more than $100,000,000 in the total amount of credit the federal reserve banks were called upon to provide, due largely to gold imports and a decrease in the requirements for currency, reflecting smaller factory payrolls and probably further economy in the use of currency by an increase in the use of checks. The decrease in federal reserve credit took the form principally of a decrease in borrowing by member banks, and the banks therefore found themselves at the close of the year in a position to lend somewhat more freely than a year previous. As a consequence, money conditions have become somewhat easier and money rates slightly lower.

The discount rates of the federal reserve banks have been unusually stable during the past two years. The rate at all federal reserve banks, except New York, was 4 per cent. from Nov. 23, 1925, to July 28, 1927, inclusive. The New York bank maintained a 4 per cent. rate, except for the period April 23, 1927, to Aug 12, 1926, inclusive, when 3 1-2 per cent. rate was effective. Shortly after the close of the past fiscal year the discount rates at all federal reserve banks were reduced from 4 per cent to 3 1-2 per cent., the first reduction being made at Kansas City (July 29) and the last at Minneapolis (Sept 13.)

General Banking Situation

Total loans and investments of all banks in the country increased during the fiscal year about $2,000,000,000, or about 4 per cent, an increase not inconsistent with the usual year-to-year growth in bank credit required by the normal increase in the country's trade.

Foreign Business Conditions.

The past year has, on the whole, been one of continued improvement in the economic and financial status of important foreign countries. Legal stabilization of currencies on a gold basis has been achieved by seven countries during the past year. With only a few exceptions the countries whose currencies remain legally independent of the value of gold are now within measurable distance of legal stabilization.

Industrial production in Europe has risen throughout the year. The volume of exports, as well as the domestic trade, was larger, and commodity prices have been fairly stable in the last few months. Unemployment has been declining recently, and, in general, it may be said that the position of labor in Europe is better than a year ago; where wage increases have not occurred, a fall in the cost of living has brought about the same results. Capital issues were much larger in many countries, and with few exceptions savings-bank deposits have increased.

Tobacco a By-Revenue Producer.

Tobacco tax collections, which had increased at the rate of from $16,000,000 to $25,000,000 during each of the three preceding years, gained only $5,500,000 in 1927 over 1926. The loss in revenue from the reduced rates on cigars and the omission of the special tax on manufacturers almost offset the gain in collections on small cigarettes. Collections from small cigarettes now yield almost three-fourths of all tobacco collections and over 40 per cent of the total miscellaneous internal revenue.

The loss of taxes on automobile trucks and auto wagons, and on tires, parts, and accessories, and the reduction of the rates on passenger automobiles from 5 to 3 per cent resulted in a reduction of $71,800,000 in collections on automobiles, the greatest loss in any one group of taxes with the exception of the capital stock tax. The decline in estate tax collections was not great—$15,700,000. Documentary stamps collections decreased $16,700,000 as a result of the omission of certain stamp taxes; also admissions and dues, because of the increased exemption for admission; and distilled spirits, because of the reduced rates on nonbeverage distilled spirits.

Of $376,200,000 collected on tobacco and cigars small cigarettes furnish 74 per cent. of the tax. Smoking and chewing tobacco yields 17 per cent, large cigars 6 per cent and all others 3 per cent. Small cigarettes yielded 69 per cent of the tobacco tax the year previous and 65 per cent the year before that.

Facts About the Surplus.

Secretary Mellon gives the surpluses for the last eight years as follows:

1920	$212,475,197
1921	86,723,771
1922	313,801,651
1923	309,657,460
1924	505,366,986
1925	250,505,238
1926	377,767,817
1927	635,809,922
Total	$2,692,108,042

The surplus of 1927, he says was an anomaly, resulting from a combination of unusual and nonrecurring items in both receipts and expenditures. Almost two thirds of the surplus of $635,000,000 was due to receipts on account of the disposal of capital assets of back collections in excess of tax refunds, and other items of a fast-disappearing or non-recurring character.

About $103,000,000 of the surplus consisted of receipt items which will not occur again. The Federal farm loan bonds owned by the government, which contributed $60,000,000 in 1927 in the form of receipts from capital assets, have all been repurchased by the Federal land banks, so that no further receipts from this source can again occur. The War Finance Corporation, accounting for $27,000,000 in the 1927 receipts, has practically completed the liquidation of its assets. Receipts from minor securities amounted to $3,000,000. The capital stock tax, which produced $8,000,000 in 1927, has been repealed. The surplus was further increased by $5,000,000 received from a judgment of the court relating to the naval oil leases.

Among the temporary or fast-disappearing receipts received in 1927 are those on account of railroad securities, which aggregated about $89,000,000. Railroad securities to the amount of only $230,000,000 were held by the government at the end of the last fiscal year. It is estimated that whereas $169,000,000 will be received on account of principal and interest on these securities in the fiscal year 1928 the revenue from this source will drop to approximately $24,000,000 in the fiscal year 1929, and after that little or no revenue is anticipated under this head. Back income tax collections in 1927 amounted to $331,000,000, which, when reduced by the sum of $177,000,000 paid in tax refunds, leaves a balance of $214,000,000 in revenue from this source. The work of the Internal Revenue Bureau is becoming more nearly current every year, and while some net receipts on this account will continue to be realized it is expected that after the fiscal year 1929 the amount will be greatly reduced. Moreover, tax refunds in 1927 were $35,000,000 less than treasury estimates, due to a change in the application of the revenue law. This reduction represents merely a postponement of expenditures, the payment of which will swell expenditures in 1928, thus cutting down net receipts from back taxes for that year. Receipts from the sale of surplus war supplies amounted to $8,000,000 in 1927.

Without the nonrecurring and fast disappearing items listed above, aggregating about $414,000,000 a surplus of only about $221,000,000 would have resulted.

Sunday Morning Talk

It Will Endure

The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth his handy work, Psalm 19.1. When looking on the broad expanse of sky the psalmist thinks of the mighty power of Him who made the universe. When thinking of His approach to men and His government of men he speaks of God in terms of His covenant—"The Lord who knows and is mindful of His own." Perdrone says: The devout singer looks out first on the works of God's fingers and sees all creation bearing its constant testimony to its maker, then he turns himself with a feeling of deep satisfaction to that clearer and better witness concerning Him to be found in the moral law. Thus he begins the day, thus he prepares himself for the duties that await him. He has made trial of the preciousness of the word. He knows its deep, hallowing, soul-sustaining power, he knows that it is full of life and healing, but he knows also that it is a word that searches and tries the heart that reveals the holiness of God and the sinfulness of man. Therefore he bows himself in prayer saying, As for errors—who can understand them? Cleanse thou me from secret faults. The law of the Lord is absolute, you can reckon on it as you reckon on the sun rise. It is the foundation of God's throne. God can no more ignore it than you can. The psalmist says it is perfect, sure, right. Our souls need restoration, nature can do much for us. It can tranquilize our spirit, but it cannot restore. God says "This is the way, walk in it." Thomas Carlyle said, "I am now an old man and done with the world. Looking around me, before and behind and weighing all as wisely as I can, it seems to me there is nothing solid to rest on but the faith which I learned in my old home and from my mother's lips."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Many often have wondered no doubt what occupied the thoughts of the postman as he trudged over the same monotonous route with his mail day after day. None, perhaps, has been thinking of the unusual subject that has occupied the mind of Francis Cardinal, a London postman. For years Mr. Cardinal has centered his thoughts on lepers. He served in India during the war, and was deeply impressed with the sufferings of the leper outcasts. After the war he became acquainted with an aged woman who was also interested in lepers. The woman died, and left him a small sum of money, which Mr. Cardinal added to his own savings, making just enough to build a cottage hospital for women lepers in South India. Now he has sailed for India on special leave to make his first inspection of the hospital which owes its existence to his generosity.

PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS
Over Face and Neck Healed by Cuticura.

"I had pimples and blackheads all over my face and they spread to my neck. They were soft, large and very red. They scaled over, and itched and burned so much that I had to scratch them. Scratching caused eruptions and my face looked worse than ever. The trouble lasted two or three years.

"I used all kinds of remedies but none did any good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, which completely healed me." (Signed) Miss Mary Streit, 73 Main St., Indian Orchard, Mass.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frederick Tyler.

Mrs. Mary Augusta Tyler, widow of Frederick Tyler, was almost instantly killed shortly before noon Friday when she fell down a flight of stairs at her home, No. 11 Warren street. She was about to descend the stairs when her foot caught in a carpet and she fell the entire length of the staircase, landing on the hardwood casing on the main floor.

Dr. A. C. Freeman, the family physician, was called and on his arrival found Mrs. Tyler dead. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve pronounced death due to a concussion of the brain and multiple injuries, including a badly broken right shoulder. Undertakers Church & Allen were given charge of the body.

Mr. Tyler was the daughter of Albertus and Happy Lewis Stanton and was born in Norwich, May 17, 1853. She was educated in the local schools and in 1877 was united in marriage with Frederick Tyler. She is survived by one brother, George A. Stanton.

Her husband was a member of the firm of Stanton & Tyler, engaged in the coffee, tea and spice business for a number of years on Main street. Following Mr. Tyler's retirement from active business, Mr. Stanton continued the store, later moving it to Bath street.

Mrs. Tyler was well known to many Norwich people and highly respected by her many friends and acquaintances who learn with deep regret of her tragic death.

Miss Flora A. Hall.

Following a brief illness, Miss Flora A. Hall, 60, died Thursday night at 11 o'clock at her home, No. 15 Broad street. She was a native of Poquetanuck and at an early life came to this city. When in Norwich she resided with her sister, Mrs. Frank C. Turner. Miss Hall was a graduate of St. Gabriel's school, Peekskill, N. Y., and for four years attended the New England Conservatory of Music.

Miss Hall was a recognized artist in bookbinding and her chief joy was in the making of beautiful books. The splendid artistic prayer book, a gift of Bishop Manning's parishoners, was made by Miss Hall and carried at the bishop's consecration. For 15 years Miss Hall had a studio on Fifth avenue. Her life was one of loving care and unselfishness for others and her many friends will deeply mourn her death.

SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL FOR MAN AND WOMAN

Probable cause being found at the Friday morning session of the city court, Peter Gaganis and Mrs. Athena Angelopolous, both of this city, were bound over to the superior court on charges of adultery. The session, which was a lengthy one, was held in chambers. Bonds were set at $2,000 in each case. Gaganis is the father of three children and the Angelopolous woman is the mother of two children. They were arrested Thursday morning by the local police on complaint of the woman's husband, Constantine Angelopolous.

In court the complainant testified that he was married to the woman May 16, 1920, and claimed that he had been suspicious of his wife for several months. He had spoken to her of her associations with Gaganis. For a while she denied having any relations with Gaganis but on November 12 and 13 she confessed to him of wrong doing with Gaganis and told her husband that she loved Gaganis, according to the complainant's testimony.

November 14th, he testified, she left the house at 7 o'clock and did not return until 2 o'clock the next morning, in company with Gaganis. Gaganis left her at the door of the house on Elm street and being suspicious that they had been watched, he told her not to say anything or they would be convicted if arrested, it was testified. Complainant, on cross examination, admitted that he had hired several men to watch his wife and Gaganis.

Testifying for the state Aristomenas Katcholas, a baker, stated that on July 20, 1927, while Angelopolous was in New York, he went to Angelopolous' home on Elm street and found the woman and Gaganis in a compromising position. About a week later Gaganis invited him to take an automobile ride to New London. Near the state hospital Gaganis told Katcholas that he would cut Katcholas' neck, if he ever said anything about what he had seen at the Elm street house on July 20th.

Another witness, a woman who lives in Danielson, told of finding the couple together at Angelopolous' house in August 1926. Attorney V. P. A. Quinn representing the accused, informed the court that the Angelopolous woman was told Thursday that if she would admit her guilt to the charge that Angelopolous would not prosecute.

STATE IS TO BUILD 30 MILES OF ROADS

Contracts for the reconstruction of approximately 30 miles of Connecticut highway were awarded by Commissioner John A. Macdonald Friday. There were eleven contracts covering work in eleven different towns, the award being made in each case to the lowest bidder. Several important stretches of Connecticut trunkline are included in the 23 miles of reinforced concrete and seven miles of macadam covered by the contracts.

The list of the successful bidders for work in this part of the state is as follows:

Towns of Clinton and Westbrook, 12,986 feet of 7 inch waterbound macadam on the Clinton-Westbrook road, Eugene L. Gobielle, Worcester, Mass., $80,011.35.

Town of Glastonbury, 28,977 feet of 8 inch reinforced concrete pavement on a section of the Glastonbury-Portland road, Amos D. Bridges & Sons, Hazardville, $181,677.84.

Town of Haddam, 15,184 feet of 8 inch reinforced concrete pavement on the Middletown-Saybrook road, The Valerio Construction Co., New Milford, $204,904.25.

Town of Mansfield, 15,742 feet of 7 inch waterbound macadam on the Warrenville road, John Arborio, New Haven, $67,198.40.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED BY JUDGE BOOTH

Two divorces on the uncontested list were granted by Judge John Rufus Booth in the superior court here Friday morning.

Henry Dwight Bromley of Stonington was granted a divorce from Mabel Merrill Bromley of Stonington and custody of a four year old son. The couple was married June 14, 1917. The divorce was granted on the ground of a statutory offense, the complaint alleging that the defendant had been sentenced for three months in the New Haven jail for misconduct with James Brown, Jr., at New Haven in May, 1927, and that she had also been an offender against the law with him at Pawcatuck between Nov. 15, 1926 and April 22, 1927.

On the ground of desertion since Aug. 2, 1924, Pearl Brown of this city secured a divorce from Arthur W. Brown and change of name to Pearl Smith. They were married Oct. 25, 1920.

THREE ACCUSED OF MANN ACT VIOLATION

At 3 o'clock Friday afternon, James Lupinacci, 21, this city, Dorothy Carney and Stella White, both of Manchester, N. H., were presented before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson on charges of violation of the Mann act. The cases were continued until February 15th and in default of bonds the accused went to jail. Lupinacci's bond was $3,000 and the bonds for the women set at $2,000 each.

It is alleged that the women were brought here from Manchester, N. H., on Nov. 27th and kept in a house at Stonington until the state police intervened and arrested them. Lupinacci was recently bound over to the superior court on a charge of using Veronica Chalinski for gain at a house in North Stonington. He is under bonds of $4,000, in connection with the superior court case.

State C. E. Secretary To Attend.

Miss Helen Woodworth, state Christian Endeavor office secretary, is to attend the Norwich Endeavor meeting Monday evening at the home of Miss Jessie Hyde, 268 Washington street. This is an executive meeting at which the election of treasurer and chairman of committees is to be among the business to be transacted. Miss Woodworth will speak on the state work.

OVER 400 ATTEND ANNUAL FATHER AND SON BANQUETS IN THREE PLACES

We hear much in this day of "flaming youth." Fathers do not need to worry because their sons are "flaming". The only danger is that that youthful vigor will be turned into the wrong direction, said Hon. Arthur M. Brown, state's attorney for New London county, in a stirring address delivered to 400 fathers and sons at the 13th annual father and son banquet Friday night. The banquet was the most successful of its kind ever held in Norwich.

A departure from the arrangements followed in past years, was inaugurated this year when the fathers and sons met in three separate groups for the banquet menu, one at the Osgood Memorial at Park church, another at the Community house and the third at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. The same menu was served simultaneously at 6.30 o'clock at all three places, as follows:

Fruit Cup
Meat Pie — Mashed Potatoes
String Beans — Pickles — Rolls
Apple Pie — Coffee
Ice Cream

Banquet programmes were held at each of the dining halls as follows:

Osgood Memorial — Toastmaster, Prof. Henry A. Tirrell; song leader, E. A. Harris; invocation by Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey; toast to the dads, "Pulling together" by William Tirrell, response, "Showing Our Colors," by Henry D. Johnson.

Community House — Toastmaster, Harold E. Robbins; invocation, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott; song leader, James L. Case; toast to the dads, Cecil Wetherby; response, Walter Block. Music by Central Baptist Sunday school orchestra.

Trinity Methodist Episcopal church —Toastmaster, E. LaRue Bliven; song leader, Lloyd Cochrane; invocation, Rev. J. Eldred Brown; toast to the dads, Gilbert Denison; response, Rev. J. Rees Jones. Music by an orchestra.

Band Led the March

Headed by the Salvation Army band of South Manchester, the fathers and sons who dined at Park church paraded down Broadway to Main street and on to Trinity Methodist Episcopal church where they were joined by the fathers and sons who dined there and the procession then proceeded to the Community house on Church street where the line was further increased by those who partook of the banquet menu at the latter place. Then the procession, in full strength, marched to the Y. M. C. A. building where the remainder of the programme was held in the "Y" gymnasium.

Boys' Secretary Emory Davis presided and after an opening number by the Salvation Army band, the assemblage sang Rock of Ages, with Mr. Case leading in the singing and the band accompanying. Mr. Davis then introduced Envoy J. Eldred McCabe, who represented Brigadier Bates of the Salvation Army who was unable to be present. Envoy McCabe brought greetings from Brigadier Bates and congratulated the fathers and sons on their splendid turnout. We are in sympathy with such projects as this, he said. The companionship of father and son is certainly a fine thing. As a band (Mr. McCabe is a member of the band) we are glad to be here tonight and help in this success.

Speaker from Australia

The Salvation Army glee club, comprising the members of the band then entertained with several finely rendered selections, for which they were heartily applauded. Mr. Davis introduced to the gathering Leslie Harry Taylor, Australian scout leader, of Sydney, Australia, who is on a tour of the world, and who is at the present time visiting in Norwich. Mr. Taylor said it was a great pleasure to convey to the gathering the greetings of the fathers and sons of Australia. This movement is a very wonderful thing, he said. Speaking to the fathers he said: "Your sons are the most important part of your life, for they are the fathers of tomorrow." And then to the boys he said: "You have your best pal in your mother and second, in your father." Mr. Taylor was roundly applauded at the conclusion of his remarks.

State Attorney Brown Speaks

Following another number by the Salvation Army glee club, Mr. Davis presented as the principal speaker of the evening, Hon. Arthur M. Brown, state attorney for New London county. Mr. Brown was greeted with a tremendous burst of applause. In his remarks the state's attorney said:

Mr. Chairman: Fathers and sons; perhaps fathers and future fathers would be a better way to address you, for it is trite but true that the boy of today is the man of tomorrow and these sons whom I am pleased to greet here tonight will be fathers almost before we know it and will be guiding the destinies of young feet and the affairs of the town, state and nation I never look into the faces of a large number of boys and young men all glowing with the natural optimism of youth, their bodies vigorous and their minds alert, ready for anything, but that I tremble with the fear of the consequences of the mis-direction of this youthful fire and vigor, and am brought to a completer realization of the tremendous responsibility that is resting upon those whose duty it is by precept and example to build character into these young lives. Life is, of course, a series of relationships. No matter how selfish one may naturally be and how much he may desire to live within himself; no matter how earnestly he may declare that he is going to live his life in his own way without interfering with others and without interference from them, he soon finds that this cannot be done. Our lives are constantly touching others in one or more relationships which circumscribe us and more or less govern our course of conduct, whether we like it or not.

The particular relationship in life which most interests us tonight and which ought always to challenge our interest is that of father and son. No more important relationship exists fraught as it is with so much that is vital to both parties. The father needs the son and the son needs the father and there is a tremendous responsibility on both sides to see to it that this mutual need is met in a way to bring out and develop that which is fine and upstanding in both the father and the son.

If love, honesty, fair dealing, justice and understanding are necessary to the best success of the ordinary everyday human relationships how much more are they necessary as between father and son if this relationship is to mean what it should to both contracting parties. I say contracting parties for when a father is responsible for the bringing into this world of a son, who has nothing to say about the matter, that father is under a solemn contract to love that boy and to deal with him honestly, fairly, justly and understandingly, a large contract and one that is not lived up to by all too many fathers by reason of either selfishness, thoughtlessness or plain cussedness.

We are hearing much in this day and age of the world about the problem of youth; flaming youth is the term used by some and it might be thought that this adjective is applicable only to the youth of today, but as a matter of fact Shakespeare used the same term in his writings many years ago. Youth has always been flaming and always will be; youth ought to be flaming. It is a wonderful thing to be young. The greatest compliment ever paid me was by an elderly gentleman who, in a spirit of disgust at some boyish prank I had played, said "You will never grow up." I never want to grow up in some respects. I hope I shall always have something of the zeal, the overflowing spirits and the confidence in self pertaining to the average youth.

Fathers ought not to spend any time worrying over the fact that their sons are flaming. They ought to be glad of it. The problem is to so guide and control the fire of youth that it will count for accomplishment along right lines. Here the father can wield a marvelous influence if he will. As state's attorney I come in contact with many boys who have committed some crime and find themselves in the toils of the law, and I want to tell you boys here tonight that if you see fit to violate either natural or man-made law you will find that you will have to pay the price and it will be a price that will stagger you. Nobody ever danced yet without paying the fiddler. What I was going to say in regard to these boys caught in the toils of the law is that in most instances I have found that the real trouble was a lack of home training. Nothing is of so much importance in the formative years of a boy's life as home influences and after a boy arrives at a certain age it is natural for him to look to his father for example and precept, as his mentor and guide. His father is a man and looks at things from a man's standpoint; the boy is anxious to arrive at manhood and enjoy a man's viewpoint. In most instances the boy will look up to his Dad as a hero if the father gives him half a chance.

What sort of a home life are you fathers making for your sons? I understand that you cannot make a home alone but are you doing your part? It is in the home that you discover the true measure of a man; he takes the mask off there and you see him as he really is. No matter what his professions may be, no matter how prominent he may be in the church and in the fraternity and in the club and no matter how suave and kindly he may appear to all those with whom he comes in contact in the outside world, if his children dread to have him come home, if his wife has to swallow her heart every time she asks him for a five-dollar bill, if he vents out at home all the accumulated ill-nature which he dares not show before the world, then he is the meanest kind of a humbug and is not entitled to the respect of his son or anybody else, but if his children rush to the door to meet him and his wife eagerly listens for his foot-fall he is considerable of a man for he is making of his home and no humbug ever gets that near to the great white throne of God. He may err, as most of us do, but it has been truly said that much can be forgiven of the man who would rather make men swear than women weep, who would rather have the hate of the whole world than the contempt of his wife, and who would rather call anger to the eyes of a king than fear to the face of a child.

Do you men stay at home enough so that your sons have a chance to get acquainted with you in that environment? I know that this is a busy age and there are many demands on the time of every man, but the home must not go into the discard on this account. The son is entitled to know his father in his own home, and it is up to the father not only to make of his home as near a heaven as he can but to stay in it enough to enjoy that paradise with his family.

So much complaint is made nowadays that the boys and girls are never at home. How can you except a boy to stay at home if his father is never there? If it is not a good place for dad to stay in it certainly follows that it will not be a good place for son to stay in.

Do you always treat your son on the level? No man can afford to do otherwise than put all his cards on the table when he is dealing with his boy. If you are to have the confidence of your sons they have got to feel that they can come to you with frankness and receive absolute justice at your hands.

To err is human; boys will make mistakes and will do wrong things but if their relationship with their fathers is close enough so that no matter what happens they will go to him and tell him the story just as it is knowing that they will receive a square deal, there is not much cause for worry as to their future. I do not believe that the average boy wants to be pampered and petted; I believe that he will be willing to take punishment if he deserve it, without a whimper, if he feels that he is receiving justice. A real man will always take his medicine without complaining if he knows that the dose is fairly coming to him. It is injustice that rankles.

I read of a boy whose father promised to give him a penny for every cabbage moth he would capture. The boy went to work and finally produced a large number of moths and expected his pay. His father said that any one ought to know that it was only the female moth that did damage and refused to pay the boy for any but the females. That boy never forgot that of his father and never trusted him again.

There is no force in the world today so productive of trouble as misunderstanding. Most of the difficulties between individuals and nations are due to the fact that they do not understand each other. They fail to get each other's viewpoint and you cannot deal with another fairly unless you get that other's viewpoint. To judge a man fairly we must be able to see things through his eyes.

Are you fathers taking the time and the trouble incident to a complete understanding of your sons? If you are too busy to pal up with the boy, talk with him, do things with him that he likes to do, get his slant on life and advise him tactfully, treating his twists with patience, you are certainly falling in this great relationship of which you are a part.

True liberty lies in obedience to law. Every right-minded father wants his son to grow up a law-abiding citizen. How can he expect this to happen if he himself is evading the law in any particular? The son sees it and if Dad can do it there is no good reason apparent to the son why he should not follow his father's example.

A man may be poor in this world's good; he may not be able to give his son much in the way of material things but he can give him the inheritance of a Christian gentleman's life and that is the finest inheritance which any young man can receive.

It would seem from what I have said that there was only one party to this contract between father and son. Not so. There are two or more parties to every contract and there are duties and obligations upon the part of each.

What about the boy in this relationship of father and son? Does he not owe much to his father and is he not bound to meet certain obligations on his part?

When your fathers are trying to make of their homes heaven upon earth; when they are treating you sons justly, lovingly and with understanding; when they are giving lavishly of their strength and means that you may be educated and be better prepared to meet the problems of life than they were; are you meeting them half-way? Are you making the most of your opportunities? Are you according your fathers that obedience and love which is their due? Are you honestly trying to understand your fathers? If so, no sacrifice will have been too great to prepare and train you for your life's work. If not, you are ingrates of the worst character and I predict there will be nothing in life worth while for you.

There has been altogether too much petting and coddling of youth in these late years. Well meaning advocates of social reform have been responsible for the putting on our statute books of laws that to my mind work harm.

So much has been said and done along the lines of doing for the young that boys have come to the conclusion that everything must be done for them as a matter of right and no responsibility rests upon them. This is a mistake. It is a mistake to try to think for youth; the thing to do is to teach youth to think for itself; put youth upon its own responsibility and teach it self reliance and teach it the fact that consequences follow causes, whether a person is fifteen or fifty. It is a good thing to throw a boy overboard once in a while and tell him to sink or swim. He will usually demonstrate that he has stuff in him and will obviate the necessity of your pulling him out by swimming.

After all what this world needs is men, men of character and broad vision. I should like to give you the definition of such a man as I should like to have all fathers be and all sons become. A man is a real man when he can look out over the hills and the rivers and the far horizon with a profound sense of his own littleness in the vast scheme of things and yet have faith, hope and courage which is the root of every virtue, when he knows that down in his heart every man is as noble, as vile, as divine, as diabolic and as lovely as himself and still seeks to know, to forgive and to love his fellow-man; when he knows how to sympathize with men in their sorrows, yea, even in their sins, knowing that each man fights a hard fight against many odds; when he has learned how to keep friends with himself; when he loves the flower and can hunt birds without a gun and feel the thrill of an old forgotten joy; when he hears the laugh of a little child; when star-crowned trees and the glint of sunlight on flowing waters subdues him like the thought of one much loved and long since gone; when no voice of distress reaches his ears in vain and no hand seeks his aid without response; when he finds good in every faith that helps any man to lay hold of divine things; and see majestic meanings in life, whatever the name of that faith may be; when he can look into a wayside puddle and see something beyond mud and into the face of the most forlorn fellow mortal and see something beyond sin; when he knows how to play, how to love, how to hope; when he has kept faith with himself, with his fellow man and with his God. In his hand a sword for evil, in his heart a bit of a song, glad to live but not afraid to die—my friends, if the sons of today can develop into men like that, our constitution, our institutions and our ideals will all be safe.

The programme came to a close with the singing of Blest Be the Tie That Binds.

Committees in Charge

The general chairman of the banquet arrangements was Mrs. John B. Oat and assisting her were Mrs. Frank I. Royce and Mrs. John D. Sharples. Mrs. S. S. Smiley had charge of the waitresses at the three dining halls. Mrs. R. S. Smith was in charge of the waitresses at Park church, Mrs. Royce at the Community house and Mrs. Ernest J. Jones at the Methodist church.

Other committees were as follows:

CLARA BARTON TENT FORMS DRUM CORPS

The regular bi-monthly business meeting of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, was held Tuesday, Dec. 6, in Buckingham Memorial at 8 p. m. with the president, Mrs. Annie B. Turner, presiding.

The tent voted to give the annual donations to the holiday fund for the tuberculosis sanatorium, health bond, Christmas seals and Red Cross. To each of these causes they give liberally.

The treasurer's report showed them to be in very good standing financially. The Christmas sale and supper held recently brought a very substantial sum. They voted to hold a Christmas party after their next meeting, Tuesday, Dec. 20, and will have a tree laden with gifts, one for every one present. They will have as their guests the members of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., Sedgwick corps, No. 16, W. R. C., Sedgwick camp, No. 4, Sons of Union Veterans, all veterans, whether members of the G. A. R. or not and all veterans' widows. An excellent program has been prepared by the entertainment committee, Mrs. Brinkman, chairman. Refreshments will be served.

The meeting will open at 7.30 p. m. sharp.

The following officers were elected for 1928, who will be installed in January:

President, Mrs. Lillian J. Newbury; senior vice president, Miss Florence Hoffman; junior vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue; chaplain, Mrs. Lillian Whiting; treasurer, Mrs. Lillias E. Brewster; council member, No. 1 Mrs. Annie B. Turner; council member, No. 2, Mrs. Alice C. Brinkman; council member, No. 3, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church.

Previous to meeting the regular sewing circle met, tied quilts and made aprons, each one bringing her supper and enjoying a very sociable hour.

An added feature to this tent is the organization of a drum corps, which has been done through the untiring efforts of their past department president, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury. It numbers nine drummers and three fife players. Several states in the west have their drum corps and drill teams but this is the first in the east and from the progress made in past rehearsals, Norwich will have a "Clara Barton Drum corps" to be proud of, for its members are all daughters of Union veterans of the Civil war.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME WITH WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETING

A short business meeting of the Woman's league of the Central Baptist church, held at 7.30 Thursday evening in the woman's room, was followed by an especially enjoyable musical programme in the church auditorium.

At the business meeting, the president, Mrs. George A. Ashbey presided, and reports were made by the secretary, Miss Ruth Hamilton, the treasurer, Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond, and the committee chairman. Gifts for the Christmas party of the Americanization class were brought to the meeting.

The musical programme was by Miss Louise Fuller, organist and Treffly Morin of Mystic, baritone, with Mrs. Morin as accompanist. Miss Fuller's numbers were delightfully rendered and Mr. Morin's fine tenor voice was heard with much pleasure.

The programme was given as follows:

Gloria in Excelsis, from Mass 2. Mozart
Miss Fuller
Recitative—"For behold, darkness shall cover the earth."
Aria—"The people that walked in darkness."
(from "Messiah") Handel
Mr. Morin
Andante—from Symphonie Pathetique Tschaikowsky
In Moonlight Kinder
Toccata—from Symphonie V Widor
Miss Fuller
Paper—Hymns and Hymn-Tunes
Mrs. Herbert L. Richardson.
Where'er you walk Handel
Nazareth Gounod
Mr. Morin

Workmen's Compensation

Workmen's compensation agreement has been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey in the case of Totokett Manufacturing company of Norwich, employer, and Telesphore J. Dugas, Jr., of Versailles, employe. The latter had his right big toe crushed and nail torn from second toe, Nov. 18. He is to receive workmen's compensation at the rate of $5.59.

DELANEY KNOCKS OUT BERLENBACH IN SIXTH ROUND AT CHICAGO

By Charles W. Dunkley
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLISEUM, Chicago, Dec. 9—(AP)—Jack Delaney, prospective opponent for Gene Tunney, scored a technical knockout over Paul Berlenbach, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round fight tonight. Berlenbach knocked down four times, by wicked right smashes to the jaw, was weaving on his heels and staggering backward apparently an easy victim for a finishing punch, when Referee Jimmy Gardner, one-time world's welterweight champion, stepped in and stopped the uneven fight.

Berlenbach, who lost the world's light heavyweight championship to Delaney 13 months ago and aspired to regain it, had nothing tonight except a stout heart. It was plain from the start that Berlenbach's only chance of winning was to whip over one of his left hooks.

Delaney, varying accurate right crosses to the jaw and left hooks to the body, cut his old time foe down in masterly fashion. He planted rights on Paul's chin in the first two rounds and in the third knocked "Punch 'Em Paul" down twice, the second coming as the bell ended the round.

In the fourth and fifth rounds, Delaney apparently was resting and the crowd becoming weary of the listless battle.

The sixth round saw the passing of Berlenbach, who always plodding forward gamely was an absolute mark for Delaney's sharp rights. Berlenbach shook up his foe with a left to the head, one of the best punches he scored during the fight, but in the next second he caught two lightning left hooks from Delaney and this was the beginning of the end. Delaney planted a hard right and left to the chin and Berlenbach sank to the floor.

In the semi-windup, fought after the feature bout, Oak Till, Buffalo middleweight, won the verdict over Homer Robertson, a Boston Negro, in eight rounds.

Gene McCue of Chicago, and Chester Bush of New Orleans, opened the show with a four round draw at 160 pounds.

Billy Light, a St. Paul 146 pounder, won the verdict over Billy Showers, also of St. Paul, in six rounds.

Charley Belander, of Winnipeg, Man., a straight punching light heavyweight, knocked out Mike Mandoli, of St. Paul, in the third round of a scheduled six-round bout.

Young Jack Dillon, of Louisville, cut-slugged Frankie Murphy, of Los Angeles, in six-rounds to win the verdict. They weighed 160 pounds.

BOSTON AMATEURS DO NOT DO SO WELL

NEW BRITAIN, Dec. 9—(AP)—A quartet of amateur boxers from Boston invaded a local ring tonight and with the exception of one bout won on a foul, departed for home with nothing to show for their efforts. Summaries:

Frank Rychlak, Boston, won on foul third, from Jack Kelly, Waterbury, 170.

Joe Howard, Hartford, decision over Oscar Record, Boston, 170.

Leo Larrivier, Waterbury, knocked out Johnny Walker, Boston, second round, 147.

Johnny Clinch, New Britain, defeated Jack Renault, Boston, 145.

Art Buck, Waterbury, technical knockout over Frank Keeman, New Britain, first, 145.

Al Ferguson, Waterbury, defeated Joe Cody, New Britain, 120.

Ray Taylor, Terryville, technical knockout over Joe Dignal, Waterbury, third, 135.

Joe Sline, Hartford, knocked out Joe Krar, East Hartford, first, 130.

John Novack, Waterbury, knocked out Joe Zotter, New Britain, second, 142.

Ray Strong, Hartford, defeated George Krar, East Hartford, 124.

Eddie Camp, Hartford, defeated Al Taylor, Bristol, 107.

STEW SCOTT WILL JOIN ALL-EAST TEAM

WASHINGTON, Penna, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Stewart Scott, Yale end, today advised Coach Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson college that he would join the eastern college football squad that will meet a team of picked western gridmen in a charity game at San Francisco on Dec. 26. Scott previously had declined to accept an invitation to join the team because he had undergone an operation on his arm. He said today he believed he would be in condition for the game.

At the same time, Kerr received a telegram from Ray Howell, Nebraska fullback, who said a Missouri conference ruling would prevent his going to the coast. He had accepted an invitation to play in the game, but learned of the ruling which does not permit other players than seniors to join all-star teams.

Kerr now has 19 players on his roster. He will take 20 men on the trip.

AETNA FIVE BREAKS ALLEY RECORD AT RIVERVIEW

Bowling 1932 the Aetna five broke the Riverview club alley record in the match against the Riverview five which the Norwich team won in three straight strings. Riverview had a total pinfall of 1752. Three of the Aetna men passed the 400-mark while Sidney and Joe Faber tied at 148 for high single. The former alley record was 1976. The scores:

Riverview

Mills	103	105	126	334
Faber	99	148	116	363
Boyers	93	133	132	358
Pepin	124	114	106	344

Combies	138	135	117	390

High single, Sidney and Faber 148; high three Kosiowski 408; high team single, Aetna, 698.

HUBBARD ABSORBES A. A. U. FROM ALL CHARGES

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The National A. A. U. today made public a letter from Dabart Hubbard in which the Negro broad jumper expressed a desire to absolve the A. A. U. of any suggestion that it gave him a "bad deal" by refusing to recognize his world's record leap of 26 feet, 2 1-4 inches in Cincinnati last September.

"I want to absolve the A. A. U. of any such charges," Hubbard wrote. "I have learned that the referee made a signed statement on my application that in his estimation the sand in the pit was an inch or so too low. That is drawing it pretty fine without an actual survey, but I realize that no record could be accepted in the face of any such statement by the referee. In my opinion the pit was absolutely O. K. but the referee's word is final." not go into the discard on this account.

Harvard Mat Schedule

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Harvard wrestlers are scheduled to meet the Columbia mat-men on Jan. 14, it was announced here today. The complete Lion schedule calls for 10 dual meets in addition to the intercollegiates at Princeton March 16-17.

TWO TEAMS TIED IN BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Battling desperately in a "wild" night of the 43rd international six day bicycle race with just 24 hours of the grind to go, "Bearcat" Debaets, Belgian star, and his Italian partner, Gaetano Belloni, raced on equal terms with Freddy Spencer and Charley Winter, to lead a pack of 13 entries continuing in the struggle.

At 10 o'clock the 121st hour, the pacemakers had circled 2,080 miles and nine laps around the saucer. One lap behind were the combinations of Lands-Van Nek and Faudet-Marcillac.

Although the strenuous riding promised by Reggie McNamara and Franco Georgetti, defending champions, developed according to schedule in the evening sprints, the veterans were unable to overcome the combat of youth and trailed four laps from the front.

Stockholm-Croley, in a startling burst of sped through the afternoon and evening, flashing to within two laps of the leaders with the Petri-Hill pair bracketed a lap ahead of McNamara-Georgetti.

RASMUSEN PROVIDES THRILL AT WATERBURY BOUTS

WATERBURY, Dec. 9—(AP)—Charlie Rasmussen, of Watertown, handed Eddie Winfiner, of Hartford, a terrific beating in the feature bout of the Waterbury amateur boxing show held before a crowd of 800 at Buckingham hall tonight. Summaries:

Mickey Todd, Litchfield, decision over Frankie Zozzolo, Hartford, 130.

Ray Dowling, Waterbury, decision over Sid Gunning, Hartford, 140.

Frankie Alterie, won foul first round, over Mickey Rome, Hartford, 118.

Sammy Kraft, Bridgeport, decision Billy Patrick, Hartford, 135.

Ralph Barrett, Bridgeport, technical knockout over Mickey De Leo, Waterbury, third, 136.

Jerry Griffin, Bridgeport, decision over Johnny Loughran, Waterbury, 138.

Johnny Angelo, Hartford, decision over Phil Moore, Bridgeport, 128.

Charlie Rasmussen, Watertown, decision over Eddie Winfiner, Hartford, 170.

HUGGINS SAYS FLETCHER NOT TO MANAGE INDIANS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Returning here today from the Dallas baseball meeting, Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees announced that Arthur Fletcher would remain as coach with the Hugmen next season and would not manage the Cleveland Indians.

The report from Dallas telling of Fletcher's appointment by General Manager Billy Evans of Cleveland was due to some misunderstanding, Huggins believes. Huggins said he had a conversation with Evans but only after news of the Yankees' coach having been named the Indians' pilot had been printed.

Huggins said the Yankees were considering several trades but declined to go into details. It was reported that the Yanks would like to barter for a pitcher with Lyons of the White Sox, Ruffing of the Red Sox and Uhle of Cleveland mentioned as prospective principals.

MANDELL WINS EASY VERDICT OVER SACCO

BOSTON, Dec. 9. —(AP)— Sammy Mandell, of Chicago, lightweight champion, won an easy decision over Jimmy Sacco, of East Boston, in their 10-round bout here tonight. The title was not at stake.

Mandell had his own way throughout jabbing Saco with his left almost at will and crossing him with his right. Sacco was content to cover up in an attempt to get to close quarters, but the champion held him off with his long left.

George Bolduc, of Lewiston, Me., defeated Terry Parkre, of Boston, in eight rounds.

Jimmy Valentine, Boston, won a decision over Harry Soo, of California, in six rounds.

Tanzy Norton, of Boston, defeated Joe Hartnett, of Halifax, in another six rounder.

HUDKINS MAKES PEACE WITH KANSAS COMMISSION

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 9—(AP)—Reinstatement of Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "wildcat" and contender of the welterweight boxing title, by the Kansas athletic commission, was announced today by Leslie Edmonds, executive secretary.

Hudkins' reinstatement followed payment of a $300 fine imposed by the commission for his intended participation in an allegedly "fixed" boxing exhibition at Kansas City, Kans., with Sid Socklyn, a sparring partner. Hudkins was suspended a few hours before the engagement.

LOWELL TEXTILE TO PLAY COAST GUARD ACADEMY

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 9—(AP)—Lowell Textile will meet eight opponents on the gridiron next season, opening with the United States Coast Guard academy eleven here on September 29, according to the schedule announced tonight by faculty director of athletics Lester H. Cushing.

The schedule follows: September 29, U. S. Coast Guard academy; October 6, Trinity college at Hartford; October 13, open; October 20, Connecticupt Aggies; 27, Rhode Island State; November 3, Upsala college at East Orange, N. J.; 10, Newport Naval Training base; 17, Worcester Poly at Worcester.

MRS. PAUL WANTS HUBBY TO HANG UP THE GLOVES

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—(AP)—Mrs. Paul Berlenbach, wife of the former world light heavyweight champion, wants "Oom Paul" to put away the boxing gloves for keeps.

"I don't want my Paul to fight any more" Mrs. Berlenbach said 'and there isn't any reason in the world why he should continue. We have enough money to live on for the rest of our lives. He certainly proved he was a real fighter when he was champion.

"It isn't going to do him any good to keep on fighting, if he doesn't quit, I'm afraid he is going to get hurt and I wouldn't want that for all the money in the world."

Bass Beats Farr

DETROIT, Dec. 9—(AP)—Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, featherweight championship claimant, was awarded the decision over Johnny Farr, of Oakland, Cal., at the conclusion of ten hard fought rounds here tonight. Bass carried the fight to his opponent throughout and landed the cleaner punches.

Sammy Dorfman, New York featherweight won the decision over Eddie Anderson of Wyoming in ten fast rounds.

Carlson Goes to Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Pitcher Agrold Carlson, formerly with the Baltimore Orioles, has been signed by the Montreal Internationals, Manager George T. Stallings reported from Dallas today. Carlson started with the Orioles last spring but was injured and later released.

Y EMPS TO PLAY N. L. ROTARY BOYS TONIGHT

The Y Emps make their second start this evening at the Y gym, tackling the New London Rotary Y Boys five in what looks like another fast game. The locals no doubt received confidence in their win over the Emps from Willimantic in the season's opener and that should serve them in good stead tonight. However, from reports they will need plenty of support for the Whalers boast a strong uintet that now seems to have rounded into form.

Coach Conklin has been drilling his boys hard through the week for they anticipate a stiff argument. The locals wish greatly to make their brief, initial home stay a complete success before they start campaigning on visiting floors next week. The Emps have been designated the honor of opening the basketball season in Norwich, their game last week having been the first in the city for this campaign and tonight, in the second local game of the year they intend to have nothing detract from the honor gained in the first game. The Emps will not appear as a headliner after this week for the senior teams will be taking over the spotlight.

Coach Conklin will send his strongest lineup after the New Londoners and the Emps will take the floor with Economius and Tigar at forwards, Lynch or Sussman at center and Murphy and Swartzburg at guards.

The visitor's lineup has not been announced.

A large crowd is expected as this game is the only one in the city limits over the week end.

ARMY HAS STIFFEST SCHEDULE EVER TACKLED

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 9—(AP)—The Army tackles what is considered one of the stiffest football schedules ever arranged for a West Point eleven next year, publication of the 1928 schedule revealed today. Nine games, four of them away from home, comprise a card which includes Harvard, Yale, Notre Dame, Southern Methodist university and the Navy.

The Harvard game at Cambridge will mark resumption of gridiron relations with the Crimson after a lapse of 18 years, while Southern Methodist, carrying a formidable record from the southwest, comes east for the first time in history to meet the soldiers at West Point. New York again wins the site of the Notre-Dame Army clash, with the location of the Navy game still to be announced by the Naval academy.

Detroit university, Marquette, Davis and Elkins, Bucknell, Franklin and Marshall and Ursinus, all 1927 opponents, are missing from next year's schedule. The newcomers, besides Southern Methodist, are Providence college, Depauw university of Greencastle, Ind., and Carleton college, of Northfield, Minn. The schedule follows:

Sept. 29, Boston university; Oct. 6, Southern Methodist univeraity; 13, Providence college; 20, Harvard at Cambridge; 27, Yale at New Haven; Nov. 3, Depauw university; 10, Notre Dame at New York; 17, Carleton college; 24, Navy (location undecided).

NEW BRITAIN DROPS GAME TO ATLAS FIVE

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9.—(AP)—In a fast and sometimes, furious game, the New Britain basketball team went down to defeat, 37-23 at the hands of the Atlas team of this city tonight in a state league game. Chadys of the Atlas team and Leary, of New Britain, were both ruled out on fouls by Referee Waters.

Lawless and August Draw

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 9—(AP)—Bucky Lawless, of Auburn, and Pete August, of Bridgeport, Conn., welterweights, battled six rounds to a draw here tonight. Bobby Williams, of Syracuse, outpointed Alex Gibbons, Albany middleweight. Jack Manley, of Syracuse, was given the decision over Dorey Shimar, of Williamsport, Pa.

Many Entries for Sweepstakes

To date there are 14 entries for the annual Christmas sweepstakes at the Aetna bowling alleys which will open today. The entries are Peckham, Sidney, Swatzburg, Crawford, Willett, Zulka, Bentley, Mara, Wenzel, Kozlowski, Pierce, Aldi, Kellar and Smith. The bowling will start at noon today and continue until 4 p. m. on Dec. 24th when the finals will start.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

By the Associated Press

The Hot Stove league of baseball now hears that Eddie Collins, Connie Mack's chief lieutenant at Philadelphia, had a chance at and declined the job that everybody now is busy denying ever was offered to Art Fletcher. Eddie's desire to stick with the Athletics rather than take over the managerial reins at Cleveland has led to the belief that Collins eventually will succeed the man who brought him into big time baseball from Columbia university. Mack is now 65 years old.

The only public appearance in New York of Dr. Otto Peltzer, German middle distance ace and fastest half-miler in the world, is scheduled for next Sunday when he will be the guest of honor at an entertainment given by the German club of New York. The runner's tour of American athletic plants will take him to the Pacific coast next week where he plans to spend the Christmas holidays with relatives.

The comeback campaign of Jimmy Slattery, still in his "twenties," meets the acid test in a 15 round light heavyweight title fray with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in Madison Square Garden Monday night. Not so long ago, "Buffalo" Jimmy whipped Jack Delaney twice and was branded a second Jim Corbett. But Dave Shade knocked him out with a looping right hand punch and Paul Berlenbach knocked him down seven times and finally out with body punches. The comeback road led over Maxie Rosenbloom to National Boxing association recognition as the 175 pound titleholder, the same title the New York boxing commission afforded Loughran.

Soccer at Jewett City

The Jewett City soccer team will play Cottrell's A. F. C. of Westerly, Sunday afternoon on Ashland grounds. A good game is expected because the local team have already played several good games so far this season. Cottrells' A. F. C. have been classed as an A-1 team and the active sport fan is looking forward to the kickoff, which happens at two-thirty.

The total attendance at college football games this season is estimated at 25,000,000 to 30,000,000.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Warren Harding high of Bridgeport basketball schedule contains 21 games with the season opening last night and closing March 10. The nearest the Presidents come to Norwich in the matter of distance is Torrington. As usual Harding is confining her efforts to the western part of the state. In fact, the Academy is the only school east of the Connecticut river that the Meadmen have ever played.

Chapman Tech also got away last night on her extensive schedule, one of 27 games. The game was with Pratt high at Essex.

The Y Emps should have some stiff going this evening with the New London Rotary Y boys as opponents. The locals looked good last week even though they had a mighty close call and tonight they should step out and make it number two.

The teams in the church leagues are now warming up for the opening within the next few days. The Senior league starts on its way a week from tonight.

Rogers high of Newport, whose second team won the championship of Rhode Island (for first teams) a year or so back seems to be having no trouble in booking games this year. Among Connecticut teams on their schedule are Harding, Naugatuck and Torrington. The Passaic "wonder five" of Passaic, N. J., which recently broke its string of consecutive wins which had totalled something over 150 in many years play also clashes with the Rhode Island array.

There is an interesting story on the results of the publicity that this Passaic team received when they were standing the high school world on its head. When the announcement of the schedpling of their game with Rogers reached Newport (it happened about noon time) the Rhode Island city immediately became excited and before nightfall 500 tickets had been disposed. That happened in early November and the game will not be played until the last of February.

The Danielson team, led by Billy Schofield, last year's Conn., Aggie captain, should go well after they emerge from a few of these early season battles. They seem to be experiencing the same trouble in getting started as did the Plainfield Pros.

Co. C. is giving Willimantic fans some nice basketball.

Plainfield Pros, eastern Connecticut's powerful representative have the All-New Britains, state champs for the return engagement Wednesday night. Plainfield won before, leading nearly all the way and there is no reason why, with pro rules this time they cannot score another victory. Those Boston Whirlwinds continue to prove a stumbling block to the Community Housers.

Noank and Mystic, always strong basketball centers, are again living up to their "reps" this season.

Torrington high goes to North Adams for the return battle with Drury high tonight. Torrington won by one point on a last-second shot in the other game, one week ago.

The State league seems to be getting along quite well with good crowds and exceptionally close games.

The Crosby high of Waterbury schedule, just released, contains a game with the Academy here March 10.

The C. F. C. tackles a tough one in Battery E at Westerly tonight. It is the locals first game of the season while the Soldiers have been playing for nearly a month. Coach Davis will probably start his regular lineup of several years standing including Capt. Lambert and Leffingwell at forwards, Nell at center and Ludlow and Brown at guards.

The Y Emps play Willimantic Emps a return game Wednesday and Christmas eve, Saturday Dec. 24, they meet the Phantom A. C. of New Britain, state junior Y. M. C. A. champions.

The Atlas of New Haven, formerly one of the best in Connecticut, now seem to be coming back. At least, their one-sided win over All-New Britain in a State league game last night points that way.

The meeting of the proposed Industrial league called for Friday evening failed to bring forth anything definite. Only one representative was present. It now seems fairly certain that a city league will have to be formed.

Linehan Yale Frosh Leader

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 9—(AP)—Ted Linehan, of Westfield, Mass., was elected captain of the Yale freshmen basketball team by his teammates this afternoon. Linehan who is center on the team, prepared for Yale at Roxbury.

One of the shortest championship fights on record was that at Tuckahoe, N. Y., on Sept. 12, 1899, when Terry McGovern defeated Pedlar Palmer in less than one round of a contest for the batamweight title.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

If you saw "In Old Kentucky" on the speaking stage, and loved it, as millions of Americans have, you will enjoy it even more on the screen at the Broadway theatre where the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer version of the old play is now being shown.

James Murray, who is hailed as a new screen discovery, and who is one of the most interesting of the new male characters of the screen, has the leading male role, while Helene Costello is seen in the featured feminine lead. Wesley Barry has the role of the jockey, while the roles of mother and father of the leading man are taken by Dorothy Cummings and Edward Martindale.

"In Old Kentucky" is an original screen play by A. P. Younger, but it was suggested by the Charles Dazey melodrama of the stage, which is regarded as one of the most successful and popular plays ever produced in America.

The picture was directed by John M. Stahl.

"The Small Bachelor," Universal's screen version of P. G. Wodehouse's side-splitting short story of the same name, has been booked for its first local showing by the Broadway theatre. It will be shown on Sunday night only as the Myrkle Harder stock company will be the attraction at the Broadway for the entire week.

Proclaimed the maddest farce of the year, the picture embraces an allstar cast and was directed by William A. Seiter, ace of comedy directors, responsible for many of Reginald Denny's greatest successes.

"The Small Bachelor" first appeared in Liberty Magazine where it was read and enjoyed by millions. It is a story of a bashful bachelor, who wins the girl of his heart after a series of situations that keep one in a constant uproar of delight.

The entire action takes place in a period of twenty-four hours and consequently there is not a dull moment. It starts out with a chuckle, turns into a laugh and ends with a roar.

Breed Theatre.

The screen supplies the romance which modern existence lacks and it is for that reason that the movies are so popular.

Thus believes Carey Wilson, brilliant young writer and film producer, whose latest effort, "The Stolen Bride," a First National picture starring Billie Dove, comes to the Breed theatre here beginning tomorrow night.

Wilson confesses to romantic leanings himself, and declares the feeling is one common to every person, no matter how deeply it may be submerged or how vehemently its presence be denied.

"The Stolen Bride" is essentially a romantic story, combined with humor, many novel twists and turns of plot and situation and not a few strong dramatic moments.

It chiefly provides a thrill of romance, however, both in the setting, which is in central Europe, and in the type of story which is indicated by the title. It is the sort of picture Wilson likes most and he believes, it is the kind most generally accepted by film play-goers.

"The Stolen Bride" is a unique production in a number of ways. It serves to introduce Billie Dove as a star in her own right, the beautiful actress having been advanced to that position by First National because of her remarkable progress in the past year.

Lloyd Hughes plays the lead opposite Billie Dove, with Lilyan Tashman, Armand Kaliz, Cleve Moore, Frank Beall, Yola d'Avril and others in support.

Palace Theatre.

Showing for the last times today is the latest Metro picture "Tea for Three," starring Owen Moore, Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle. The story is based on the jealous suspicions of a husband toward his wife and best friend, and is being shown in conjunction with five acts of vaudeville.

For Sunday evening's program, two splendid features have been booked by the Palace management. The first feature, "Shootin' Irons" is a story of the early west when a man's best friend was his guns and in order to enjoy life he had to be quicker than the other fellow on the draw. Jack Luden and Sally Blane are the featured players in "Shootin Irons." The associate feature is a story concerning auto racing and brings back pleasant memories of the late Wally Reid. George O'Hara is cast in the leading role of this feature, "California or Bust."

The picture selected for Monday's entertainment, in conjunction with the vaudeville program is a sea story that should prove of unusual interest. "The Cruise of the Hellion" aside from being one of the best sea dramas ever produced, boasts of a remarkable cast of players. The leading roles are assigned to Donald Keith and Edna Murphy ,while others in the cast having important parts are Sheldon Lewis, Tom Santschi, Francis Ford, Sailor Sharkey and Charles K. French. Altogether "The Cruise of the Hellion" should prove to be one of the best photoplay attractions to be shown at the Palace theatre this season.

Big Advance Sale For Myrkle Harder Broadway Theatre

With an unusually heavy advance sale at the Broadway theatre box office for all of next week's offerings of the Myrkle Harder company's repertoire of Broadway productions, the players should enjoy most enthusiastic support.

Since the opening of the chart, the Broadway theatre box office has been a mecca for hundreds of the lovers of high class entertainment, such as is assured in the coming engagement of the Myrkle Harder organization.

The company will open its stand here on next Monday night, Dec. 12, with "What Anne Brought Home" one of the really big things on Broadway last winter and which has been assigned to the Myrkle Harder organization upon a high royalty basis. On Tuesday will come "White Cargo" Earl Carroll's vivid production of Leon Gordon's drama of the South African rubber country, a play of stark reality of tremendous, throbbing color and histrionic demand. There promises to be a sell out for both of these productions. Wednesday "In the Wrong Bed," Thursday "Rain", Friday "Sells Dallas" and Saturday "The Ghost Train." Seats now selling.

Strand Theatre.

The Texas Terror is a male-thriller of the far-flung western frontier, starring Al Hoxie, the most fearless of photoplay dare-devils. See what really happens when The Texas Terror gets going. There is plenty of action and romance, and has a cast which includes Ed Burns, Iona Reed, Louise Gallagher and other notable stars.

Sin Cargo will be seen here for the first time on Sunday night at the Strand as a story of modern life with most of the dramatic action taking place on board a millionaire's private yacht. One of the big scenes in this modern story of the jazz age is the blowing up of a palatial yacht. Shirley Mason and Robert Frazer have the leading roles.

Puppet Revue is Unique

The Puppet Revue which three Yale men are presenting at Slater hall next Tuesday, December 13 adopts the revue idea to the marionette actors and consists of short plays and divertisements among which are: On the Road to Bombay, two Hindus had a snake; The Gooseberry Mandarin, a Chinese fantasy; The Three Wishes, a dramatization of the old continental fairy tale, Pyramus and Thisbe, from the last act of Shakespeare's Midsummer's Night Dream.

A prima donna, a pianist, a harpist, three Russian dancers and a twenty-one piece symphony orchestra offer something unique in puppet history. The stage is fully equipped with miniature scenic and lighting effects in proportion to the size of the actors.

Speaker for Mental Hygiene Meeting

Dr. Ernest F. Russell who has recently joined the staff of the psychiatric department at the Yale School of Medicine is to be the speaker for the first meeting of the season of the Norwich Society for Mental Hygiene of this season at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday evening. Dr. Russell will discuss informally "The Difficulties of Nervous People." Dr. Russell conducted a very interesting informal discussion on "Parental Attitudes" with the child study group in the Women's City club last Monday. The mothers who attended felt that his approach was essentially practical and very helpful.

Farmer Brown's Boy Reads Signs

For those who understand aright
Are signs that can be read at sight.
—Old Mother Nature.

That is a very true saying. To those with eyes that see the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest leave signs that can be read as clearly as a printed page. Farmer Brown's Boy is one of those with eyes that see. When he had rushed out of the house at the squawking of the hens and had found the feathers of one of them on the snow and the footprints of Reddy Fox near by he had simply jumped to conclusions—which means that he had decided in his own mind without really looking about and trying to read signs.

Now, as he came out from under the barn and watched Reddy becoming

He saw the line of fox footprints coming from the Old Pasture over to the barn merely a red speck over toward the Old Pasture, he was not so sure as he had been that Reddy was to blame for the loss of that plump hen. So, as soon as Reddy was out of sight, Farmer Brown's Boy began reading the signs that were left in the snow.

First he went back to follow the footprints of the hens. He saw where three hens had come down from the henyard toward the back of the barn. He saw where two of those three had run at top speed back again. He saw where the other had been struck down. Feathers still lay there in the snow. Very carefully Farmer Brown's Boy studied that spot. First he looked for the footprints of Reddy Fox. The nearest footprints were several feet from that spot. He could see where Reddy had crouched in the snow; but the snow also showed that Reddy had not jumped.

Then Farmer Brown's Boy very carefully studied the snow right around those telltale feathers. Almost at once he saw a peculiar mark in the snow, as if it had been brushed with something. "Ha, ha!" said Farmer Brown's Boy, "a big wing touched the snow right there. That chicken was taken by a hawk or an owl, and my guess is that it was a hawk. Hoots, the Owl would not be over here at this hour of the day. I do believe that Terror the Goshawk has come back from 'way up North. If that is the case, I shall have to get out my gun. I cannot have him stealing my chickens. Now I'll look around a bit more and see all that happened."

So Farmer Brown's Boy looked around a bit more and this time he looked with understanding eyes. He saw the line of fox footprints coming from the Old Pasture over to the barn. He saw the print of Reddy's body in the snow, where Reddy had flattened himself behind the corner of the barn. He saw the footprints leading back under the barn. When he had seen all these things Farmer Brown's Boy closed his eyes and in his mind was a picture of all that had happened.

"Reddy didn't steal that chicken," said he, "but he meant to. He came over here and discovered that the hens were out of the henyard. He lay down back of the corner of the barn and watched. He saw three of those silly hens come right down toward him. Just as one was near enough and he was all ready to jump Terror the Goshawk swooped down and took that hen right from under Reddy's nose. The other hens ran and squawked and Reddy heard me coming, so he ran under the barn. There's the whole story."

And there was the whole story, as you and I know. It was all written in the snow, and Farmer Brown's Boy had eyes to see. Ever so many stories are written in the snow for those with understanding eyes. It is great fun to go out in winter and try to find these stories in the snow.

The New Idea of Cancer

Many Cases Can Be Cured If Reported Promptly

BULLETIN No. 11.
CANCER CLINICS.

When a person suspects that he or she has cancer the thing to do is to apply immediately to a competent physician or to a clinic for diagnosis and advice. If he has a good family physician, that is the person to go to. If he wants to find a good physician, he should select one who stands well among his fellows, one who occupies a responsible position in a hospital, one who is recommended by some other good doctor.

Clinics are of two kinds: Temporary clinics, which are established for a few days for the purpose of affording free examination at times when cancer weeks, health days or other brief periods of intensive educational activities are being conducted, and permanent clincs, which are usually connected with general hospitals.

In a well conducted clinic, either temporarily or permanently established, the patient is given the best of scientific attention. In such places facilities exist for diagnosis that are far beyond the usual resources of private physicians. Futhermore, in clinics there is generally a group of physicians who are specialists in treating the various parts of the body where cancer occurs. Thus, cancer of the tongue is attended to by a man who possesses special knowledge and skill in oral surgery. And so with cancer of the breast and cancer in other locations. It is to be noted that the skillful surgeon who treats the cancer is one who is especially familiar with the part of the body in which the cancer occurs.

Cancer specialists, that is, persons who treat cancer no matter in what location it occurs, are not at all common among persons of high standing in the medical profession. A person who advertises himself as a cancer specialist is usually a charlatan and without any standing among reputable physicians.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 9.—Sabino Nardone, a mason, 167 High street, and Joseph Copabbo, a laborer, of 33 Pearl street, barely escaped being crushed to death this morning about 11 o'clock, when tons of loosened brick and cement fell into the basement excavation for the new business block being erected on the property of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Chester, Railroad avenue. A wooden barn formerly on the site and occupied as a storage garage by Carl V. Brucker had been torn down and carried away. At the rear was a stone retaining wall against the property of the Alba Inn owned by Peter A. DeRocco. The first building operation undertaken was the construction of a brick wall the entire distance across the rear of the property and this had been completed to a height of about twenty feet for a distance of sixty feet, between the adoining brick buildings. The foundation excavation was several feet from the rear wall and a thick cement wall had been built, under which the two workmen were engaged. Filling material had been carted to the rear to fill in the space between the stone retaining wall and the newly constructed brick one.

Michael A. Ferndo, driver of a truck, had dumped a load at the rear when he noticed a cave in the ground and going to the end of the wall saw a widening crack. He shouted a warning to the men below, just in time for them to get clear. With a roar, the brick fell and smashed the thick cement wall below. Building Inspector Thomas Willis, who saw the fallen wall, stated that the heavy rain, followed by severe freezing weather, had caused the brick wall to buckle and cave.

FLYNN-PALADINO CASE IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 9.—In the superior court today, Judge Charles A. Walsh called the case of M. Walter Flynn, trustee, vs. Biagio Paladino, alias. This was an action brought by M. Walter Flynn, attorney of Westerly and Providence, who was appointed by the United States Court trustee for Alexander Thompson, a Bradford builders and contractor, involved in financial difficulties in 1925. Previously a contract had been entered into by Thompson to build a house $3,985 for Paladino. At the time of the financial difficulties the house was nearly completed an action was brought by Trustee Flynn to recover on balance due and for extras furnished.

The jury chosen comprised James L. Clarke, Westerly; Frank J. Hazeter, Narragansett; John T. Riley, South Kingston; Harry J. Leon, Westerly; Joseph Fulford, Exeter; Albert L. Castritius, Westerly; Thomas P. Patton, Westerly; Howard E. Holberton, Hopkinton; Joseph F. Matthews, Westerly; Edward A. Gordon, Hopkinton; Halsey C. Kenyon, Richmond; James P. Campbell, Westerly. Harry J. Leon and Albert L. Castritius, both of Westerly, were challenged and excused and Henry R. Barber, South Kingston, Adelbert C. M. Slocum, of Exeter, were added. Joseph Fulford, of Exeter, was named foreman.

The jury members were taken to Bradford road, the site of the house. Judge Walsh excused the spare jurors to report at 2 p. m. At the afternoon session the case of Flynn, trustee, vs. Paladino, was entered as settled.

A jury was impanelled with Joseph Fulford, foreman, to hear the action at law, William A. Burke vs. Elizabeth Ostman, et al.

Judge Oliver H. Williams tried two cases in the Friday morning session of the Third District court. Robert F. Richmond, of Pawcatuck who was summoned to court by Police Officer Michael Curtin December 6th was presented for violation of a town ordinance. Chief Brown complained that Richmond failed to stop when approaching a red light traffic beacon Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock as he came across Pawcatuck river bridge in a Ford sedan.

Richmond pleaded guilty to a technical violation at first, saying the signal light was high and that as a stranger he was not familiar with streets and beacons. Chief Brown told the court that as a result of passing the light his automobile struck the Chrysler sedan driven up Main street by Oliver P. Morgan, of Mountain avenue, Westerly, slight damage being done. Judge Williams said there was nothing malicious about the infraction of the ordinance, but he found Richmond guilty and fined him $3 and costs.

William Minchen, Jr., 30, truck driver for the Minchen Bakery, was charged with passing a red beacon light at the junction of Elm and School streets November 27th. Through his attorney, C. E. Roche, he entered a plea of not guilty. Charles Button, of the Union Taxi Service, testified that with a passenger he was proceeding down Elm street in a Cadillac auto with the light ahead of him burning green. When he saw the Ford machine crossing Elm to go up School street he put on his brakes, the car swinging around so that the spare tire on the rear struck the Ford auto. Under cross-examination he stated that his car was just a little to the east and almost under the traffic signal, he having been proceeding at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, about 2 p. m. Joseph Lupinazzo testified to coming down School street and seeing the traffic light burning red, as also did Arthur Scott who followed him in another auto. The defendant, William Minchen, testified that the light was burning green when he crossed the Elm street intersection, as also did his brother, Carl Minchen, who accompanied him in his delivery wagon. Mrs. Frank A. Sullivan, who resides on Elm street, near the intersection, told the court that she was seated at her Sunday dinner table and hearing the crash remarked, "there is another accident on the corner!" She went to the window and stated that the light on the up School street side of the beacon was burning green. Judge Williams found the defendant guilty and fined him $3 and costs. Through his attorney, notice of an appeal to the superior court was taken.

Other court business was disposed of as follows: New writs entered during the call of the docket—Charles Rossi vs. Andrew Sullivan. Criminal docket—State Thomas E. Brown vs. Harry Stewart. Continued two weeks State Thomas E. Brown vs. William Sorrenson, reckless operation of an automobile, charged in which a boy was injured. Continued two weeks; vs. Demitrio Servidio alleged assault with a dangerous weapon, a knife. Continued one week.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk:

Dec. 7. Theodore I. Driggs, of Waterbury, to William S. Moorehouse, of Pittsburgh, Pa., land located on Fort road, Napatree Point, Watch Hill, with two and a half story frame cottage.

Dec. 8. John F. Maxson to Ruth M. Parker, land with buildings and improvements on the southeast side of Woody Hill, in District No. 6.

Dec. 9. Laura Carney to Mabel Carney, land approximately an acre on the west side of Franklin street with buildings and improvements bounded northerly and westerly by lands of Michael Dobridnia.

Sarah Weeks in her 75th year, wife of Harry Weeks and known in Westerly, died Wednesday at her home, 87 Althea street, Providence.

Many Westerly people Thursday evening about 8 o'clock observed an extra large and brilliant meteor in the northern sky. In spite of the full moon the shooting star became brighter in its downward path but fainter as it reached the horizon.

Following the decision of Westerly town council to have the breaks in the dike along the Pawcatuck river in Varietyville repaired, two gaps have been filled. Highway Engineer A. L. Leon and Councilman Joseph Fasler have been a committee on this work to prevent destruction in Stillmanville on the next high water in the Pawcatuck river above the Stillmanville dam.

For the annual Christmas donation by the people's mission, an appeal has been made for public support by the mission superintendent, Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Alexander Smith declared that second hand toys are also desired. Each year the mission workers renovate such toys and distribute them to poor children who would otherwise go without gifts at Christmas time. The mission expects to send out about 50 Christmas dinners to needy families this year. Contributions of groceries and provisions are being received.

Quite a change has been experienced in the past few days from the mild fall weather of last week to mid-winter like weather Monday. That morning everything outdoors was covered with a coating of ice from the sleet storm of Sunday afternoon and night, which was accompanied by a driving wind, which sounded very much like winter.

Miss Lena Saunders who has been ill with a severe cold, is somewhat improved.

Leslie B. Kenyon entertained Monday evening a radio party, among whom were Mrs. Ida Irish and the family of Carlton Irish.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the stockholders of the First National bank, now out of existence, held a special meeting for the purpose of acting on a proposal to reduce the capital stock from $600,000 to $500,000. A committee was appointed to examine the assets of the bank and report back at the bank's annual meeting the following January. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of December, 1877, follow:

Monday, Dec. 3, 1877—The executive committee of the United Workers invite all the ladies in Norwich, interested in the labors of the association in its various branches, to meet at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., Hall block, on Tuesday, December 4th at 3 o'clock p. m. Reports will be read from the various departments.

Mr. Charles Geer, clerk of the steamer City of Lawrence, has been transferred to a similar position on the steamer City of Norwich. Mr. William F. Woodward becomes clerk of the Lawrence and Mr. Andrew Wagner takes Woodward's place in the company's office at New London.

Ice was strong enough on some of the small ponds to enable boys to skate upon it. 'Twas dangerous sport, though the ground freezes a little every night now, and is perhaps, "shutting up" for the winter.

The celebrated play of "Guy Mannering" will be produced in Breed hall on the 13th and 14th inst., under the most favorable auspices.

Tuesday, Dec. 4, 1877—The weather boards are going up on the Central wharf bridges and the weather doors have been put in position at the postoffice.

Breed hall was crowded last evening to hear Mrs. Parrington on the subject of temperance.

Mr. Perry Yerrington is to remove to Hartford to go into the manufacture of pistols there.

Our citizens generally will be pained to learn of the death of Mr. Timothy P. Norton, which occurred last evening.

At a meeting of ministers held yesterday, Messrs. S. B. Bishop, U. S. Gardner and A. W. Huntington were appointed a local committee to provide entertainment for the delegates expected at the Union Sunday School institute to be held in the Second Congregational church on the 12th inst.

Wednesday, Dec. 5, 1877—All will be pleased to learn that Mr. Henry S. Gulliver is getting on as well as could possibly be expected under his painful accident. The eye that was seriously inflamed in sympathy with the one injured, is rapidly gaining strength.

The residence of the late Samuel Morgan on Union street has recently been sold to Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, for the sum, as currently reported, of about $6,000.

The following liquor licenses have been granted: William Burke, Edwin Fay, Edward Hazelhurst, Thomas Keep, Lanman and Sevin, Charles Menck, McNamara Bros., John P. Murphy, John A. Morgan, George Whitely, Thomas Burke, Boswell and Huntington and Edward C. Potter.

Florida has not captured our friend, George W. Huntington. He is to remain with Hislop, Porteous and Mitchell.

The boys were skating on the small ponds yesterday, and with mild weather, it was rare sport.

Thursday, Dec. 6, 1877—At the special meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank, held the 5th of December, for the purpose of reducing the capital stock from $600,000 to $500,000 the Hon. E. D. Avery was appointed chairman, and Lewis A. Hyde, secretary. A committee of three, Hezekiah F. Rudd, Charles M. Pendleton, and R. S. Hicks were appointed to examine the assets of the bank and report at the annual meeting in January next. The meeting was adjourned until Wednesday, December 12th at 11.30 a. m.

The entertainment to be given by the Caledonian society on the 13th and 14th inst., consists of the interesting musical drama of Guy Mannering, Highland Fling and Sword Dancing, and the beautiful Scotch drama, Cramond Brig. Sale of reserved seats will open at Davis and Breed's, news dealers on Saturday next.

The rain prolonged the morning session of some of the schools an hour yesterday and led to the abandonment of the afternoon session. The youngsters rather like these extra half holidays.

Friday, Dec. 7, 1877—The Rev. Mr. Lorl, who is laboring as Christian missionary to the Jews in this country, spoke on his chosen work at Park church last evening. He treated particularly of certain beneficient characteristics of that despised people that are generally overlooked. He referred to the fact that they are never found in the almshouse; that they were remarkably free from thieving and similar immoralities and by many other illustrations pleaded for the exercise of a more friendly feeling toward the scattered representatives of a remarkable nation.

The funeral service of the late Timothy P. Norton, at Christ church, yesterday, were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Giesy, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Binney of the Berkeley Divinity school, at Middletown and the Rev. Mr. Seymour of Trinity church.

The Rev. Father Mullen has been ill for several days, owing to severe labors in connection with the Catholic fair, and his numerous other duties. We are happy to learn, however, that he is better and able to attend to his accustomed labors.

Saturday, Dec. 8, 1877—Much is being done to make the New London county Sunday school institute to be held here next Wednesday, a complete success, and there is no reason to doubt that it will be far the most important event of its kind ever held in Norwich. Special circulars have been issued to pastors of the county by the well known Sunday school worker, Mr. W. R. Burnham.

Mrs. Emma Malloy of Indiana, delivered an eloquent lecture on Thursday evening in the M. E. church, Greeneville. She chose as her theme The Woman's Crusade in the West.

At the first of the Park church sociables, for this season, in the chapel, last evening, Col. H. H. Osgood was chosen unanimously to preside over this winter's series; refreshments were served; the choir favored the company with some bright vocal music and a right neighborly visitation was had by all present.

Cold Philosophy

The whistle is a-tootin' and the engine's headed south,
And it makes a kind of droopin' in the corners of my mouth.
I see the people goin' where it's summer all the time,
And I get to feelin' lonesome-like, and sort of left behind.
The snow is pilin' higher and the days are short and dark
And the mercury is hangin' down around the zero mark;
I would pack my duds and light out, too, if 'twa'nt for just one thing:
I must stand New England winter to enjoy New England spring.

It seems an awful time to wait, when snow begins to fly
And you count the days to Christmas as they go a-crawlin' by;
And then you think of Ground Hog Day, when winter'll be half gone,
And when that comes the other half looks more than twice as long;
You think of folks that went away and left the cold behind
And you can't help feelin' jealous 'round the edges of your mind.
But 'twill help your courage out a lot to think of just one thing:
It's the darkest days in winter makes the brightest days in spring.

Of course it's mighty pleasant to be happy every day,
To have things come just like you plan, and always have your way;
But I notice that it's pretty nice, when things are goin' wrong,
To have 'em brighten sudden-like; so, when the nights are long,
It cheers me up a lot to think that while the ground is bare,
The grass is comin' green and birds are singin' everywhere.
I'll say there ain't no place like home, considerin' ev'rything,
And I'll stand a dozen winters for the sake of just one spring.

Willow-Ware

On grandmama's table is waiting for me
A plate with gingerbread piled;
Bread and milk and berries and cream,
And the mug marked "For a good child."

And I eat my supper and wonder where
That beautiful land may be
Where the sky is white and the earth is blue
That on my plate I see.

"Grandmama you know most everything,
Tell the story of it all,
Do the long-tailed birds know how to sing,
Did a princess live in that castle small?

"The princess' hair in a fairy tale
Is generally gold, but this is blue,
How does the boat go without any sail
Tell me the story, grandma, do."

So she tells me the legend, centuries old,
Of the mandarin, rich in lands and gold;
Of Lichi fair and Chang the good,
Who loved each other as lovers should.

How they hid in the gardener's hut awhile,
Then fled away to the beautiful isle,
Though the cruel father pursued them there,
And would have killed the hapless pair,
But a kindly power, by pity stirred,
Changed each into a beautiful bird.

Grandmama put her spectacles on,
And showed me on the plate
The mandarin's house, the island home;
The boat, the bridge, the gate,
"Here is the orange tree, where they talked,
Here they are running away;
And over all, at the top, you see
The birds making love alway."

And the odd little figures seem to live,
Strange fancies fill my head.
Till grandma tells me, much too soon,
"It's time to go to bed."

But I dream of a land all blue and white,
I see the lovers take their flight.
Over the arching bridge they go.
One of the lover birds flies below.
From the little house with the turned-up edges
Come little lords and ladies and pages,
And the bedpost turns to a willow tree,
And at last I seem myself to be
An azure lassie, wandering through
That beautiful, queer little land of blue.

A Christmas Prayer

Last night I listened to the prayer
A little girl was praying—
I, quite unnoticed, standing there,
Could hear what she was saying!

"O God," she whispered, "Christmas Day
Is coming * * Pretty soon I may
Hang up my stockin' and a tree
Will just be loaded down for me
I know that I'll be glad an' gay,
On Christmas Day—on Christmas Day!"

"But, God," her childish voice was grave,
"I wonder if you couldn't save
Some of the presents folks have planned
To give to me * * You understand,
So that some children who won't get
A lot of gifts—"(my eyes were wet!)
"Will have nice things. I'd like to know
That others would be happy, so
I'm asking you to have it done—
You see you gave your only son.

I'd like myself, to give away
Something I love on Christmas Day!"
Last night I listened to the prayer,
A little girl was saying—
And in my heart there grew a light,
An echo of her praying.

—Margaret Sangster.

A CHRISTMAS MENU AND HOW TO COOK DISHES.

Dear Sisters: I have arranged this Christmas menu which I hope may contain some suggestions for your Christmas dinners:

Fruit Cocktail: One-half grapefruit for each portion; take out pulp, remove seeds and pith. Add for every four grapefruits (8 portions) the pulp of one orange and ten dozen grapes with the skins removed. Put fruit in a mold which has a close cover. Sprinkle with lemon juice, one lemon to four grapefruits, powdered sugar and a sprinkle of cayenne and paprika. Put molds in refrigerator or a cold place until ready to serve. Keep grapefruit cups in cold water; when ready to serve drain and dry; fill with the ice cold fruit and put in a small portion of the juice beating before adding to the fruit.

Pork Roast With Dressing: Place the roast in a skillet with plenty of its own fat; sear it over on all sides, turning often to prevent burning. (This keeps the juice in.) Place in roaster and bake three hours for six pounds. When it has baked 20 to 30 minutes put in the dressing. Soak two quarts of bread crumbs stock made from a piece of the pork. Mix in one teaspoonful of baking powder and one egg. Season with sage, salt, pepper and onion. Form into a roll and bake with the roast until nicely browned.

Apple Prune Sauce: Core and peel tart apples; put in baking pan, no water, cover and bake, occasionally stirring until they are soft enough to mash. Put a cup of cooked prunes through a sieve, add two cups of hot apple sauce, beating in one-half cup of sugar and three-quarters teaspoon of cinnamon. Serve cold with pork.

Pickled Carrot Sticks: Good sized carrots scraped and cut into sticks not quite three-quarters of an inch square on the ends and long enough to fit nicely in a fruit jar. Boil until tender and pack snugly into the can. Have ready some boiled sinegar salted and peppered to taste, pour over the carrots. Fill the can to the brim and seal at once. In about two weeks they can be used, so if you wish them for New Year's dinner you are obliged to fix them ahead of time.

Sea Island: Prepare the necessary amount of potatoes that is fluffy; beat the white of an egg and beat this into your potato with one teaspoon of baking powder. Make a hollow in the center and pour in one can of green peas. This serves eight.

Glaced Sweet Potatoes: Pare seven cold boiled sweet potatoes and cut into lengthwise strips. Dust with a mixture of salt and pepper. Melt together about three tablespoons of butter and three tablespoons of brown sugar. Dip the half of potato in this and arrange in a baking pan. Bake until they are a rich brown.

Creamed Celery: Clean outside stalks and white leaves of a head of celery, cut in small pieces and cook until tender in three cups of water. Scald a slice of onion in two cups of milk in a double boiler. Rub celery when soft through a sieve. Blend three tablespoons of butter with three tablespoons of butter, cook for a few minutes until well blended; gradually add the milk and the strained celery. Season with celery salt and pepper.

Cocoanut Corn Bread: One cup corn meal. Two cups flour. Three tablespoons of sugar. One teaspoon salt. Four tablespoons of baking powder, sifted three times. Add four tablespoons of cream, two eggs well beaten, one-half cup cocoanut put through chopper. Mix all together and add one and one-half to two cups milk. Bake 30 minutes.

Cranberry Sauce: Boil one quart cranberries, one pound of sugar and sufficient cold water to cover berries until like jelly. Serve when cold with a few chopped nuts sprinkled over top of jelly.

Mashed Turnips: Pare several small turnips and cut in slices. Boil until tender in slightly salted water, mash, then add a little salt, pepper, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon sugar, one Irish potato. Serve piled high in a dish.

Scalloped Pumpkin: Boil three cups diced pumpkin until tender. Then arrange in a dish alternately with bread crumbs. Beat an egg, pour over all sufficient milk, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dots of butter here and there. The top layer should be bread crumbs. Bake slowly until slightly browned.

Hollywood Cake: Yolks of three eggs and one cup of powdered sugar beaten until light and lemon color, then sift in one cup flour with two teaspoons of baking powder; flavor with almond and fold in the stiffy beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in layer tins about 12 minutes, then put together with a filling made of two cups whipped cream into which has been added one-half cup chopped nut meats (preferably almonds). Omit nuts if you wish.

Mock Cherry Pie: (This is a real treat). One-half cup raisins, one cup sugar, one-half cup water, one tablespoon flour, pinch salt. One cup cranberries chopped coarsely, add these to the raisins seeded cut into pieces; add also the water, flour and salt. Line a deep pie plate with pastry, turn the filling into this; cover with an upper crust, press edges close together. Bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. This pie may be flavored with almond or vanilla.

Vanilla Ice Cream: The foundation in this rule is suitable for any ice cream. One generous pint milk, one cup sugar (scant), two eggs, one quart cream, one tablespoon of vanilla, and when the cream is added, another cup of sugar. Let the milk come to a boil. Beat the first cup of sugar, the flour and eggs together. Stir in the boiling milk. Cook 25 minutes, stirring often. Set away to cool, and when cool add the sugar, seasoning and cream. Freeze.

Queen Pudding: One pint bread crumbs, one quart milk, one cup sugar, pinch salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, piece of butter size of an egg, yolks of four eggs and juice of one lemon. Reserve the grated lemon rind for frosting. Cook pudding in moderate oven until it looks like custard and then remove. Beat the whites of the four eggs to a stiff meringue, add four tablespoons of sugar and the lemon rind. Cover the pudding with this with pieces of jelly. Return to oven and brown slightly.

Walnut Cone Creams: These are especially a treat for young people and are delicious served with hot chocolate.

Thoroughly beat two eggs and add gradually one cup light brown sugar, while you continue beating; then add three tablespoons of sifted flour to which has been added one-quarter teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Add one cup of English walnut meats which have been broken into small pieces. Drop this mixture from a teaspoon on a buttered pan, having the cakes about two inches apart. As soon as they are baked, loosen them carefully from the pan and roll them into cones; when cold fill each one with whipped cream or ice cream and decorate each with a candied cherry.

Rolls: Two cups of flour, two cups of milk, two yeast cakes, three tablespoons of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one teaspoon of salt. Put butter, salt and sugar in pan; scald milk; pour on it. Let cool and then stir in flour. I make mine with butter; I think they are nicer. Let them rise two hours, then mold them over. Shape them and let rise two hours. This makes 24. You can make them in separate bakings. I make the bread the same way, only a little stiffer.

Coffee: One egg, five tablespoons of coffee. Mix egg in coffee, then add in 2 1-2 cups of cold water. Boil five minutes, then add to five cups of boiling water; let boil up, add a pinch of salt, one-half cup cold water; pour off and serve with one teaspoon of condensed milk and one tablespoon of cream.

Tea: One teaspoon to one cup (one-quarter teaspoon of sugar to open the leaves). Pour boiling water on. Let steep three minutes, but do not let it boil.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Dear Cornerites: Make a cunning little kitty cat from an old inner tube. Cut tail and whiskers separately and set between the back and front sections of the body, when they are overcast together. Make whiskers of thin strips of the rubber. Before sewing sides together sew on two green buttons for eyes, paint nose and mouth. Do not stuff the body too full. This will stand any number of washings, and it is all right if baby tries to chew it.

Hairpin holder—Take a five cent scrub brush use a 4 1-2 or 5-inch colored ribbon, leaving as much on each end as is on sides. Place brush, bristle side up on ribbon, pleat up, leaving enough at top of ribbon to make a small ruffle, finish with gold braid and a rosette of baby ribbon at each end. The hair pins are stuck in the bristles.

An Underarm Purse—Put the hat to soak in a pail of water (hot) until the felt is wet thoroughly through, now pull and stretch and flatten it. Next, clean with a stiff brush, then soak again in clear water to remove the soap, etc., then hang out and let it dry thoroughly. Cut a slash in the hat to make it thoroughly flat. Now cut one oval, 12 inches long, 9 1-2 inches at the middle (sides straight), two half-ovals one five and one half inches deep and nine and one quarter inches across, the other four and one half inches deep and three inches across. On the long oval, embroider fish in bright colors varying in the shading. When the embroidery is finished line the reverse side with black satin. To the half oval sew the smaller one to form the holder for a pocket mirror. Now join the pieces to the large oval.

Next place the lined side of the oval and the half oval together and stitch them on the machine. To cover up the machine stitching first run a darning stitch around the purse (using black) then fill in the space with orange. For a fastener get the automobile upholsterer to put in a snapper.

Inexpensive Tree Decorations—Take tin-foil and with the skewers from meat, twist and make it look like an icicle. Cover nuts with tinfoil—you can bronze them—also matches with the tinfoil wound around them. They look like small icicles.

Glorified Waste Basket—Get a tin waste basket cut from crepe paper napkins bright leaves (autumn) and with a mixture of 2-3 paste and 1-3 glue paste the leaves around the top for the border. Then shellac basket, designs and all with white shellac and give it a second coat when the first is dry. That makes a pretty useful and inexpensive gift.

A very pretty and useful also helpful gift to a "shut-in" is to send one dozen Christmas cards all stamped ready to send out.

WORDS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters:

"Oh never say a heedless word."
* * * * * * *
"The heart-pang that it stirred."

In an old-time reading book was a poem of which these words were a part. Careless, heedless words often do great harm.

A noted physician once made a heedless remark that shocked all who heard of it.

If his theory were carried out there would be few Social Corner Sisters living today. There are many words that better not be said, but the most unkind word is "slacker". It came into general use when the world was full of hatred and all uncharitableness, when everyone criticized another, if opinions differed, and shouted "slacker." It is a word that should be forgotten. Another unkind word is immigrant.

To stand at the wharf and see these people come off from the boat, see the anxiety on their faces, see the meeting between a son who came to American first and sent home for his parents or sweetheart is interesting. Many of them are alone in a strange land. God said: "the stranger within thy gates." The immigrant is a stranger within the gates of America, hoping to improve his condition in life or find a place where he can be useful.

The International Sunshine society has a good test. When anything is to be done or said stop and ask: "Is it sunshine?" If it does not measure up to the standard of sunshine, or good cheer, do not do it, do not say it.

Learn the sunshine words and forget the words of shadows.

"Oh never say a heedless word."

Best wishes to each.

SPENDING THE PRIZE CHECK.

Dear Social Corner Members: I want to thank the editor for my yellow slip. It was indeed a pleasant surprise and I will tell you all what I am going to do with it. I am planning to have my three bedrooms, one pink, one blue and one yellow, so I am going to buy something in one of these colors to use in one of those rooms.

Connie: Did you carry out the color scheme too?

Joan: No, the house is not finished and I have three men in the family all the time and for over two months had four. No fun, is it?

Tafts: Thanks for your card of congratulations.

Just-a-Nut and Truda are the hostesses at our meeting on next Tuesday the 13th, and are looking for loyal support by having a good attendance, both of our own members and those from other clubs. The meeting is to be held this month in the hall over the Mohican store on Broad street, Westerly. Don't forget your dishes and some kind of food. Look for the yellow bow.

Just-a-Nut: I have the table cloths and will see that you get them in time.

MAKING USE OF AN OPPORTUNITY

Dear Social Corner Friends: Among the poems on the Corner page recently was a short one from the pen of one of our most gifted members. I want to repeat it here and discuss it a bit if I may.

The Living Song

He knew the thought the poets sing,
In him the hero heart beat high;
For him the far horizon-ring
Was but a step toward the sky.

Each singing bird a message brought
From summer's shyest, rarest hours;
Within each flower he saw the thought
Which shaped a million world's like ours.

Yet from his youth the daily needs
Of those he loved, filled hands and heart;
By night, he mused on noble deeds—
By day, he sought he toilers mark.

Yet say not the soul denied
Expression, paths ignoble trod;
His hopes and longings crucified
Made up a way that led to God.

The thought so beautifully expressed in these lines is a wonderful and very helpful one. It is, I think, similiar to that of Gray in his immortal elegy written in a country church yard. May I quote a little from this:

Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands that the rod of empire might have swayed
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.

But knowledge to their eyes her ample page
Rich with the spoils of time, did ne'er unroll;
Chill penury repressed their noble rage
And froze the genial current of the soul.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The lark unfathomed cares of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

Few of us have the rare gift of expressing our thoughts in beautiful poetic language like this but many of us recognize and appreciate the truth that is embodied in these verses. Some take exception to the word "waste" in that line of the elegy which reads

And waste its sweetness on the desert air, maintaining that though there is no one to appreciate the sweetness yet it is not really wasted. In Longfellow's story of the Acadians, we find the same sentiment in these words spoken by Father Felician to Evangeline

"Talk not of wasted affection, affection was never wasted;
If it enrich not the heart of another,
its waters returning
Back to their springs, like the rain, shall fill them full of refreshment;
That which the fountain sends forth returns again to the fountain."

This is a very comforting thought It seems to me. Getting ready for the next step upward is a wonderful motto and it pays always spiritually if not at once in a material way. Let us see. A prize is offered for an essay, for instance. Many compete. Only one can win the tangible prize—the prize which can be seen and handled. But hasn't every competitor really been a winner—a gainer? Most certainly he has for "'Tis the struggle that's worth while, Not the prize."

Most of us have some opportunities, few of us make the best of those we have and still fewer make opportunities for themselves. When, some years ago, a thoughtful editor of The Bulletin gave the public, especially the women, a Social Corner page it seemed to me that a wonderful opportunity came to each of us and it is still coming every week. We shall never fully realize what that page means to us unless it ceases to be. All that it may mean in helpfulness depends on what use we make of it. Bacon said: "Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man and writing an exact man." Were there truer words ever spoken? Writing to the Corner is very helpful as only by writing can we learn to write well. Our letters are thus helps to ourselves as well as to others, thereby serving a double purpose. Let us by improving the present opportunities be in line for promotion, ready for the next step upward and profiting by the example of those who instead of bewailing their lot have learned to turn their crosses into crowns. With friendly greetings to you all.

JACK-IN-THE-PULPIT.

A PLEA FOR THE LIFE OF OUR TREES.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: It always seems to me to be a pity that so many of our lovely trees are sacrificed at this time of the year. Trees that took 50 years or more to grow are cut down and used once and then discarded, thrown on dumps, etc. Better by far, to cut them up and use them, after the holiday festivities are over. Better still is the fashion to do without a tree, and thereby save a nesting place for our birds. Children are allowed to go forth with an ax and cut down any number of small trees, leaving them when they imagine they have found a better tree. Mothers teach your children the value of trees. Remember our friends, the birds, during this winter. Scatter a few seeds, oats and crumbs now and then, to help our feathered creatures.

Oh, little green tree, that stood on the heights,
And looked up to the sun,
My heart just bleeds for you tonight,
To see what man has done.

For one brief hour you stood in pride
The dazzling light around;
But now, with life and beauty gone,
You're cast upon the ground.

I wish that we might take our gifts,
And pass from hand to hand.
We thus could save a million trees
That grow in our dear land.

And some little bird, when it flies back
Its sheltered nest to see,
I know, will thank the kindly hands,
That spared to it, its tree.

Best glad greetings to all.

GREETINGS FROM NATURAL

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters:—In looking over the Social Corner page recently I find it has many that the name slacker does not hit, but as for myself it no doubt may be proper to call myself one. With poor health and many other obligations to take my time and finding the page well filled I had not been missed. I had to miss three picnics in one week last September, several rides and several meetings of organizations I am a member of and the Social Corner meetings also.

It so happened that the October meeting was same time as the Baptist convention in Hartford, so I went to the convention. The November meeting I had hoped to attend but at the last minute other duties took me to another place. I enjoy reading about all your good times at the clubs and it seems every subject has been covered in the Corner page and then the next issue has many new and helpful ideas.

Am sorry I cannot arrange another meeting here right away. Next week is my turn to take charge of the D. A. R. meeting, consequently could not take on any more duties for this month. The county farm bureau through the home demonstration agent, Mrs. Robinson has commenced meetings here the same as she has in other places and I am wondering if Sumac has attended and made a new hat.

One meeting I attended in October I enjoyed very much and that is the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America held at Lighthouse inn where we had a luncheon and I had the pleasure of meeting some of my old friends in the D. A. R. from Bridgeport and sat side of a past regent and asked her many questions about many I had known there. It is a pleasure to have an opportunity to attend a meeting of a society you have been a member of 20 years and not been to one of the meetings in five years, for they are not held often in the eastern part of the state. They meet three times a year, have good speakers and prominent musicians on the programme and are doing patriotic work.

Sorry to hear Nancy Peck has been sick in bed more than two weeks. Eben Shirley is caring for her. Extend my sympathy to Dorothy Bradford in the loss of her brother.

E. L. M.: Thank you for card. Best wishes to all the sisters.

RECEIPTS BY TAFTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members:—Here is a very nice fruit-cake recipe. I made it on Thanksgiving. Our folks are very fond of it.

Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake—2 cups hot water, 2 tablespoons lard, two cups brown sugar, 2 cups small raisins, two ounces citrin chopped fine, 1 1-2 cups of chopped figs. Boil all together for 6 minutes. When cold, stir in 4 cups sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, little salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves and two tablespoons more of flour, if you use pastry. Beat well. Bake in moderate oven in bread loaf tins. Very good with thin white frosting, rather I mean to frost lightly as I don't like a lot of frosting in fruit-cake.

Always made fruit-cake with 10 eggs, but this time could not. Had always had a plenty of eggs down cellar in water glass but this year I have none, so have to use less. Here is a radio cake which is very good and quickly made.

Radio Cake:—Put in sifter 1 1-2 cups flour pastry, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream tartar. Sift these all together. Melt 1-4 cup butter, break one egg in this, fill cup brimming over with milk over dry ingredients. Mix well, beat 2 minutes, flavor to suit taste. When done frost with fudge frosting with nut meats on top.

Mock Chicken on Toast:—Chop fine some cold lean roast pork. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, little sage, add a little hot water, heat thoroughly, serve on buttered toast with baked beans and chili sauce.

Did I ever send in my recipe for baked beans? Don't think I did and as I don't think anyone else bakes them like mine, as we did like them sweetened, here goes.

Baked Beans:—Put two cups California pea beans to soak over night. In morning drain through colander, wash well, return to kettle, add boiling water, put in oven and cover. Cook until 9 or 10 o'clock. Slice 6 or 7 or 10 o'clock. Then slice 6 or 7 slices of salt pork, place over top of beans, add more water and bake. Keep water in, turn pork and do other side. When crisp remove pork, cover and let stand in oven moderate until supper time which is about 5 at our house, when they will be brown as a berry and taste so good.

DISTRIBUTING CHEER

Dear Social Corner Friends: Just now so many people are busy getting the Christmas presents and gifts ready to have them sent off to their loved ones. But I hope they won't forget the sick ones and the poor little girls and boys that look for Christmas too in our city. The children are so happy with some small gifts. I know I was when a child. We used to hang up our stocking and in the morning come down and eat breakfast, then play with our little presents. They were few but enough to please us.

I went to see my dear sick friend two weeks ago and took her the lovely plant that I had in my mind and she was so pleased with it, which made me very happy too. It was the Social Corner prize. How little it takes to cheer up the sick if we would only go in to see them and cheer them up. How glad you feel afterwards.

Was so sorry to see Aurelia is sick. I have sent her a few lines of sympathy and hope she is better now. Here are a few words I have read about "Ifs." Rev. Alan Hudson, pastor of the First Congregational church of Brockton, Mass., prepared a list of seven "ifs," based upon the presumption that humanity is too often subject to discouragement. Included in the list is a cure for the "blues" and a panacea for an empty pocketbook. The "ifs" were published Sunday in the church calendar and are as follows:

"If you have the blues read the 27th Psalm.

"If your pocketbook is empty read the 37th Psalm.

"If people seem unkind to you read the 15th chapter of St. John.

"If you are discouraged about your work read the 126th Psalm.

"If you are all out of sorts read the 12th chapter of Hebrews.

"If you are losing confidence in men, read the 13th chapter of I. Cor.

"If you cannot have your own way in everything, read the third chapter of St. James."

EXPRESSION OF GRATITUDE

Dear Members of the Social Corner:—I am not a member of your Social Corner, but I want to express our gratitude to all who were so kind—in deeds and words—at the time our mother was taken from us.

She was a loyal member—and enjoyed the letters a great deal.

Friends are such a comfort—but there are no words to fully express our feelings.

Thank you, Anne Tenna for your nice note. Will be happy to see you back in the spring.

And so—
We cannot think of her idle,
She must be a home maker still,
God giveth that work to the angels
Who fittest the task fulfil.
And somewhere yet in the hilltops
Of the country that hath no pain
She will watch in her beautiful doorway
To bid us a welcome again.

Very sincerely
"LYDIA'S DAUGHTER"

TAKES ANOTHER'S NAME

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have a number of friends that belong to the Social Corner and would like to become a member of the Corner and of Club No. 4, and take as my pen name

EGGLESS, MILKLESS, BUTTERLESS CAKE

Dear Editor and Folks: It is interesting to read the letters about places of interest in New England. Am wondering how many of you have seen or read of the lake in County Sligo, Ireland, said to be bottomless. A professor happened to be in that part of Ireland last summer and started out one day for a ramble among the mountains accompanied by a native guide. As they climbed, Pat asked him if he would like to see this lake, "for it's no bottom at all, sorr."

"But how do you know that, Pat?" asked the professor. "Well, sorr, I'll tell ye; me own cousin was showin' the pond to a gentleman one day, sorr, who looked incredulous like, just as you do, and me cousin couldn't understand it for him to doubt his word, sorr, and so he said, 'Begorra, I'll prove the truth of me words,' and off with his clothes and in he jumped."

The professor's face wore an amazed and quizzical expression.

"Yes, sorr, in he jumped, and didn't come up again, at all, at all."

"But," said the professor, "I don't see that your cousin proved his point by recklessly drowning himself."

"Sure, sorr, it wasn't drowned at all he was." The next day comes a cable from him in Australia askin' to send on his clothes.

Eggless, milkless, butterless cake: Two cups brown sugar, 2 cups hot water, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 package seedless raisns, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 3 cups bread flour, 6 teaspoons soda. Method: Boil together the sugar, water, lard, salt, raisins and spices for 5 minutes. When cold add the flour and soda dissolved in teaspoon hot water. Bake in a slow oven 45 minutes. Two loaves.

Try a bean pot roast for a change. Three or 4 pounds round steak or stew meat beef. Cut into small pieces, place a layer in bottom of bean pot or baking dish, then salt, pepper and sprinkle flour; then another layer of meat and repeat. Cover with water and bake 3 hours. Chicken is good baked this way.

Sausage baked with cream potatoes is hearty. Chop fine 4 or more cold potatoes, season slightly with salt and place in baking dish. Pour over milk or cream until nearly covered. Prick casings of 1 pound sausage, lower them in a frying basket into deep, hot lard, then remove and dispose and place over potatoes. Bake 20 minutes.

A young man asked a country squire what the letters R. S. V. P. meant at the foot of an invitation? The 'squire, with a little chuckle, answered: They mean, rush in, shake hands, victual up, and put. Nuf sed.

HOME MAKING.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Married or unmarried, old-fashioned or new fangled, domestic or followers of a career, it is all one—women do not truly express the best that there is in them unless they are in a home setting. I do not believe women are every truly happy unless they do create this home feeling or atmosphere around them—and as Mrs. Frederick expresses it—we want to realize this spirit mostly at Christmas time because for ages, Christmas has expressed the flood tide of the truest home spirit, everything which is meant by good will, good cheer hospitality and love.

Home making is as much and as inseparable a part of woman as child birth. The home is a primary individual and national necessity. It is the thing in which all the factories and the offices, and the governments exist. But as home makers we are now faced with many changing conditions, with the greater demands and scarcity of domestic help, with higher living costs, with rising appearance standards. How can the home survive against these odds? Do not all of us need to accept the Christmas spirit of simplification, not by giving up the important things, but by being less showy and more sincere with our externals? Surely it is a great lesson to recall during this month that Christ was born in a lowly manger, and that His parents had little in the way of material possessions. Cannot we, as home makers, set an example to our young people to simplify home standards without lowering them?

The Christmas spirit must start in with the right attitude of mind—that home making and house work are as important as other occupations and bring equal rewards. There must be no feeling of mere tolerance towards keeping house, or a feeling that the children are burdens. If the home presents problems (and what business or career does not?) then it is woman's great opportunity to set her ability and her training to take hold of these problems with a new spirit, and to solve them for the best advantage of her family and herself. She may employ new tools in her work, apply new knowledge to her preparation of food, practice new education in the bringing up of her children.

The end and aim of home making is not a perfect schedule of work, or a spotless house, or deliciously prepared meals. The aim, the true spirit is in every homemaker must labor is the personal happiness, health and progress of every member of the family, the technique of work, the mechanical tools, are but means to an end never the end in itself—women must love the work. Only when they see the clear star of love, guiding them, no matter how changing or how difficult the way, can we expect to have the home we ought to have. Wives and mothers can be joyous personalities radiating holiday cheer only if all the year they see in them work of home, making the fullest expression of personal and family happiness.

A NEW CHRISTMAS DECORATION.

Dear Editor and Corner People: Having a nice bouquet of bayberries which needed something bright to go with them, I happened to think of cranberries and will tell how I used them.

With green cord I threaded a needle and pushed it through the stem end of a cranberry, tying knots on opposite side to prevent berry slipping off. I fastened these to the ends of bayberry branches, using only one in a place and leaving at least one inch of cord above berry so it dangles prettily. I used plenty of berries and found the effect very pleasing.

They look like little lanterns lighting up the grey berries in Japanese style.

As there were no red alder berries to be found this fall, I originated the above combination.

Someone else may like to try this for a change. It makes a nice table decoration for Christmas.

BUSY AND COOL

Dear Editor and Friends: Well, winter struck us all right. Sunday was a peach bloom of a day, at least I thought so as I was moving. I am now in East Killingly.

Kochia: You ought to have been with me Sunday. I think you would have got cooled off a little. I know I did.

Aries: I have been busy but I will write you as soon as I can. My letter will have to be short and sweet this time.

NEW MEETING PLACE FOR CLUB NO. 6

Dear Social Corner Members: As this is the season for nuts here I am all ready to prove my name on the 13th of December. It is a very busy time but we hope you won't be too busy to attend the next gathering of Club No. 6. The meeting this time will be in the Mechanics hall which is over the Mohican store on Broad street, Westerly. Don't forget your dishes and those who haven't been solicited can bring what ever they like. This morning makes me wish I were with Blandina and her pal. It doesn't seem as though Christmas is almost with us, it has been so mild; but it is just the same and I am very busy getting ready for a sale and supper the Women's Relief Corps is having in the hall where we have always had our meeting. There are so many pretty things one can make if they have the time. Last year I made oil cloth dolls to hold pencils and ruler. Everyone thought they were nice. I made over 50 of them. If anyone would like the directions for making them I would be glad to send them. Wishing you all a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, I am still

JUST A NUT.

GLAD CLUB NO. 2 CHANGED MEETING DAY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Frineds:—Having been reminded several times that they had not heard from me for some time, here I come hoping you all had a very pleasant Thanksgiving, as I had. Now Christmas is near everyone will be busy again. It seems to me many of us make it a task instead of a pleasure. However, we all like to try and make it pleasant for all the dear ones, and perhaps brighten someone's dull life by some little gift even if not expensive—just the kind thought. Necia: Did you get home safe? I am glad that Club No. 2 has changed to the 2nd Tuesday as so many had church doings to attend later in the month. We want to try and suit all. I wanted to go to Westerly to Club No. 6's meeting but did not get there. Hope to sometime.

Wurdy Belle: Didn't we have a nice little chat that afternoon?

U. C. E.: Have you recovered from your auto accident? Ha., Ha.

I. J. B.: Hope to see you again soon.

My sympathy goes to all who are in trouble of any kind.

Welcome to all new members, from

SCOTTIE

NECTICUT AUTO.

Dear Editor and Corner Members: I am not sure that I should still be a member, for I have been an awful slacker about writing letters. I do enjoy reading the page each week and am so glad that every one doesn't feel as I do about writing letters.

I suppose you are all very busy getting ready for Christmas and how fast it is coming, although a great deal of the weather seems more like spring than like Christmas.

I was in New Haven yesterday (Tuesday) and over there they have snow enough for good sleighing while here the ground is bare.

Nonesopretty: I enjoy your letters so much and wish I could write every week, but just can't think of enough of general interest. Was so sorry to hear of your trouble.

Kochia: I was so interested in your letter last week, as you described the first auto I ever saw, that belonging to J. P. Woodruff, of Litchfield. I was living in Litchfield at the time and I shall never forget the day I saw the auto. At that time there was a woman in town who was very dignified and also very dressy but like most people at that time she rode a bicycle. As I was going up the hill she came down on her wheel dressed in pure white, but just before we met the auto went by and she became so interested in that, that she forgot to steer, and over went her bicycle, throwing her in a heap in the dusty road. She was not injured but it must have been a terrible blow to her pride. I have been told that Mr. Woodruff still has the No. 1 license, in fact has always had it.

Cosmos: Was so sorry to miss the North Stonington meeting but it was a case of sickness.

Crimson Rambler: Please don't think you are forgotten, for you surely are not.

Clarinda: Was so sorry to hear of your loss. Hope you are feeling much better than when I last saw you.

With best wishes to all for a very merry Christmas.

SKIPPER.

GETTING EADY FOR CHRISTMAS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I will try and write a short letter if the good old fashioned sun does refuse to shine. I am trying to finish a dainty little apron (made all by hand) for the church Christmas sale but it is too dark and dreary to work when one cannot see what she is doing. Last Friday I listened in to "Cheerio" in the morning and I was alone in the afternoon, so enjoyed myself by listening in to the dedication of tablet by the state of New Mexico (the Sunshine state). President Coolidge was the principal speaker. His address was a most excellent one, in fact, all the speakers were fine and the U. S. marine band never did better. It came in clear and distinct from WJAR and I heard every word.

Mary France: What a wonderful cat you have! I enjoyed reading all about him and his many trips with you. I always used to take my dear old Jetty B with me when I left home for the winter. He loved to ride in a car. I have a poem all about him. Some time I will send you a copy of it if you will send me your correct name and address. Well, I must not write any more for I am using too much space and wishing you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year I will sign off.

POETRY

A Painted Fan

Roses and butterflies smared on a fan,
All that is left of a summer gone by;
Of swift, bright wings that flashed in the sun,
And loveliest blossoms that bloomed to die!

By what subtle spell did you lure them here,
Fixing a beauty that will not change,
Roses whose petals never will fall,
Bright, with swift wings that never will range?

Had you owned but the skill to snare as well
The swift-winged hours that came and went,
To picture the words that in music died,
And fix with a spell the heart's content.

Then had you been of magicians the chief;
And loved and lovers should bless your art,
If you could but have painted the soul of the thing,
Not the rose alone, but the rose's heart!

Flown are those days with their winged delights,
As the odor is gone from the summer rose:
Yet still, whenever I wave my fan,
The soft, south wind of memory blows.
—Louise Chandler Moulton.

Herbs

A serviceable thing
Is fennel, mint or balm,
Kept in the thrifty calm
Of hollows, in the spring;
Or by old houses pent.
Dear is its ancient scent
To folk that love the days forgot,
Nor think that God is not * * *.

Life-everlasting, too,
Windless, poignant, and sere,
That blows in the old year,
Townsmen, for me and you.
Why fret for waiting alms?
Why haste to sell our wares?
Captains and clerks, this shall befall;
This is the end of all.

Oh, this the end indeed!
Oh, unforgotten things,
Gone out of all the springs;
The quest, the dream, the creed!
Gone out of all the lands.
And yet safe in God's hands;—
For shall the dull herbs live again,
And not the sons of men?
—Lizette Woodworth Reese, in "Selected Poems."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Brownleigh has certainly worked himself up, hasn't he?"

"How's that?"

"He used to be a chiropodist; now he's a dentist."—Tit-Bits.

First business man—By the way, my grandson works at your office.

Second man—Yes, I remember he went to your funeral last Wednesday.—Answers, London.

"So you've got a job in the hardware store! I suppose it was partly because you knew the boss?"

"Partly that, and partly because he didn't know me."—Good Hardware.

Hattie—Did you say that your friend married a man to reform him?

Helen—Nothing so old-fashioned. I said she married a reformer to make a man of him.—Boston Transcript.

Crawford—How is it you have to give up your singing and retire from the musical world?

Miss Squaller—The doctor says I've ruined my voice smoking the cigarets I've been recommending.—Life.

They sat silently for a long time; then he spoke a little nervously. "What are you thinking about?" he asked. He knew he had to say something.

She blushed and moved uneasily in her chair. "Never mind," she answered sharply. "It's your business to propose, not mine."—Pathfinder.

Rowing coach—"I had to fire the coxswain of the crew."

Assistant—"Why?"

Rowing coach—"You know the little megaphone he has strapped to his face? Well, while the men were straining at thei oars in the race yesterday he was singing a popular song through it and strumming a banjo-uke!"

Commercial traveler (to proprietor he found playing checkers with friend in back of store): "Do you know there are two customers in the store?"

The dealer kept right on playing, and whispered: "That's all right. Keep quiet and they'll go away again."—Good Hardware.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Perfect teeth are so rare among students at the University of California that an investigation is being made to find out what may be regarded as normally good teeth, as a practical standard for examining dentists.

Two occupants of an automobile that figured in a double accident narrowly escaped death in Middletown, N. Y. The automobile went over an embankment at the side of a railroad bridge, dropped fifty feet to the tracks below and landed right side up. The occupants, entirely unhurt, had just time to get out of the automobile before a train rounded a curve and demolished the car.

When two policemen of Wilmington, Del., heard the crash of falling glass they expected to find an intruder in a fish store there, but when they arrived on the scene they saw nothing but shattered glass and a nine-pound carp lying on the pavement. Ben Weintraut, the owner of the store, explained the mishap by saying that he had taken the carp from a tank and was awaiting the arrival of a rabbi to kill the fish, when the carp, frantic in its struggles to seek water, gave a mighty flap of its tail and broke the window.

Lost in the Caucasian wilderness in the village of Zugdidi, a palace of the former Dadiana princes, one of the oldest and wealthiest Georgian families and related to Napoleon and Alexander I, stands today practically as it stood 100 years ago in the heydey of those powerful rulers. In addition to much rich furniture of the period, some of which is said to have been presented by the French emperor, there is a collection of stone and bronze arms, Greek statuettes and ancient Greek coins, a number of skulls of primitive man, and a Chinese vase of untold value. The contents of the palace have been converted by Caucasian authorities into a museum, but owing to the inaccessibility of the mountain village few except Georgian peasantry ever visit it.

STONINGTON

HISTORIC GAVEL GIFT TO HAVEY POST OF A. L.

There was a large attendance at the joint meeting of James W. Harvey Post, American Legion, and the Woman's auxiliary Wednesday evening in Muller's hall. Plans were perfected for attending the fifth district meeting held in Mystic Friday night as guests of Richard Morgan Post. The post received a gavel which the members highly prize, which was owned by J. F. Trumbull Post, No. 82, G. A. R. of Stonington for 31 years and used at its meetings. This came from Commander Jerome S. Anderson, the only living member of the post. It is a gift of historic value and was made from a piece of wood taken from Libby prison in Civil war days. It is inscribed "Wood from Libby Prison by Charles H. Epps, R. E. Lee Camp, N. 1, C. V., to J. F. Trumbull Post, No. 82, G. A. R." The legion members are proud of this memento of the conflict between the states.

Captain B. C. Chesebro and Lawrence Clay were callers in Bridgeport Wednesday.

Dr. Owen J. Dennehey has returned from a visit of a few days in New York.

Victor S. Johnson will start Sunday for Miami, Florida, to remain till spring. From New York to Savannah, Ga., the trip will be made by machine and the remainder of the journey by boat.

Raoul Delagrange has returned from New York where he attended the convention of Dodge salesmen.

Alexander P. Loper went to New Haven Wednesday to return to Stonington on the new Seagraves pumper of Stonington Fire district.

Mrs. Oscar Pendleton, Mrs. W. F. Broughton, Mrs. Mary P. Hyde and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson attended a meeting of the D. A. R. in Mystic Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dolbey, of Providence, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schepis Wednesday.

Pioneer Hook and Ladder Co. will be guests of the Fishers Island Fire Co. this (Saturday) night at a chowder and initiation.

Joseph F. Noyes, of New London, was a business caller here Wednesday.

The wind and rain of Thursday caused a high tide in Stonington which did much damage. It was so high that only a portion of the east breakwater could be seen. All docks were badly damaged, as was the Recreation pier which was repaired and put in first class condition this summer.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the stockholders of the Merchants National Bank of Norwich, for the election of directors for the ensuing year, will be held at their banking house on Tuesday, January 10, 1928, at 10 o'clock a. m.

CHANGE IN SPECULATIVE SENTIMENT CAUSED BRISK RALLY IN THE MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec.—(AP)—Selling pressure suddenly ceased soon after the opening of today's stock market, and a brisk rally took place throughout the list. Early declines of 1 to 4 points were largely wiped out, and several of the pool favorites closed 3 to 10 points, but total sales were well above 2,000,000 shares.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the sudden change in speculative sentiment. "Bears" continued to hammer the list at the opening, stressing the increase in brokers' loans, the falling off in freight car loadings and the veiled warning against securities speculation in the Chicago speech of President Mitchell of the National City bank.

General Motors, which has repeatedly resisted assaults to break the price below 125, was again the center of attack. It dipped to 126 1-8 but excellent support was quickly forthcoming. Other industrials and rails which had been freely sold earlier in the week, also displayed better resistance on the theory that the recent reaction had sufficiently corrected, at least for the present, the weakened technical condition of the market, and by noon a general covering movement was under way which continued to the close.

U. S. Steel common sank to a new low on the current movement at 138, or nearly 10 points below last week's high, and then rallied to 142, closing just below that level for a net gain of 2 3-8 points. The November tonnage figures of the steel corporation, which will be made public at noon tomorrow, are awaited with considerable interest. Substantial gains were recorded by some of the so-called independent steels. Midland Steel Products, which has been fluctuating within a wide range in recent weeks, jumped 6 points to 224 1-2. Transue & Williams, which is reported to have a large Ford contract, was run up nearly 5 points to a new peak at 47, or nearly 5 times the year's low of 310 a share. Gulf States advanced 3 1-2 points and Bethlehem, Crucible and Youngstown a point or more.

Heavy accumulation of the airplane shares, based on expectations of a rapid expansion in Commercial Air routes next year, sent Wright up 8 points to a new peak at 76 1-2, and Curtiss up more than 4 points to a new top at 83, but profit-taking cut down the gains. Greene Cananea continued to respond to reports of the discovery of a rich ore body by rallying from a low of 112 to a record high of 122 3-4, and closing at 121 3-8, up 7 5-8 pts. New peak prices also were recorded by Reynolds Spring, Gold ust, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Tobacco Products, Paige-Detroit and several others.

In the railroad group, Southern Pacific was bid up 4 points to 126 1-4, the highest price since 1911, in expectations of an early increase in the annual dividend. Canadian Pacific, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and several of the other investment rails advanced 2 points or more. Heavy buying of the St. Paul issues was in anticipation or an early approval of the recapitalization plan by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Establishment of another new high since 1924 by Sterling exchange, with rables on London quoted at $4.88 11-32, featured the firm foreign exchange market. Japanese yen rallied nearly 10 points to 46.86 cents.

Commodity markets displayed a firmer tindertone. Cotton rallied nearly $1 a bushel in reflection of the more bullish interpretation placed upon yesterday's government crop report, particularly in Liverpool. Wheat advanced only a fraction of a cent a bushel. Coffee and sugar quotations held steady.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks strong; Southern Pacific at new high on dividend prospects.

Bonds steady, rail liens sag on profit-taking.

Foreign exchanges firm; sterling and Swiss francs at new peaks.

Cotton steady, trade buying.

Sugar barely steady, commission house selling.

Coffee higher, firm Brazilian market.

Chicago

Wheat steady, prediction small receipts.

Corn barely steady, fine weather.

Cattle steady.

Hogs irregular.

LEGAL NOTICE

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Lebanon, within and for the District of Lebanon, on the seventh day of December, A. D. 1927.
Present, GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.
Estate of Eugene Maynard, late of the Town of Lebanon, in said District, deceased.
The Administratrix appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Lebanon, in said District, on the seventeenth day of December A. D. 1927, at five o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.
GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.

NOTICE
FOR SALE: By order of the Honorable Court of Probate for the District of Norwich, I will sell the real estate, belonging to the estate of the late Anthony Wisneskie, and Victoria Wisneskie, both late of Franklin, in said District, deceased, which real estate is situated on the Easterly side of the highway running from Smith's Corners to Baltic, in the town of Franklin; also, lot, on the Westerly side of said highway. Said real estate consisting of about 380 acres, more or less, consists of approximately 100 acres of tillable land and 280 acres, more or less of pasture and woodland, together with the dwelling house, barns, sheds and other buildings thereon. Said real estate will be sold as a unit, together with the farm tools, machinery and equipment thereon consisting of gasoline engines, wagons, plows, from 45 to 50 tons of hay, 35 tons of silage, 14 cows, 2 horses and about forty hens. Said farm is supplied with a brook and a never failing spring with running water in the house. The farm has a Westerly slope and is highly desirable as a dairy farm. The entire premises with the personal property will be sold to the highest bidder as one item of sale at public auction to be held at the house on these premises known as the Wisneskie farm, on Wednesday, December 14th, 1927, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Terms of sale to be 10 per cent. cash at time of sale and balance on or before January 1st, 1928.
This sale is to close the two estates and the personal property will not be offered for sale separately.
JOHN WISNESKIE,
Administrator

CAR STOLEN AT NEW LONDON FOUND STUCK IN SAND AT BEACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9—An automobile owned by John F. Sullivan, 100 Blinman street, was parked in the street last night and while Sullivan was absent a thief, and it is understood, a companion, entered the car and drove away with it. Sullivan did not report the theft at police headquarters, but instead, started a search for the auto. He was not successful in finding it until this forenoon when it was discovered imbedded in the sand at Ocean beach. The car being deep in the sand, practically up to the hubs, it was with great difficulty that it was removed to Bentley avenue. The thief drove the auto through Ocean avenue and was undoubtedly intoxicated, for instead of continuing to Bentley avenue, the machine was driven to the beach front and in front of the boardwalk; until it reached a point south of the approach to the pier, where it became stuck in the sand, causing the thief to abandon it.

FOURNIER HOUSE RAID REVEALS BOOZE AND BADNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9—For the second time within two months, the Fournier house, 147 Bank street, was raided last night and what the police found there caused them to arrest Tony Venturella, proprietor of the house, who was charged with conducting a disorderly house and violating the liquor law. Loris Fontanella was charged with frequenting as were Harold J. Roberts, Charles Blake, Fred W. Barr and Clifford Ritcher, all sailors at the submarine base, members of the crew of S-19. The bluejackets were found seated about one of the rooms and the evidence was that they had been served liquor. In a sleeping room were Ralph V. Ather and Marie Ackerman, who were charged with lascivious carriage. All were locked up at police headquarters. In the police court today Venturella was fined $150 and costs on the two counts; the cases of the Fontanella woman, Blake, Barr, Roberts and Ritcher were continued to Jan. 9. Ather and the Ackerman woman were discharged for they made it known to the court that they were to get married and upon their promise to do so they received their liberty. They kept their promise for during the day they were married by a justice of the peace. The police had observed numerous sailors entering and leaving the house of late and groups of them were seen to emerge from the rooming house. Last night a raiding squad consisting of Sergeant Samuel Hick, Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Patrolmen Albert Iverson, John Sullivan and Cornelius Moriarty swooped down upon the men and women and arrested the entire gang.

Joseph Dean of 73 Selden street, was charged in court with violation of the state motor vehicle law and was fined $10 and costs. Dean operated his truck on the grade at Montauk avenue and Bank street yesterday out of gear. His act was witnessed by Patrolman Edward Riordan, who arrested the offender.

R. T. Smith and P. Lilligren, sailors, were arrested last night charged with intoxication and breach of the peace, but they were not presented in the police court today because they were turned over to the custody of the shore patrol and taken back to the state pier for military discipline. Smith and Lilligren shortly before last midnight were at the Y. M. C. A. where they created such a disturbance that the police were complained to. Patrolmen Henry Sylvia and Edward Skoczylas were sent to the association rooms and the bluejackets were arrested.

Mrs. Charles H. Cables was unanimously elected president of Joynt assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, for a second term, at the meeting of the assembly held this week. Other officers elected were:

Vice president, Mrs. Mary Herlihy; financial secretary, Mrs. Margaret Watterson; recording secretary, Mrs. William Guerin; treasurer, Mrs. Annie T. Henley; sentinel, Mrs. Nellie Pinsky; mistress at arms, Miss Elizabeth Noonan; trustees, Mrs. James McQuillan, Mrs. Walter Greenman and Mrs. Julia Sullivan; auditors, Mrs. James Dray, Mrs. F. H. Quinn and Mrs. Charles A. Pinney.

Two candidates were initiated and plans were made for the installation and banquet in February.

Another police signal box was discovered out of commission last night when it was found that the box at the corner of Broad and Williams street would not function. The box is the third that has refused to operate within the past 24 hours.

Lester Grass, 192 Crystal avenue, is a medical patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he was taken at 1:45 o'clock this morning when he became ill and fell from the automobile in which he was riding. The auto was being driven through Bank street, when Grace suddenly fell to the highway. He was observed to fall by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, who went to Grace's assistance. The man was placed in the automobile and rushed to the hospital, where it was found that he was not injured, but ill. He will probably be a patient at the hospital for several days.

Mrs. John Steadman, of Westerly; Mrs. Edward Chapman and infant son, Poquonoc Bridge; John Dorsey, 130 Winthrop street and Mrs. Manuel Vera, and infant daughter, 216 Vauxhall street, patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Stanislaw and Torfelia Porceda have sold to Mary J. Sizer a house and lot on Crystal avenue.

Bartholomew J. Malone, of 63 Lincoln avenue, will be in the police court tomorrow charged with reckless driving. Malone was arrested today on complaint of Richard Bingham, 26 Woodbridge street. Malone was driving his automobile on Washington street and it narrowly escaped running down Bingham.

NO MERIDIAN STREET DECORATIONS THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9.—State, Bank to Howard street, and Main street to Church street are to be illuminated and decorated with ropes of laurel and pine during the season beginning Saturday. Merchants on Meridian street, who petitioned for illumination and decoration were denied what they sought, at a special meeting of the city council this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Merchants on Bank street below Tilley, also petitioned and their prayer was granted.

The illumination and decoration scheme originated with the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce. They wanted State street, Bank street to Tilley and Main street to Church street decorated. The council gave them what they wanted, with the understanding that the merchants pay for the ropes of evergreens while the city would pay for the light. The lights cost the city $750 a year for a period of five years, or $3800 for five years. That aroused the mechants on Bank street, below Tilley, to object and they petitioned the city council for more light and the same treatment as their brother merchants were to receive. Meridian street merchants petitioned similarly, but the latter were given leave to withdraw. The merchants represented that they were taxpayers and that as the city's money was paying for the work, they asked for the same sort of treatment. The council was loath to grant the request of the Bank street merchants, and did not do it till there was assurance that the merchants would pay for the decorations as the merchants on State street were to do. A. J. Maloof, representing the petitioners, gave that assurance and the trick was done Councilors Streeter and Murray were absent from the meeting this evening.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL EMPLOYE DROVE ZIG-ZAG

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 9.—William Moore, employed at the Norwich State hospital, is occupying a cell at police headquarters tonight. He will be in the police court tomorrow charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Moore was in Waterford this evening and the car he was driving followed such an irregular course that State Police Officer Bernard Kenerson, who was on duty on the New Haven turnpike, investigated and holding Moore up, decided that he was intoxicated and arrested him.

Mrs. Grace Seaton, of 3 Norwood avenue, and John Antrino, 47 Church street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Col. F. E. Ferguson, commandant at Fort Wright, headquarters of the New London Artillery district, is to be relieved of duty at the post. Just when, it is not known. Col. O. A. Ferguson, inspector in the general's department of the army, has received orders to report at Fort Wright and relieve Col. Ferguson, but the latter has received no transfer orders. When the change will take place is not known.

At St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church tomorrow morning, a month's mind mass will be celebrated for Patrick J. O'Sullivan, who died recently in Chicago. Mr. O'Sullivan resided in New London many years, prior to his removal to Providence. Among his survivors in this city are James C. Sullivan, lieutenant of police; Michael J., Florence Sullivan and Misses Mary and Ella Sullivan, and Mrs. Philip Sullivan.

The residence of Charles B. Whittlesey, prosecuting attorney of the court of common pleas, 145 Vauxhall street, was threatened with serious damage by fire this morning when an accumulation of soot in a chimney became ignited. The blaze was discovered before it had gained headway and a still alarm was sent to fireheadquarters. Chief Thomas Shipman and the Northwest Hose company responded and a small quantity of chemicals sufficed to extinguish it.

Attractive Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

At 4 o'clock tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. attractive moving pictures will be shown. The picture story, "The Man Who Found a Boy," will be of real interest. A great philosopher once said that "A man's a man," but "A boy's a whole multiplication table." Undirected, the boy may be a menace, but give him something to do in his spare time, and the guidance of a real man and he is transformed into the nation's greatest asset. Looking for material in the night court and listening to the story of an urchin, a newspaper man discovers the boy to be the son of a "Buddy" to whom he had given a promise to look after the boy on his return; renewing his pledge, he takes the boy with him and organizes a Boy Scout troop. The famous National Scout Commissioner, Dan Beard, initiates the troop. The experience of the boys in their effort to make good makes a worth while story. In addition to the above, a reel on "The Kingdom of David"; one on California, and one on "The Day We Celebrate" will be shown. This will prove a very interesting program. Adults of both sexes are cordially invited, and boys and girls fourteen and over will be admitted. Vocal solos and a brief talk will be given.

Between 2,500 and 3,500 automobiles stopped at the Coolidge homestead in Plymouth, Vt. during one Sunday.

GREENEVILLE

The Catholics church throughout the world celebrated one of its great feast days of the year Thursday, Dec. 8, the Feast of The Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary. It is the patronal feast of the church here in America. At St. Mary's Memorial church three public masses marked its observance and despite the bad weather conditions, large congregations were present at each service and many approached the altar railing for the reception of the sacramentz. The low mass at 5 o'clock, for the early workers, was offered by Rev Frederick M. Coholan, the second low mass at 7 o'clock and the high mass at 8 o'clock were offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe. It is also the patron feast of St. Mary's parish. The vestments worn by the priests at each mass were white, significant of the purity and loveliness of the life of Mary, the mother of the Saviour of mankind.

The N. M. Sewing circle met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Harrington, of Central avenue. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Alvin Barrows, of Tyler avenue.

The friends of Alexander Sobelski will be pleased to learn that he has returned to his home after being confined to the W. W. Backus hospital for three weeks after an operation.

A surprise party was given Friday evening by Miss Irene Thibeault at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thibeault, of 35 Second street, in honor of Miss Lucille Shacklum's 16th birthday. Twenty of her friends were present. Many games were played; also dancing was enjoyed. Piano selections by Miss Doris Cote were heard. Miss Gladys Cote and John Krieger rendered several solos in pleasing voices. Miss Shacklum received many beautiful and useful presents. A lunch was served by Miss Thibeault, assisted by her mother, Mrs Charles Thibeault and Mrs. Moran. The luncheon consisted of sandwiches, fancy cokies, assorted cakes coffee, chocolates and ice cream. Among those present were the Misses Lucy Shacklum, Doris Cote, Cecilia Duquette, Gladys Cote, Margaret Merrals, Rose Perrone, Jane McGee, Yvonne Harle, Dorothy Turner, Joy Slavack, Edward Culuk, William Mahoney, William Munegan, John Dunegan, Michael McDonald, William Salvidio, Paul McBasur and Nelson Lemoux.

Mrs Eva Witkin is spending the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Witkin, of Central avenue. Miss Witkin is a student at the Willimantic State Normal Training school.

John McClafferty, of Southbridge, Mass., is spending a few days at his home on Hickory street.

NORWICH TOWN

The Young Women's class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, held a business meeting Thursday evening at the home of the president, Miss Effie Ladd, of Vergason avenue. The class numbers six, there being five present at the meeting to formulate plans for the Christmas season. During the evening the hostess served refreshments.

At the children's service Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church, Howard Bushnell of Occum is to give the address Mrs. Lewis Aldrich is to have charge of the musical part of the service.

The Methodist Christian Endeavor society recently held a successful Christmas sale, at the Buckingham Memorial, Norwich. The president, Mrs. Richard Carter was in charge, assisted by Mrs. George Manning, Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Arthur Fulton and Miss Florence M. Bennett. Fancy articles, aprons, cakes and jellies were on sale.

When Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church held its December meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green, Thursday afternoon there were seven present. Mrs. Weaver conducted the devotional period, reading the first twenty verses of the second chapter of Luke. Mrs. George Randall offered prayer. During the business session, it was voted to send fruit and other remembrances to the elderly people of the parish and shut-ins. At the close, the hostess served cake and tea.

Thursday, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception and a holy day of obligation, masses were celebrated that morning at the Sacred Heart church at five and seven o'clock. There was a large attendance at both masses and many received holy communion from the pastor, Rev. J. Quinn.

Friends and acquaintances of Mrs. William H. Tague of McClellan avenue, Norwich Town, were sorry to learn Friday of her illness, which necessitated her removal Monday last to the Backus hospital. She is a patient under observation for special treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Murphy of West Town street, have returned from Forestville, Conn., where they attended the funeral of Michael B. Downes, a former resident of Norwich.

Misses Dorothy Buckley and Evelyn Brosofske, are returning to Norwich Town for the week end, from Willimantic Normal school, where they are first year students.

When Scotland Road Social club held one of its series of whists, Thursday evening at the hall, four tables were in play. First prizes were won by Mrs. William B. Wilcox and Earl Geer The consolation awards went to Harold and Milton Geer.

Several from Norwich Town, attended the grange meeting in Groton, Friday evening.

NORWICH STORES WILL KEEP OPEN FOR FOUR NIGHTS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Norwich stores are to be open on the four week-day nights before Christmas, according to a vote taken by the Retail Merchants bureau at its dinner meeting Friday evening at the Wauregan hotel at which President Abner Schwartz conducted the business meeting. John M. Lee and John P. Lyston made reports upon the proposed consolidation of the Merchants bureau and the Credit bureau, which is favored by both organizations.

Edwin Niles, of Springfield, editor of the Shopping News in that city, was the speaker of the evening, giving the merchants an informal talk with which they expressed the greatest satisfaction and indicated it by a rising vote of thanks. Declaring that co-operation is what is needed among the merchants in New England communities, Mr. Niles illustrated what he meant by relating incidents in his experience in a visit in Florida, and he declared that the merchant should be alive to the need of service for his community. He should get away from the idea of cut-throat competition for unless his competitor succeeds the community will suffer. Merchants should emphasize the idea of service. The American public demands service, but this is what runs up cost today.

Retail distribution is the greatest link in the whole chain of business, Mr. Niles declared, and if there is any branch that should be aided by nation, state or community, it is the retail merchant. The retailer is a factor of the highest importance in the community.

Mr. Niles advocated a course in retailing in the public schools and told how successfully this had been carried on in Springfield so that there is always a supply of trained salespeople ready to come from the schools to the retail stores. Touching upon the trade at home problem, Mr. Niles said that the merchant must understand his community, analyze his trade and meet its needs. He told of the fine results that had been achieved for Springfield merchants by the use of billboards, and in conclusion, advised that the merchant get away from the mere personal element, remember that he is working for the community, give service and gain the confidence of the buying public by truth in advertising.

PAGEANT AND FARCE IN PROGRAMME AT POQUETANUCK

Standing room was at a premium at the parish house at Poquetanuck Thursday when the Women's Guild of St. James' church held its annual Christmas sale and entertainment. The first part of the entertainment consisted of a pageant, The Christmas Spirit, presented by the grammar school under the direction of the teachers, Mrs. John Taylor and Miss Mary Corcoran. The following children took part in the pageant:

Garlands, Myrtle Brayman, Wolga Cudo, Lida Micar, Clara Bogue, Celia Barron, Stella Barron, Germaine Bassett, Helen Biederka; bells, Helen Barrow, Elsie Brayman, Pearl Bassett, Bertha Biederka, Helen Mitnick, Ida Marciniak, Loraine Fontaine, Elmer Muench, Josephine Barron, Wanda Gromko; stockings, Jennie Genuswesska, Hermina Gabarek, Lucile Parker, Pauline Cudo, Genevieve Haley, Mary Mikma, Patricia Wilbur, Ethel Murtha; Santa Claus, Alfred Hill, Eddie Kingsley, Albert Mitnick, John Biederka, Felix Mikma, Carroll Marciniak, Clarence Kobanski, Frank Socha; trees, Walter Lubotkowski, Stanley Lubotkowski, Stanley Micar, Charles Cudo; trimmers, Walter Bentley, Joe Cudo, Raymond Fish, John Marciniak, Andrew Socha.

The second part of the entertainment, a farce in two acts, entitled, Pa's New Housekeeper, was creditably given by the following cast of characters and repeatedly brought the house down in gales of laughter: Pa, who has decided intentions, William B. Mitchell; his son, Jimmie, who disapproves of his intentions, Carl Holdridge; Jack, Jimmie's chum, William E. Mitchell; Mattie, his daughter, who does not understand his intentions, Mrs. Carl Holdridge; Molly Holbrook, Mrs. Fred Miller.

Music between the acts and for the dancing which followed the entertainment was furnished by the Roamers orchestra. The booths containing fancy articles were presided over by Mrs. William B. Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Nicolai, and Mrs. George Bogue. They were well patronized during the afternoon and evening and added a good sum to the proceeds of the evening. The mystery packages which were dispensed by Mrs. Henry Sauer caused much merriment among the young people. Ice cream was sold by Mrs. Jennie Williams assisted by J. Guy Ayer and home made candy by Mrs Charles E. Geer. A roast pork and beef loaf supper which was served in the early part of the evening was well attended and was in charge of Mrs. Alamson Fuller, chairman, Mrs. Charles Weeks, Mrs. Charles Harkness, Miss Josephine Nicolai, Mrs. Rose Whitmarsh, Mrs. Henry Hart and the Misses Fannie and Flora Peck.

The waitresses were Mrs. Appleton Main, Mrs. Naomi Gallup, Mrs. Mary Harris, and Miss Gladys Hart. Mrs. George Betting had charge of the coffee, Mrs. Robert McClure had charge of the cake and pie.

The evening was considered a success both socially and financially and after the inclement weather of the morning the results were especially gratifying.

$2,000 FOR DEATH OF S. W. CARPENTER OF PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WORCESTER, Dec. 9—Damages of $2,000 have been agreed upon by counsel in the $10,000 suit in superior court to recover for the death of Sheldon W. Carpenter of Putnam, Conn., killed March 6 in an automobile accident in Dudley. The suit was by Harriet J. Carpenter, administratrix of his estate, against Peter Lee, also of Putnam. Carpenter came to his death when an automobile occupied by him and other residents of Putnam, and operated by Lee, left the highway and crashed into a tree.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE HELD BY WE MODERNS

The We Moderns held a public whist and pinochle with a large attendance Thursday evening at the Eagles hall. The winners at whist, ladies first, Mrs. Bruett; second, Mrs. Leonard; third, Mrs. Hallisey; gentlemen, first, Mr. Collins; second, H. Johndrow; third, Kellner. At pinochle the following were winners: First, Mrs. Herman with a score of 7,350; second, Mrs. Shaparlo 7,330; third, Mrs. Casey 7,290; gentlemen, first, Mr. Brayman with a score of 7,470; second, Mr. Cooney 7,460; third, Mr. Perkins, 7,360.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT FOR FORECLOSURE

Withdrawal without costs has been filed with the clerk of the superior court in the suit of Catherine C. Murphy of Stonington against the Connecticut Granite company of Groton. The suit was brought for foreclosure of a mortgage on two tracts of land in Groton, on which it was claimed there was a balance of $1,000 due, the original mortgage having been given for $4,000 on Feb. 24, 1925.

BAILEY LOSES ON DEMURRER IN SUIT

A demurrer by the plaintiff, Howell S. Bailey of New York city, in his suit, against the city of Norwich in which he seeks $20,000 damages, was overruled by Judge John H. Booth in the superior court short calendar session here Friday morning. The suit is brought because the buy wires of the gas and electrical department extend over the Bailey property at 369 Main street. The demurrer was argued by John H. Barnes, counsel for Mr. Bailey, and by Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., for the city.

The demurrer in question was as follows:

The plaintiff demurs to the defendant's answer (1) because it sets forth and alleges as a defense that the payment of $620 and costs taxed at $18.52 in the month of February, 1927, fully satisfies a cause of action which as appears by the complaint arose subsequent to February, 1927, and after said judgment was rendered by the court of common pleas and said sum paid; (2) because it alleges and admits that the guy wires maintained by the defendant city and in part the basis of the plaintiff's complaint were not removed by the defendant for many months after the judgment for money damages, set forth in the answer and the payment of said judgment, nor does it appear or is it alleged that the court of common pleas for New London county modified, enlarged or varied its judgment of February, 1927, for money damages, to wit: $620 and costs taxed at $18.52 which said judgment for money damages was satisfied during the month of February, 1927; (3) because the defendant sets forth as a defense the payment in February, 1927, on a cause of action arising after the rendition of said judgment; (4) because it does not appear from the answer nor is it alleged therein that the judgment of the court of common pleas of date of February, 1927 which the defendant alleges was paid during said month, comprehended, included and embraced the same issues, for the same period of time as set forth in the complaint in this action.

NEW LONDON'S RED CROSS QUOTA OVERSUBSCRIBED

Reports from the branch chapters of the New London chapter of the American Red Cross given at the December meeting held in the Mariners Savings bank this week showed that during the recent roll call, membership had increased appreciably in every district, in some branches doubling and tripling its membership of the previous year. The branch memberships coupled with those of the local chapter brough the total membership far beyond the quota fixed for the New London chapter of the Red Cross headquarters.

The quota of $3,000 in memberships was oversubscribed by more than half that amount.

Christmas boxes for the soldiers and sailors in the Fort Wright and Submarine Base hospitals will be packed by the members of the society, each box to contain a supply of cigarettes, candy and books.

Contained in the report of Leon Geer, treasurer, which followed the report of the roll call chairman, Mrs. C. A. Carr, was the statement that during the past year, New London has responded to calls from headquarters in times of disasters with gifts amounting to $13,500, which, combined with the roll call fund not yet complete, would make the year's contribution of that city to the Red Cross about $18,000.

FORMER NORWICH MAN GETS MARRIAGE LICENSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Tyler Turner, 21, a salesman, formerly of Norwich, Conn., but now of 27 West 71st street, New York, and Miss Dorothea A. Tunica, 21, of 15 Central Park West, New York obtained a marriage license at the municipal building here today. They indicated that they would be married this month in the Church of St. Michael.

Mr. Turner was born in Norwich, the son of Isaac and Caroline Tyler Turner. The bride who is the daughter of Harry T. and Eleanor McGuire Tunica, was born in Chicago, Ill.

Will Preach on Isaiah

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, will take as his subject "Isaiah and His Beautiful Book." Last Sunday the response for the finances of the coming year was fine. It is anticipated that many who were unable to be present last Sunday will present their pledges this coming Sunday, thus making the work of the canvassers on Sunday afternoon easier. The canvassers will meet around the luncheon table at one o'clock when assignments will be given them. They will report at the supper meeting. On account of the canvassers' use of the young people's assembly room, the B. Y. P. U. meeting will be held in the woman's room. In the evening Rev. E. C. Dunbar, a graduate of Newton Theological institution, will speak on "What Newton Means to Me," illustrating his talk with slides.

NORWICH ESTATES PAY BIG TAXES TO STATE

According to the state treasurer's report probated estates which paid a state tax of more than $1,000 during the fiscal year included the following in eastern Connecticut:

Edward A. Bowen, Woodstock, $16,827.76; Ella J. Brigham, Groton, $1,067.16; Jennie E. Burpee, Colchester, $2,977.95; Harriet B. Camp, Norwich, $4,202.50; Mariah H. Fay, Norwich, $2,409.39; Georgia Gatter, New London, $1,220; Leonard O. Smith, Norwich, $10,759.51; Willard W. Hayden, Windham, $5,419.03; Fred D. Jordan, Windham $6,989.45; Charles C. Knowlton, Ashford, $72,872.21.

OVERRULES MOTION TO SET ASIDE $1,200 VERDICT

In the superior court here Friday, Judge John Rufus Booth overruled defendant's motion to set aside verdict of $1,200 which the jury gave to James W. Johnson, Jr., of Mystic in his suit against Charles E. Wheeler of that place and the judgment was ordered entered.

Johnson sued Wheeler for injuries in an automobile accident in Mystic on Sept. 4, 1923.

STOLEN CAR FOUND WITH SIX TIRES GONE

The Hudson coach belonging to Nicholas De Benedetto of Worcester which was stolen Wednesday night from Cliff street where he had it parked was found Thursday on a road in Poquetanuck, stripped of the four tires on the wheels, two spares, the battery and the motor meter.

Mr. De Benedetto who is visiting friends at 320 Franklin street is again in possession of what is left of his machine.

POWERS, GREAT AND SMALL, DESIRE PERMANENT PEACE

Settlement of the Polish Lithuanian Dispute is Regarded as Conclusive Evidence of the Attitude of European Nations —President Coolidge Has Been Asked in a Memorial Signed by 432 Citizens of States to Indicate the Willingness of the United States to Continue Overtures For Adherence to the World Court.

GENEVA, Dec. 11—(AP)—The determination of the powers great and small, including soviet Russia, to maintain in a permanent way the peace of Europe clearly appears to all the delegates as the feature of the December session of the council of the league of nations. The council will conclude its work tomorrow.

The settlement of the Polish-Lithuanian dispute, which was not as clear-cut and definite as some would have liked, is regarded as evidence of Europe's desire for peace, which Premiers Waldemaras of Lithuania and M. Zaleski, Polish foreign minister, immediately sought to promote in a practical way by conferring today as to measures best suited for the inauguration of normal relations between the two countries.

Premier Waldemaras leaves for Kovno tonight with a document in his pocket calculated to satisfy the aspirations of his fellow countrymen, and that is the declaration read by Jonkheer Beelaerts Van Blokland before the council that the peace settlement between Lithuania and Poland in no wise affects the liquidation of various questions such as the rights Lithuania claims over Vilna.

M. Waldmaras said to the correspondents today: "You see that our claims to Vilna have not been prejudiced in the least. After all, everything that we hope to settle with Poland turns on the problem of Vilna.

"To establish permanently friendly relations we must negotiate the opening up of the frontier, now closed, and arrange for resumption of communications and travel. We must gradually build up an entente cordiale, which perhaps will lead to diplomatic relations."

That the Lithuanian and Polish governments may encounter snags in the process of becoming perfectly nice neighbors is expected by league leaders, who are rejoicing that the league machine exists to help in the solution of such eventualities or troublesome quarrels which may arise between other governments. The disposition of soviet Russia to cooperate with the league endeavors to prevent serious conflicts, as was evidenced by Maxim Litvinoff's soothing influence on Lithuania and collaboration in the disarmament plans, continues to bring expressions of satisfaction from the statesmen of the west, among them Sir Austen Chamberlain and M. Briand.

Should M. Tchitcherin, the soviet foreign minister, come to Geneva for the disarmament meeting March 15, it is believed that he will meet Sir Austen Chamberlain on that occasion as the March council session will probably overlap the disarmament meeting in league circles. Therefore, it is predicted that efforts to restore normal relations between Russia and Great Britain will not be abandoned.

Marshal Pilsudski, the Polish premier, entrained today for Warsaw; he spent the night in his private car at the railroad station. M. Zaleski announced this evening that he had had a satisfactory conversation with M. Waldemaras and that formal negotiations would begin at Riga some time in January.

WOULD HAVE U. S. HELP PROMOTE WORLD COURT

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—President Coolidge was asked today in a memorial signed by 432 citizens of 48 states to indicate this nation's willingness to continue overtures for adherence to the world court.

The communication expressed the belief "that the difference between the United States and the states signatory to the protocol of the statute of the permanent court of international justice are in large part due to misunderstandings which could crainly be resolved in the conversations that normally accompany the negotiation of treaties.

"May we convey to you our urgent hope—a hope which we believe to be entertained by a vast number of our fellow citizens—that you will indicate the willingness of the United States to continue negotiations with a view to removing the difficulties which stand in the way of consummating the adherence of the United States to the permanent court?"

The signers include members of both major political parties; eleven governors and ex-governors; 93 newspaper editors, and bankers and business men.

The memorial was presented by a committee of eight, comprising Irving T. Bush, president of the Bush Terminal company; Judge Frank H. Hiscock, formerly chief justice of the New York court of appeals; Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy; Judge Charles H. Carey, of Portland, Oregon, former member of the republican national committee; Howard Coonley, of Boston, former president of the Boston chamber of commerce; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, of Chicago, member of the democratic national committee; President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Maine; President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford university, California.

EXPLAINS LEGION POLL ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 11—(AP)—Taking cognizance of criticism stirred up by his request for a national poll among posts of the American Legion stand on the prohibition question, Edward E. Spafford, national commander of the legion, today took the view that no issue existed between him and his critics.

Spafford said he merely proposed that such a poll be taken. He said he thought such a poll would have a salutary effect in the way of disclosing where the rank and file of the legion actually stood on prohibition. In no sense, he insisted, did he order that a poll be taken.

"With me," Spafford said, "the question simply is one of upholding the constitution of the United States, of supporting the hand of the government."

The national commander inclined to the view that a great "hue and cry was being made over nothing." He said he was attempting to commit the legion to nothing, that he had no idea of permitting the results of such a poll to be used as a political lever and that the last thought in his mind was to induce the legion, as such, enter the political lists and participate in any legislative battle.

"In my speech which occasioned all this flurry," Spafford said, "I made a proposal that a poll be taken to determine sentiment of the legion on the prohibition question. My position is one of making a suggestion. The legion has just as much privilege to decline my suggestion as I have to make it."

NEW HAVEN WOMAN WAS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

GREENWICH, Conn., Dec. 1—(AP)—Miss Hiauma Cohen, 29, of New Haven, was seriously injured in an automobile accident here today. Miss Cohen was a passenger in a machine driven by Arnold R. Freedman of West Haven. Freedman was less seriously injured.

Freedman, driving west on the Boston post road, collided head-on with a car driven by Willard Hemingway of Greenwich. Observers said he turned out on the wrong side to pass another car when he struck Hemingway's machine.

Miss Cohen suffered two broken legs, a broken hip, and bad cuts about the face, right eye, cheek, and lower lip. It was feared that she would lose the sight of her right eye. Her condition was critical. Freedman's right leg was broken. They were both taken into the Greenwich hospital. Hemingway received slight cuts and bruises.

BOSTON TO HAVE FIVE OR SIX MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—Plans for a five or six million dollar hotel to be erected by Boston interests on the site of the internationally known Shoreham hotel in the financial district here have just come to light with announcement of the sale of the vacated hostelry.

Robert A. Nordblom company, Boston, are the new owners of the property, having purchased it for $1,600,000 from Harry Wardman, Washington real estate man, who bought it several months ago at auction. The structure to take its place will be called the New Shoreham and will be twelve stories high with a colonial style interior.

CONGRESS WILL FINISH ITS ORGANIZATION THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—With its first week behind it, the seventieth congress will finish up its organization this week and its committees will begin work on the great raft of legislation senators and representatives have dumped upon them in several thousand bills.

Both houses worked with dispatch during the first six days of the session, the senate temporarily disposing o fthe Smith and Vare cases and the house passing the first deficiency bill and beginning work on the tax revision measure.

Two inquiries of importance are to get under way during the week before senate committees, one dealing with charges in the Hearst newspapers that a fund of $1,200,000 was created by Mexico for four United States senators and the other dealings Smith and Vare primary and general elections.

On the house side committees will continue flood relief hearings and begin conferences on farm relief legislation, Muscle Shoals and the Boulder Canyon dam proposal. In addition an elections committee probably will take up the case of James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, whose right to a house seat has been challenged on the ground that he was not a legal resident of the state when elected last November.

Republican leaders hope to reorganize the senate early in the week with the election of a prsident pro tempore, a secretary and a sergeant-at-arms and the approval of the committee assignments made by the republican and democratic committees on committees.

Little difficulty in organization is anticipated by the leaders, but they are prepared to see a fight made against the re-election of David E. Barry, of Rhode Island, as sergeant-at-arms.

HEAVY INCREASE MADE IN SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—Equal distribution of the nation's total savings deposited in banks would give each person in the United States $220 the American Bankers association announced today. At the end of June $26,000,000,000 was reported on deposit in savings accounts, an increase of $1,368,094 000 over the 1926 aggregate.

New York led all other states in the per capita deposit increases, with a gain of $43. Rhode Island was second with $34. and Massachusetts third with $33. More than 52 per cent. of the total gain was in New England and the middle Atlantic states, the report showed.

REPORT OF SERIOUS FIGHTING IN CANTON

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph company's Canton correspondent reports serious fighting there today in an attempt of the Cantonese troops to disarm a number of units which joined them after the recent coup. It was believed, however, that the fighting will be localized.

MOTHER OF MRS. COOLIDGE SUFFERING FROM THE FLU

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 11—(AP)—One of the biggest arms hauls in the history of Ireland was made on the outskirts of Belfast by the authorities who seized a machine-gun, rifles, automatic pistols, 36 grenades, and 20,000 rounds of ammunition.

LONDON, Dec. 11—(AP)—The engagement was announced of the duchess of York's brother, Captain Michael Bowes-Lyon, to Miss Elizabeth Cator, daughter of Mrs. Cator of Woodbastwick Hall, Norfolk. Miss Cator was a bridesmaid at the duchess of York's wedding.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek, who resigned as the commander of the nationalist forces last August to facilitate a union of Nanking and Hankow forces, yesterday again assumed active leadership of the nationalist movement as the result of conference of party le[illegible]

WORST FLOOD IN 20 YEARS IN EAST HAMPTON

EAST HAMPTON, Conn., Dec. 11—(AP)—Rising rapidly, with the worst flood conditions known here in 20 years, Lake Pocotopaug was choking its single outlet stream with a wall of water a foot high that poured over its dam crest tonight. Recent rains and melting snow were responsible for the unprecedented rise in the lake which drains surrounding hills and is also fed from numerous springs. A rise of two inches an hour was reported.

It was said here tonight that the main dam at the lake and the next one below it, which was inspected and overhauled last year, would probably hold up under the pressure of the water, but careful watch was being kept at those points.

Boiler rooms in five factories which use the outlet as a source of power were flooded and the buildings could not be heated. Because of a lack of heating facilities, approximately 500 employes at the plants were not expected to be able to work tomorrow.

RELIGIOUS FESTIVAL IN MEX. TO BE PRIESTLESS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP)—For the second time in nearly 400 years, Mexico's greatest religious festival will be carried out tomorrow at the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe, the country's patron saint, without priestly ceremonial.

Ever since 1533, devout Catholics, led by priests, have made pilgrimages to the shrine of Guadalupe on December 12th, the day set aside as the anniversary of the appearance of the saint, but the new religious regulations of the government that caused priests to withdraw from all church throughout Mexico a year and a half ago, made it necessary to observe the day for the first time last year without priests officiating. This year the priestless observance of what Mexican Catholics regard as their most sacred day will be repeated with nothing to indicate that there is any prospect of a settlement of the religious question.

MEXICANS PREPARING TO BANQUET LINDBERGH

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The first thing most Mexicans did when they learned Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was coming to Mexico, was to stop and cheer, and then immediately start preparations to banquet him, says El Universal Grafico in an editorial which declares Colonel Lindbergh is the greatest good-will ambassador the United States could send to her southern neighbor.

"The coming of no official representative of the Washington state department ever created such furor in Mexico as did the announcement of Lindbergh's coming," the newspaper says, "because professional diplomats must come with a certain amount of formality, whereas Colonel Lindbergn comes dressed in overalls and without restrictions. He will be greatly tributed, and tributes to him will also be tributes to the United States."

ARGENTINE WOMEN ARE STILL WITHOUT FRANCHISE

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 11—(AP)—Argentine women have met with but little success in their efforts to obtain a political franchise, despite an active campaign they have been conducting and support of the socialist party, which several years ago introduced a measure in parliament granting universal franchise to the women of the country. The bill was referred to a committee, which failed to act on it.

There are two provinces, however, in which women have won the right to participate in provincial elections—San Juan and Mendoza. In the former the franchise includes both legislative and municipal elections; in the latter it applies only to municipal elections.

There is a feminist party in Argentina, the leader of which is Julieta Lanteri Renshak. She was the party's only candidate at several municipal elections in Buenos Aires, but failed to receive enough votes for election. The women vote has shown an evident decrease at every new election, and this apparently has been the cause of the diminishing activity the women have shown of late.

FUEL AND LOAD TESTS FOR PRIDE OF DETROIT

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 11—(AP)—First fuel and load tests with the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, Pride of Detroit, were made today by Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock and tonight they announced they were highly gratified of the plane's performance in preparation for their attempt to establish a new world's endurance flight record.

Indications tonight were that the flight would be started about 6 a. m. Wednesday. The fliers expect to remain aloft 60 to 65 hours.

The present world's record of 52 hours and 23 minutes is held by Cornelius Edzard and Johann Rietica, who wrested it from Clarence Chamberlain and Bert Acosta.

MEXICAN RANCHMAN KIDNAPED BY BANDITS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Guadalajara dispatches to Excelsior tell of the kidnapping by bandits of Juan Orendain, son of a wealthy Mexican ranchman, from a ranch near Ameca, state of Jalisco. The youth was carried off to the mountains and it is feared he may have been killed by the outlaws in revenge for his having flown as a guide with army aviators in an attempt to locate bandits and rebel forces in the federal army's campaign against the government's enemies in Jalisco

Increase in Arrests For Drunkeness

Moderation League, Inc., Gives Statistics of Its Third Annual Survey.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—The Moderation League, Inc., made public today through its chairman, Austin G. Fox, its third annual survey of conditions under prohibition.

The league which has for its announced aim "the restoration of temperance," includes among the membership of its directorate and advisory board Elihu Root, Kermit Roosevelt, Haley Fiske, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and Professor Michael I. Pupin, of Columbia university.

The conclusions reached in the report on the survey are based on figures for arrests on intoxication charges [illegible] partments for the [illegible] from 584 departments for the years 1920-1926, and from 403 departments for the 13 years, 1914-1926.

What the league considers "the most significant things disclosed by this year's survey," were described in the report as follows:

"1. Drunkenness increased almost as fast in 1926 as it did in 1925, and somewhat faster than it did in 1924. In the 602 places reporting, arrests for drunkenness increased from 650,961 in 1924 to 687,812 in 1925 and to 711,889 in 1926.

"2. In the 534 places arrests for drunkenness in 1926 increased 136 per cent above 1920, the first year of national prohibition.

"3. In the 403 places reporting from 1914 to 1926, arrests for drunkenness in 1926 were higher than in any previous year, save only the war-boom peak of 1916. The 1916 peak was 563,792 arrests for drunkenness, and 1926 almost reached it—being 559,074.

"4. Conditions in the former so-called "dry" states are very much worse today, compared with 1914, than are conditions in the so-called "wet" states. In the dry states the number of arrests for drunkenness went up rather sharply in 1926, and exceeded any year heretofore; whereas in the former wet states, 1926 slightly exceeded the 1914 level, but did not quite reach the 1916-1917 peak."

DISTINGUISHED FLYING MEDALS FOR AVIATORS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Major Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the Pan-American good will flight, and the seven other air corps pilots who completed with him a year ago the aerial visit to more than a score of South and Central American countries, will receive their distinguished flying medals here December 21 just twelve months to the day from the date of their take-off on the flight at Kelly Field, Texas.

At the same time, medals will be given posthumously to Captain Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieutenant John W. Benton, who lost their lives in an air co.i.sion at Buenos Aires, February 26, 1927, as the flight was making its landing. These medals will be presented to the widows of the two fliers who also will attend the luncheon which will mark the presentation ceremonies.

The Mackay trophy, awarded annually for the most brilliant army air success, also will be presented to the Pan-American fliers during the ceremony.

YALE MAN SELECTED FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The results of the annual election of American Rhodes scholars, held yesterday in 32 states, were announced today by President Frank Aydelotte, of Swarthmore college, American secretary of the Rhodes trustees.

Of the 498 candidates under consideration this year, 32 were selected to enter Oxford in 1928. Nearly all of these men hold American university degrees, and were chosen for their combination of superior intellectual ability and attainments with qualities of character and leadership, and interest in sports.

An appointment includes a stipend of 400 pounds a year for three years of study at the University of Oxford. The Rhodes trustees place no restriction upon a scholar's choice of study.

The only Connecticut man selected was Arthur C. Robertson, 829 Yale station, New Haven, Conn., Yale university.

$100,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO CHURCH IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Fire nearly destroyed the Church of the Messiah, a memorial to the late Arthur Amory Gammell, in the Olneyville section of this city this morning. The damage amounted to approximately $100,000, half of which was incurred by destruction of six memorial windows, five executed by F. Gaudin, of Paris, and te sixth by an English artist.

CONSUL IN ILL HEALTH HAS BEEN ORDERED HOME

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—Prolonged ill health of Consul General W. Stanley Hollis of Boston, now stationed at Lisbon, Portugal, has prompted the state department to order him home. His future assignment will depend on his recovery.

Higher Insurance Rate for Auto Owners

Underwriters Have Increased Personal Injury Insurance About 16 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—Automobile owners, beginning tomorrow, will have to pay an increase of approximately 16 per cent for personal injury insurance, the national bureau of casualty and safety underwriters announced.

The increase, it was explained, was caused by increasing frequency of claims, increasing power and speed of automobiles, a tendency of injured persons to claim and ask juries to grant larger amounts as damages, and the increasing mileage of improved roads which has brought greater use of automobiles.

AMERICAN CITIZEN WAS ATTACKED BY RUMANIANS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 11—(AP)—The American minister, William S. Culbertson, declared tonight that unless he receives satisfaction from the Rumanian government before noon tomorrow, he will personally investigate circumstances surrounding the attacking of an American-born citizen, William N. Keller, by Rumanian students during anti-Semitic riots at Oradea Mare. No further word of the American's condition had been received here up to late tonight.

Mr. Culbertson yesterday protested against the attack and demanded an investigation, indemnification of the victim and punishment of his assailants. M. Titulescu, foreign minister, has already admitted to the American minister one of the most serious aspects of his complaint—failure of the local authorities to allow Keller, who is from Lindon Hall, Pennsylvania, or his wife, to communicate with the American authorities at Bucharest.

"This is one of the most elementary rights of any foreigner living in another country," said M. Titulescu, who was shocked by the story of Keller's mistreatment.

What makes the attack more flagrant is that Keller displayed the American flag over his store in order to escape violence at the hands of the students. Neither the Stars and Stripes nor his American citizenship, however saved him.

The riots in Transylvania are assuming serious proportions. It is learned that two British subjects have also suffered violence.

LITTLE RUMANIAN KING IN BED WITH A COLD

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 11—(AP)—Little King Michael has been confined to his bed for ten days with a severe cold, and has thus been deprived of the use of his American flexible Flyer which he loves even more than his dog or his Lindbergh kite. He complains that he is not allowed to build snow houses and throw snowballs, like other boys, or even roll in the snow with his dog, which he would rather do than wield the scepter as reigning sovereign over 17 million people.

Only the promise of his mother, Princess Helen, to give him a big Christmas, with many toys and then let him see Santa Claus, has induced the blue-eyed tousel-haired monarch to swallow the doctor's bitter cough medicine, which is always followed with a lump of sugar.

FUGITIVE KILLED WHEN HE JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Erie, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Harold Hawkins, a fugitive from justic being taken to Urbana, Ohio, from New York city to face charges in a poisoning case, leaped from a fast New York Central passenger train near here today and was killed. Hawkins jumped after slugging, with his handcuffed hand, Chief of Police J. J. Powers, of Urbana, and Sheriff P. Jones, of Champaign county, Ohio. The prisoner leaped through a window without taking the trouble to raise it while the train was making 60 miles an hour. The train was stopped and his body found.

81 GRAIN LADEN VESSELS STORM BOUND AT BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 11—(AP)—Eighty-one vessels with aproximately 24,500,000 bushels of grain aboard for winter storage were lined up behind the breakwall and in the inner harbor here tonight. It is believed the stragglers of the fleet due tomorrow and Tuesday will unload at the elevators upon their arrival. The storage fleet a year ago numberd 79 vssis.

Up to Saturday the elevators had unloaded from lake vessels 226,000,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat, an increase of 54,000,000 bushels over the total on the corresponding date last year.

PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF ALASKA STEAMSHIP

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 11—(AP)—The Alaska Steamship company announced here tonight that the 112 passengers on the company's steamer Northwestern which ran aground on the coast of British Columbia, were taken off this afternoon by the gas boat Explorer, of Juneau, Alaska.

The liner went ashore during a blinding snowstorm off Cape Mudge, 206 miles north of Seattle today.

FRANK O. LOWDEN IS NOT AVERSE TO THE REP. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—Still declining to make an out and out declaration that he is a candidate for the republican presidential nomination, Frank O. Lowden let it be known today, however, that he would not interfere with the efforts of his friends in his behalf.

The former governor of Illinois declared himself to be still in mystery as to the exact nature of his status regarding the nomination, but he smilingly gave the assurance that "whatever that status is there is little likelihood of it being changed.

Adhering to the opinion that he formed on August 2 when President Coolidge issued his "do not choose" statement in the Black Hills, Lowden said he believed Mr. Coolidge never intended to be a candidate in 1928 and that his recent amplification was unnecessary to convince him that the president had been entirely eliminated.

In Mr. Lowden's opinion, the most important issue in the next campaign is to bring agriculture on an equal footing with industry and labor, and he said this could be brought about by the enactment of a farm relief bill with an equalization fee to defray the cost of controlling surpluses.

Lowden, who came here to attend the Gridiron club banquet declared there would be many other issues brought out in the campaign, but he passed these by with the statement that the condition of agriculture was foremost. As to prohibition, he said he was in complete agreement with the discussion of this question by the president in his annual message which declared for strict enforcement and observance by both the officials charged with carrying out provisions of the Volstead act and the public.

LABOR LEADER P. F. O'MEARA WAS FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

President of Connecticut Federation Labor Had Died of Angina Pectoris—Was Alderman-Elect From the 26th Ward in New Haven—Mrs. O'Meara Found Her Husband Dead When She Sought to Awaken Him in Time For Church.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 11—(AP)—Patrick F. O'Meara, aged 51, president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, and democratic alderman-elect from the 26th ward, was found dead in bed at his home here this morning. He had been subject to heart attacks and death was due to angina pectoris, according to Dr. Edward T. Falsey, who was summoned by Mrs. O'Meara.

Mrs. O'Meara found her husband dead when she sought to awaken him in time for 6 o'clock mass at St. Francis' church where he was an usher.

Mr. O'Meara, serving his tenth term as president of the state federation was a member of the federation executive board and business agent of the local chapter of the plumbers and steamfitters' union, an office he had held 19 years, and for seven terms was president of the New Haven trade council. He had also been president of the Holy Name society of St. Francis' church, which had grown to a membership of 1,000 under his leadership during the last five years.

Expressions of grief were voiced by city leaders. Mayor John H. Tower said he was "terribly shocked and terribly sorry to hear of the death." David J. McCoy, democratic town chariman, said: "The death of Mr. O'Meara is a distinct blow to the democratic party and to the city. I had known him a good many years and he was one of the finest and cleanest living of men. He was a splendid type of citizen."

Mr. O'Meara was born in New Haven, in the Hill district, but moved into what is now the 26th ward many years ago. He had participated in ward party councils and in the city party affairs in a quiet way for many years, but had run for public office only once before last fall and was persuaded with difficulty to accept the nomination the last time. He ran for state senator from the eighth district in 1920, but was defeated by Professor Charles M. Bakewell, the republican candidate.

He is survived by his widow, Catherine Gormley O'Meara, a daughter, Miss Mary O'Meara, and two sisters, Sadie E. and Anna M. O'Meara.

His funeral is to be held Wednesday morning at 9.15, and a solemn requiem mass at St. Francis' church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Delegations from numerous trade organizations will attend the funeral. Honorary pallbearers are to be named later.

Thomas Burke, general secretary of the national body of the plumbers and steamfitters union, will come on from Chicago for the services and Hugh Frayne of New York, representative of the American Federation of Labor, will attend.

The six labor representatives who, with Mr. O'Meara made up the executive board of the state federation, will attend in a body. They are Daniel A. Gorman of Danbury, senior vice president; Arthur Wallace of Greenwich; Charles Moore of Torrington, Joseph Baker of New London, Otto Schutz of Hartford and John J. Eagan of Bridgeport, secretary and treasurer.

The entire executive boards of the state carpenters' union, the general representative, William J. Sullivan, the executive board of the state building trades council and delegates from individual labor unions from all over the state will als obe among the mourners.

The New Haven trades council will hold a meeting tonight at the trades council hall in Meadow street to adopt a resolution on the death of Mr. O'Meara, according to John W. Murphy, its business agent.

The secretary of the State Federation, summoned a meeting of the executive board for Tuesday night to take action on the death, it was announced.

QUICK JUSTICE FOR NEGRO SLAYER OF WHITE GIRL

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Halted temporarily by irate spectators who had threatened a lynching and necessitated the firing of warning shots and the calling out of national guardsmen, the first Sunday court trial in North Carolina came to a dramatic end here today with the sentencing to death of Larry Newsome, 23 year old Negro, for the murder of Buela Tedder 15 year old daughter of a Tenant farmer.

The sentence, coming barely 60 hours after the body of the young girl was found in a cotton field near here with her throat cut, was pronounced only after a near panic in the courtroom and as the presiding judge, Henry A. Grady, sat with a huge automatic pistol at his side ready to squelch any further disorder.

The trouble began about five minutes after court convened when Eric Tedder, father of the dead girl, and William Tedder, his brother, advanced through the packed and stuffy little room toward the Negro each taking an arm of the prisoner. They lifted the Negro half way out of his chair as shouts of "get him" and "take him" broke from a dozen throats in the crowd and others surged toward the prisoner.

A general stampede following with many breaking for the exits and court attaches and newspapermen taking cover under tables and behind the jury box. Tables, chairs and cuspidors were knocked topsy turvey and one man jumped through the pane of a door.

Officials quickly surrounded the prisoner and beat off his assailants. With his shirt nearly torn from his back, the Negro was taken to an adjacent room and a guard placed about him. Sheriff W. D. Grant placed his back to the door and fired two shots into the ceiling as a warning.

William and Eric Tedder were seized, the former being forced to sit through the remainder of the trial handcuffed to two officers, while the latter sat unshackled but under guard.

Meantime, Battery A of the 113th Field Artillery, National Guard, was called and, with sidearms sat about Newsome during the rest of the trial.

After hearing evidence for three hours, the jury retired and brought in its verdict in 15 minutes. Newsome was rushed by automobile under troop escort to Raleigh where he will die in the electric chair January 13.

FIVE PERSONS PINNED BENEATH TOURING CAR

MERIDEN, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Five persons were pinned beneath a touring car which skidded and turned over after striking a frog in the trolley tracks on Cook avenue here at 10:30 o'clock tonight. One of them is severely injured while the others escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

STEAMER AGAWA BELIEVED TO BE A TOTAL LOSS

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., Dec. 11—(AP)—The crew of the steamer Agawa, stranded off Manitoulin Island, was removed today by the tug General, according to reports received here. Part of the rescued men were landed at Little Current, Ont. The men were all in good physical condition, according to the reports. The Agawa is believed to be a total loss.

Coast guardsmen while taking the crew of the Agawa to Detour, sighted the wreck of a steamer, identified as the Lambton, a 250 foot freighter, loaded with grain which had crashed ashore off Isle Parisienne. The vessel had broken in two and was heavily coated with ice.

The Lambton, downbound for the head of the lakes, carried a crew of 22 men, but there was no sign of life about the boat. The coast guard cutter was unable to approach the wreck because of the heavy ice formations and the tugs Illinois and Sabin were called out from here.

SUBPOENA ISSUED FOR WM. RANDOLPH HEARST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Three of the subpoenas reported to have been issued by the special senate committee named to investigate the Mexican-United States senatorial charges in the Hearst newspapers were understood from information emanating from committee quarters tonight to have been for William Randolph Hearst, Arthur M. LOOT FROM INT. SILVER CO. IS LOCATED IN CHAPLIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 12.—A flood of table silverware through mysterious sources from the International Silver company of Meriden is believed to have been checked with the arrest of Joseph Di Maro, 36, of this city, a worker in the plant, and Mrs. Josephine De Mauro, 40, of Chaplin, his alleged accomplice and "sales agent." While on the trail of the silver thief at the Meriden plant, the police of that city Saturday noon arrested Di Maro as he was leaving his place of employment. A search of his clothing revealed that they were heavily lined with 130 pieces of knives, forks and spoons cleverly arranged about the waist and trousers. A subsequent search of the man's residence disclosed a cache in the garage where 300 pieces of silverware were found.

According to the Meriden police Di Maro said that he disposed of the silver to Mrs. Josephine De Mauro. He did not give the woman's address but said that she resided near Willimantic and that she was the mother of a deaf mute daughter. Captain of Police McLean received a telephone message from Meriden early Saturday afternoon and he immediately started an investigation and ascertained the identity of Mrs. De Mauro. The case being out of local jurisdiction the state police of Danielson were notified and Lieutenant Urquhardt came here to join Lieutenant Carroll and Sergeant Quinn of the Meriden police, who in company with Police Captain McLean and State Policeman Paul Lavin of Hartford went to the De Mauro home a short distance east of Sherman's corners on the Clark's corner road. Mrs. De Mauro was away and the police found no resistance from her husband and their daughter. From various sections of the house the police brought out a substantial amount of various silverware articles considerable of which was the product of the Meriden company. The officers also took into custody two large trunks filled with goods believed to have been stolen. One of the trunks was filled with some 200 pieces of chinaware dishes, fancy drinking glasses and odd pieces of silverware. The other was packed with thread yarns of various colors. Some of the china was wrapped in copies of this newspaper dated April, 1927, leading the police to believe that it may have been stolen about that time.

It was learned that the woman was "peddling" in this city for the afternoon. While tracing her about the city Police Captain McLean learned that she had but very recently sold silverware to Solomon Haddad, Main street resident. The silver was recovered and held for evidence. The woman was found and arrested about six o'clock in the evening by Officer Arthur Hurley as she was about to board the Danielson bus on Railroad street to return to her home. She was charged with having stolen goods in her possession and turned over to the Meriden authorities to be brought there for trial. In a black grip which she carried there was a quantity of the silver, apparently stock which she had failed to sell. Mrs. De Mauro carrying her black handbag was a familiar figure about the streets here but as near as could be learned no one had any suspicion that her business was illegal in nature.

It was said that Mrs. De Mauro disclaimed receiving stolen goods from the Meriden man whose arrest led to her apprehension, and that she informed the police that the source of her silver was from her sister-in-law who resides in Middletown. This assertion was being checked up today.

The audit report of the accounts of the town of Coventry was accepted at the adjourned annual meeting held at the town hall, South Coventry, on Saturday afternoon with about 100 electors present. Frank E. Hull was moderator. The audit was conducted by two Hartford auditors employed for the work and the result of the auditing was explained by Charles F. Coates, one of the auditors. Mr. Coates made several recommendations and the following committee was appointed to consider these and report at the next annual town meeting: Frank E. Hull, A. E. Harmon, Clarence E. Hoxie, Thomas Welles, Ernest H. Woodward and Charles Hinckley. First Selectman William E. Higgins and Ernest H. Woodward stated that they had inspected the audit accounts and found them satisfactory. It was voted to authorize the town to borrow the sum of $1,173.93 to pay for the audit. A vote of thanks was extended Auditors Coates and Henry Bradway, and Town Clerk Louis W. Daniels and Moderator Hull for their assistance to the auditors.

Several hundred visitors were in this city Saturday afternoon and evening for the closing exercises noting the day of festivities following Friday's institution of Yembo Sanctorum, No. 261, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans in this city. The visitors came from various sections of New England and New York state. At four o'clock in the afternoon the Korum band of Hartford gave a concert on the street. The "moonfeast" followed in I. O. O. F. hall and a street parade followed at 6.30 o'clock. The ceremonies of the evening were held in the town hall and were in charge of the regular Korum staff of Hartford headed by District Deputy Supreme Monarchos John McIntyre. The Korum Sanctorum patrol featured in an exhibition drill at 9.30. There were brief remarks by the supreme officers including Supreme Counsellor Frank W. Whiton of Hartford, Supreme Secretary John L. Hayden of Schenectady, N. Y., and Supreme Monarchos Edgar S. Mosher of Auburn, N. Y. Newly elected Venerable Friar Charles A. Gates and Grand Monarch C. WESTERLY

BROKEN JAW THE RESULT OF A ROAD HOG'S CROWDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 11.—As the result of an automobile accident about 7 p. m. Saturday near Matunoc on the Boston Post road, Elwood Eccleston, of Ashaway, is a patient at the South County hospital, Wakefield, suffering with a fracture of the jaw. Alexander Gavitt, of Pawcatuck, who accompanied him, escaped with a shaking-up and Miss Rose Slater, of Wakefield, suffered injuries to her knees. Both young men were returning to Westerly from Newport, where they are employed. At Narragansett they were delayed by auto trouble and when near the summer home of Col. Everett St. J. Chaffee, of the Rhode Island state police, they noticed an auto parked on the side of the road which started out slowly as they were about to pass and then, putting on more speed, cut to the right, ahead of them. The Ford coupe was forced into a gully and came down on a guard rail on the roadside, badly smashing the car and catching Ecclestone between the door and steering wheel. The car ahead continued without stopping, when Gavitt summoned two men who had been riding with them to come back and help extricate the young man. A passing autoist took Eccleston to the hospital and he was given treatment by Dr John P. Jones, of Wakefield. State troopers were called from the Wickford barracks to investigate the accident.

STONINGTON

MRS. PHILIP J. NORTON DEAD AT EDGARTON, MASS.

The death of Mrs. Constance M. Fort Norton, 32, wife of Philip J. Norton, county clerk of Duke's County, Mass., occurred at Edgartown, Mass., early Saturday morning, after a lingering illness. She was the daughter of Albert and Ann Francis Fort, of Stonington and was born at Colne, England, Feb. 4th, 1905. She was graduated from Stonington high school in 1921 and from the American Institute of Music, Normal Methods, Boston, in 1925. She was formerly organist of Calvary Episcopal church, the First Baptist church of Stonington and the Methodist church at Mystic, also supervisor of music at the Edgartown schools and organist of the Episcopal church in that town. She was a member of the Calvary church, Stonington and of Calvary Fellowship. Surviving are her husband, parents and a sister, Miss Marjory Fort. The body was brought to Stonington Saturday afternoon and to the home of her parents on Water street.

At the whist held in the K. of C. home Friday evening, prizes were won by Mrs. Sarah L. Crowley, Miss Flora Bergeron, James C. Maxson and Sabrine Santos. Refreshments were served and dancing followed.

At the assembly of Stonington high school Friday morning typewriting awards were made to Alma Doughty for 48 words and Eleanor McKenzie for 46 words. The cup given by Mr. Kolinsky, of New London for the champion football team of eastern Connecticut, was presented by Supt. W. R. Snyder to the principal of the high school, Norman Stickney who in turn presented it to the captain of the football team, R. Cella. C. R. Cowan of Stonington also gave football trophies which were presented to the following football players of the first team: J. Stefanski, P. Bergel, E. Alto, T. Smith, R. Ciagen, C. Cowan 3rd, R. Cella, W. Bryer, R. Dimmock, K. Powers and M. Cronin.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thorpe have returned to Glenridge, N. J., after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. George H. Robinson.

Edmund P. Hyde returned Friday from a few days' vacation in New York.

Loran Daboll of New London called on friends here Friday.

DANIELSON

LOCAL CONTRACTS TO BUILD PLANING MILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Dec. 1.—Preparatory work is now under way that will lead to the construction during the winter season on Railroad street, at a point about opposite Oak street, of a large stockhouse and planing mill, in one building, for LaBelle and Page, local contractors.

Joseph LaBelle of the firm said this afternoon that the building to be constructed is to be 40 by 100 feet, two stories in height. It will have a concrete foundation and floor and will be of frame and steel construction, giving virtually a fireproof building.

The new building is to be equipped with up-to-date planing mill machinery and will be of such size as to permit of the storage at all times of large quantities of avariety of lumber.

It is to be constructed on land leased from the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company under a long term agreement, the railroad company not desiring to sell the land outright. The site borders a siding of the railroad company, a fact that made it specially desirable for the purpose to which it is to be devoted.

Work on the building is to be rushed and, with reasonably favorable conditions, should be finished and in use within a few weeks.

Today was set apart by the ecclesiastical society of the Westfield Congregational church for the annual Every-Member canvass, which involves visitations to members for the purpose of obtaining pledges for the support of the work of the church during the coming year. The committee in charge of today's activities was made up of Frank J. G. Bailey, Judge Sabin S. Russell, Robert M. Tyrell and A. P. Woodward.

The two budgets recently adopted by the church aggregate $6,500. The budget for current expenses calls for $5,873, this to be raised through pledges by members. The budget for world service and benevolences of the church amounts to $1,400.

The first real pressure of the holiday rush made itself felt in the stores of Danielson on Saturday. Business men related today that the sales were in such volume as to be highly encouraging for the Christmas trade, and they were particularly pleased because the buyers numbered such a number of people from out of town. It would appear that the merchants are now beginning to realize dividends on the heavy expenditurs they have made in the past three weeks to bring shoppers into this community.

It would appear that December is planning to do much of its storming on Sundays. A cold rain, with the wind in a southerly direction, set in shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, and recalled to the minds of many that the preceding Sunday brought a bitter snow and sleet storm. If the rule for Sunday storms in December holds good, Christmas is destined to be a gloomy day, weatherwise, but, on the other hand, it may be perfect. No one but a hard-boiled long distance weather forecaster would attempt to tell one this early just what weather the holiday will produce.

A reaction against voting for democratic candidates for selectmen appears to have set in among republicans who have happened to har about some of the rather acrimonious sessions that the board of selectmen have nowadays, with Alcott D. Sayles, democrat, of East Killingly, as first selectman, by court decision. Nothing about this has previously appeared in print. Possibly the situation will develop plenty of publicity later; possibly not, all depending on circumstances. However, it may be stated at this time, as was pointed out in this column long ago, that a lone democrat, as first selectman, may only prevail when the majority of two republican members decide that he should. The information is that the republicans have not been deciding that way recently, for what they believe to be good and sufficient reason. John A. Gilbert, of Danielson, and Napoleon P. Gingras, of Dayville, are the republican members of the board of selectmen. Mr. Sayles admittedly was elected largely through the aid of republican voters, and numbers of these voters are giving some thought just now to the situation they have helped to set up. And it is not such a happy one as it might be.

The booster coupons being given to the trade by half a hundred Danielson business men during the Christmas season had had one unlooked for beneficial result. It has been the means, one hears, of bringing payments on overdue accounts, that those who owe them may get coupons entitling them to share in the gifts given away. This is a favorable circumstance of a big drive for business that appears to have been largely overlooked when the program for making Danielson a shopping Mecca during the Christmas season was below worked out.

Henry S. Warren, 70, died Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Omer Breayea, on School street. Mr. Warren had been ill since early in the fall. He was a native of the town of Killingly, a son of Mr and Mrs. Riley Warren, and had lived practically all of his life hereabouts.

Up to sunset this afternoon no motoring accidents of a serious nature had been reported in this section of the county, though the going was particularly treacherous for cars. A Rhode Island car did turn over coming down Hall's hill at South Killingly this afternoon, but the occupants of the machine escaped with a shaking up. A wrecker was sent out from Danielson to right the car, and the accident was checked up by an officer from the Danielson barracks.

Danielson's town basketball team will strive this week for even greater improvement in condition and general team play than it has so surprisingly achieved this early in the season. Coach Bill Schofield is teaching the members some very sound court manoeuvers, and the team seems destined to be one of the fastest in this section of southern New England within a month.

Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Webster, spent the week-end with relatives in Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Getty, of Boston, were visitors here today with Mrs. Marie Getty, of Academy street.

A supper given by McGregor, W. R. C., attracted a large attendance Saturday evening in G. A. R. hall. A Christmas sale was held in conjunction with the supper.

A decision in favor of Ernest Schauffleur, of East Killingly, was given by Judge W. Fenner Woodward in a civil case tried here the past week.

At this evening's service at the Westfield Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, spoke on What and Where is Religion? Miss Mabel Frink and Miss Edith L. Fuller contributed to the special musical program.

Those who have sought for them this fall in territory herabouts where they usually abound, have found that there is a great scarcity of partridge berries.

Drivers of motor cars who have been called upon to take their machines over into some parts of the town east of here, near the Sparks district, are insisting that something should be done to put these highways into condition for safe winter travel, for they are far from that right now, and are, in places, actually dangerous.

Saturday morning brought a temperature of 8 above zero to Danielson, and with it, on small ponds, the first skating of the season for enthusiasts in and near Danielson.

Construction of a house is underway on South Killingly road, just east of the plant of Eastern Daries, Inc., for Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. is to be held Tuesday afternoon in the ladies' parlor at the Westfield Congregational church.

Special officers were on duty Saturday evening to watch over the cars of shoppers parked on the School street school grounds and near the state armory, and this arrangement will continue during the holiday season. These locations offer unlimited parking privileges.

Some additional machinery has been shipped within the past few days from the plants of the Connecticut Mills here to the new mills of the corporation at Albany-Decatur, Ala.

Sales of Christmas seals in Danielson are mounting as Christmas approaches, many people using them in a decorative way on the Christmas packages they are making up.

Henry C. Belisle, of Newton Falls, Mass., was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week-end.

A Saturday evening opportunity for dancing attracted a large number to the state armory, the dance given under the auspices of the Service battery.

From North Sterling comes the complaint that some of the loads of Christmas trees being taken out of that territory by dealers for the Providence market are not always paid for by those who sell them for good prices in the city. If this be true, there ahe heavy penalties awaiting the raiders if someone will arrange for their appearance in court.

This morning at St. Alban's church details relatives to the parish canvass planned for next Sunday were announced.

PUTNAM

SHORTAGE IN THOMPSON TOWN ACCOUNTS IS $11,605.94

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 11—The report of the auditors who have been engaged in the examination of the town records of Thompson as presented at the special meeting on Thursday afternoon showed that the shortage of Dyer S. Elliott as treasurer amounted to $11,605.94 for the two preceding years, which covers the period of their investigation. In accordance with Mr. Elliott's agreement made at the time of his resignation he promptly made good that amount. On October 4 he paid $5,000, on October 27 $422.15 and on November 3, $6,183.80. The auditors said that Mr. Elliott had told them that he had never been able to make his bank balance agree with his records.

The audit is being made by Hadfield, Rothwell & Soule, of Hartford, who were engaged by the selectmen some two months ago. The board at that time consisted of Wilfred H. Bellerose, Charles V. Chase and George E. Whitney. Two weeks lake Mr. Bellerose died after two weeks illness and Mr. Chase resigned to accept the position of clerk and treasurer to fill the vacancy when Mr. Elliott resigned.

These vacancies were filled at the special election Thursday when Joseph A. LaFontaine and Frank Kies, the only candidates, were chosen. They met Saturday and their first business was to pay the bills against the town which had been left unpaid for six weeks.

Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows was well represented at the institution at Willimantic Friday night of Yembo Sanctorum No. 261, A. M. O. S., and a number of the charter members of the new branch of the order were from here. There was as equally as large an attendance at the ceremonies Saturday afternoon and Saturday night.

Mrs. Ellen Smith, 68, widow of the late Barak Smith and a resident of Putnam for the past 49 years, died Friday night at the home of her daughter, Miss Mae Smith, Main street, organist at the Liberty theater, after a long illness. She had been making her home with her daughter for the past six months.

Mrs. Smith was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to this country when a young woman of 19, making her home in Putnam. She is widely known in this city and was a prominent member of the Congregational church.

She is survived by two sons and one daughter, Barak K. Smith and J. Wallace Smith, both of Putnam and Miss Mae Smith with whom she had been making her home in Webster. One sister, Mrs. Lizzie Smith of Putnam and three grandchildren, Elizabeth, Thelma and Sonny Smith, all of Putnam.

PUTNAM HIGH SENIOR PLAY A DECIDED SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 11—A full house greeted the annual presentation of the play of the senior class of Putnam high school given Friday evening at the Bradley theatre. The play chosen this year was the dramatized version of "Bab," from Mary Roberts Rinehart's popular novel. It was produced under the direction of John P. Heald of Webster who was the coach for the class of last year in its dramatic offering.

Miss Madelyn Houghton in the title role made a distinct hit and was given generous recognition of conception of the part and the way in which she played it. The other characters were all well taken. The cast was as follofs:

James Archibald, Milton Nelson; William, the butler, Alfred Benoit; Mrs. Archibald, Nadgy Nahibpwitz; Lelia Archibald, Judith Sabin; Hannah, the maid, Mildred Blackmer; Carter Brooks, Richard McCauley; Bab, younger daughter of the Archibalds, Madelyn Houghton; Jane Rawley Perry, Alice Perry; Clinton Beresford, John Myers; Eddie Perkins, Thomas Arnold; Guy Grosvenor, Domnick Bove.

The business manager was Henry Arnold; the music was by the P. H. S. orchestra. The treasurer of the senior class was enriched by a substantial amount as the result of their histrionic efforts.

FUNERAL OF W. J. SHERMAN IS LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Dec. 11—Funeral services for Walter J. Sherman, who died Wednesday night at the Norwich sanatorium, were held at his home on Farrows street in this city at 11:30 Saturday morning. The body was taken to Dedham, Mass., for burial.

Rev. James F. English of the Congregational church conducted the services. The bearers were his three sons and other relatives. The sons are Ray, Rainsford and Russell Sherman, the latter a student at Putnam high, D. A. Johnson of Norwood, Mass., Douglas Johnson of Norwood, and Harold Johnson of Watertown, Conn.

Besides the children, Mrs. Sherman has two sisters, Mrs. Austin Johnson of Norwood, Mass., Mrs. H. F. Williamson of Anniston, Ala., and one brother, Ross Sherman of Hyde Park, Mass. He and Mrs. Johnson attended the services here and accompanied the body to Dedham.

Ladies' night at the Masonic club Friday night brought out a large attendance. Supper was served at the club rooms from 6:30 to 8 o'clock, and afterwards there was bridge and other card games, and dancing on the second floor for those who cared for it.

Mrs. Marie Dupre St. George died at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at her home on Woodstock avenue, aged 52 years. Her health had not been good for the past three years but death came suddenly and unexpectedly. She was engaged in her household duties Saturday morning.

She is survived by her husband, Paul St. George, and three sons, Theresa, Adrian and Girard. Theresa is a student at the Putnam high school. Her father, Alfonse Dupre, is living and there are five sisters and six brothers. They are Mrs. Chagnon of Warwick, R. I., Mrs. Sylvester Alenby, of Oklahoma, Leonie Dupre of Oklahoma, Sister Charles Alvarez of Hartford, and Sister Magdalene of Bridgeport. The brothers are Alfonse, David Noel, Alexander and Aldege Dupre, all of this city. Noel conducts a specialty store for women on Main street.

JEWETT CITY

LOCAL MASONS AT NORWICH FOR A. L. ALLEN'S FUNERAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Dec. 11.—A delegation from Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., Lawrence G. Drescher, master, conducted the committal services at the funeral of Albert L. Allen, in Norwich, Sunday. Mr. Allen became a member of Mt Vernon lodge in Jewett City Nov. 17, 1874, being then a resident of Hanover, over which, then as now, this lodge holds jurisdiction. bT ebearers were two members of the local order and two from Somerset lodge, of Norwich.

Barber and Bugbee, Gilbert's Court, first class battery service.—adv.

Great flocks of English starlings are seen in the borough's vacant lots and gardens, and about Griswold fields and pastures. During the summer here, a large per cent of the starlings' housekeeping is done in the church belfries, where they are very much of a nuisance.

Walks about the borough streets during the heavy shopping hours of Saturday evening, served to give to the passersby, a picture of attractive window displays.

A number of Jewett City people, reading in The Bulletin Saturday, about the purchase of Steamer City of Gloucester by the Thames River Transportation Co., are pleased to recall the trips they have enjoyed from Boston to Gloucester on the "Old Reliable."

Finn's tonight, Jack Holt and Esther Ralston in The Blind Goddess.—adv.

Joseph Dumais, of North Stonington, formerly of Glasgo, died in Norwich Sunday. His father and mother are now living in Canada. Three sisters also survive, Mrs. George Campbell, of Jewett City, Mrs. Catherine Dayon, of North Oxford, Mass., and Mrs. Rose Clack, of Westerly, R. I., also a brother, Albert Dumais, of Baltic.

Funeral services for Henry Derusha were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's church where Rev. J. J. McCabe celebrated a requiem mass. The offertory, Pie Jesu, and the waiting hymn, Beau Ciel, were sung by Mrs. Noel Garand. The bearers were John B. LeClaire, William Maynard, George Jarvis, Albert LaBarre, Antoine St. John and Wilfred LeClaire. Father McCabe read the committal service at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon. Hourigan Bros. were the funeral directors in charge.

E. M. Gray, a past master of Mount Vernon lodge, attended the recent Past Masters' celebration at the Masonic Temple, Norwich, when as a worshipful bother of Somerset, Justin Holden took his seat in the East. With pleasure Worshipful Brother Gray recalls that close to 30 years ago. He and a party of brethren from Mt. Vernon were guests of its Mother lodge, Somerset. On that evening, Justin Holden was the master of Somerset.

Touching the high water activities of the Quinebaug at Jewett City, it is learned from E. F. Burleson that the rise, as the result of last week's storm, amounted to three feet. Following the great rains of the first week in November, the Quinebaug, on Saturday morning, the 5th, ran 12 feet above its normal early fall marks, which was entirely unprecedented. Mr. Burleson's home, in Sylvandale, overlooks the Quinebaug.

The report, that the case of Jerome Gareaux, of Providence, bound over to the superior court on a charge of manslaughter, for causing the death of Fred S. Campbell, has been closed, is incorrect. The January term of the superior court for New London county will see the case up for trial.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Soule have moved for the winter, from their Quinebaug camp home to the tenement in the Haskell block on Main street.

The Newent Ladies' Aid society is to meet at the home of Miss S. K. Adams Tuesday afternoon.

Finn's, tonight, The Blind Goddess, with Jack Holt and Esther Ralston. Regular prices.—adv.

Dorcas Circle of the King's Daughters meets at the home of Miss M. A. Burdick Tuesday evening. The Christmas scrap books are to be finished. Each member is to make some sick child happy with a gift for Christmas, to be brought to this meeting, and later sent to a Children's hospital.

Timothy Duggan spent Sunday with his son in Dedham, Mass.

NOANK

SMELT-CATCHING CHAMP—NOW SPEARS EELS AND COINS

Rollin Rathbun has put away his smelt pole and is trying something new in the fish sport line. He is seling on the flats, across the harbor. Friday morning the cold wind was blowing hard, but the smelt champion was working away. Soon his spear hit something and getting it to the top of the water it was a man's pocketbook with an American two cent piece, date of 1888. The pocketbook was old-fashioned, made years ago. Besides this Rollin had a good catch of eels—123 pounds, was marked on his book.

An old house on the side of Fort Hill was built when the Indians were fighting through these parts, say 200 years ago. It was told by the village mail carrier that he used to attend meetings there when a colored minister spoke every Sunday. Later it was turned into a tenement house where a man and his wife lived for a long while. Later it was claimed in the village that the house was haunted and that someone was seen coming out of there wrapped in a sheet, scaring people. Now the old house has been torn down by an outside workmen and the lumber taken away, so it stands no longer as the haunted house on Fort Hill. It is owned by the town of Groton officials.

Raymond Jones was in New Britain over the week end, with friends.

George Marks is employed as carpenter with Eugene McDonald.

Eugene McDonald is staking out a large cottage at Land's End, Groton Long Point, for a party in Pennsylvania. The house is to be ready by the first of April.

Freeman Rogers had some of his row boats damaged badly in the last storm by the high tide. The boats were over at Groton Long Point. He has sent his truck over, bringing them back to his boat shop for repairs.

Miss Annie Spicer is visiting in New York for a week.

At the district meeting of the American Legion held in Main hall, Mystic, Friday evening, 70 Legionnaires and auxiliary members turned out to see Commander Peck swing the gavel. Legion colors and Old Glory were in full sight of all the ex-service men. Norwich, Taftville, Montville, Stonington, Lyme and New London posts were represented. It was voted to take care of the children of disabled soldiers, whom a 10 cent present would help make happy. For the good of the order, word came from New Britain post to have a race with New London society for a gain in membership. A prize will be given the leader After the meeting the tables were set and ex-Army Cook Wilford Lamphere and his assistant cooks, Eddie Morgan and E. Francke served a north dock clam chowder, while the auxiliary helped with the cake and coffee. Dancing followed with Aly Geyer's Happy five orchestra playing. The fox trox was danced by twenty couples; then an old-fashioned Virginia Reel was formed young and old getting in on that. Prof. George Moore called off Stretch Morrison gave a hand-saw solo and played "Over There." E. Francke told about his trip to England on a slow, ice-cart steamer that took 15 days to make the trip. He said some coons aboard were seasick, and one wanted to know where the trees were, so they could tie up for the night. Eddie Morgan, E. Francke, Dobson and Arthur Berry worked hard and made the district meeting a success.

Several American Mechanics and Daughters of America went to Providence by automobile and attended the Mechanics' meeting and social held in that city. Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ashcraft, Leverett Thompson, Miss Mary Latham and Eli Schoonmaker.

A car-load of ice is at the railroad station, consigned to a local dealer.

Coast Guard patrol boat No. 224 was placed on the south ways at the shipyard for repairs, painting and carpenter work. It will take about a week before the boat leaves for sea duty on the Long Island sound.

UNJUST TREATMENT

We have reached that time of the year when, as The Waterbury American says, the "stage is being set for the yearly farce of the last minute campaign for new automobile markers." This means that as the end of the year draws nigh the line of applicants waiting for their 1928 registrations will increase each day and the applicant who has driven 30 to 40 miles and perhaps spent a half day in the town may find the door shut in his face when the minute of closing arrives.

There are of course remedies for all this. The auto owner has a chance to have his markers reserved by applying during the month of November. He can also make the most of the early days of this month to apply for his 1928 tags and he can get a friend to do his waiting for him. Furthermore there is an opportunity to make application by mail for the markers by writing to the motor vehicle department in Hartford. This is the ideal method for those residing outside of the cities which have branch offices to employ, provided they get about it early enough, for it eliminates the standing in line. The only drawback about it is that the law requires the applicant to swear before a notary public concerning the correctness of the statements in the application and while this expense is met by the motor vehicle department at the branch offices it falls upon the applicant who uses the mail.

If residents of cities which have branch offices of the motor vehicle department are obliged to stand long hours in line before getting their markers, it causes indignation if sufficient help is not provided to meet the rush season demand, but even more indignant must be the auto owner who is obliged to drive the necessary miles to the nearest branch, spend the time that is required in waiting and then drive home again, if in fact he is able to get his markers the first day. He knows he is being unfairly treated. He knows that advantages are being provided for part of the residents of the state and he knows that disadvantages are being inflicted upon others.

His best method is to mail his application to Hartford and hope to get it handled in time for first of the year use for his markers, but he also knows that if branch offices were provided for his markers, but he also knows should be, there would be an elimination of this unfairness. Is it too much to think?

CHRISTMAS CLUB RESULTS

This isn't a month when there is any special observance in behalf of thrift, but it is a month when there is an effective demonstration of what thrift can and does do. This is disclosed through the many Christmas clubs which have a membership running well up into the millions and which add in bringing about savings of more than a half billion dollars a year.

Perhaps it would be incorrect to say that none of the members had ever saved money in the past, but it is unquestionable that this method has been instrumental in highly meritorious by them in the money to save and who need just such a systematic pressure to cause them to toe the mark. They need that encouragement, that goal, something to aim at, in order to conquer their inclinations to use their money in other ways.

That the Christmas clubs are accomplishing excellent results is clearly shown by the fact that they continue to exist and grow. The desirability of having a fund to draw upon for Christmas gifts is readily recognized, but the system does much more than that for no sooner do the members come to recognize the merits of such a plan than they quickly apply it on a larger scale. If it is a good thing to save for Christmas it is quite as desirable to put some money aside for any one of the many future needs that may be encountered, for the proverbial rainy day, for the use of the individual when something is desired which current funds will not acquire.

Many a person has been inspired to a permanent bank account by the good results obtained in Christmas clubs. That personal contact, or the experience of some friend or neighbor, with such a method of saving has carried conviction. Those who began saving for Christmas are establishing permanent savings accounts for general purposes. They are getting a new insight into thrift and understand the valuable assistance that can be obtained from the savings bank. The Christmas clubs are telling an old, old story in a different way.

GUN ELEVATION

Gun elevation has long been under discussion. It has been urged in connection with certain of our battleships because it is impossible to elevate the guns to a point where it will be possible to throw shells the same distance.

Whenever this question has been raised opposition to it has developed from the claim that it would be in violation of the Washington agreement. A close reading of the terms of the treaty has shown that such is not the case, no restrictions have been placed upon such a change. On the other hand it is possible to show that other countries have actually carried out this very thing since the agreement went into effect.

Inasmuch as there was nothing in the treaty against it there was no violation on the part of the other countries. By the same reasoning there is no legitimate opposition to it on the part of other countries if the United States should do likewise.

By the alteration of ships so that greater elevation of guns can be obtained other countries have increased the fighting value of those ships. Their efficiency is greater. They have departed from the situation which prevailed when the agreement was made, but have not done so illegally.

In order to keep our fleet up where it belongs in comparison with others it is proper that changes providing for greater gun elevation should be made. The house has been convinced that there is no violation of the agreement in such a move and realizes that it means only providing for bringing our battleships up to an equality with those of other countries which are party to the agreement.

CHRISTMAS TREES

With the carloads, or trainloads, of Christmas trees going to market at this season of the year, there is provided a subject for the conservationist. These trees are cut, marketed, used, discarded and burned or otherwise destroyed within a period of six weeks. They assist in carrying out a pretty custom and providing attractive decorations difficult to obtain in any other way.

So long as it was considered that the cutting of the millions of trees meant a serious inroad into the timber supply of this country there was much outspoken opposition manifested. But this is rapidly disappearing.

There isn't any stronger advocate of forestry and reforestation than the American Tree association. None tries to give protection to the trees any more persistently. This organization however, has made a study of the Christmas tree situation and denies that it endangers the forest reserves of this country.

There are those who are in the business of growing Christmas trees. When such trees are cut they represent only those which have been grown for that purpose in such instances, and it is pointed out that other cuttings represent only the necessary thinning out what good forestry requires. Likewise there are those trees used for Christmas purposes which would never contribute anything to the timber resources of the country, and it is quite natural that those states which can grow them should be desirous of doing so for the purpose of serving the demands of those commonwealths and make importations unnecessary. Christmas trees can be and are quickly replaced. They are a profitable product.

TOLL HIGHWAYS

Among the bills submitted to congress is one authorizing private capital to construct a system of "express" highways which would provide up-to-date trunk lines where needed for the quick movement of automobile traffic. The legislation would permit of the charging of tolls for such facilities with the provision that at some time the highway would become public property. This would come about at such a time as private capital had been reimbursed.

The idea is based upon that which surrounds the construction of many bridges. Auto traffic fusses and fumes because it is required to wait for transportation across streams by ferry. Delays are aggravating because facilities are inadequate and crossings are slow. The result is that private capital steps in and indicates its willingness to overcome the situation by the building of bridges, on which toll is charged, with the provision that the state can acquire such bridges at some later time if it desires.

There are many much congested highways where an express route would get extensive patronage even though toll should be exacted. It has been so with toll bridges, it is so with the new tube under the Hudson river with its quick means of getting from one side of the river to the other, it was so with the Thames and Connecticut river bridges and Rhode Island recognizes its benefits by authorizing such construction of a bridge between Bristol and Newport to replace a ferry. Tolls may not make their appeal. They are not exactly popular, but when those who pay them are given certain service they don't appear so unreasonable.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Slice cabbage for slaw or salad just before using.

If brown sugar is used for a boiled frosting it will never hearden.

Cubes of mint jelly make a pleasant garnish for salmon loaf.

Spread the nut meats out on a bread board and roll with rolling pin instead of chopping.

If you wish fish to retain its flavor do not let it stand in water.

Scrubbing with dry mustard will remove the odor and taste from utensils in which strongly flavored foods have been cooked.

Have your furnace cleaned now and you will be ready for winter.

If you use sadirons, keep two holders and change them each time you change irons, thus keeping the palms of the hand cool.

After cleaning carpets rub them with a cloth wrung out of ammonia water to revive the colors.

The electric bill will be smaller if you always turn off the lights when leaving the room, if only for a short time.

For the child's study table one of the new globe lamps of glass, on wooden standard, would be appreciated.

On a cold day try lima bean loaf in place of meat.

Add a teaspoonful of onion juice to each quart of potatoes when mashing them, as it adds much to the flavor.

A teaspoonful of ammonia added to the ---- and water that handkerchiefs are boiled in will make them white.

A fine sandwich filling may be made from equal quantities of chopped peanuts and grated celery, mixed with salad dressing.

Powdered borax may be used in place of wax when a floor is to be used for dancing and wax is not available.

Dry enamel and graniteware with a toiwel. Drying with heat will crack them, as the heat causes expansion.

THE NEW GRIDDLE

It is very foolish to start by greasing the new griddle, as it only means future grease and smoke and a disagreeable griddle to handle. Tie a handful of salt in a small bag and rub this on the griddle before pouring on the batter. After a few usings you will find the griddle will work just as well without being greased.

FLANNEL CLEANS OILCLOTH

When washing oilcloth, very little water should be used, as it is apt to soak through the cloth and rot it. Use a flannel well wrung out and wipe the floor until it is as dry as you can get it.

TO PREVENT MILDEWING

To prevent shoes from mildewing in a dark closet during warm, damp weather keep them on shoe trees or stuffed with paper and placed in a well-ventilated, dry, light place. If any mildew is found wash it off with warm water and soap, or simply wipe off and dry the leather well afterward.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Never awaken a patient from sleep to take medicine except by special orders of the attending physician.

It is criminal for a mother to nurse a sick child whom she cannot induce to take the prescribed medicine.

Medicines, spoons, bandages, dishes or anything used directly in connection with the patient should not be in the sick room when not in actual use.

If your hands perspire to the extent that you ruin kid gloves, try placing a piece of absobent cotton in the palm of your gloves and see if this does not take up the moisture and prevent stained gloves.

Nothing takes the place of soap and water for hand washing. Some women prefer to mix finely shaved soap with oatmeal or almond meal. The important thing is to choose a mild soap in which there is a good proportion of oil, and then to supplement this if your skin demands it with additional oil in the form of a lotion or cream until the skin has become adjusted to the changed temperature.

WHILE VACATIONING

To keep your plants alive during a short vacation, place a pail of water on a level with your plants. Put an end of a loosely woven rope in the pail and the other end resting on the plant at the roots. This will prevent their drying out while you are away. When you arrive home put them in a tub of water for a whole day and give them a good soaking.

PAINT SPOTS ON WINDOWS

Obstinate paint spots on windows may be removed by scraping with an old razor blade and then washing with water in which there is a little ammonia. The most stubborn paint spots on clothing or other fabric will yield to turpentine mixed with ammonia and rubbed into the area to be cleansed.

LAST YEAR'S CLOTHES

If you are not wearing that suit or hat from last year, why not pass it along while it is still in style to some person who needs just that little bit of help? So often we will keep things until they are of no use to any one just because they have become so out of date. Pass it along while it is still a help to some one.

MEND FRAYED SHOES.

When your fabric shoes fray at the toes or elsewhere, just pick up the loose strands and lightly touch them with the thin mucilage or colorless glue and with the finger carefully press the strands down in place. By smoothing over the frayed space you can get the threads in place.

When the mended spot is perfectly dry, apply blacking or ink, if the shoes are black satin. For colored satins or the brocaded, mix water colors to match the shoe shade and apply. Test the color on paper and compare it with the shoes after it has become dry, for, you you, paints become lighter in drying.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Artificial flowers, pink geraniums for instance, have centers of tinsel or gold.

Brilliantly exotic tulips in red, yellow and black are made of feathers.

The hat that has a tiny nose veil of fine black lace is one of the season's novelties.

Satin slippers to match one's favorite dinner frock are a wise purchase. The nicest of these have bows of velvet in the same shade.

The deep intensity of the sapphire is reflected in some of the new coats of velvet or wool. Some are trimmed lavishly with fox dyed the same blue.

A fur coat is smart but a coat of two furs is smarter. A stunning model in seal uses beaver for huge shawl collar and barrel cuffs nearly to the shoulder.

A fascinating new step-in has a molder hip-line. The only trimming is some piping and a little embroidery in the front. The step-in ties in the back, a very new feature.

New garters that are extremely chic are made with a band of woven steel and black beads forming a simple design. These bands are mounted upon shirred elastic and ribbon.

Clever arrangements to wear over thin silk stockings on snowy or bitterly cold days are of wool with fancy borders at the top like golf hose. They are put on before the shoes.

The smart new costume for sportswear during the winter consists of a pull-over sweater and a tweed skirt pleated to allow freedom of action. Over the sweater is worn a coat of bright colored leather.

Nothing can be smarter or more becoming than the coats of black velvet or cloth trimmed with red fox collars and cuffs. Sometimes there are bands of the fur upon the hem or down the front of the coat.

EVENING GOWN FOR BRUNNETTE

Nothing could be more striking for the brunette than an evening gown of geranium pink velvet, with cape of the same. Of course, the velvet is transparent. A self-toned flower trims the gown and the cape is lined with salmon pink.

CORRECT SWEATERS.

Absolutely correct for sports wear is a sweater of very fine wool, with the "underskirt" neck-line, a round rather close fitting one. These lovely sweaters, which come in a number of pastel shades, can safely be washed.

TWEED AND SEAL.

An unusual coat that is at home in both town and country is made of tweed and has a wide collar of seal, which forms two wide bands and continues down each side of the front to the hem. There is a narrow belt and pockets.

BLACK ALLIGATOR LEATHER.

Black alligator leather is smarter than brown. So take this as your cue if you are wondering whether alligator leather is still smart, and buy black alligator oxfords or slippers trimmed perhaps with patent leather to set off the reptile skin.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

When traveling, a hotel dresser drawer turned upside down and padded with bath towels makes a capital ironing board.

When handkerchiefs and garments become yellow, soak them in cold water in which cream of tartar has been dissolved, one teaspoonful to one quart of water, and wash as usual the following day.

Fold clothes carefully before putting them through the wringer. If put through in bunches the clothes are apt to be torn and the strain on the wringer soon tells on the springs, frequently causing breakage.

When the dress has a number of ruffles on it, iron the upper ones first, so they may be turned back. It is wise to remove the dress from the board after the ruffles are ironed and to turn it around so the body of the dress is ready to be ironed and the ruffles are at the end of the board out of harm's way.

HOW TO WASH WOOLENS.

It isn't necessary to go around with golf stockings below the knee, and sweaters above the elbow merely because they've felt the cleansing benefits of soap, says the Delineator. Woolens may be washed with almost no shrinkage if only the proper precautions are observed.

There are four easily avoidable conditions, which tend to destroy the softness of woolens or make them shrink or both. The first is hard rubbing while wet; second, the placing of the material or garment in hot water; third, a sudden change from warm to hot or cold water and the fourth the presence of strong alkali in the water in which they are washed. To keep woolens fluffy and soft and prevent a change in size after laundering, follow these rules:

Wash before very soiled.

Choose a clear, breezy day.

Measure knit goods before wetting or place on frames to dry.

Wash with aid of a mild soap containing no free alkali.

Have water temperature between 95 and 105 degrees F.

Have wash and rinse water same temperature.

Rinse til last water is clear.

Do not twist or ring between tight rolls.

Shape and measure knit goods.

Dry quickly, but not in strong sun.

Place in draught or use electric fan for indoor drying.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women fill the office of probate judge in three counties of Michigan.

More than 30,000 women in the United States fill positions as overseers and forewomen in factories and shops.

Appointment of Mrs. Esther M. Andrews to the governor's council of Massachusetts has brought to that executive body its first woman member.

A charitable institution which lent money to deserving people found that 68 per cent. of the women returned money they had borrowed as against 20 per cent. of the men.

The large brooches which the women of a hundred years ago used to wear with such pride are now in demand for decorative trimmings on almost everything from hats to evening frocks.

Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, wife of a United States navy captain, has been decorated with the order of "El Sol Del Peru" by the Peruvian government. She is the only American holder of the decoration.

SCALING FISH

Hold the fish under running water while scaling it. This will prevent the scales from scattering. Begin at the tail of the fish and scrape toward the head.

KNITTED ROMPERS.

Any mother who is clever with her hands could copy some little rompers seen recently. They were made of pale pink wool and were hand-knitted. A small collar finished the neck in a most becoming way.

THE SPOTTED RAINCOAT

When the raincoat becomes spotted or splashed with mud, a raw potato cut in half and rubbed well on the spots will remove them quite readily.

BOOK-CLEANING HINTS.

The dust and dirt which collect on books not only detract from their appearance but accelerate the process of decay.

A simple method of preserving their looks and life is to rub a woolen cloth, slightly dampened in strong, warm suds of a mild soap, lightly and quickly over the soiled surfaces. Wipe the dampened parts quickly with a dry woolen cloth and the books will be as fresh and clean as when new.

This method is excellent for children's books, which become so badly soiled, and is especially effective for good cloth or leather bound books.

RECIPES

Date Bars—1 cup stoned dates, 1 cup nuts, 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Put dates and nuts through food chopper. Add sugar and beaten eggs and mix well. Add melted shortening, lemon juice, flour and salt and mix thoroughly. Spread evenly in a greased shallow pan, having mixture 1-4 inch deep. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. While hot cut in strips and roll in powdered sugar before serving.

Tutti Frutti Surprises—1 cup chopped dates, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1-4 cup candied orange peel, 1-4 cup candied lemon peel, 1-4 cup candied pineapple, 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 eggs beaten light, 3-4 cup pastry flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons melted shortening.

Add sugar and salt to eggs, beat until foamy. Add shortening. Stir in fruit, last flour and baking powder sifted together. Spread into well greased shallow baking pan 1-2 inch thick and bake in a slow oven (275 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes. When cool cut in squares and roll each in powdered sugar.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On the Defensive, Without a Defense

Mr. Editor: Congressman Schuyler Merritt declares that "the eighteenth amendment is the antithesis of all other amendments which have been put into the Constitution, in that it alone curtails the liberty of the individual." Whereupon the Bridgeport Post declares that "the eighteenth amendment alone 'sticks out like a sore thumb' and puts a sharp limitation upon the rights of the people." These are favorite contentions of the wets; let us see how they stand analysis.

Examine the first ten amendments—"The bill of rights". It is conceivable that many citizens with sincere conviction might wish to make a law for the establishment of religion; but even if they were in a majority the constitution forbids the making of any law for the establishment of religion or to prohibit the free exercise thereof. Some times it seems as if freedom of speech or the press is grossly abused but the constitution forbids any limitation upon free speech or free press. The right to bear arms is sometimes dangerous, but "it shall not be infringed". Quite often criminals escape while officers of the law delay to get a warrant but search and seizure without a warrant are forbidden. Some times citizens in their zeal would deny "a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury" and would take the law into their own hands, and in the name of justice engage in "the taking of life, liberty and property"; but the constitution forbids such action. It is ridiculous to claim that these prohibitions are not limitations of personal liberty. On the contrary, each and every one of them "curtails the liberty of the individual."—for the public good.

Now, turn to the body of the constitution itself and study its many negations and prohibitions. It is not necessary to cite them all—let each citizen read the constitution with these features in mind. Here are a few instances:—

No person shall be a senator unless 30 years of age, etc. No person shall be convicted by impeachment without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members; members of congress shall not be questioned in any other place for any speech or debate; no person shall be a member of either house during his continuance in any other U. S. office, etc., etc. The entire first article of the federal constitution is fairly honeycombed with prohibitions of personal liberty of the citizen. And so on throughout the instrument:—No citizen can be president unless native born, 35 years old, and fourteen years a resident. The president shall not receive any other emolument while in that office. There were nearly 100 of these negations in the federal constitution and its amendments before the 18th amendment arrived, and they are effective bulwarks of the great positive principles of that instrument. They restrain and limit personal liberty, for the public good.

It is stated that the amendment "puts a sharp limit on the rights of the people". What "rights of the people" does the amendment limit. It prohibits "the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquor * * * for beverage purposes". What "rights of the people" are inherent in such a traffic,—a traffic long ago condemned by the supreme court as "a greater source of crime and misery than any other business." What the people have really done, in manner duly provided by the constitution and properly carried out, is to exercise, by an emphatic verdict, repeatedly sustained by the highest court, the "rights of the people" to outlaw a nefarious traffic. It has been said that the 18th amendment "made it forever impossible for any citizen of the United States to have legal authority to enslave his fellowman." Similarly, it may be said that the 18th amendment has made it forever impossible for any citizen of the United States to have legal authority to debauch and ruin his fellowman.

What is the sense of maintaining the "rights" of any man to engage for money profit in a business that invariably damages his patrons? Does anyone now defend the alcoholic beverage traffic on its merits? Has any individual the "right" to engage in a traffic that invariably impairs the efficiency of citizens who patronize it, muddles the brain of any citizen who indulges even in moderation; a traffic which is an unqualified public damage, and is today "on the defensive without a defense"?

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Cabel Frank Gates, who has just celebrated his 70th birthday anniversary and his 25th anniversary as president of Robert college, Constantinople, stands out prominently in the long list of Americans who have devoted their lives to missionary and educational work in foreign lands. For 43 years Dr. Gates has labored continuously for the moral and material welfare of the masses in Turkey. It was in 1881, immediately after his ordination in the Congregational ministry, that he first went to Turkey as a missionary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. In 1894 he became president of Euphrates college, at Harpoot, and after eight years in this position he was called to head Robert college. Dr. Gates is a native of Chicago and a graduate of Beloit college and of the Chicago Theological seminary.

PIPE LINE LAID TO DRAIN MAIN ST. CORNER

Saturday morning a line of tile drainage pipe, about 40 feet long, was laid in Shetucket street to carry off the water which has been collecting in puddles after every rainstorm at the corner of Shetucket and Main streets. The catch basin at that point does not drain off the water, so the new drainage pipe has been laid to another catch basin and it is expected there will be no further trouble from this source.

Scotland Creamery Closes.

Scotland creamery, which has been doing business for nearly forty years, closed Wednesday. This was owing to the fact that the high prices paid the farmer for his milk have proven an inducement for selling, thereby reducing the quantity of cream gathered to an amount that seemed unfavorable for further continuance of the manufacture of butter. With the closing of the creamery, Scotland's only manufacturing industry ceases.

PERSONALS

Flint Brayton of Lincoln avenue is in California on a business trip, expecting to be gone two weeks.

The funeral of Michael B. Downes in Forestville was attended by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Murphy of West Town street.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Michael Murphy

Mrs. Ellen Murphy, widow of Michael Murphy, died early Saturday morning at her home, No. 185 Mt. Pleasant street. Mrs. Murphy was born at Cahirciveen, County Kerry, Ireland, and was the daughter of Mortimer and Mary Kelley O'Connell. She received her education in the convent of the Presentation Nuns in County Kerry, and was among the first Catholic residents in this city. She had always resided on the West Side section of the city.

Surviving Mrs. Murphy are the following sons and daughters: John F. Murphy, receiving clerk for Belt Bros., Mortimer H. Murphy, employed by U. S. Finishing Co., Misses Mary J. Murphy, teacher in Elizabeth street school, Nora, who resides at home, Theresa, a stenographer, Agatha C., dietitian St. Vincents' hospital, New York city, and Lucy A., teacher in Sachem street school.

Mrs. Murphy was united in marriage with Michael Murphy at St. Mary's church by Rev. Daniel Kelly.

Mrs. Malcolm McCloud.

Mrs. Mary McCloud, 85, widow of Malcolm McCloud, formerly of Yantic, died Saturday morning about 2 o'clock in the Hillside Home, in New London, where she had been a resident for 19 years. She was in poor health when she was admitted to the Hillside home in 1908 and had been a bed-ridden invalid for more than a year.

Mrs. McCloud was a native of Vermont. For several years she was employed in Yantic as housekeeper in the home of Jabez Bailey.

She attended services in St. Mary's Star of the Sea church until health compelled her to remain at the home.

Mrs. Martin Kane, matron of the home, and Col. Henry S. Dorsey, charity commissioner, are attempting to locate relatives of Mrs. McCloud.

MOTOR REGISTRATIONS ARE AT SLOW RATE THIS YEAR

Automobile registrations in Connecticut are being made at a slow rate this year, falling below the total of previous years for early applications. No extension of time for the use of 1927 tags is allowed in Connecticut and from present indications the rush of applicants will be great during the closing days of the year. The new markers, for 1928, may be used on December 31 this year, that date being the "last week day" as allowed for the new markers by statute.

Several states have supplied the department with information concerning the dates on which their respective license tags may be used legally. In the District of Columbia 1928 tags may be displayed after December 1st and all cars must be equiped with 1928 tags after midnight, December 31. In Maine 1928 number plates may be displayed on and after December 25, 1927, but 1927 plates cannot be legally displayed after December 31 of this year. New Hampshire allows no extension of time for 1927 tags, but 1928 tags can be legally used the last five days of 1927.

New Jersey 1928 plates may be displayed on and after December 15. South Carolina will allow the use of 1927 markers until January 15, 1928. No extension of time is allowed in Ohio for the use of 1927 markers, but 1928 plates may be displayed after December 21. North Carolina and Pennsylvania have also refused an extension of time for this year's plates while allowing 1928 plates to be displayed on and after December 15.

USING CASTING NUMBER FOR ENGINE NUMBER

The same engine number was used by 982 persons when making out their applications for automobile registrations for 1927. State motor vehicle department records also show that only 31 different engine numbers were used for 1,347 other cars, despite the fact that every car has a number varying in at least one figure from every other car of a similar make.

In one of the above cases was the correct engine number given. The registrants made the mistake of copying the casting number of the cylinder block instead of using the engine or motor number. The most popular number given was 327,773, a casting number, used nearly 1,000 times, and second choice was 272,772, used 400 times.

Casting numbers may be distinguished from engine numbers by the fact that they are raised and engine numbers are either stamped on a plate or on a smooth surface somewhere on the motor. If an applicant finds difficulty in locating the proper engine number reference should be made to the local dealer. To aid registrants in avoiding mistakes of this kind while making their 1928 registrations, the information clerks at all department offices have been given a list of casting numbers of various makes of cars. Engine numbers, as given by the prospective registrants, are being checked with these to determine whether the applicant has copied the proper number as required on the registration form.

WESTERLY MAN CHARGED WITH DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 11.—Jacob Jacobson, 60, quarry man, residing on Chase Hill, was arrested Sunday night about midnight by Lieutenant George H. Champlin for drunken driving. Jacobson, operating his Ford touring car, ran off the Noose Neck Hill road near Meetinghouse bridge, carrying away part of a guard rail and wrecking the front end of his auto. He was unaccompanied and uninjured. Passing autoists reported the accident and Jacobson after examination by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon at the Westerly police station was pronounced under the influence of liquor, and locked up to appear Monday in third district court before Judge Oliver H. Williams.

HIKER WENT TO SLEEP IN HOPKINGTON CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 11—Jack Rhindhart, 18, of Houston, Texas, hiking from Portland, Me., to his native state, was arrested tonight by Chief Frank H. Brown of Hopkington when he was found bunking for the night in the Hopkington City church. He was brought to Westerly and was locked up.

HOLIDAY DECORATIONS AT CHELSEA SAVINGS BANK

A big wreath of green, which is to be electrically lighted at night, makes a seasonable decoration at the front of the Chelsea savings bank and inside in the lobby a prettily decorated Christmas tree is an attraction that has brought forth much admiring comment. The holiday air will be further evidenced by about 25 wreaths that are to be hung around the banking room.

NEW YORK MAN WAS KILLED IN MOTOR CRASH ON MOHEGAN HILL

One man was killed, another lost the sight of both eyes, and two others were cut about the face and head in a head-on automobile collision a little after midnight Saturday on Mohegan hill on the Norwich-Montville highway.

The man killed was William J. Towart, 29, of 463 East 138th street, New York city, where he is said to be a fireman at the 150th street station. He was driving a Durant sedan with registration Z-5903 Conn. The driver of the other machine, a Hudson coach, was Fred J. Grandchamp, 18, of Montville. He was arrested by State Policeman Whitmarsh and held at the Norwich police station without bonds on a charge of manslaughter.

James Towart, 35, also of New York, who was riding with his brother, is in the Backus hospital with a bad scalp wound, Kenneth Laflamme, 16, of Montville, is also a patient at the hospital. He has lost the sight of both his eyes which were cut by broken glass from the windshield. Laflamme was in the Montville man's car as was also John Hudyma of Montville, who was only slightly injured.

The crash occurred about the middle of the hill as the Montville man was driving towards his home and the New York car was coming in the opposite direction down the hill. It is said that the Montville car was on the left side of the highway when the cars met.

William J. Towart was thrown out of his machine and was found some distance away with a piece of the steering wheel in his hand. Laflamme and Hudyma from the other car were also thrown out, and all five men were hurried to the hospital in two automobiles by Stanley Radgowsky of Montville, Theron Woodmansee and Lewey Hoult, both of Thamesville. Towart was dead when the hospital was reached, his head being terrible crushed and his left shoulder broken.

Grandchamp was taken from the hospital to police headquarters where he was attended for lacerations of the forehead and chin by Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, but Laflamme and James Towart remained at the hospital under treatment.

Sunday night Grandchamp was presented before Justice of the Peace J. Y. Miller at Uncasville by Lieut. Streaman of the state police barracks at Groton and he was placed under $200 bonds for a continuance to this (Monday) evening. Bonds were furnished by the young man's father.

Grandchamp stated Sunday afternoon that he had secured an operator's license on May 13th last and was driving a car belonging to his brother at the time of the accident. He said he left his brother's pool room in Montville early in the evening for a dance at Sussman's and had with him James Clark, James Monahan and William Lusineu. They stopped at and took her to the dance. At intermission he left the dance with Miss Quidgeon, he said, and took her home, remaining at her home until about 11.45 when he started back for the dance to bring his three friends home. When he reached the lane leading to Sussman's, he was told that his three friends had gone in another machine. Thereupon he turned his car around and picked up Laflamme and Hudyma to take them home. While driving up Mohegan hill, he claimed that the lights of the other car blinded him and the crash occurred. He was left sitting at the wheel of his car, he said, with blood streaming from cuts on his face and he got out and ran to the foot of the hill to the LaPre garage to get the blood washed off. When this had been done Mrs. LaPre told him he had better go back as the state police had arrived so he went back and was taken to the hospital and then to the police station.

The Towart men are owners of a farm in the Bear hill district of East Killingly which they bought last spring and where their mother lives. There is another son in the family. Mrs. Towart came here Sunday to visit her son in the hospital.

An aftermath of the crash occurred when John Filburn of this city, accompanied by Charles Tilden of the U. S. S. Cassin, drove down to look at the wreck. Filburn's operation of his machine attracted the attention of State Policeman Whitmarsh who chased him, charging him with operating while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving and failure to obey an officer. Tilden was arrested on a breach of the peace charge.

Both were presented Sunday night before Justice of the Peace Miller and placed under $300 bonds for a hearing this (Monday) evening.

The Towart and Grandchamp cars were both reported to be such complete wrecks as to be beyond repair. Both were hauled away by the Katz garage wrecker and taken to New London. Pictures of the machines were taken by Houghton, the photographer.

Dr. Gildersleeve conducted an autopsy Sunday afternoon on the body of Towart, which disclosed that he suffered a broken shoulder and the bones of the head were completely crushed from the top of the head down through the jawbone.

Coroner J. J. Desmond is conducting an investigation of the accident.

DESCRIBES MISSION WORK FOR AMERICAN NEGROES

The Missions department of Park Congregational church held its December meeting on Friday afternoon and an interesting program was presented. Miss Edith Bliss opened the exercises with a selection from Cannon Farrar's book, picturing the journey of Joseph and Mary to Bethlehem and the humble birth of our Saviour into a life of poverty and toil. To the wakeful shepherds came the chorus of angels but the gay royal palace and the grim fortress knew not that a king was born.

After Mrs. James A. Bidwell the secretary had read the report of last meeting, Miss Alice Cogswell spoke of the interesting exercises at the opening of the Storrs church, November 20, and other members added their impressions.

Miss Bliss read a carefully prepared paper on the work of the American Missionary Association for Negroes. Referring to the first group of twenty "negars" brought here in 1619, Miss Bliss showed how degraded had been their position until the Civil war freed them from slavery. Yet slavery left a legacy of poverty. Eighty per cent live in the south and the majority are poor, though some have most wonderful progress and property amounting to a billion dollars is owned by Negroes. Another legacy is that of ignorance, for only one-tenth have had education. The third legacy of moral degradation is bound to be the most lasting. It has bred a feeling of self-contempt and inferiority. The Negro is often called a national problem but he is a national asset as well. His loyalty is notable. He has served his country in every war; he constitutes one-seventh of the working forces; there are thirteen million of him. The race is constantly making progress and already art, science, music and literature have interpreters of distinction from the colored man, as H. O. Tanner, the painter, Miss Meta Fuller Warwick, the sculptor, Coleridge Taylor the composer and many others. Two million black boys and girls are seeking an education and for them the American Missionary association is providing schools of all grades, from the training school in Tongaloo, Miss., the college at Talladega, Ala., to the universities of Howard in Washington, D. C., Fisk in Nashville, Tenn., and Straight in New Orleans. Trinity school in Athens, Ala., is located in the grounds of an old fort captured by General Hood during the Civil war. Here Miss Wells, an army nurse, started a school for colored children in 1865 which has so grown and advanced its standing that now it offers courses two years beyond high school. Miss Ruth Beebe of Norwich Town teaches in this school. In all its work the emphasis is upon morals and Christian character as the important part in education.

At the conclusion of Miss Bliss' paper, Mrs. Allen Latham recited a dialogue showing the elevating influences of the mountain schools.

Miss Annie E. Vaughn played the piano for the hymns and during the service, all of them relating to the Christmas season.

Tea was served by Miss Alexandrine Trumbull and Mrs. W. T. Browne, while Miss Hannah Crowell poured.

SHANNON CORNER BEACON AGAIN OUT OF COMMISSION

The city's flashing traffic beacon, which, when it is intact, does duty at the Shannon corner, met with another mishap, Saturday morning. The base on which the illfated beacon rests, and which was hit by a trolley car recently, has been repaired, and Saturday morning employees of the street department placed the beacon on the base.

Employees of the city gas and electrical department started to connect the wires and one of them placed a ladder against the beacon. While he was climbing the ladder, the beacon which had not been fastened to its base, toppled over into the street, and once more was carted away for repairs.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON BOSWELL AVENUE

Anthony Snurkowski of 19 Prospect park sustained a cut over his left eye and injury to his right knee when he was hit Saturday night on Boswell avenue near Bernard's gas station by an automobile driven by George W. Cole of Versailles. He was attended by Dr. David Sussler and was up in the Backus hospital.

CITY PINOCHLE LEAGUE IS TO RESUME PLAY

After a recess of twelve days the city pinochle league contestants will journey into the forest (Foresters club on Shetucket street) this (Monday) evening when both the Duwells and Eagles, Captains Cramer and Hastedt, respectively are confident of having their teams hand a defeat to the league leaders, the American Legion team.

The schedule for this evening:

First half, Duwells vs. Junior Order, Colonials vs. Polishers, Moose vs. Grotto, Foresters vs. K. of C., Yantic vs. Sons of Hermann, Eagles vs. American Legion.

Second half, Duwells vs. American Legion, Polishers vs. Foresters, Moose vs. Yantic Firemen, K. of C. vs. Colonials, Sons of Hermann vs. Grotto, Eagles vs. Junior Order.

It will be necessary for the league to meet twice this week, the second session to be held in Eagles' hall on Thursday.

To enable all members of the league to make trolley connections the committee in charge wish all teams to be on hand promptly at 7.45 o'clock.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED AT PARTY AT TAVERN

One of the prettiest parties of the season took place at the Brigham tavern, Mansfield Depot, Saturday evening at which Mrs. Minnie L. McCollum, proprietor of the Mansfield Organ Pipe works announced the engagement of her elder daughter, Ruth Bernice to George Edward Bassett, elder son of Ex-Representative and Mrs. A. M. Bassett of Warrenville. To camouflage the affair, invitations had been sent out announcing a kid's party, and all came dressed in costume. The table was attractively decorated for the occasion with white baskets and sprays of lilies of the valley. In the center was a large Jack Horner pie in the ruffles of which were hidden envelopes, containing the engraved cards of the couple. The cards were pulled out by white ribbons attached to them. A delicious chicken pie dinner was enjoyed. Later in the evening, after the hostess had received many good wishes for her happiness, games were played and marshmallows were toasted in the huge fireplaces. Besides the hostesses those present were: Sabra Stoughton, Edith Larkin, Daisy Cudworth, Hattie Hill, Ruth Cudworth, Myrtice Tryon and Clare Calnen all of Willimantic; Elizabeth Dennison and Helen Kelleher of Westerly, R. I., Ebba Smith of Spring Hill, Hattie Belle Brown of North Westchester, Winifred Bassett of Warrenville, Viola White of Hartford, and Lillian Cosgrove, Maud Brigham, Ethel Alguire, Blanche McCollum, all of Mansfield Depot, and Zilia McCollum of New York city. A more fitting place than the Brigham tavern could not have been selected for the affair, since it was built in 1786, and both young people come from old New England families tracing their ancestry back 300 years or more.

Miss McCollum, who is the daughter of Minnie L. McCollum and the late Fenelon McCollum, well known inventor and manufacturer in the pipe organ world, is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women and Columbia university. Mr. Bassett is in the contracting and building business with his father.

CANDIDATES FOR ACADEMY FIVE REPORT FOR PRACTICE TODAY

The first call for basketball candidates at the Academy comes today when Coach Courtland Whitney summons prospective players for a short session at school. No actual work is expected until Tuesday, this afternoon's activity being devoted solely to a short talk regarding the season's work.

The team will play at the Y. M. C. A. again this year, negotiations for the securing of the State armory having fallen through. For the reason of membership, the squad which is expected to be large, today will have to be immediately cut to ten members, the same as was carried out last year.

Something like a dozen games have already been scheduled including two each with Stonington, Windham and Chapman Tech and one each with Crosby and Wilby, of Waterbury, Deep River and others. Lines are now out for at least six more games to bring the total to eighteen. Middletown High will probably be the local's first scholastic opponent, that on Saturday, Jan. 7. In the meantime, it is planned to have the Red and White grapple with C. F. C., Alumni and All-Heller Five.

Bright Outlook.

Prospects for the basketball team are the brightest that any sport team this school year can boast. With five lettermen available together with several boys of experience, the Red and White seems well fortified for the campaign. Capt Kelly, LaCroix, Viau, Jarvis and Pingree are the veterans available.

Especially are the locals strong in the backcourt where Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix seem most likely to serve. These boys distinguished themselves time and again last year, especially in that late-season thrilling drive that the team made.

For forwards the locals have Lloyd Jarvis, Joe Viau, Red Fagan and Dave Tigar, although it is understood that Jarvis will pass up the court game in order to be in A-1 shape for the four baseball campaign that he, Johnny Greene and Capt. Mace Goldblatt will have to bear the principal burden of.

Fagan comes from Blackstone (RI) High with a real "rep" and those who have seen him play in practice games tale year speak well of him. He seems to possess just the right build for a court performer. Dave Tigar, who played in the Chapman Tech game last year, should give all of them a stiff tussle for a berth this year. He has played quite a bit with junior teams around the city and has the advantage of several weeks' practice. Viau is a veteran from the 1926-27 array, having alternated between forward and center. His best work came in the Chapman Tech game although at many other times he played well. His height is a big factor in his favor of winning over Tigar or Fagan.

Les Pingree, as good a center as there is in the state, seems sure of again getting the pivot post. Les should be a tower of strength to the Red and White again this year for he himself is looking forward to the best games of his career.

In addition to the six named others who are expected out and who should provide plenty of excitement are Swatsburg, Billy Tirrell, Jackie Marks, Lynch, Henschel and Sussman.

BASKETBALL ACTIVITIES IN THIS VICINITY

Basketball hereabouts starts in earnest during the coming week. After weeks of little activity Norwich and vicinity finally gets down to the serious business of preparing for what looks like its busiest and most successful season at this popular sport.

The Y Emps have furnished the only home basketball for Norwich to date and the C. F. C., with their game Saturday night at Westerly, competed the doings of Rose City teams.

However, during the coming few days, local quintets will either be opening their season or preparing for that task.

The major game for local fans comes Saturday night at the Y gym with the Plainfield Buddies and Y Outlaws in action. The Outlaws, who are really none other than the Y Seniors, should find the going tough in their opening game for the Plainfield team, playing prelims to the Pros' clashes, have met some strong clubs and have yet to taste defeat. The Outlaws have such men as Eccleston, Gauthier, Pingree, Yerrington, Brown, Conklin and Lambert to pick from, while the Buddies will use their regular lineup of Mercier, Peterson, etc.

The Senior Church league will open its season with a game as the preliminary to this clash. The Junior Church league opens next Tuesday.

Wednesday night at Plainfield Community house, the Plainfield Pros tackle All-New Britain, state champs, whom they beat a week or so back. On the same night, the Y Emps play a return game with the Willimantic Emps, while the C. F. C travels to Hartford to tackle the Central Baptist five, leaders in the Church league there.

The Academy opens practice today while the Taftville Crescents also prepare for their opening Christmas afternoon.

WOOD DOES NOT FAVOR ATHETIC SCHOLARSHIPS

MIDDETOWN, Conn., Dec. 11—(AP)—Declaring that he is not in favor of athletic scholarships, Bill Woods, Wesleyan university football coach, claimed that he was misquoted in reports of his recent address to Philadelphia alumni, in a statement issued here tonight.

Wood said that he has always been in favor of anything that aimed to raise the athletic standards of American colleges but the report to the effect that he advocates athletic scholarships is subject to modification.

The Wesleyan coach made the following definite outline of his attitude toward scholarship grants: "I am decidedly against any scholarship plan that considers only the athletic prowess of a prospective student. I am in sympathy with that plan of scholarship award which considers the scholastic, spiritual and physical make-up of the applicant."

PLAINFIELD PROS TAKE GAME FROM NEW BRITAIN

With the score see-sawing back and forth until the last five minutes of play the Plainfield Pros staged a rally and won from the New Britain Tabs, 43 to 31, Saturday night at New Britain. Playing on even terms for the first half which ended with Plainfield leading 20 to 18, the Plainfield boys widened the margin in the early minutes of the second half, and held the lead up to the last. About half way through the second half the Tabs came within four points of the Pros only to have Plainfield put on speed and draw away from them. Brusso, Stavinski and Madden featured for the Pros while Taylor was the star of the Tabs. The summary:

PRO GOLFERS ON WAY TO PACIFIC COAST TOURNEYS

SAN FRANCISCO., Dec. 11—(AP)—Most of the leading professional golfers of the country were either on the ground today or en route to southern California for the start of the winter tournament season.

Beginning at San Diego next Saturday the field will compete in seven scheduled tournaments for a total of $26,300 in cash prizes. Six of the events will be played on Southern California courses with the Los Angeles $10,000 open, January 6, 7 and 8, topping the list.

Included in the group of eastern golfers are Tommy Armour, national open champion; Bobby Cruickshank of New York; Leo Diegel, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, and many others. Pacific coast honors will be upheld by Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, Willie Hunter, California open champion and former British amateur title holder; Al Espinosa and others.

The list of tournaments follows:

December 17-18, San Diego open, $2,500 cash prizes, 54 holes.

December 20, La Holla open, $1,500, 36 holes.

December 28, San Gabriel amateur-professional, $300, 18 holes.

December 29-31, Palos Verdes open, $3,500, 72 holes.

January 6, 7, and 8, Los Angeles open, $10,000, 72 holes.

January 12, 14, 15, Long Beach open, $2,500, 72 holes.

February 3, 4, 5, 6, Texas open, $6,500, 72 holes, at San Antonio.

PHILADELPHIA REGAINS THE LOCKETT TROPHY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Philadelphia regained possession of the Lockett trophy, emblematic of inter-city racquet supremacy, by defeating the New York and Boston teams at the Merion Cricket club today. The victory of the Quaker City team was a big upset, for the New-Yorkers had beaten Boston, defending cup holders, on Saturday and were the favorites.

The Philadelphia squad nosed out New York four matches to three in the morning and then came back in the afternoon losing only one match to Boston. This gave Philadelphia two legs on the trophy, the locals having won it in 1926, the first year it was in competition. Last fall Boston took it, only to finish last in the annual series.

The contest between New York and Philadelphia was not decided until the last match when K. C. Kennedy defeated F. K. Keenan in straight games. Myles P. Baker, national champion scored the only victory of the day for Boston beating Wallace Johnson, Penn State champion.

The absence of Palmer Dixon, former national titleholder, from the New York lineup was a big handicap to the Metropolitan team.

DRISCOLL FEATURES BEARS WIN OVER NEVERS' TEAM

CHICAGO, Dec. 11—(AP)—The Chicago Bears defeated the Duluth Eskimos 27 to 14 in a National football league game today, although Ernie Nevers' Eskimos outplayed the Bears for the second period and part of the third. Paddy Driscoll, of the Bears, scored with three long passes in the opening period, the last one going 20 yards across the line to Walquist. The Eskimos scored twice in the second period, Nevers' passes to Cobb Rooney, one of three brothers on the Duluth team, advancing the ball in 20 and 30 yard passes regularly. Blood took one of Nevers' passes for the first touchdown and Cobb Rooney took the next one, putting the Eskimos in the lead 14 to 6 at the half. The Bears became serious from then on and near the end of the third period Driscoll scored on a 35 yard end run. Allis intercepted one of Nevers' passes early in the fourth period for a forty yard run to a touchdown, and Joe Sternaman passed to Driscoll for the Bears' fourth touchdown just before the game ended.

SPENCER AND WINTER ENJOY REST AFTER GRIND

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Freddie Spencer and Charley Winter, young American cyclists who won the 43rd international six-day race, enjoyed home comforts today after a week's gruelling grind on the Madison Square Garden saucer.

Spencer praised Bobby Walthour, Jr., for expert advice rendered during the race. Walthour was unable to ride on account of a broken collar bone he sustained in the recent Detroit race.

Spencer resides in Plainfield, N. J., while his partner, Winter, lives in this city.

The race broke all records for the number of laps stolen in week, 360 being pilfered. Attendance marks were smashed with a new record of from 125,000 to 150,000 fans.

RED BURELLE WILL TAKE OVER TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS

Taftville, that little village that has always played a prominent part in the athletic activities of Eastern Connecticut, will not be without a basketball team this winter. The Taftville Crescents have been organized under the managership of Red Burelle, veteran sports promoter of Taftville and will play the strongest clubs that can be booked for the coming season. Manager Burelle intends to open his season on Christmas afternoon against one of the fastest basketball aggregations in New England.

As yet the personnel of the team is incomplete but Burelle, who has the backing of a number of Taftville people, will secure the best talent available to represent the village.

"Y" EMPS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE IN TROUNCING NEW LONDON "Y"

The Y emps completely outclassed the New London Rotary Y boys Saturday night at the Y gym and won 20 to 4, holding their Whaling City rivals scoreless from the floor. Four foul shots comprised the New London total while the Emps, experiencing difficulty now and then, nevertheless, were never seriously threatened.

The locals didn't really hit their stride until late in the second quarter when their defense began taking the ball from the visitors with more regularity and they were enabled to spend more time dashing to the hoop.

The Emps showed much improvement over any start of late years. There pass work throughout was of high order while their defense for the majority of the way was not far behind. But for the unfortunate fouls the locals could have walked off the floor with a shutout.

Sussman at center and Murphy in the backcourt helped the passing game along well, while the latter frequently broke up New London sallies single-handed. Tigar and Swartzburg, that inimitable pair, again scintillated although for the first quarter neither was his usual self. Economius, the fifth man and a newcomer to the team, also fitted into the play in good shape. A small crowd attended.

In the preliminary, the Emps scored another win. This time it was the third team of that organization, they getting an 8 to 3 decision over the Red Rovers of Norwich. Again the Emps' defense was a feature, as the losers did not score from the floor until just before the final whistle.

Capt. Mingo and Hamil shone for the winners, while Solomon shone for the losers, a west side team.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Well! the Academy is ready to take off on its second year of basketball. Good luck, boys.

Capt. Jim Kelly and his mates should find success this year, even more so than in their initial campaign. They fought hard enough last year to deserve something this season.

The Red and Whitesters are making a later start this year, but it probably makes little difference, for up to New Year's they could find little in the way of opponents that would draw. The All-Heller game again this year should prove a banner attraction while the Alumni this year could also put a strong team on the floor. As an opener, the local schoolboys could wish for no better opponent to test them thoroughly than the C. F. C.

There were two freaky games at the Y Saturday night. In the first tilt the Emps third team won 8 to 3 over the Red Rovers, the latter not scoring a field goal until the last minutes of play. In the main game the Emps held their rivals scoreless from the floor. That's pretty good defensive basketball, one field goal in 71 minutes out of a possible 72.

Incidentally Coach Conklin's boys looked mighty good, better than their opener last week.

The C. F. C. had plenty of excitement in their trip to Westerly where they beat Battery E Saturday night. From reports, the referee was not up to par. These teams meet here Monday, Dec. 26, it is announced.

Plainfield Pros continue to show fine form. They now are apparently hitting their stride.

We knew Taftville couldn't stay in the background when a basketball season rolled around. After weeks of doubt, the village finally swings into line with the Crescents, managed by Red Burrelle.

Chapman Tech got off wrong by losing to Deep River in the season's opener Friday.

YOUNG GRIFFO'S FUNERAL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—The funeral of Albert Griffiths, known to the boxing world as Young Griffo, was held here today with many ring notables among the mourners. A brief service was conducted by Rev. George Caleb Moore at the Madison Avenue Baptist church after which burial took place in Woodlawn cemetery.

There was no eulogy, other than a passing reference to Young Griffo, who was known as "one of the cleverest defensive boxers that ever put on the gloves."

At the funeral were Tex Rickard, James J. Corbett, one time heavyweight champion, James J. Johnston, Ed Curry, representing the boxing commission, Kid McPartland, Tommy Burns and Jack McAuliffe. McAuliffe had the distinction of being the first boxer to gain a victory over Griffo in a ten round go at Coney Island in 1894.

Griffo, who was born in Sydney, Australia, in 1871, met many formidable opponents in his day but only lost three decisions in more than 100 ring battles due to his clever dodging ability. His fighting weight was 118 to 140 pounds. Aside from McAuliffe, the only men to score victories over him were Adam Ryan in 1897 and Joe Gans, two years later.

In 1904, Griffo quit the roped arena. From then until the day he died, last Wednesday, he was a familiar figure about the Great White Way, while Griffo was in financial distress for years, he never asked for assistance and was always backward in accepting aid.

Floral tributes were given by Rickard, Kid Lavigne, Gene Tunney and the National Vaudeville artists. The funeral arrangements were made by friends of Young Griffo who died practically destitute. Rickard provided the burial plot in Woodlawn cemetery.

THREE TITLE BOUTS IN NEW YORK THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Dec. 11—(AP)—Three world championship boxing bouts, one for the light heavyweight crown, brighten the pugilistic activities here this week.

Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, who recently jarred the light heavyweight crown out of the venerable Mike McTigue, will oppose Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The bout will be 15 rounds.

While Loughran is the standard bearer of his division in this state, Slattery is the champion of the National Boxing association which reaches into 24 states of the Union. The winner is pledged to stack up against Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., boxer, on Jan. 6th.

Loughran has been installed as 2 to 1 favorite. About 1,200 fans are expected to follow Loughran from Philadelphia while half that number are coming from Buffalo.

Supporting the card, Clyde Hull meets Farmer Joe Cooper in a ten rounder while in another bout of the same distance Arturo Sheckels of Belgium clashes with Billy Leonard of Syracuse. In a four round affair, Jack Katish of Pittsburgh will face Joe Leone of this city.

On Friday night at the Garden, Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., will defend his junior lightweight title against Joe Glick of New York in a 15 round bout. In a former meeting, Glick lost a close decision to Morgan. On the same bill Corporal Izzy Schwartz will battle Newsboy Brown for the flyweight championship vacated by Fidel Labarba.

MURCHISON SUFFERS ANOTHER RELAPSE

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 11.—(AP)—After regaining consciousness late Saturday night and showing every sign of a definite improvement, Loren Murchison, noted sprinter, suffered a serious relapse late today in St. Mary's hospital. The anti-toxin treatment brought by Murchison's own doctor from St. Louis apparently effected a considerable improvement in his condition, when he regained consciousness Saturday night, after five days of a deep coma. Tonight, however, he sank again into a semi-delirious condition. Murchison has an epidemic form of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which is usually fatal, doctors say.

RIGHEIMER RESIGNS FROM ILLINOIS BOXING COMMISSION

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(AP)—John C. Righeimer, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, made known today that he had sent in his resignation to Governor en Small, and was eager to get out of the control of boxing affairs in Illinois.

Beyond saying he had requested the governor to accept his withdrawal from the boxing board, Righeimer had no comment to make except he was tired of the job. His action followed that of O. W. Huncke, the original chairman of the commission, who was active as head of the commission for only six months, and then became a non-active member for another six months while he awaited Gov. Small's acentance of his resignation.

Paul Prehn, the only survivor of the three original members, is expected to succeed to the chairmanship. Sam Luzzo was chosen in Huncke's place a few months ago, but has hardly had time to become acquainted with the boxing situation.

Since the Dempsey-Tunney fight, Righeimer's private affairs have demanded much of his time and Prehn has administered the commission's business almost single handed.

Righeimer's resignation, following Huncke's before boxing had been restored to legal standing in the state 18 months, is regarded by boxing experts as evidence of the burden of criticism the commissioners labor under.

Huncke ceased his activities as chairman of the board soon after he, with Prehn and Righeimer, had suspended Charley Phil Rosenberg of New York and ruled his featherweight title should pass to Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, now generally acknowledged as champion.

C. F. C. TEAM WINS FROM BATTERY E

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Dec. 11.—Trailing most of the way, the C. F.C. finally hit their stride and in the final few minutes here Saturday night at the State Armory defeated Battery E. The score was 45 to 40.

Norwich outscored the locals from the floor but the Soldiers ability on the free throw line made up.

A poor start seriously handicapped the Norwich club for in the first quarter they were outscored 14 to 5. However, during the second period they braced greatly and from then on were able to keep right up with the locals. This was the Norwich teams first game of the season and, under the conditions, they played well. Brown led the scorers with 21 points. The summary:

GIANTS BLANK YANKEES IN CLOSING GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP) — The New York Giants, champions in the National Professional football league, turned back Red Grange's New York Yankees, 13 to 0, today in the closing game of the campaign. The Giants had defeated the Yankees 14 to 0 a week ago.

Both elevens resorted to a punting duel today on account of a muddy field. White of Oklahoma rushed over the Yanks' line for a touchdown in the third period on a line plunge and then booted the goal from placement.

In the final session, Hinkey Haines, former Penn State star, galloped 40 yards for a touchdown after a play off tackle.

OPPORTUNITY,

For A Local Sales Representative.

A responsible growing investment house, dealing in a diversified list of securities, with offices in a number of cities, has an opening for a responsible resident representative in this city and vicinity.

We have a well satisfied clientele throughout the State and can assure a local representative definite arrangement for originating new and profitable business. We will only entertain applications coming from men of unimpeachable standing in their local community. While experience is preferable it is not entirely essential, and very satisfactory financial arrangements will be made with the successful applicant.

For an interview, give a complete outline of past experience and education, furnishing at least two references. Address, The Sales Department, Box 1331, Hartford, Conn

POETRY

The Melody of Life

Over the strings of the instrument taken
Into the hand of the master, we hear
Music that only his touch can awaken;
Melody sweet, a delight to the ear!—

So, like the instruments tuned to perfection
Father, our lives at Thy touch can awake,
Gladness and sorrow, beneath Thy direction,
Can, in life's symphony, harmony make.

Never a joy but Thy Presence could heighten,
Never a tumult Thy voice cannot calm
Never a burden Thine arm cannot lighten,
And, for each sorrow, Thy healing and balm.

In each experience teaching life's lesson,
If we could recognize Thy guiding hand—
Fully confiding, in peace or oppression,
Trusting Thy love where we can't understand—

By Thee directed 'til life's song is ended—
Following closely, through shadow or shine;
If in Thy harmony our lives were blended
All life would echo the music divine!
—By Emily Hersey.

Snow on the Mountain

When winter snows have fled away
When winter winds and skies of gray
Have been forgotten long ago:
When summer breezes blow
When heated skies are all aglow
Then you come running
Sweet snow-on-the-mountain!

Autumn finds you still on hand
Covering miles of dusty land.
Across the rich plowed fields you go
Through every deep-turped furrow
Up and down each endless row
Still you come running
Bright snow-on-the-mountain!

Soft as velvet is your raiment,
One would scarce have dreamt
That it would wear so well
As you wander over field and over fell
Down the hillsides and in the dell,
As you come running
Dear snow-on-the-mountain!
—Helen Marr Brown.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Birdstore dealer—"You've had that parrot two months. Why do you want to return it?"

Customer—"The f-f-fool b-b-b-bird s-s-s-s-stutters."—Detroit News.

Window dresser: "Marriage is a pottery."

Buyer: "You mean a lottery?"

"No; I mean a pottery—a place for making family jars."—Good Hardware.

Diner—Waiter, this chicken has no wishbone.

Waiter—He was a happy and contented chicken and had nothing to wish for.—Magnolia Oil News.

Johnny—I wish you would give me some cake.

"Didn't I tell you that you must not ask for cake?"

"I'm not asking, I'm wishing."—Boston Post.

"Why are you so willing to bet all you've got that the jury will disagree?"

"Because," replied Henry Peck, "Henrietta is on the jury."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"When Burrows first came here he was very sociable, but now he seems to want to keep everybody at a distance."

"That's natural enough; everybody is his creditor now."—Boston Transcript.

Stump orator, discoursing on the faults of wives—Can you tell me anything that will drive a man more to drink than a lazy, slovenly woman?

A voice from the audience—Did ye ever try a salt herrin', sir?—Weekly Scotsman.

Addressing the jury, the judge adopted his most impressive manner.

"And to think," he exclaimed, dramatically, "that the prisoner went the length of assaulting the complainant for the paltry sum of a dollar!"

"Why, not?" came the voice from the dock. "A dollar here and there soon mounts up."—Tit-Bits, London.

COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL LIFE ON THRESHOLD OF A PROSPEROUS PERIOD

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—With the holiday season swinging along briskly, branches of American business outside the retail trade moved last week in a somewhat perfunctory fashion. Nevertheless the "feeling" that commercial and industrial life is on the threshold of a prosperous period continued to be manifest throughout the country.

One of the most significant developments of the week, if not the entire year, was the abandonment by Bethlehem Steel company of the famous "Pittsburgh plus" method of quoting minimum prices. Establishing minimum base prices, f. o. b., the various plants of the Bethlehem concern was regarded as a distinctly constructive step in the steel industry, and calculated to bring about a long step toward localizing of the business. The "Pittsburgh plus" system, frowned upon by the federal trade commission, was relinquished by the United States Steel corporation about three years ago.

The steel trade as a whole reported improved prospects, although current operations were at the lowest level of the year. Buying of railway rails and material for the manufacture of heavy farm implements, however, combined with an improved inquiry in other lines, were bright spots on the trade's horizon. The return of Ford continued to be a major topic of conversation in industrial circles. As might be expected, the Detroit district was the first to feel the stimulation of the resumption of operations in the large Dearborn plants, but the effects also were beginning to reach out into other sections of the country. Continued predictions of a year of heavy motor business in the coming year helped to maintain a comfortable feeling. There was some talk of low-priced six-cylinder models to compete with the new Ford.

Building was at its seasonal ebb, a situation which was reflected by the lumber, brick, and other allied lines. Several sixty-day shut-downs of lumber mills on the Pacific coast were reported, and brick makers were operating on reduced schedules.

Demand for coal was rather slack, reflecting large stores remaining in yards as a result of warm weather throughout November. Mines were working on reduced schedules. Car loadings again fell off sharply, but the decline was regarded as seasonal. Railway gross revenue again reflected the decline in shipments.

Little change in commodity prices was noted, the few changes being about evenly balanced between rises and falls. Crude petroleum, steel bars, copper, corn and oats were on the upside while tin, tin-plates, cotton, hogs and bonds were slightly lower.

The money situation was somewhat easier than in the preceding week, the rate for call loans dropping from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent. As the stiffening had been due to heavy month-end demands, however, the change was of minor significance to business as a whole. The probable trend of money during the next few months is somewhat clouded. Shipments of gold and expectations of business revival are cited as factors which may bring about a tightening of rates, but the continued upward trend of bond prices indicated considerable confidence in a continuation of the current era of low rates.

Bank clearings gained slightly over the week before, but increased about 25 per cent over the corresponding week of 1926.

IN MEMORY of My Dear Father, Who Entered Into Rest Dec. 11, 1918

God in His mercy called you
From your suffering and pain
To enter your eternal home
And with the saints to reign.
We could not keep you, father, dear
Your work on earth was o'er,
But the memory of your perfect love
Will live forever more.
Daughter LOTTIE.
MRS. CHARLOTTE McLEAN.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE

FOR SALE: By order of the Honorable Court of Probate for the District of Norwich I will sell the real estate, belonging to the estate of the late Anthony Wisneskie, and Victoria Wisneskie, both late of Franklin, in said District, deceased, which real estate is situated on the Easterly side of the highway running from Smith's Corners to Baltic, in the town of Franklin; also, lot, on the Westerly side of said highway. Said real estate consisting of about 340 acres, more or less, consists of approximately 100 acres of tillable land and 230 acres, more or less of pasture and woodland, together with the dwelling house, barns, sheds and other buildings thereon. Said real estate will be sold as a unit, together with the farm tools, machinery and equipment thereon consisting of gasoline engines, wagons, plows, from 45 to 50 tons of hay, 85 tons of silage, 14 cows, 3 horses and about forty hens. Said farm is supplied with a brook and a never failing spring with running water in the house. The farm has a Westerly slope and is highly desirable as a dairy farm. The entire premises with the personal property will be sold to the highest bidder as one item of sale at public auction to be held at the house on these premises known as the Wisneskie farm, on Wednesday, December 14th, 1927, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Terms of sale to be 10 per cent. cash at time of sale and balance on or before January 1st, 1928.

This sale is to close the two estates and the personal property will not be offered for sale separately.

JOHN WISNESKIE,
Administrator

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Frigidaire Broadcasting Tonight.
"Mistah Interlocuter" and "Mister Bones" will carry on their mirth-provoking dialogue in millions of homes next Monday night, December 12, in the series of Monday night General Motors "Family Parties" being broadcast over a network of 28 stations, it is announced by Carl W. Brown, Frigidaire representative in this city.
"Monday night will be Frigidaire night, and probably never before has such a cast of genuine minstrel talent been assembled as in this 'Family Party,'" says Mr. Brown. "Graham MacNamee, famed radio announcer, will drop the staccato accents he uses in broadcasting fights, football games and similar events, and will adopt the florid grandiloquence of the old time minstrel interlocuter when he presides at Monday night's party.
"Ethel Waters, negro soloist, who is said to have one of the finest voices of any artist who has sung before the microphone, will have a prominent place on the program. Joe Green's Novelty orchestra with banjo, xylophone, saxaphone and other solo specialists, will provide the instrumental music. There will be a double male quartet for negro spirituals and general chorus and for end men there will be the inimitable team of Collins and Bernard. In addition, Al Bernard, noted phonograph artist, will figure in some vocal solo work that will give the finishing touch to the program."
The presentation of "Minstrels a la Carte" will begin promptly at 9:20 p. m., and the grand finale will be at 10:30 p. m.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.
In the screen picturization of Laura Jean Libbey's story, A Poor Girl's Romance, now showing at the Strand theatre, we have a wonderful drama, shot with the sweetness of sunlight falling through an old-fashioned garden—young love, as eternal as the hills of Rome—romance that carries down through the years from bright college days, the fragrance of silvery pathos, lipped with the golden edge of comedy, the hallowed memory of youth. Creighton Hale and Gertrude Short head a splendid cast in this sensational, throbbing love story.
Sock Me To Sleep is the third picture of our weekly series, and is a complete story. Enjoy a good laugh while watching our two reel comedy.

Bread Theatre.
When age-old European customs meet modern ideas of freedom and independence something is certain to happen, quite generally to the disadvantage of the customs.
That is the theory set forth in a highly entertaining and original manner in "The Stolen Bride," the First National picture starring Billie Dove which opened an engagement of three days at the Bread theatre here last night.
"The Stolen Bride," a comedy-drama of Europe before the World war, is a unique and an outstanding production in a number of ways.
It introduces as a star, Billie Dove, universally regarded as one of the screen's reigning beauties, and brings Alexander Korda, prominent Hungarian director, to American film.
The combination of star and director, abetted by the talents of Carey Wilson, author, who produced the picture, is indeed a happy one.
"The Stolen Bride" is provided with the richest possible settings and costumes and Korda has brought to the screen the colorful atmosphere of Budapest and Vienna as few directors have been able to do before.
Lloyd Hughes offers an excellent characterization in the masculine lead opposite Miss Dove. Lilyan Tashman, Arman Kalis, Cleve Moore, Frank Beale and others have prominent supporting roles.

Broadway Theatre.
If there are any gloom-hounds in this city of ours, they are hereby warned by Manager Maxfield of the Broadway theatre to keep away from the popular playhouse this evening, when the Myrkle-Harder company opens their engagement with us, in that howling comedy success which ran for a long time at the Casino theatre, New York, "What Anne Brought Home."
"What Anne Brought Home" is one of those rare gems, a play that deals with an everyday subject, and a plot that might transpire in any home, but at the same time, a play that is interesting. This comedy drama has a seemingly endless supply of wholesome human comedy, an intensely interesting romance and moments when a lump will come up into your throat and the proverbial tear tremble on your eyelid.
Local theatre-goers are indeed fortunate to be able to see this comedy drama hit so soon after its run on Broadway.
Following "What Anne Brought Home" will be the most talked of play in America, "White Cargo." Other plays during the week will be "In The Wrong Bed," "Rain," "Stella Dallas" and "The Ghost Train." Tickets for the entire engagement of the Myrkle-Harder Players are now on sale at the box office every day from 10 a. m. Start this week right and don't miss "What Anne Brought Home."

Palace Theatre.
One of the most interesting stories ever filmer is the Duke Worm production, "The Cruise of the Hellion," which opens a three days' engagement at the Palace theatre starting today. The story concerns the sailing of a vessel known as the "Hellion" which has as its crew the finest collection of roughnecks and wharfrats ever assembled on a sea-going vessel. Some of the thrilling scenes are the collision of two racing speed boats, a thrilling rescue from a watery grave unusual fights on the masts of the ship, the search for lost gold on the bottom of the ocean, the mutiny of the ship's crew, a battle of death at the bottom of the sea and many other thrilling and spectacular sequences. The cast assembled in "The Cruise of the Hellion" sounds more like a directory of who's who than a list of players in a single picture. Heading the cast are Donald Keith and Edna Murphy. Supporting this pair of stars are Tom Santschi, Francis Ford, Sheldon Lewis, Sailor Sharkey and Charles K. French.
The Vaudeville program consists of five excellent acts with the Jean Hamilton Revue headlining. This song and dance act is known wherever good vaudeville is played and should be well received in Norwich. Another headline act is that of Neil Mack and company, who present a delightful comedy skit, "A Writing Room Wrangle." Jim and Betty Page are sure to please in their act called "Two P

RICHARDS ST. MAN SMOKES IN BED, STARTS SUNDAY FIRE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 11.—Sunday appears to be the day for fires in New London. Today marked the fourth consecutive Sunday that an alarm was sent in calling out the department. At 12.07 o'clock a still alarm was received at headquarters for a fire in the residence, 15 Richards street, owned by J. O'Neill and occupied by F. Chapman. The fire originated from one of the occupants smoking while in bed. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and Northwest Hose company responded. The burning bed clothing was extinguished without the aid of chemicals and the only damage was to the bedding.

At 2:25 o'clock, a lively fire was discovered in progress in the store of J. Horenstein, 661 Bank street. An alarm was sent in from Box 45, corner of Truman and Bank streets. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Niagara and Nameaug Engine companies and the Ockford Hose company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. When the firemen reached the burning building the interior was a mass of flames, so vigorous that it was out of the question to subdue the fire with chemicals. A stream of water was emptied into the store and after a half hour's work the fire was extinguished. The entire stock of drygoods was damaged, either by fire or smoke or water. The fire originated from an overheated stove. The owner closed the store at 11:30 o'clock. The fire in the stove becoming hotter, some of the cloth and paper nearest the stove became ignited, smouldering until it burst into flames and was discovered. The damage will be close to $4000, all confined to the stock, for the building was damaged but slightly. The building is owned by Frank Sabagh.

TWO NEW HAVEN CHINAMEN CAUGHT IN LOCAL RAID

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 11.—A further drive was made by the police Saturday night to clean up the so-called black and tan district, houses resorted to by blacks and whites for purposes of immorality. The crusade was successful as far as the police went, for two women were arrested charged with being the proprietresses of the houses raided and blacks and whites were arrested charged with being frequenters.

Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray and Patrolman George Cockell conducted the raids. The officers first went to the resort, 22 John street, and arrested Nina Galicinas, 29, colored, she being charged with conducting a disorderly house. She is 29, married and a waitress by occupation. Mrs. Galicinas was released upon furnishing a surety on her bond of $250 for appearance in the police court Monday. A sailor, Fred Muerling, United States Coast Guard destroyer Montgomery, state pier, who had been in the John street house, was held as a witness against the Galicinas woman.

The other resort raided was the house at 16 Federal street conducted by Ray Ryder, 27, colored, who claims to have a permanent address at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. She furnished a surety on her bond of $250 for her appearance in court tomorrow. When the officers entered the house, they found two mulatto girls, Belle Stewart, 24, of 50 Bank street, Red Bank, N. J., and Ethel Johnson, 24, colored, of 2400 Seventh avenue, New York. The male frequenters were Chinamen, Lee Wing and Sam Lem, both of 250 Church street, New Haven. The quartet of frequenters was locked up, but they succeeded in obtaining a surety on their respective bonds of $50 and will be in court with their proprietresses tomorrow.

The funeral of William H. Farrell, former collector of internal revenue, was held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including a delegation of members of New London lodge of Elks, as Mr. Farrell was one of the lodge's oldest members and a past exalted ruler. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Keagan. The bearers were James R. Maxson, Charles J. Duoy, Patrick L. Shea, Patrick J. Clifford, Stephen J. McMahon, and Jeremiah Dillon. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

J. Oscar Smith, 65, of Waterford, died Saturday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he had been a patient but a few days. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Grace V. Spieler, of Waterford; a brother, Charles Smith, of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. E. L. Hall, Middletown, Mrs. E. Warmington, Westerly, and Mrs. E. L. Smith, of New Haven. Mr. Smith was a carpenter.

Ray Leeds, of 16 Pacific street; Mrs. Thomas Cook and infant son, Meridian street, Groton; Lester Grace, 192 Crystal avenue, and Robert Exley, 66 Church street, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

William Moore, of Norwich State hospital, who was arrested Friday night by State Police Officer Bernard Kennerson, of Groton barracks, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, will not be presented in the Waterford town court Monday afternoon. Mrs. Moore came to New London Saturday and discussed the matter of her husband's arrest with Judge N. Dimmock, of Waterford, who ordered the New London police to deliver Mrs. Moore's husband to her custody and Moore returned to the hospital.

The continued case of Jessie Bryant, colored, of 31 Hill street, came up in the police court Saturday, but was not disposed of, being continued to Monday. Bryant is charged with assault with intent to kill. Several weeks ago Bryant was at his home and about 10 o'clock he went to the street where a group of boys were. He had been drinking and when he saw the boys, he pulled a revolver from his pocket and started firing. The boys fled in all directions, but a bullet passed through the clothing of one of the youth, Joseph Brown, of Hill street. Patrolman George McCaskey was attracted by the noise of the shooting and as the officer approached Bryant, the former observed the weapon in Bryant's hand. McCaskey leaped at Bryant and as he did so, Bryant pulled the trigger, the hammer, however, caught the flesh between the officer's thumb and first finger, preventing the weapon from discharging.

The continued case of Charles H. Hilliar, 338 William street, charged with breach of the peace, was again continued, also to Monday. Hilliar was arrested several days ago by Patrolman William Riordan, who was off duty and who had words with Hilliar on State street.

George R. Hempstead, Groton, made a complaint to the police Saturday night that while his automobile was parked on Federal street, a thief stole a spare tire and rim.

An automobile owned by Elsio Panciera, of Mystic, was parked at the Connecticut College for Women, Mohegan avenue, Saturday night and while the owner was away about two hours, the car, a Star touring, was stolen. The theft was reported to the police. Early this morning Panciera informed the police that he had recovered the auto.

The police box, corner of Coit and Washington streets, one of four to become disabled last week, is again out of order.

John Gentilella, 17, of 848 Bank street, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh, charged with driving a truck without having a license. Gentilella will be in the police court Monday.

Albert Moore, 33, colored and proprietor of a tailoring establishment, 207 Main street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Louis Wheeler, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace upon complaint of Arthur Garner. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 for his appearance in court. Moore and Garner engaged in an altercation about 11.30 o'clock and during the exchange of harsh words, Moore is alleged to have attacked and beaten Garner.

Still another black and tan resort was raided tonight when the residence of Mrs. Nellie Jones, 26, colored, of 178 Water street, was visited by Acting Sergeant Augustus Ray, who arrested the woman on a charge of conducting a house of ill fame. She was held in bail of $250. Elmer Arey, United States Coast Guard, who had been at the house was charged with frequenting. He was held in bail of $50. Both will be in the police court Monday. Acting Sergeant Ray was on Water street and observed the sailor leaving the house. When the officer questioned the sailor, he made known what had transpired in the house, which testimony was sufficient to arrest the pair on the charges preferred against them.

Vincenza LaFemina, about 65, died this morning at his residence, 154 Shaw street, after an illness of but a few days from pneumonia. He is survived by a son, Theodore LaFemina, Jefferson avenue. Mr. LaFemina was a mason and was well known, especially among the Italian population of this city; he was a member of the several local Italian fraternal and beneficial organizations.

BOOZE MADE HIM TALKY, DRIVER IS ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Dec. 11—Edgar J. Aldrich, of 35 Norwood avenue, was arrested tonight by Traffic Officer Carlos Selesnitsky charged with driving whileu nder the influence of liquor, having no license or registration and driving an automobile equipped with defective brakes. He was locked up and will be in the police court Monday morning. Aldrich, his wife and Albert J. Richards were occupants of Aldrich's Ford coach and were riding north on Bank street. When the auto approached the corner of State street where the traffic officer was on duty, an auto occupied by sailors was immediately preceding Aldrich's car. The sailors' auto slowed down in order to turn east on State street and just after the auto rounded the corner, Aldrich's car, which the driver was attempting to stop, struck the big electric light pole on the corner because of the ineffectiveness of the brakes. When Officer Selesnitsky interrogated Aldrich, it was discovered that the driver had neither license nor registration, he having left them in another suit of clothes, as was proven when Mrs. Aldrich went to police headquarters with them. Aldrich, however was so talkative, that he talked himself into the additional charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

The Christmas illumination of the city's principal business streets started Saturday night when the hundreds of vari-colored lights on State street between Bank and Huntington, on Main street, between State and Masonic streets and on Bank street, between State and Howard streets, were illuminated. The lights are of red, white and blue and are suspended from electric light poles, while festoons of evergreen are hung immediately beneath the lights. The illumination will continue until after the first of the year.

Connecticut College for Women will close for the Christmas vacation Friday next, studies being suspended for two weeks to permit the 600 students to go to their homes and spend the holidays with their parents. Already the students are preparing for their departure from the city.

Patrolman George Cockell was indisposed tonight and unable to perform duty.

A United States Coast Guard sailor was arrested tonight charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was on Main street, near Douglass street where he accosted a woman. The faster the woman walked to get away from the sailor the faster the bluejacket walked, with the result that he finally seized the woman around the waist. Patrolmen Henry Hick and Lawrence Feeley were nearby, observed the sailor's act and arrested him.

The New Idea of Cancer

Many Cases Can Be Cured If Reported Promptly

BULLETIN No. 12.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

If you want to feel as safe as possible about cancer, you should do this: You should have a thorough physical examination to detect the earliest signs of cancer, if any are present, and get advice as to what further action, if any, may be required.

You should go immediately and to the right place. Your physician is the proper person to apply to. If you have no physician to whom to go, you should either find one promptly or go to a hospital or clinic which is prepared to give you the examination which you desire.

It may be that your physician will send you to a hospital or clinic. Most hospitals are prepared to make the examinations required. Some have special facilities for this purpose. In New York city there are a number of hospitals which are devoted entirely to cancer and allied diseases or have so many cases of this kind that they give special attention to them.

It does not follow, of course, that a person must be treated for cancer at a hospital simply because he or she goes there for examination and advice.

In most instances no cancerous conditions will be found and the person who is examined will go away with a greatly relieved mind. In some cases sound advice will be given for the avoidance of some habit or the correction of some condition which, if neglected, might lead to cancer. In a few instances a harmful condition which is not related to cancer will be discovered and the patient told what should be done about it. This is worth while in itself.

Following is a list of hospitals and clinics in New York which make special provision for cancer:

HOSPITAL AND CLINIC HOURS

Memorial Hospital, 2 West 106th street. Telephone, Academy 6140. 9 to 11 except Thursday and Sunday.

Montefiore Hospital, Gun Hill Road, near Jerome avenue. Telephone, Olinville 3800. 1 P. M. Wednesday.

GREENEVILLE

Many local people received cards Saturday from Charles Charboneau, a former Greeneville boy, now in Hollywood, Calif., where he is engaged in the movies. r. Charboneau was one of the famous Charbino brothers who were known throughout the east for their ability as tumblers. He is the son of Mrs. Michael Charboneau of 111 Fifth street.

Miss Margaret Dunion of Hartford spent the week end as the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunion of Tweifth street.

The R. G. club held a Christmas party Friday evening at the home of Miss Frances Young, 88 Hickory street, following a business meeting at which Miss Nancy Pitcher presided. Games were played and presents were exchanged. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Lucille Hayden. Those present were Frances Young, Elizabeth Whitehead, Helen Spicer, Lois Durie, Nancy Pitcher, Mary Llewellyn, Marion Krohn and Lucille Hayden.

Miss Gertrude Fontaine of West Hartford spent the week end as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fontaine of Central avenue.

Walter Christy has returned to his home 26 Second street, after spending the week end as guest of relatives at New Britain.

Miss Helen Delaney of the Willimantic State Normal Training school spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Delaney of Fifth street.

Henry Mileski has returned to his home on Fifth street after spending the week end with relatives in Springfield, Mass.

John Peterson of Providence spent the week end as the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson of Boswell avenue.

Mrs. Irving Glynn and daughters, Marjorie and Evelyn of East Longmeadows, Mass., were the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephenson of Boswell avenue over the week end.

The Community Workers of Greeneville held its December meeting with Mrs. William A. Lund of Prospect street Friday evening. This meeting was a social one and at 7 o'clock the members sat down to a delicious supper, which consisted of grapefruit, chicken pie, mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, creamed onions, celery, pickles, olives, cranberry sauce, squash and mince pie, cheese and coffee. Each member furnished some part of the delightful supper and the table was very pretty in its decorations suitable for Christmas.

A miniature lake with a Christmas tree and small animal ornaments lighted by small electric cubs formed an attractive centerpiece and little red paper cups filled with salted nuts were the favors which were topped by attractive place cards. Following the supper a short business session was held and the treasurer's report showed a substantial sum in the treasury, which the ladies have earned by dressing dolls and making and tying bed quilts. It was voted to make a donation of $5 to the Salvation Army and to the Tuberculosis sanatorium Christmas fund; also to send a basket of fruit and sweets to a sick friend. After the business meeting a social time was enjoyed and a story "Christmas Eve on Lonesome" was read by Mrs. Richard Stephenson. Mrs. Charles Levitsky and Mrs. Charles F. Sears told some interesting stories and Miss Nellie Hayes entertained with a musical selection. A very enjoyable evening was spent by the Workers, who were invited to meet with Mrs. Robert Brittin of Boswell avenue in January. Mrs. George Howard of Central avenue assisted Mrs. Lund in preparing and serving the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blackford and daughter, Jeanne of Danielson were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Blackford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah D. Shea of Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haydon and daughters, Winifred and Althea and Mrs. Charles Levitsky of Margerie street spent Saturday in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Furbush and son, Russell of Fourteenth street were recent visitors in Rockville.

FUNERAL

Rev. Charles Sauer

The funeral services of Rev. Charles Sauer were held Friday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Clarke, 566 North Main street, with relatives attending. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, assisted by Rev. Harry P. Brothwell, pastor of the Third Baptist church, conducted the funeral services at the home. Rev. Mr. Ricketts conducted the services at the grave. Undertakers Henry Allen and Son were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The Ladies Aid of the Third Baptist church held a meeting recently with Mrs. Herbert Peckham of Margerie street and dressed a large number of dolls. These are to be sent as a Christmas gift from the Missionary society who furnished them to a Community Center house in Massachusetts and will count as White Cross work in Missions. They also made plans for a Christmas sale and a meat pie supper.

TAFTVILLE

When the monthly business meeting of the Independent Order of Foresters was held Wednesday evening, the president, Ernest Gaudette had charge of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barlow and their son George, Jr. of North B street are moving to a house on Hunters avenue.

Christopher Troeger, the president, presided at the monthly business meeting of the members of the Ponemah Wheel club at their clubhouse on Norwich avenue Tuesday evening.

Thursday was the Feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, designated by the Pope as the patronal festival of the United States, and a holy day of obligation in the Roman Catholic church throughout the world. Masses were offered at Sacred Heart church at 5:30, 7 and 8 a. m., the first mass being for the workers, and the last for the children of the Sacred Heart school who attended in a body in charge of their teachers, the Sisters of Charity. As on other feasts of the Blessed Virgin, the altar hangings and priests' vestments were white and gold. The pupils at the parish school had a holiday in observance of the feast.

The members of the Basketry club met Thursday evening for work and instruction in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Louis Martel who has been spending the past three weeks at the Ponemah house has left town.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Benoit and family have taken a house on Norwich avenue.

The Artisans met Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Day and family have given up their house at 38 Providence street.

Consack Laliberty who for the past few years has resided on South C street, has moved to Danielson.

Andrew Zoladz has resigned his position with the spinning department of the local mills.

Miss Mary Ward, the president, presided at the regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society held Wednseday evening in the society rooms on Providence street.

The height of the water in the Shetucket river compares very closely with the great volume of water which came down the river during the recent floods. It is believed that the rain of Wednesday and Thursday with the snow which was on the ground is the cause.

Mrs. William J. Malone had charge of the meeting of the members of the Ladies auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held Tuesday evening in their rooms in the Parish hall building.

At the regular meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, No. 38, Foresters of America, held Thursday evening, Chief Ranger Joseph E. Benac presided.

5 PLATE GLASS WINDOWS BLOWN OUT AT SCHWARTZ BROS.' STORE

A combustion explosion in the boiler room at Schwartz Bros' building, 74-80 Main street, blew out five large plate glass windows at the store about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. With the exception of a hole in the smoke pipe, the only damage caused by the blast was to the plate glass which crashed into the street.

An official of the company stated Sunday afternoon that a vent which was cemented over by error was responsible for the explosion. He said hot fumes had gathered in a large quantity, there being no outlet for them to reach the outside air. The store was closed for the night Saturday at 10 o'clock and at that time everything was apparently all right.

The oil burner is of the automatic type which is regulated by a thermostat. During the night, according to the store official, hot fumes gathered in the boiler room in such quantity that an explosion took place when the oil burner was automatically lighted about 7 o'clock Sunday morning, the temperature in the store having dropped below 70.

Later in the morning Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich fire department and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft visited the building to investigate the cause of the explosion. Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney also conducted an investigation. Chief Stanton stated that he found absolutely nothing wrong with the boiler or oil burner. The chief stated that gasses and fumes which had collected in the smoke pipe probably became ignited by the oil burner flame and exploded.

No damage to the building, other than the smashed glass, was caused by the explosion.

President Abner Schwartz of Schwartz Bros., Inc., had David T. Weinerman, a Hartford civil engineer, come here Sunday to make an investigation of the cause of the explosion and he gave it as his opinion that the chimney was not high enough by a few feet to avoid a back draft so that the back draft was shot back into the boiler room where there was no ventilation, causing the explosion that broke the glass. Mr. Weinerman advised that the chimney be raised and this is to be done today (Monday) and an outlet has been ordered to be made from the boiler room so that there will be no possibility of any recurrence of the accident.

Rumors that the building had settled or collapsed were current in the city after the accident, but this was definitely denied by a steel work expert from New London who Mr. Schwartz had make an investigation. The New London man found that there had been no failure of the structure nor any settling of the building, but that the steel work was in AI condition. Chief Stanton also stated that he found nothing wrong with the building which was as solid as ever.

The plate glass windows destroyed were some of the largest in the city. Three of them were about 18 feet wide by 12 feet tall and the other two were about 10 by 12. They will all be replaced this (Monday) morning. It was estimated Sunday night that the replacement cost might run to $1,000.

Immediately after the accident the sidewalk was roped off as it was covered with glass. Later employes of Mr. Sweeney cleared up the glass and the sidewalk was opened again to pedestrians.

DRESS DOLLS TO SEND TO MISSIONARY HOME

The Cheerful Workers, Class 12 of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, met at the home of their teacher Friday evening. Each member brought a doll dressed by herself which will be sent to Silver Lake Missionary home. After a short business meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The following members were present: Ruth Genter, Olive Kinne, Marion Miller, Madline Plaskitt, Dorothy Ladd and Mrs. Cochrane.

Foremen to Meet

The December meeting of the foremen's and executives' club of New London is to be this (Monday) evening in the Central Y. M. C. A., supper being served at that time.

Following supper the program committee have arranged a most interesting program. David Lamond, of the Corticelli Silk Co., will take care of the musical entertainment, and two reels of moving pictures will be run, "Harvest of the Sea," illustrating deep-sea fishing, and "Maintaining the Salmon Industry." These will serve as a prelude to the address of the evening, which will be given by R. A. Ross, manager of the Groton plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Corp. of New York.

Meeting of S. S. Club

The S. S. club met last week with Mrs. Rose Carter of Norwich Town. A social evening was enjoyed with radio and sewing. The hostess served coffee, sandwiches and cookies. The club will meet this week with Mrs. Rachael Peterson of 62 Sunnyside avenue, Yantic.

RECRUITING FOR NAVY IN CONNECTICUT DISTRICT

To prepare for the cruise of the United States fleet south for the winter, the navy department has placed a heavy demand for men upon the Connecticut recruiting district. The fleet is scheduled to proceed to southern waters on January 6th, 1928 and by that time the crew of each ship sailing with the fleet will have to be completely filled. The quota of men assigned this recruiting district is 45 first enlistments in any rating for the month of December. To date, 24 enlistments from the state have been made and there remains vacancies for 21 more men. The age minimum now established is 17 years instead of 18 as heretofore required and the height is 62 inches for minors and 64 inches for adults. Many men who were not accepted for enlistment upon application during the past months may now be able to meet the new requirements, and young men now unemployed between the ages of 17 and 35 years have an opportunity to enter the United States navy for a career and learn a trade with steady employment and the many benefits accompanying an enlistment, and miss the hard winter north by sailing with the fleet to southern waters in January.

MRS. CARL ACKLEY AIDS IN MOST IMPORTANT WORK

In the report of the Museum of National History in New York last week there was the following reference to Mrs. Carl Ackley, (Dr. Mary Jobe) owner of Camp Mystic, the summer camp for girls on Mystic river:

The Eastman-Pomeroy Akeley expedition continued its work in Africa, and under its auspices Daniel E. Pomeroy collected in Tanganyika specimens for greater and lesser Kudu groups for the Akeley African hall: also specimens for the plains group, in which will appear sixteen species of African antelopes. After the death of Carl E. Akeley, Mrs. Akeley, assisted by William R. Leigh and R. C. Raddatz, artist and preparator respectively, continued the collecting of accessories and making of field studies for the gorilla group in the Parc National Albert. They also collected similar material near Lake Hannington in Kenya Colony for a Sitatunga group.

VIOLIN AND PIANO PUPILS IN RECITAL

Dr. Frank Drago, Hartford violinist, presented four advanced violin pupils in recital at the Catholic Women's club hall, New London, Friday evening. The event was largely attended and the work of the young artists much appreciated.

Lillian Hirsch, the first and youngest performer, rendered two movements from the Seitz Concerto No 5, with an ease and freedom which won her much praise. This was followed by, "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell-Hartmann, played with an interpretation uncommon for one of her immature years. Earle Swan of Norwich, played the last movement from the Ludwig Mendelssohn Concerto displaying unusual technical facility. He next rendered "Le Cygne" by Saint-Saens with much feeling, and concluded with the tuneful Barcarolle, Op. 191, No. 6 by Dancla, played in musical fashion.

Helen Lewitz, 12, pianist, pupil of Mrs. Alexander H. Manes, well known Norwich pianist and teacher, made her first public appearance presenting two works of artistic caliber. The difficult "Polacca Brillante" by Weber, was skillfully interpreted, and the lovely "Liebestraum" by Listz was played with sentiment. Her playing left a very favorable impression. Aranka Greene began with a well played presentation of the first movement of Shubert's Sonatina in D. The Rameau-Kreisler "Tambourin" was rendered in a spirited manner, and a broad tone and much feeling was displayed in the rendition of the popular 'Alice' by Ascher-Moffat. The concert was brought to a successful conclusion with the first appearance in recital of Georgianna Palmer, artist pupil of Dr. Drago, and a student at Connecticut college. Miss Palmer successfully carried out a group of ambitious selections in which she showed musicianship and poetic feeling. The first number was the 'Aria' from the Veracini Sonata in D minor, played with dignity and repose. This was followed by 'Midnight Bells' by Heuberger-Kreisler which found a decided popular response. Kreisler's Schon-Rosmarin displayed a well trained bow arm and delicate phrasing; and the Canzonetta by d'Ambrosio was brilliantly played. Good training and interpretative ability was in evidence throughout.

The piano accompaniments were played by Rose Shirly Hirsch, Mrs. A. H. Manes, and Mrs. George S. Palmer. Their work was of uniform good taste and cooperative understanding throughout.

MRS. JEROME MAYER JUDGE IN HARTFORD DOLL CONTESTS

Indications are that more than 500 dolls will be distributed among the poorer children of the Hartford district this Christmas as a result of the second annual Girl Scout doll making contest, which once again is being conducted.

Mrs. Jerome Mayer, formerly Sadie Plaut of Norwich, member of the Hartford charity board, on Wednesday consented to serve once again as one of the three judges.

MANN ACT VIOLATION CHARGED AGAINST BROGNO

Samuel Brogno, 30, of this city, was arrested Friday afternoon by U. S. Deputy Marshal Joseph Park of New Haven on a charge of violation of the Mann act. Brogno was presented before U. S. Commissioner Earl Athewson and the case continued until December 16th, under bonds of $3,000. Brogno, who was recently bound over to the superior court following a raid on a North Stonington house, where it was alleged he was using women for immoral purposes, is now charged with transporting women into the state for immoral purposes.

GLOUCESTER STEAMER TO RUN ON THAMES RIVER

The famous old steamer City of Gloucester, which has gained the nickname Old Reliable, because in her 44 years of service between Boston and Gloucester, has seldom missed a trip, has been purchased by the Thames River Line, Inc., and will soon be placed on the freight run between Norwich, New London, Bridgeport and New York.

The old steamer will be completely overhauled at New York and then placed in service again while the Carisco, now running is overhauled. The ships will then be used alternately.

So regular was the schedule of the City of Gloucester kept that it was said folks along the seacoast would often set their clocks as she passed. Due to the competition by trucks the steamer was withdrawn from service a year ago.

For Burial in Norwalk

The body of Mrs. Walter Smith, who died in Norwich Saturday will be taken today (Monday) to St. Mary's cemetery, Norwalk, for burial by Shea and Burke.

DEATH OF MR. PRESTON, HUMANE SOCIETY HEAD

Norwich Town friends learned with profound sadness, Saturday morning, of the death of H. Clay Preston of West Hartford, for the past nine years the efficient general manager of the Connecticut Humane society, Hartford.

Although firm in his convictions, his ability was proven by results attained. He was ever mindful of the strenuous responsibilities entrusted to his judgment and wise counsel and never faltered where duty called him. General Manager Preston was an affable man to meet, possessing a wonderful personality He not only leaves a wife who was a most lovable companion to him in the home, also who was deeply interested in, and assisted him in the several branches of humane work; but his friends were legion, both in Connecticut and New York state, from which he came to take up his latest position.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Preston have visited Norwich on several occasions, combining sociability with business.

Large Attendance at Y. M. C. A.

Even though the weather was anything but auspicious the audience at the Y. M. C. A. was very large, it being necessary to bring in a number of extra chairs. After the opening exercises of hymns, scripture reading and prayer by the leader and a vocal solo by Hugh Kinder, several reels of moving pictures were shown. The first was entitled "The Day We Celebrate," an interesting reel furnished by the Southern New England Telephone Co. Another reel on California was of real interest, and one on "The Kingdom of David" was shown. The feature picture entitled "The Man who Found a Boy" which was an interesting story of a man taking a deep interest in a boy who had started on the downward grade; the man organized a Boy Scout troop with this wayward boy and his chums as charter members, and the result was that the life of this boy and the others was fully changed. Between the reels, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk.

NORWICH TOWN

The following was sent to the pastors of the several churches in Norwich, regardless of denomination, to be read to their congregation Sunday morning:

It is the sincere desire of those having the Norwich Town Christmas tree celebration in charge this year, to heartily invite all those of your parish who enjoy following out this old New England custom to join with them on Christmas night, from six-thirty until seven o'clock at the town green, to assist in the singing of Christmas carols.

Will you kindly extend this invitation to your congregation, and oblige.

The committee,
F. H. Wyant, chairman,
Supervisor of Schools James F. Connolly and Mrs. Connolly of Sentry Hill, Norwich Town, had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stokes and daughter, Miss Dorothy Stokes and Prof. and Mrs. J. Louis von der Mehden Jr., all of Saybrook.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR THE CENTRAL VERMONT R. R.

Action in Burlington, Vt., Followed the Complaint of the Canadian National Railways, Largest Creditors and Owner of Two-thirds of the C. V. Stock—Receivers Have Been Instructed to Continue the Business Pending Further Orders From the Court—Financial Difficulties Are Due to the Recent Flood.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 12—(AP)—The Central Vermont railroad, oldest transportation system in the state, was petitioned into receivership in the federal court today. The action was taken by the Canadian National Railways, owner of two-thirds of the road's stock and its largest creditor, on the ground that the Central Vermont was unable to pay its bills as a result of the heavy damage it suffered from the floods of last month.

Judge Harland B. Howe appointed George A. Gaston of New York and John W. Redmond of Newport receivers and instructed them to continue the business of the railroad pending further orders from the court. The receivers tonight announced that they intended to issue receivers' certificates to obtain funds needed to rebuild bridges and make other repairs to the right of way "so that the railroad might be restored to operation with all expedition." The railroad lost more than 30 bridges during the flood and its tracks in many places were washed away.

Vice President D. C. Grant of the Canadian National Railways said tonight that holders of refunding mortgage gold bonds of the Central Vermont which mature May 1, 1930, payment of which was guaranteed by the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada and which are now an obligation of the Canadian National as successor of the Grand Trunk, might deliver the bonds to New York with unmatured coupons attached and receive in exchange the par value with accrued interest.

Until its service was disrupted by the floods last month, the Central Vermont operated more than 500 miles of lines, of which 136 are in Canada. It had been long one of the principal transportation systems of the state. The total flood damage which the road suffered has never been made public by the company, but its losses were extremely heavy.

$100,000 BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT AGAINST HARRY THAW

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw, famous as a result of his lengthy and sensational trial for the slaying of Stanford White, was made defendant in a $100,000 breach of promise suit filed here today by Forest Hope Wall, 20, one-time film extra.

The suit accuses Thaw of being involved in a California love affair in May, 1924, at a time when court records show Thaw was an inmate of the Pennsylvania State Hospital for the Insane, except for occasional visits to his mother. After these visits to his mother, newspaper records of the case indicated, he returned promptly to the institution. He was released on April 23 1924.

Miss Wall filed suit through her mother and guardian, Mrs. Louise Wall of Culver City, Cal.

The suit asks $100,000 as balm for a broken heart following five evenings spent with the man Miss Wall declares to have been Harry Thaw at Laguna Beach, Calif. At that time she was a member of a motion picture company on location there.

The suit asserts Thaw urged Miss Wall to leave the motion picture profession and gave her $10 to reimburse her for one day's work which she missed in order to remain with the man she says was Thaw on the Laguna Beach hotel veranda.

They separated, the complaint declares, when the girl returned to her home in Culver City and the man went to Pittsburgh, where, he informed her, his mother was living and much trouble faced him.

But for three years, she declares, they corresponded and she received various small sums, totalling about $50.

Some time in May, 1926, the complaint avers, a letter came requesting the girl to come to Thaw's home, promising marriage.

Thaw recently arrived in California accompanied by two prospective film actresses described by him as his protegees.

OFFICERS REGARDED GEORGE REMUS AS SANE

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Sandwiched between the testimony today of nearly a dozen peace officers that they regarded George Remus as sane, was the first evidence in his long murder trial that he had admitted his intention was to shoot his estranged wife to death when he trailed her from her home apartment into Eden Park here last October 6.

It came from Lieut. Frank McNeal, for nearly a quarter of a century a Cincinnati policeman to whom Remus surrendered a week shortly after he had fatally wounded his estranged wife, Imogene.

The defense had maintained in its plea of transitory maniacal insanity that Remus followed Mrs. Remus for the sole purpose of talking with her before she went into divorce court that morning.

McNeal testified that after he had "booked" Remus he turned the prisoner over to Lieut. Emmet Kiegan, chief of detectives.

Lieut. Kiegan asked him if he had come on there for the purpose of shooting his wife and he answered yes, he testified McNeal.

"This is the penalty to be paid by any one who lives contrary to the code of society," Lieut. McNeal said he had asserted.

CONVICT MORAN FOUND DEAD IN HALL AT ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—John Moran, of Chicago, serving a 25-year sentence in the federal penitentiary here for participating in a million dollar Chicago mail robbery, was found dead in the dining hall of the prison Sunday night. A. C. Aderhold, deputy warden, in announcing this today, said prison physicians attributed the death to cerebral thrombosis. He said lacerations about Moran's head probably were caused by a fall on the cement floor at the entrance to the dining hall.

Moran was transferred here from the Leavenworth penitentiary.

BOY DROWNED WHEN HE BROKE THROUGH THIN ICE

THOMPSONVILLE, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The thin ice tragedy of the season in this state was recorded in the drowning of Joseph Bruno, 8, who lost his life in Fresh Water pond here this afternoon, about 2 feet off shore. Stanley Burgess, 15, passing by, saw the child's head above water. He jumped in with his clothes on but when he reached the spot, the boy had disappeared.

The body was recovered in 15 feet of water by firemen.

Joseph, one of a family of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Rosario Bruno, of this town, had been playing on the ice alone when he fell through the thin coating of ice on the pond.

HILL RESIGNS FROM THE SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—W. S. Hill, of South Dakota, resigned today as a member of the shipping board a few hours after President Coolidge had sent to the senate the nomination of Albert H. Denton, of Kansas, as his successor.

In announcing that he was through effective today, Mr. Hill said that a loan made to him by "a man indirectly connected with shipping interests" had been "brought up as a blot on by record." He disclosed also that the department of justice had been investigating the transaction.

Department of justice officials declined to comment on the situation, and it was not until he had found that he was to be replaced on the shipping board that Hill, whose home is in Mitchell, made any statement. Then he said:

"I obtained the loan as an individual from an individual and never dreamed that it would be brought up as a blot on my record. It is true that I obtained the money from a man indirectly connected with shipping interests, but it never occurred to me that it was anything but a personal matter or that any one would think otherwise.

"I want to say, and I want it thoroughly understood that the loan has never had any bearing on any action I have taken as a member of the board."

The money, Hill said, had been obtained to keep a small bank near Mitchell, South Dakota, from becoming insolvent.

PILOT AND PASSENGER KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

BRYAN, Ohio, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Pilot John Ziegler, Detroit, and C. J. Parker, Portland Ore., vice president and general treasurer of the Iron Firemen's Manufacturing company, were killed when a Waco air service plane crashed at Montpelier, near here, today while making a landing.

Harry Banfield, Portland, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries. The other two passengers, L. P. Teeple, also of Portland, and George Malcomson, Detroit, were slightly injured. Teeple and Malcomson left late today for Detroit after receiving first aid treatment.

The plane left Detroit this morning en route to Fort Wayne, Ind. From there the party had planned to go to Chicago.

Ziegler, it was believed lost his bearings in heavy fog and attempted to land in a rough pasture field, the plane turning over as it struck the ground.

Ziegler and Parker were pinned in the wreckage, but the other three men managed to escape.

HELD WITHOUT BOND FOR MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Twenty one year old Velma West was held to the Lake county grand jury today without bond on a first degree murder charge for the killing with a hammer of her husband, T. Edward West, after a preliminary hearing before Judge Marvin H. Helter, in municipal court.

Judge Helter refused the plea of her chief counsel, Francis W. Poison for a reduction in the charge which would have admitted the blond confessed slayer to bail.

He declared the killing was the "most unspeakable crime in the history of Lake county" and ordered Mrs West taken back to jail to await the grand jury session, which will commence Jan. 9

Prosecutor Seth Paulin said he would not summon a special session. This means that the girl's trial probably will get under way early in February.

OCEAN LINERS TELL OF A ROUGH PASSAGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Two overdue trans-Atlantic liners reached port today after battling terrific gales, while the S. S. Albert Ballin in a wireless to the Associated Press said that although it was a full day behind schedule it was weathering the storm without discomfort to its passengers.

The Red Star liner Belgenland, with its ship's bell and several ventilators missing, reached port 24 hours late, and the French liner Roussillon arrived two days behind schedule.

The captain of the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin reported that the vessel encountered westerly gales shortly after passing out of the English channel and that these continued as far as 55 degrees west longitude.

Captain W. A. Morehouse of the Belgenland said while the weather was bad, it was not unusually so. Many cases of seasickness were reported, however, among the ship's 500 passengers and the 112 aboard the Roussillon. Captain Rene Bordeaux of the Roussillon said the heaviest weather was encountered off Newfoundland.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—(AP)—An earthquake of considerable force shook the south Altai ridge in the Semipalatinsk district today. The shocks lasted five minutes or more and several houses collapsed. Numerous fissures appeared.

ORADEA, Rumania, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Appeals to Rumania military guards by Wilfred N. Keller, of Lindenhall, Pa., to save him from a student mob last week, were ignored, a witness of the scene told The Associated Press today.

BUCHAREST, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A double crisis may come from the week's anti-semitic disorders. Not only is damage aggregating hundreds of millions of lei (nominally 62-100th cents each) reported from Oradea Mare and Cluj, with reparation demands possible from America, British, French and Hungarian governments for attacks on their [illegible], but the cabinet may be embarrassed in the charges and counter-charges already resulting.

REVENUE BILL AMENDED BY HOUSE DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Catching republicans off guard, house democrats succeeded today in amending the revenue bill to materially reduce the tax rate on net corporation incomes of $15,000 or less.

The proposal was sponsored by Representative Garner of Texas, senior minority member of the ways and means committee, which drafted the measure. It was opposed by Chairman Green, and the vote, 136 to 132, largely was along party lines.

Except for this thrust, the democrats made no concerted effort to penetrate the cordon of republican votes that Mr. Green, after his unexpected defeat, kept on the floor to defend provisions of the measure.

Throughout the day, however, some democrats joined with a handful of republicans in taking sporadic shots at various items in the bill but these attacks proved futile.

Operating for the first time under rules permitting amendments to the bill the house worked with speed. It approved without debate a section proposing a reduction of the tax on corporation incomes from 13 1-2 to 11 1-2 per cent. to apply to payments due next March 15 and an increase from $2,000 to $3,000 in the amount of income exempted from taxation.

The Garner amendment, which Representative Chindblom of Illinois, a republican on the committee, estimated would add $24,000,000 to the $232,735,000 reduction already proposed by the bill, would grant a further benefit to corporations with a net taxable income of not more than $15,000 as follows:

Instead of the 11 1-2 per cent. rate, the rate would be 5 per cent. on a net taxable income of $7,000 or under; 7 per cent. on incomes between $7,000 and $12,000; and 9 per cent. if the incomes are more than $12,000, and not more than $15,000.

BUTLER NOT CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR NEXT YEAR

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, announced today that he would not be a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator next year. In a letter to Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt club, in response to an inquiry as to whether he would run Mr. Butler said:

"I shall not be a candidate for the republican senatorial nomination in 1928. My keen interest, however, continues that this seat shall be made republican."

The senatorial election in Massachusetts in 1928 will be the first one for the full term to succeed the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. Senator Lodge was re-elected in 1922 by a margin of 7,354 votes over the late William A. Gaston, the election being so close that lengthy recount was conducted.

TEN HORSES BURNED TO DEATH IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Ten horses were burned to death in a fire discovered just before midnight tonight in the stables of the T. L. O'Donnell Company, Inc., of 54 Commerce street. Five horses were rescued, including one which remained on the first floor until firemen had sufficiently checked the flames so he could be brought out. Andrew Calaphut, one of the first at the scene of the fire, led out two horses, according to Peter Vardo, a Commerce street resident, who led out two other animals, and helped Calaphut battle wit hthe desire of the horses to rush into the blazing building and reach their stalls. The fifth horse was rescued by firemen. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

ATWATER KENT WINNERS HAVE SIGNED CONTRACTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The two young singers who won first prizes in the Atwater Kent national radio audition today signed contracts which may open stage careers to them.

Agnes Davis of Denver, made a contract with Arthur Hemmerstein to be understudy to Louise Hunter, musical comedy singer. Wilbur Evans, of Philadelphia, signed a contract with the same producer as general male understudy for the musical show "Golden Dawn."

Miss Davis and Evans each received $5,000 in cash yesterday and two years' tuition in a conservatory of music.

TRAINMAN FATALLY INJURED AT ROWAYTON

STAMFORD, Dec. 12.—(AP)—William Gray, of 116 Park street, West Haven, died in the Stamford hospital this afternoon after being struck by a train at Rowayton.

Gray, who was employed on an oil train belonging to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is believed to have leaned out of the train to see how the oil was flowing. He was hit by a Boston-New York express. He was taken to the hospital where he died an hour after arrival. He is survived by a widow.

McLean Plans to End His Political Career

Senator Will Not Be a Candidate For Reelection—Term Will Expire March 3, 1929.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Senator McLean will not be a candidate for re-election and it can be authoritatively stated he will retire to private life at the end of his present term. The voluntary retirement of Senator McLean, of Connecticut, from the chairmanship of the senate committee on banking and currency, which he has held for eight years, caused much speculation as to whether it forecasted his retirement from the senate at the end of his present term. Today it was positively learned through unquestioned authority that Senator McLean will decline to be a candidate to succeed himself in 1929, and will then retire to private life. Mr. McLean has held the important chairmanship of banking and currency for eight years. He is now chairman of manufacturers and on foreign relations and finance and will continue to be one of the most influential members of the senate. The entire senate will regret Mr. McLean's decision to retire, when it becomes known that such is his determination, for he holds a high place in the confidence of his colleagues of both parties.

It is understood Mr. McLean feels he has spent many years in public service. Although in excellent health, he desires to return to a private life and be free from the burdens of the senatorship.

When the forecast of the senator's retirement was confirmed today there were many comments as to his probable successor, the name of Floor Leader Tilson being used as his logical successor.

When Tilson was questioned as to his future plans, he merely laughed and said, "Well just now I am very busy attending to the duties of floor leader," an answer that left his friends here still guessing.

The committee assignments of Connecticut members of congress are as follows:

McLean—Chairman manufacturers, finance and foreign relations.

Bingham — Appropriation, library and printing.

Merritt—Interstate and foreign commerce.

Gynn—Military affairs.

Freeman—Rivers and harbors.

Fenn—Chairman census, banking and currency, education, labor and veterans.

Tilson outranks all other members of the house as the republican floor leader.

George Payne McLean, of Simsbury, was born in Simsbury, Conn., October 7, 1857; graduated from Hartford High school; admitted to the bar in 1881 and practiced in Hartford; member of the Connecticut house of representatives in 1883-84; member of the commission to revise the Connecticut statutes in 1885; member of the Connecticut senate in 1886; as United States district attorney for Connecticut from 1892 to 1896; governor of Connecticut 1901-2; received the degree of A. M. from Yale University in 1904; was nominated in the republican caucus January, 1911, by a vote of 113 to 64 for opposing candidates, and elected by the general assembly by a vote of 158 to 96 for Homer S. Cummings, democrat, and 1 for Morgan G. Bulkeley, republican. Was re-elected to the United States senate November 7, 1916, and November 7, 1922. His term of service will expire March 3, 1929

FLURRY OVER LEGION "DRY" POLL SUBSIDES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 12—(AP)—The tempestuous discussion which followed Commander Edward E. Spafford's suggestion that the American Legion membership be polled on the prohibition question, apparently was effectually stilled here today, when the national commander said that no such poll will be taken unless ordered by the national executive committee of the legion.

Commander Spafford will not bring the matter before the executive committee when it meets in January, he told state commanders and adjutants of the legion, at the opening session of their annual three day conference at national headquarters. Legion officials here said that several telegrams received from members of the committee had indicated sentiment against the suggestion.

MRS. COOLIDGE'S MOTHER IN IMPROVED CONDITION

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 12—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, aged mother of Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, wife of the president, who is ill with influenza at the DLickinson hospital here, was reported greatly improved tonight. Physicians said that the patient was probably out of danger unless unexpected complications set in.

Mrs. Goodhue, who is 78 years old, was taken to the hospital yesterday. During her illness Major James F. Coupal, the president's personal physician, has been in consultation by telephone from Washington with Mrs. Goodhue's physician, Dr. Elmer L. Copeland.

STUDENTS SUFFERED FROM EXPOSURE ON MOUNTAIN

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 12—(AP)—Two Dartmouth college students were recovering tonight from exposure after a midnight climb to the peak of Smarts Mountain, 3,200 feet above sea level, during a severe gale and in sub-zero weather.

Ayres Boal, Jr., of Winnetka, Ill., is at the college hospital suffering with frozen feet, while Frank Guiden, Jr., of Long Beach, N. Y., the other student, suffered only slight after-affects from the adventure.

The youths at first mistook another mountain for that of their objective and were exhausted when they finally reached the summit of Smarts. Due to the high gale they were unable to keep a fire in a small cabin at the top.

SAYS DETECTIVE BURNS DID NOT KNOW OF SURVEILLANCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 — (AP)—Charles G. Ruddy, who had charge of the shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury for the Burns detective agency, ended three days testimony in the government's criminal contempt case against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their assistants today with the assertion that Burns knew nothing of the surveillance.

Guardsmen in Charge of Oklahoma Capitol

Gov. Johnson Moves to Block Legislators From Considering His Impeachment.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Striking with the mailed fist, Gov. Henry S. Johnston today prevented members of the Oklahoma house of representatives from meeting in the state capitol to consider his impeachment but failed to overcome their determination to proceed with their program.

Shortly after national guardsmen, armed with rifles and pistols, had turned the legislators back at the doors of the house chamber this morning, a majority of the members met secretly at a hotel and agreed to convene again tomorrow to receive charges voted against the executive by an investigating committee.

The scene of tomorrow's session was not revealed but it will be some place outside the capitol

Whether Gov. Johnston would attempt to have troops disperse the legislators tomorrow was a matter of speculation tonight. His directions to Adjutant General Charles F Barrett were to suppress "all insurrectionary meetings whether held at the capitol or any other place in the state."

The scenes today at the capitol with soldiers in full control recalled the day a little more than four years ago when Gov. Jack Walton used troops to prevent a self-summoned assembly of house members bent on impeaching him. Walton later was removed from office when he withdrew the iron hand and formally called the legislature into session.

Gov. Johnston announced late today that troops would remain on active duty until the courts finally settle the question of the legality of the legislative session, which was convoked without his call.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL READY TO BEGIN SERVING SENTENCE

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 12—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, sentenced with Willis Beach to ten years in the penitentiary for the slaying of the woman's husband, today sent word from her cell that she was ready to begin serving the sentence at once.

After sentence was passed last week, Mrs. Lilliendahl expressed the hope that she would be kept at the county jail the maximum twenty days allowed by law so she could share Christmas dinner in the sheriff's quarters with her eight-year-old son, Alfred.

Today, however, she said that she was "resigned to my fate" and ready to go to the state prison at Trenton, "although I am innocent."

Beach, too, said he was anxious to "get it over with," particularly in view of the fact that the prisoners' terms do not begin officially until they are lodged in penitentiary.

The fifty-seven year old poultry farmer expressed pity and sorrow for Mrs. Lilliendahl. "I don't care any longer for myself," he said, "but I'm sorry for her. She is a sensitive woman and may suffer more in prison."

Sheriff Cimino said he may remove the prisoners to Trenton this week unless assured by their attorneys that plans are under way to make application for a new trial.

OPPONENTS DISCUSSED PROHIBITION QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—An imposing group of men discussed the prohibition question today at the home here of former Senator Wadsworth, of New York who is a foe of the 18th amendment. While those who attended were reluctant later to talk about what had transpired, the discussion was described as having been in a serious vein and there were intimations that some definite action by the group could be expected soon.

Mr. Wadsworth tonight described the conference purpose as follows:

"For the discussion of the prohibition situation as it affects the country at large and the sentiment on that question." Beyond that he declined to go.

Among those attending, Mr. Wadsworth said, were Colonel Julian Codman, Boston; Edward S. Harkness, New York; Pierre S. Dupont, Delaware; Senators Edge, New Jersey, and Bruce, Maryland; William H. Stayton, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and G. C. Hinckley, its secretary; Austin G. Fox, head of the Moderation League, and William Bellwait, New York.

STRANDED LINER IS LISTING CONSIDERABLY

CAMPBELL RIVER, B. C., Dec. 12—(AP)—Stranded after being driven aground in a gale a few miles south of here yesterday, the liner Northwestern was reported listing considerably tonight while a floating boat stood by to bring back 26 members of the crew who refused to desert the vessel yesterday.

While the storm-tossed waters drenched the decks of the Northwestern, 112 passengers and 49 of the ship's personnel were transferred to the halibut schooner, Explorer, and sheltered in this port. It was not known here whether Capt. Jock Livingston commander of the Northwestern, and the rest of his crew still were aboard tonight.

The report that the ship was listing was received from the lighthouse tender, Estevan, which visited the ship at Cape Mudge, 10 miles south of here, at the entrance of Seymour Narrows. Much of the hand luggage of the passengers still is aboard the Northwestern or on the halibutter standing by.

LINDBERGH PREPARING FOR FLIGHT TO MEX. CITY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Undismayed by reports of poor weather conditions, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh pushed steadily forward today with preparations for his flight from Washington to Mexico City.

The day's activities included a consultation with officials of the weather bureau and the navy hydrographic office—after which he announced that the flight could not be begun for at least ten days—Luncheon with the commanding officer at Bolling field and an afternoon spent inspecting the work of army mechanics on the Spirit of St. Louis and in testing out the army's new Loening headquarters plane.

Meanwhile, the senate followed the lead of the house in voting unanimously that a congressional medal of honor, one of the nation's highest awards, be conferred upon the famous young aviator in recognition of his trans-Atlantic flight.

William Randolph Hearst, in an article to be published in the New York World today says that Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri has the best chance of being elected of any of the candidates in the field for the democratic presidential nomination but that Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York has the best chance to win the nomination.

SENATE CAMPAIGN FUNDS COMMITTEE REAFFIRMED

The Special Committee, Headed by Senator Reed of Missouri, Will Meet Today to Plan Resumption of the Investigation Into the Pennsylvania and Illinois Primaries Last Year—Smith and Vare, the Senators Whose Seats Are Involved, Will Stress the Fact of Their Election After the Voters Had Been Fully Informed of the Charges Brought Against Them During the Inquiry Last Year—Senate Approved the Inquiry by a Vote of 58 to 21.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—By a decisive vote of 58 to 21 the senate today ended the feud of its only two cousins,—"Dave" Reed of Pennsylvania, and "Jim" Reed of Missouri, formally reaffirming the authority of its special campaign funds committee headed by the Missourian.

Reed of Pennsylvania who gained the upper hand when he led a successful filibuster at the close of the last session which prevented a vote on the proposal to continue the committee submitted almost without a struggle today as the Missourian Reed drove through his resolution after lashing the Pennsylvania senator.

Ordered to carry on, the committee of which Reed of Missouri is chairman will meet tomorrow to map plans for resuming its investigation into the Pennsylvania and Illinois primaries last year. On the basis of its partial reports the senate refused by overwhelming majorities last week to administer the oath to Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, both republicans, pending a further hearing before the Reed committee.

Smith and Vare, in presenting arguments why they are entitled to senate seats, will stress, among other points their election after the voters of Illinois and Pennsylvania had been fully advised of the charges brought against them during the Reed inquiry more than a year ago.

During a brief discussion which preceded the senate vote, Reed of Missouri declared that the Pennsylvania Reed had "thwarted" his plan by "leading the filibuster" in the closing days of the last session against the resolution to continue his committee during the recess. Then he referred to his distant cousin as "the only honest man of his generation."

"The injured innocent attitude of the senator from Pennsylvania is amusing," the Missouri democrat said. "Future generations will go to his shrine to see the inscription on it of 'the only honest man of his generation'."

In reply Senator Reed of Pennsylvania said he realized there were enough votes to continue the special committee but added his objection to that portion of the resolution which declared the committee had continued "in full force and operation" during the recess of congress.

On the roll call only one democrat—Blease of South Carolina—joined with 20 republicans in voting against a continuation of the committee's authority. Sixteen republicans and the one farmer-labor, Shipstead, Minnesota, cast their votes with 41 democrats to reassert the authority of the committee.

INDICTMENTS CONNECTED WITH HUGE LOAN POOLS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12—(AP)—New indictments were returned today by the county grand jury against 41 persons accused of conspiracy to commit usury in connection with the huge loan and stock pools which played an important part in the collapse of the Julian Petroleum corporation.

The re-indictments were returned against all members of three Julian Petroleum corporation pools, which advanced money to the company. Previous indictments had been dismissed in the case of ten of the forty one defendants who include in their number many high in Los Angeles financial circles.

The Julian Petroleum muddle attracted attention last spring when the stock was withdrawn from the market after S. C. Lewis, the corporation's president, who since has resigned and is among those indicted, disclosed the stock over-issue.

He has blamed the stock over-issue as well as loan and stock pools which were pyramided to the neighborhood of $100,000,000, on delays in reorganization of the company at the time its properties were taken over by the California-Eastern Oil company. Both companies now are in the hands of receivers.

SUPREME COURT DECISION ON DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—When the police of states that have no prohibition enforcement law of their own co-operate with federal authorities, they must be bound, the supreme court ruled today, by the federal statutes providing for search and seizure, or the evidence obtained will have no validity in court.

On the other hand, the tribunal declared, evidence uncovered in making arrests for violations of state laws can be used by the federal authorities in prosecuting liquor cases.

The decision came in a case selected from several to put the proposition to a test. It was brought by Rosario Gambino and Joseph Lima, who were arrested by state police at Massena, N. Y. The pair asserted that the arrest had been made and their automobile searched, not for a violation of a state law, but "solely for the purpose of aiding the federal prosecution

It was contended that since the state troopers had no search warrant, the evidence obtained could not be used against them in the federal courts.

The court concurred in this contention and decided that under the circumstances, the state police were subject to the same restrictions as federal officers.

EXPLOSION FOLLOWED ATTEMPT TO ROB THEATRE

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—(AP)—An unsuccessful attempt to rob the safe of the Parthenon theater in Berwyn, a suburb, early today was followed by an explosion this afternoon which partly wrecked the playhouse.

The authorities said it appeared that the robbers, unable to crack the safe, had set a time bomb which exploded shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. No one was in the theatre at the time, there being no matinee performances. The damage was not great.

Owners of the playhouse attributed the explosion to a defective boiler but authorities said pieces of a bomb were found.

The safe contained about $4,000 week end receipts of the theater.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION PREVAILING IN CANTON

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Canton City has been the scene of another revolution, which, as reported in dispatches from Hongkong and other points, has placed it in the power of the communists after serious fighting, looting and incendiarism.

Apparently the attempt of the latest Canton dictator, Chank Kakwei, to disarm and disband bodies of troops suspected of treachery, led to heavy fighting in the city. The bulk of the Cantonese troops were absent at the time on the West river, preparing to meet a threatened invasion from Kdang-Si. Advantage was taken of the confusion and 20,000 communists engaged in an uprising, disarmed the police and seized control of the city

RUMANIAN FOREIGN MINISTER APOLOGIZES

BUCHAREST, Dec. 12—(AP)—Replying verbally to the note of protest sent by the American minister, William S. Culbertson, M. Titulescu, the Rumanian foreign minister, tonight expressed the government's deep regret and apologies for the recent assault on Wilfred N. Keller, an American born citizen, at Oradea Mare. Mr. Culbertson said M. Titulescu asserted that Mr. Keller himself had provoked the attack by threatening the students.

An investigator sent by the Rumanian government to the scene of the assault, reported to the foreign minister that Keller owned stock in a printing establishment at Oradea Mare. This concern published a news sheet which had printed attacks on the government and the students. The latter resented this attitude, and raided the printing plant. In an argument between Keller and the students, Keller is alleged to have threatened them with the whole strength of the American government, and according to the investigator, to have uttered the specific threat that if he was harmed, the American fleet would be called into action.

This enraged the students, who gave Keller a beating.

WAX-COVERED BOMB IN PLACE OF HOLY CANDLE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12—(AP)—Many worshippers at the shrine of Guadalupe escaped possible death or injury today, when a bomb was discovered in what was supposed to be a holy candle. The dangerous nature of the candle was detected in time to prevent its being lighted. In the afternoon when the church and shrine were crowded an unidentified man, who later made his escape, approached the altar, carrying which seemed to be a large unlighted candle which he handed to some worshipper, saying "burn this for the Virgin."

The worshipper, suspicious because of the weigh of the candle, called the police who found that it was a wax-covered bomb.

POLICEMEN SHOT BY GUNMEN IN HERRIN, ILL.

HERRIN, Ills., Dec. 12—(AP)—Bullets from a speeding automobile struck down Elmer McCormick, patrolman, and John Stamm, day chief of police, as the men were standing in front of the city hall here tonight. McCormick was struck in the breast and neck and is seriously wounded. Stamm was shot through the shoulder.

The car circled the city hall block twice, its occupants firing with rifles both times. Stamm was shot when the gunmen made their second round. McCormick who is a brother of Mayor Marshall McCormick, went down on the first volley.

OFFICER EMBEZZLED GOVERNMENT BONDS

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13—(AP)—Harry Krens, former disbursing officer of the American legation at Peking, today pleaded guilty to having embezzled government bonds, when brought before the U. S. court.

He was sentenced to five years imprisonment on McNeil island.

Krens was accused of having embezzled $21,000 of bonds after doctors told him he would die soon of tuberculosis. He left Peking on a hunting trip and the defalcations were disclosed when he over-stayed his leave. He was arrested in Singapore, Straits settlements.

MISSING CHIROPRACTOR COLLAPSED ON RETURN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 12—(AP)—Plainly exhausted and on the verge of a nervous breakdown, Dr. Eva Hotchkiss, 40, chiropractor of Perry, N. Y., and wife of Captain Otto N. Stepanoff, of the officers' reserve corps who has been missing since Saturday evening, staggered into the home of her husband here tonight and collapsed.

Later the woman gasped out an incoherent story of having been kidnapped at Mount Morris by a bootlegger who, she said, forced her to remain in her automobile while he drove about western New York for nearly 48 hours. What threats the man made or what means he used to force her to remain in the car she was too nervous to tell.

POETRY

The Trumpets

The trumpets were calling me over the hill,
And I was a boy and knew nothing of ill;
But they filled all the vale with their dangerous thrill,
And flooded the gloom of the glen.

"The trumpets," I cried, "Lo, they call from afar,
They are adapted with music of bugle and drum;
The trumpets, the trumpets are calling to war,
The trumpets are calling—I come!"

The trumpets were calling me over the range,
And I was a youth and was strong for the strife;
And I was full fain for the new and the strange,
And mad for the tumult of life.

And I heard the loud trumpets that blew for the fray,
In the spell of their magic and madness was dumb;
And I said: "I will follow by night and by day,
The trumpets are calling—I come!"

The trumpets were calling and I was a man,
And had faced the stern world and grown strong;
And the trumpets were calling far off, and I ran
Toward the blare of their mystical song.

And they led me o'er mountains, 'neath alien skies,
All else but their music was dumb;
And I ran till I fell, and slept but to rise,
Lo, the trumpets are calling—I come.

The trumpets are calling, I've come to the sea,
But far out in the moon-lighted glow,
I still hear the trumpets, they're calling to me,
The trumpets are calling—I go.

And lo, a strange boatman is here with his bark,
And he takes me and rows away,
silent and dumb;
But my trumpets! My trumpets! They peal through the dark,
The trumpets are calling—I come!

—Sam Walter Foss.

Recollection

A silver birch-tree like a sacred maid
Set with a guard of stalwart hemlocks round,
Whose low-toned airs stole by with sighing sound,
Stirred, shivering slightly, as it half afraid
Where the black shadow crept along the ground.
Breathless she stood—as one whose work is stayed,
But threads her shuttle while her thought has strayed,
To times when wild fauns haunted all the rills,
And piped among the deep noon-checkered hills.
Till all the land with song was overlaid,
O Pan, dear Pan! come forth from out the dark
Of those dream days; outsing our thrush and lark
Till laughter-loving youths from window sills
Shall whisper, "Hark! who sang that love song? Hark!"

—Amelia Walstein Carpenter.

Gas masks are worn by horses, mules and men in the Crane-Upton oil field, near McCamey, Tex. All drilling crews, pipeline workers, truck drivers and even visitors to the field must be constantly equipped with gas masks to prevent being overcome by the fumes of hydrogen sulphide gas which emanates from the wells. This gas is almost odorless and for this reason it is a greater menace to all kinds of animal than it otherwise would be.

MAYOR GATES MAKES HIS COUNCIL APPOINTMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 12—The organization of the new common council was completed at the initial meeting of the council held tonight. Before the opening the various members and Mayor Charles A. Gates were administered the oath of office by Corporation Counsel William A. King. The city clerk and treasurer Arthur L. Clark, who assumed his new duties this morning was on hand. The minutes and the bills were read by Acting City Clerk Miss Hilda Berard. Alderman William E. Jackson of the first ward was unanimously reelected as president of the board. The nomination was made by Aldermen Webber and seconded by Alderman Dubreuil. On motion of Alderman Jackson the mayor and the finance committee were authorized to confer with the town selectmen relative to the purchasing of voting machines and empowered to act on the matter. Voting machines were used in the last town election and the recent city election having been rented for these occasions and generally found to be satisfactory. Alderman Jackson also moved that the mayor appoint a committee to place his photograph over the presiding chair according to custom and removed that of ex-Mayor John C. Tracy to its proper place. Members of the new board who assumed their offices tonight were Aldermen at Large Oliver L. Willard, Cyril A. Lamoureaux and John Reilly, and William E. Jackson of the first ward, William E. Webber of the second, Arthur J. Dubreuil of the third and Eugene B. Lewis of the fourth ward. Of these Aldermen Jackson and Dubreuil were incumbents last year and Webber and Lewis have had previous experience on the board. Mayor Charles A. Gates is beginning his fourth term as head of the city. Business of the evening concluded with the appointment of the special and standing committees of the year by Mayor Charles A. Gates. All of the appointments were unanimous and were as follows:

Appropriations: Aldermen Lamoureux, Webber and Reilly.

Claims: Aldermen Lewis, Lamoureux and Dubreuil.

Finance: Aldermen Webber, Lamoureux and Reilly.

Fire: Aldermen Webber, Jackson and Dubreuil.

Foot bridge: Aldermen Dubreuil, Lewis and Lamoureux.

Highway: Aldermen Lewis, Willard and Reilly.

Library: Aldermen Jackson, Lewis and Reilly, and Raymond A. Parker, May Avery Gates, Mrs. John Reilly and Bertha Thompson.

Lights: Aldermen Lamoureux, Jackson and Reilly.

Ordinances: Mayor Gates, Aldermen Lewis, Jackson and Reilly and corporation counsel.

Police: Aldermen Jackson, Lewis and Dubreuil.

Purchasing: Mayor Gates, Aldermen Webber and Dubreuill.

Sanatory: Aldermen Reilly, Willard and Lamoureux.

Sanitary: Aldermen Lamoureux, Willard and Reilly.

Sewers: Aldermen Willard, Jackson and Dubreuil.

Sewer assessments: Aldermen Lewis, Lamoureux and Reilly.

Streets: Aldermen Willard, Jackson and Dubreuil.

Water department: Aldermen Webber, Jackson and Reilly.

Appointment of the heads of the various city departments was postponed to a later date. It is not expected that there will be any drastic changes from last year's administration. The meeting adjourned at 8:25 o'clock, having been in session but 20 minutes.

COVENTRY BOOKS SHOW $21,901.04 IN UNCOLLECTED TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 12—Uncollected taxes to the amount of $21,901.04 have accumulated on the books of the town of Coventry, it has been revealed by an audit which was accepted at the adjourned annual town meeting held Saturday, and which covered a period of eight years. The period of three years from 1924 to 1927 showed back taxes amounting to $15,350.01. In addition to revealing these figures the audit showed what were termed as inefficient methods of keeping certain town records. It was found that the records of the treasurer recorded selectmen's orders on which money was borrowed and that there had been a practice of repaying borrowing money on orders repaying borrowed money on orders drawn by the selectmen and recorded in the treasurer's accounts. It was recommended that this practice should be discontinued in the future. Another was that abatements have not received consideration by the selectmen notwithstanding notations appearing in the rate books against items which perhaps should be abated. The total uncollected taxes therefore as of September 19, 1927, likely include items subject to legal abatement. In other instances it was noted that interest was not collected as required by law. On advice of the auditors interest will be collected in the future and an effort made to collect all back taxes, with resort to the warrant tax is necessary. In connection with the new system a new rate book has been prepared for the newly elected tax collector and it has been recommended that he be given the use of an adding and listing machine for the collection work.

The auditors further gave it as their opinion that invoices supporting town orders should be filed at the town treasurer's office and not allowed to remain in the homes of the other town officials, and that such invoices should bear more specific information as to the nature of the expenditures.

The discovery was made that each year there has been a net over-expenditure of the appropriations and a warning against this practice was issued.

Through the efforts of the Willimantic Business Men's association the business section of the city has now taken on a holiday aspect. The "white way" standards have been covered with four red cedar saplings to each pole, and electricians were busy today wiring these trees. There will be 20 variegated lights to each tree. Another decorative feature and one which is the municipal contribution to the Christmas array is the installation of four evergreen trees at the main entrances to the city. Such trees have been placed at the junction of Columbia avenue and West Main street, at the junction of Pleasant street and Windham road, at the junction of Ash and Natchaug streets and another on the Natchaug school grounds at the junction of Milk and Jackson streets. These trees will be illuminated by sets of 100 lights each.

DANIELSON

PROVIDENCE MAN GOES TO JAIL FOR CARRYING GUN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Dec. 12.—Guiseppe Lombardi, claiming Providence as his home, went to Brooklyn jail this afternoon in default of payment of a fine of $200 and costs, a total of $229.82, after being presented in the town court on two charges, one of which was carrying a concealed weapon, the other for driving a Rhode Island car which carried number plates not assigned for the machine by the commissioner of Motor vehicles for Roode Island.

Lombardi tried to get away with a rather clever ruse Sunday afternoon when the machine he was driving turned over on Hall's hill, near South Killingly. It may be told now that persons who gathered about the overturned car saw him rid himself of a pearl-handled revolver by placing it on the gornud under the car of State Officer Donald J. Geddes, who had gone over from the barracks on North Main street to check up the accident. Later examination of the car disclosed a number of cartridges that would fit the gun and a pair of shotgun shells.

When presented in court this afternoon, with Attorney Harry E Back as his counsel, Lombari pleaded guilty to the charge of having number plates on his machine that belonged on a car he owns, but which he had transferred to the car that tipped over at Sout Killingly and which he represents he had borrowed.

His plea to the charge of carrying concealed weapons was not guilty, but after hearing the witnesses in the case, Judge W. Fenner Woodward found him guilty and fined him $200 and costs. Lombardi did not take the witness stand. Being without money to pay his fine, he was taken to the county jail at Brooklyn, but the understanding early this evening was that friends would come with the money and bring about his release within a few hours.

With Lombardi at the time the car tipped over because of the wet and slippery highway due to heavy rain that was falling was Isadore Arrick, of New Haven. Arrick has an extensive criminal record and only a year ago was released from the state prison at Wethersfield, after having done time on a five years' sentence for robbery with violence. A vagrancy charge was placed against him to hold him here, but this was nolled this afternoon and Arrick allowed his liberty.

If state officers here have a definite impression as to the nature of the tour of Lombardi and Arrick through this territory, they have not given expression to it for publication, but anyone is entitled to one guess.

Witnesses in the case this afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. George Pearl and William and Edward Pearl, who made a party that came along in a car just after the accident occurred and Ernest Thompson, who is employed at a local garage. The Pearl boys testified they saw Lombardi take the revolver out of his pocket and put it under Officer Geddes' car, and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl testified they afterwards saw the weapon under the machine. Mr. Thompson's testimony had to do with cartridge and shells found in the car. The gun, as is the general rule in such cases, was confiscated by the town.

This morning the funeral of Joseph Boucher was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith in East Killingly with funeral services at St. James' church here. Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery at Putnam. The bearers were Frank Provost, Victor Ledue, Claude Moran and Edmond Boucher. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home on School street, funeral services for Henry S. Warren were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church, and burial was in the South Killingly cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Armstrong conducted the committal service. The bearers were George Quinn, John Milligan, Daniel Gallup and Percy Hammond. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

From her home in Moosup this morning, the funeral of Mrs. Agnes E. Thomas was held with a solemn high mass of requiem at All Hallows' church, the officers of the mass being Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, the pastor, Rev. J. H. Quinn, of the Sacred Heart church at Wauregan, and Rev. O'Connor Norman. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery, Wauregan, where the committal service was conducted by Father Quinn. The bearers were John Lyons, Edmond Bilodeau, Leander Robitaille, Lionel Dupris, Frank Bodo and Henry Lavallee. L. E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Treasurer Sidney W. Bard and members of a building committee of the Brooklyn Savings bank are continuing to inspect and study plans of proposed buildings, but no plan has been adopted as yet. Treasurer Bard also has inspected numbers of banks in southern New England for ideas that be incorporated in the one to be built here. Construction of the new bank will be undertaken early in 1928, and likely will be finished by early fall. The site as as the northeast corner of Main and Academy streets.

Among the various developments of the year by the Eastern Connecticut Power company in this territory is the recently completed high tension line running from near Central Village to Moosup to supply electrical power for the Aldrich mills, which also continue to use a certain amount of power developed with its own equipment. This new extension involved the construction of a new substation on the grounds of the Aldrich mills. Another new line now projected and to be built in the immediate future is one in Danielson to carry power to the planing mill and stockhouse to be built on Railroad street by Labelle and Page.

Special lighting in the business section, it has been decided, will be done by individual firms this holiday season instead as by the merchants operating as a whole. The first of these special lighting decorations were put in place today opposite the offices of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. Other concerns hope to have the special lights in place during the course of the present week.

One other case came into town court this morning in line with the presentations before that tribunal last week for failure to pay overdue personal taxes. In this instance, a woman being the accused.

Lieut. Albert S. Field of the Ridgefield barracks of the state police department, formerly sergeant at the Danielson barracks, was a visitor here today.

Christopher Andrews, of Boston, formerly a resident of the Riverview section, visited with friends here today.

This morning Arthur W. Williams took up his new duties as an agent of the state board of education. Mr. Williams is a representative of the town of Killingly and some months ago resigned as a member of the state police department after several years of service.

On the afternoon of this strangely mild December day, the mercury ran up to 62 degrees in Danielson.

The Tatanpochon Camp Fire Girls held a meeting at the Westfield Congregational church this evening.

A new humidifying system is being installed in the mill of the Quinebaug company, this improvement involving a heavy expenditure.

When Killingly grange meets on Monday of next week, the third and fourth degrees will be conferred upon a class of candidates.

Alton Frost, formerly a resident here, is now engaged as a contractor doing interior woodwork finish on new homes being erected in the greater Boston section.

Postmaster E. H. Keach said this morning that the real pressure of the holiday rush of business is beginning to make itself felt, a fact that again brings insistence on the admonition to "mail early."

When the members of the Wakatatina Camp Fire girls held their first ceremonial a few days since, they also brought into their camp Miss Mildred Keech, this making the twentieth member.

Up where Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., is serving a parish at Estevan, Sask., the temperature has been down to points from 20 to 30 below zero in the past few days. Father Richards has been a year in that northern land, going there from St. James' parish of Danielson.

Rev. John R. Pratt, of the Congregational church in Brooklyn, is making a satisfactory recovery after undergoing a rather serious surgical operation on one of his arms at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Yesterday Rev. William Williams, of the Congregational church at Wauregan, supplied his pulpit at an afternoon service in Brooklyn, and other supplies will be provided until Rev. Mr. Pratt is able to resume his duties.

After Thursday of this week, it will be a pastime of some who do it each year about this time to watch for 1928 registration plates on automobiles from other states. New Jersey car owners can begin using the new plates as early as Dec. 15.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Banigan, Broad street, there was an observance on Sunday of the first birthday anniversary of Adrian Herklots, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. G. Herklots.

PUTNAM

NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING IS POSTPONED INDEFINITELY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Dec. 12.—A special from Washington states that it is now definitely announced that Putnam's new postoffice building will not be erected upon the government owned site in the city. Until some site has been definitely selected no one is able to state just when the new home for the Putnam postoffice will be begun. The bill approved by congress last year authorized the construction of the new government building, no definite dates to mark the beginning or completion of the structure was named. Had the dispute over the site not arisen, it is probable that the building would now be in course of construction, according to the opinions expressed by federal authorities. It is believed however to be certain that the new postal headquarters for the city will be completed within the net two years, officials state.

The engagement has been announced of Gerald Allard of Putnam, '26 Storrs college and Miss Louise Smith of Seymour, Conn., ex-'29 of Storrs. The wedding to take place during the Christmas holidays. Mr. Allard is now a member of the faculty of the John Fitch high school of Windsor, Conn.

The regular meeting of the W. R. C. will be held on Tuesday, December 13. All members are especially urged to be present as the election of officers for the coming year will take place at this meeting. Following the business meeting there will be a social hour and refreshments will be served.

The motion picture at the Second Congregational church last evening was "Breed of the Sea," from the story by Peter B. Kyne, telling of faith and adventure in the South Seas. These Sunday Evening Friendly services continue to grow in popularity as is evidenced by the steadily growing attendance. Notwithstanding the inclement weather of last evening the church was well filled.

The girls basketball team under the direction of Miss Nancy Judkins and Miss Sarah Barber are working hard to b eprepared for their first game on December 1. The leaders of the team feel that they have unusually good material this year and are looking for many victories. The following schedules have been arranged: December 21, alumni game; January 6, 1928, Windham high at Putnam; January 13, Woodstock academy at Woodstock; January 18, Plainfield at Plainfield; February 10, Plainfield at Putnam; February 17, Windham at Windham; February 23, Storrs at Storrs.

The team is composed of Captain Morse, Cartier, Smith, Bonin, Kent, Bove, Covell, Ames, Hurdman, Carpenter, Gildard, Payne, Dean, Johnson, Benoit, Potter and Kolat.

The announcement has just been made of the marriage at Littletown, Mass., of August 31, of Miss Jeannette D. Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Green of Pomfret and Lewis R. White. The young couple took a wedding trip through Maine and Canada and are now living in Providence. Mr. White graduated from the Putnam high school in the class of 1926. Miss Green was graduated from the Putnam high school last June and was an honor pupil. While attending the high school Mr. White was employed by A. Allen Averill at Pomfret.

The fourth annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at East Thompson was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Everett Huntington, District Superintendent M. E. Genter presiding. At 3 p. m. service was held at the cuhrch with Rev. Mr. Genter in the pulpit. There was no morning service.

Charles Field Swain, has returned to his home after having rented it during the summer months, and will remain there until about the first of February when he expects to sail for a visit to Europe. NORWICH'S INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

What should be welcomed with much interest by the people of Norwich is the industrial survey which has been started under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. Norwich has a firmly implanted idea of the advantages which it affords as an industrial community, but through the survey which is now underway it will be possible not only to have the best possible light thrown upon them but to disclose others and perhaps best of all some of those obstacles which are standing in the way of development.

The local situation has needed a diagnosis for a long time. The idea of having it made by a disinterested party ought to mean that we will get to the heart of the matter. The selection of the Babson Statistical organization, and through that Statistician Alden, gives assurance that there will be a thorough combing of the Norwich field with the one object of getting the facts. The chamber of commerce wisely provided for this action in its budget. Through that the expense will be met but there will be a big opportunity for the people of Norwich to land their cooperation when called upon by Mr. Alden. He will have questions to ask, he will seek information of all kinds, he will want prompt and correct responses and insomuch as it is the benefit of the entire community that is sought, he should experience no difficulty in getting such assistance.

Norwich wants to know why there isn't a greater utilization of its advantages, why they do not make a stronger appeal. It isn't concerned with getting a rosy presentation of certain conditions and the covering up of others. It wants the whole story. It wants to know the bad as well as the good for it wants to tackle whatever is now serving as a handicap and see that it is eliminated.

Other cities have undertaken similar surveys with good results. It is good for the success of any community that it gets an effective diagnosis in order that the right remedy may be obtained and properly applied. After the survey is completed there will probably be plenty to do but if there is anything that can be contributed to make it more complete let us by all means give the specialist every possible cooperation. Tell him all of our symptoms and have faith in his cure.

ORGANIZING THE SENATE

The situation at the opening of the present congress was such that the democrats could probably have organized the senate if they had so desired. It was so close politically that the republican majority depended entirely upon the support which would be given by the insurgent members of that party. Through good party handling it was possible to bring about an understanding whereby the uncertain members were held in line sufficiently long to accomplish the organization, but how much longer that will prevail is a question.

This understanding was brought about through the agreement to vote upon certain measures which the insurgents favor, at an early date, and upon a distribution of some of the desirable committee assignments to those members registering as republicans, elected as republicans, but doing about as they pleased when it came to standing by the party. In fact their open opposition to administration policies has been such as to give comfort and encouragement only to the democrats.

While the democrats might have made a strong bid for control and put through the organization on their own lines, it is much to their advantage to refrain from anything of the kind. By doing so they escape the responsibilities at the time when they could hardly expect to have their programme carried through with the house and the executive republican. They will stand in the position that they have in the past of feeling certain of getting some of the insurgent republican votes upon controversial matters, although there is no doubt much truth to the claim that they have grown sick of the constant bidding for such assistance because of the slight lasting benefit obtained. The probability is that had the democrats been in danger of having control thrust upon them there would have been enough of them refraining from voting for the republicans to avoid the burden going with control. They now have the chance to watch the republicans handle the reins and try to keep the recalcitrants from kicking over the traces.

PEACE WINS

The greatest interest in the decision for peace between Lithuania and Poland lies in the fact that an amicable adjustment of the threatening situation is indicated. But there is at the same time a feeling of great satisfaction that there is such an opportunity as the league of nations by which such problems can be settled and end the danger of bloody strife.

This is a case where all that seems to have been needed was a body before which the representatives of the respective nations could stand and proclaim their willingness to get down to a friendly adjustment. They hadn't been able to accomplish that between themselves. The more they discussed matters, or the more they undertook to provide protection for their interests as they saw them the worse the situation grew.

When Marshal Pilsudski arrived at Geneva and declared that he had his ears pinned back to hear the word peace but he had not heard it, he started the ball rolling. It didn't take Premier Waldemaras long to assure the Polish leader that peace could be had and peace was desired, but it was not a peace that meant victory for Poland, or a peace at any price.

The influence of friends of the respective leaders was brought to bear at the right moment. Under its cooling influence peace became the dominant factor and Pilsudski left the arrangement of the details to his subordinates. That involved no easy assignment but it will be accomplished. Peace will prevail as it should. Neither of the countries is prepared to engage in war. Neither apparently really wants to repeat what they have seen happen before, but it was gratifying that there was the machinery available for the prevention of strife between those neighbors. It is a case that stands out to the credit of the league and it is to be sincerely hoped that such a strengthening of its influence will mean that others will be the quicker to respond to it in the future.

McLEAN'S DECISION

Information coming from Washington on reliable authority that Senator McLean will not be a candidate for reelection will be learned with regret throughout the state. Possibly it will not be with surprise, since Senator McLean was desirous of leaving the office prior to his last election, but there can be no sidestepping the fact that the senator is a decided asset to Connecticut in the upper house of congress, in which body he has served with distinction since going to Washington 16 years ago.

During that period of time he has carefully looked after the interests of Connecticut and given thoughtful attention to the national problems, especially those which came under his committees. His place at the head of the committee on banking and currency indicates what was thought of his ability and he has been responsible for putting much desirable legislation through congress.

Connecticut, in full appreciation of the high class service which Senator McLean has rendered, will unquestionably endeavor to bring influences to bear to prevent any termination of his services when his term expires in 1929, if such a thing is possible. That he would be re-elected when the time comes goes without saying. Connecticut has a way of indefinitely retaining experienced men. It knows what can be expected with Senator McLean giving it careful representation in the United States senate and it will yield to his wishes, if the report from Washington proves to be correct, with reluctance.

JERSEY JUSTICE

New Jersey has a reputation for prompt justice. Sometimes it lives up to it and sometimes it does not. Those who followed the trial of a man and woman in that state, charged with the killing of the woman's husband, were no doubt surprised at the verdict that was brought in by the jury. From all indications it was a compromise verdict and the only one that could be obtained in view of the firmness with which certain of the jurymen held to their views, but it is not surprising that it should astonish the layman when the judge in the case upon pronouncing sentence indicated that he was unable to explain it and declared the crime to have been, beyond question, murder in the first degree.

It was apparent from the decision of the jury that guilt existed, that the accused had a hand in the death of the husband, and yet by the very fact that such a crime was committed by them a verdict of guilty of murder was called for, as the judge pointed out. Voluntary manslaughter concerns the killing of a person in the heat of passion but without malice. Such being the case it would be expected that the accused would have indicated some part in the crime and claimed justification but such was not the case.

The jury has, however, rendered a verdict which surprised the court and the public. Indications are that it reached the compromise verdict because it involved a lesser sentence, regardless of what the law called for in the case of the crime that was actually committed. Jersey justice has been displayed at a new angle which cannot be said to offer as much discouragement as it should to such crimes.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Congressman Merritt of Connecticut who holds a high place on the major committee in interstate and foreign commerce will make a strenuous fight against continuance of the federal inheritance tax, which he opposed during the war, and to which he is still more strenuously opposed in time of peace.

In a talk today with the Bulletin correspondent Mr. Merritt said: "The provision of the new revenue bill which seems to me to be the most important in principle is the continuance of the inheritance taxes. In the first congress of which I was a member I believe that in about the first speech I ever made on the floor I objected to the inheritance taxes both on the economic ground that they tended to cause the use of capital assets for current expenses and on the legal ground that inasmuch as the right to hold property and dispose of it by will is derived from the states, the taxation of such rights belongs properly to the states.

Whatever justification for overriding these principles might arise in time of war, there is no justification for federal inheritance taxes in time of peace. This was clearly demonstrated in the hearings before the committee, and especially so by the admirable presentation made of the case by our own tax commissioner, Mr. Blodgett. The reason given by some of those who favored the tax, that without it the states would compete among themselves by reducing or abolishing the tax, seems to me to be a reason against such a federal tax, and not for it. If the states have any sovereignty it certainly should extend to control of their own methods of taxation. If the United States tries to compel the state of Connecticut to continue its inheritance tax, why should it not legislate so as to force Connecticut to impose an income tax as well? The position, therefore, of those who favor this federal inheritance tax seems to me to be absolutely unsound and unconstitutional."

Congressman Merritt has in mind several other measures which will claim his active attention but the federal inheritance tax will be the first to be combatted by him.

Congressman Tilson is strongly in favor of a resolution introduced in the house this week to look into the merits of a proposition regarding highways proposed by Detroit people. The plan is to establish an entirely new system of highways from important points in the United States, the same to be built by private capital. A system of roads would be established to continue until the builders had received a fair return on their investment and the highways had been paid for, then they would become the property of the government. The first route to be established would be from New York to Boston, via Hartford, Springfield and Worcester. Col. Tilson is not ready to endorse such a move, but believes it should be investigated as a possible means of relieving the highway congestion that now exists in certain sections of the country. The commission would consist of two senators, two members of the house and two citizens to be appointed by the president.

Senators Bingham and McLean stood fast for the seating of Smith and Vare, on constitutional rights. Mr. McLean made a strong speech in behalf of giving them senate seats and then conducting whatever hearings were needed. Senator Bingham continued to urge the seating of the two men, as he has done from the time their cases came into public notice. He also based his support on their constitutional rights.

During the three days session of the national republican committee here, Mrs. Russ and Mr. Roraback, the Connecticut members stood their ground for having the convention at Detroit until it became a question of either San Francisco or Kansas City, then they chose the latter as preferable on account of distance. Mrs. Russ attended the reception given by the vice chairman of the committee, Mrs. Hert, and assisted in receiving. During her stay in Washington Mrs. Russ was the house guest of Senator and Mrs. Bingham.

Congressman Freeman of Connecticut, who holds the high position of ranking members on the major committee of rivers and harbors will undoubtedly be continued in that position although the committee assignments have not yet been announced.

Mr. Freeman is regarded as one of the best "quiet workers" in the house. He is not given to making speeches or taking part in debate, unless the need arises, but as a committee worker he holds high place and as ranking member of the rivers and harbors committee being second in rank only to the chairman, Mr. Freeman has a powerful influence on legislative measure coming before that committee.

Secretary of Labor Davis advises severe methods used against all persons who enter the United States illegally, and he will ask congress to make drastic laws covering that point. At present persons so entering this country are merely deported at the expense of the government, but Secretary Davis believes there should be penalties attached that will help stop the illegal entrances now so frequent.

"The alien who enters the United States illegally should be treated as a violator of the law and effectively punished," says Mr. Davis, but at the same time he will strive to have the immigration laws liberalized. Among his recommendations will be one to strengthen the law, and create new classes of deportable aliens, including those who peddle narcotics; to give alien husbands of American citizens a preference in issuance of a non-quota status, just as alien wives of American citizens now have. He would admit children of American parents, within certain age, regardless of the quota requirements; he would liberalize the law regarding wives and minor children of aliens who have applied for citizenship. He would also give agriculture and skilled labor groups preferential treatment when it seems, in the judgment of the department of labor to so do.

Another feature of the proposed recommendations of Secretary Davis is to admit to the United States North American Indians living along the border of Canada, even though they are wards of the United States and not eligible to citizenship.

Senator and Mrs. Bingham are now established for the winter in their former apartment 2633 Sixteenth street. They had as guests this week, Mrs. and Miss Griswold who came over from New York in time to attend the diplomatic reception at the white house, and take part in other social affairs in which their hosts were interested.

The flood control committee will have its attention called to the disasters in Connecticut during the recent flood, and it is expected Congressman Freeman, ranking member on the rivers and harbors committee will lend his aid to all projects that will be of benefit to New England in preventing similar troubles hereafter.

The talk that Congressman John Q. Tilson is the best available vice presidential timber is spreading to the south. Congressman Reece of Tennessee has stated he is for Hoover for president, as he is now convinced Mr. Coolidge will not be a candidate. Reece adds "The logical running mate for Hoover is Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut. The availability of that ticket gives the republicans of Tennessee a wonderful opportunity to unite in their support and restore that state to the republican fold."

FEEDING HORACE

Rena Whitcomb was a good-looking girl and had a college education. But while she was aware some persons had blind spots in their eyes it never occurred to her that they might have equally blind spots in their brains, especially her brain. You see, she entertained the firm though ingenuous conviction that she could reform Horace's habits as to diet.

Horace was 30, earned a lot of money and could not remember a sick day in his life, but Rena, who had a constitution which rebelled against dill pickles, rich sauces, flaky pies, doughnuts and their ilk, regarded with appalled horror his preference for these items. Horace pointed out his husky survival for three decades on a diet warranted to turn a domestic science expert pale, but Rena was heroic. From now on, thank heaven, he should eat proper foods!

Voila! Graham breads, eggs, lettuce, vitamins! Hale and hearty at 30! Big men are mostly meek in the hands of their women folk, so Horace ate, albeit mournfully, what was set before him.

There had been spinach and beef and fresh pineapple for dinner the night that Horace, on his way out to the garage, caught a whiff from the Ormstead's open kitchen window on the other side of the hedge. Wiggling his nose eagerly, Horace identified the perfume—nothing less than hot mince pie with a touch of something rare on the side—lobster!

Positively weak, he leaned against the barberry bushes and it was thus that Hattie Ormstead spied him. Simultaneously the inspiration struck her—the afternoon bridge clubs knew Rena's theories and set principles and the vote had been that she was an opinionated goose to expect a grown-up man to take advice about food. Horace had scarcely reached the garage when Hattie Ormstead, fat, motherly and a good cook, slipped in after him. She carried two covered dishes.

"Here!" she hissed. "If you don't say these are the best you ever ate, Horace Whitcomb, I'll never give you another handout! Leave the dishes on the kitchen steps!"

There was a touch of heaven in Horace's eyes all that evening and Rena laid it to the fact that he was not overcrowding his stomach as he had been. Two nights later Horace found a bag of doughnuts on his work bench and a scribbled note from Gertrude Jones, two doors down.

"Just baked these," she wrote. "If you tell Rena or give her one I'll flavor your next batch with arsenic."

In one week a dozen women had joined in the new game with zest and giggles and were tip-toeing down the alley to shove things on the work bench the poor man liked became the best-going sport in the community. He ate less and less at the home dinner table and Rena was gratified.

"There!" she said one night. "Now that you are getting the right kind of foods your system doesn't demand such quantities! I never saw you look better, Horace! Maybe you'll believe me now!" Choking on his bran muffin, for Horace was an upright man and suffered over deceiving his wife, he agreed with her. Then, while Rena cleared the table, he slipped out to the garage. He whistled at the outlay on the work bench—mere doughnuts, a covered bowl of a delicious mixture of cheese, macaroni, meat and six other ingredients highly flavored, a section of butterscotch pie and a chunk of chocolate fudge cake.

At 1 o'clock the next morning the natural result was manifest. Horace doubled up with loud groans and Rena, regarding his anguish and pallid brew, privately diagnosed the affair as acute appendicitis. Nothing, she told herself shakily as she threw on some clothes, certainly nothing he had eaten would account for his agony! Unlocking the back door, she stumbled out to the garage. Dr. Fisher's car was smashed and he had said over the phone he would arrive quicker if she came for him.

Turning on the under light, she stopped short. Horace, intrigued by his ozzy, had neglected to remove from the work bench the evidence of his crime. That was Gertrude's breakfast napkin, the Ormstead's plate. And she knew instantly Jessie Phillips' fish pattern.

Snapping off the light, she stalked back to the house, grimly got out the castor oil bottle and the electric pad and yawned cold-bloodedly as she informed her distraught spouse that he'd be all right soon, and that the doctor wasn't coming.

The next day she flipped over her cookbook pages to the nice, fresh, unused spot containing the recipes for doughnuts and crullers and lemon meringue pie.—Chicago News.

NEW BOOKS

An Essay on Conversation. By Henry W. Taft. Board, 76 pages. Published by The Macmillan company, New York. Price $1.50.

Mr. Taft maintains that there is no reason to be discouraged about the art of conversation in America today and he gives good grounds for his opinions. He recommends good talk not so much because it enlists our intellectual faculties as because it affords diversion in our hours of relaxation, and he emphasizes the pleasure it gives us when conversation awakens thoughts more striking and suggests expressions more pungent than we usually think ourselves capable of. He decries pedantry in conversation, emphasizes the need of good listeners, discloses the advantages and disadvantages of shop talk and of laughable stories.

Not the least interesting part of his urbane and humorous treatment of the subject is his account of the conversational powers of certain celebrated Englishmen and Americans, from Samuel Johnson down to General William T. Sherman, whom Mr. Taft knew and whom he describes as one of the best conversationalists he ever met.

Boston and The Parker House. By James W. Spring. Board, 280 pages, illustrated. Published by J. R. Whipple Corporation, Boston.

As the author who knows his Boston says, "No history of Boston would be complete without telling something of the part which the Parker House has played in the nearly 75 years of its existence," a part which includes the distinction of having been host to such guests as President Grant, Generals Sherman, Hancock, Garfield, a long list of leading actors and actresses and a hotel where Dickens made his home on his visit to America in 1867.

Much of the romance and interest is also locked up in the original records of the registries of deeds and probate in and around Boston. From these sources the author culled well. He shows a true research instinct which an historian should possess and has clothed again with living flesh the dry old bones of Boston's history. The Parker House saw Puritan pastures supplant Indian hunting grounds, saw farms make way for city streets, saw all that intervened since Zaccheus Bosworth mortgaged "with all cow houses, barns, stables, yards and gardens" for 18 English pounds the land that today without its modern hotel is assessed at 27¢ a square foot. The first Parker House was opened October 8, 1855.

The volume is one that will be included among the valuable histories of Boston.

The Mexican Question. By William English Walling. Cloth, 305 pages. Published by the Robins Press, New York. Price $2.

In this volume the author deals with Mexico and American-Mexican relations under Presidents Calles and Obregon and writes after an extended study of conditions there including visits to the country during which he got in close touch with conditions and people.

The first ten chapters of the first part are devoted to the Calles policies and programme and a review of his reforms. They show according to the author that he had done much to restore the economic life of the country and maintain that in a field of political reform Calles is trying to give a reasonable and practical application to the liberal and democratic constitution of 1917.

In his concluding chapters he deals freely and fully with Mexican-American relations. He outlines the possibilities of a reasonable understanding but does not predict that it will be followed or that an agreement will be reached. He doesn't minimize the seriousness of the situation as he saw it but he takes the position that the solution depends entirely on the development of a well-informed, aroused and sympathetic public opinion in this country.

For Freedom. By Arthur Huff Fauset, with drawings by Mabel Betsy Hill. Cloth, 200 pages. Published by the Franklin Publishing & Supply Co. Philadelphia. Price $1.50.

Arthur Huff Fauset, principal of the Singerly school in Philadelphia, presents in this volume a biographical story of the American Negro—of his racial heroes, who are yet national heroes, rather than racial; of the new Negro, the cultured man, his hopes, his struggles, his aspirations, his accomplishments, his abiding faith in the future. The author gives a life, a personality to each character that is quite out of the ordinary.

Mr. Fauset, himself a "new Negro" tells his story simply, yet attractively, "in the spirit of young folk because they, more than any of us perhaps, are able to relive the lives and struggles of heroic characters"—but it is still, as he says, "everybody's story."

The volume gathers into its various chapters the stories of many Negro characters who devoted their lives to the cause of greater freedom. Those stories are interesting and inspiring. To a great many they will be a revelation.

American Lyrics. By Louis M. Gerson. Cloth, 102 pages. Published by The Meador Press, Boston. Price $1.50.

The author was a Russian schoolmaster who came to America, found the new world kind and upon the advent of war joined the American army where his life was almost sacrificed from hardships and exposure.

He recovered his health in the American desert of the southwest and the many and varied scenes and moods of the desert, and of the many other sections of the United States where the author lived, worked and visited are recorded in American Lyrics in many beautiful and interesting poems. They not only will delight the reader but will give a new breath of hopefulness and interest to those who go to the desert regions in search of health. They disclose the exceptional ability of the writer and add a new laurel not only to America and the great state of Arizona but also to Russian-Jewish literary talent.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick, U. S. A., who retires today for age, leaves behind him a notable record of the Army Air corps. For six years Gen. Patrick has directed the activities of the flying officers and men of the army, and as he turns over the "controls" to his successor, Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has written one of the most important chapters in the story of American military aviation. For Gen. Patrick, though an Engineer officer, originally, has won a wide reputation for himself as chief of the Army Air corps, and through his solution of many difficult problems. During the World War he was chief of the Air service of the A. E. F. in France. He is a native of West Virginia and was graduated from West Point in 1884.

HERNIA OR RUPTURE IN YOUNG BOYS

In making a great many physical examinations upon young boys under 18 years of age, I have been impressed with the large percentage of hernias, commonly called ruptures.

I believe that it is safe to say that the average boy who has a hernia after eight years of age will carry his hernia until it is operated upon. It has been my experience that when mothers have been notified by my social workers that their boy has a hernia or rupture they become terrified, having no suspicion that the boy is different from any other boy.

This communication is, of course, a direct appeal to mothers having young sons.

It is a common condition for a boy in the development process to have a natural defect in the lower abdominal wall on both sides. Before birth the male generative organ, called the testicle (bull stone) lies under the kidney in the belly. During growth this organ descends through the lower part of the abdominal or belly wall and finally takes its position in the scrotum or bag. Very often in this natural descent the opening in the abdominal wall or belly fails to close. In a fit of coughing or straining, due to illness or excessive strenuous exercise which is the common lot of boys, a knuckle or loop of bowel or intestine slides through this opening and is noticeable under the skin, sometimes extending clear down into the bag causing great enlargement of the bag.

Very few mothers or fathers ever pay particular attention to this portion of the young boy's body and very often would be unable to recognize this condition if it existed. Unless the boy complains of pain or soreness in his groin, no attention is ever given to the defect until some time when an injury or pain is felt by the boy in this particular region.

Last year I examined about 1,000 boys under 18 years of age and five percent of the boys had these hernias.

In no case was the father or mother aware of the defect.

In every case I have been able to convince the parents of the possibility and necessity for operation in this condition. It is just as advisable for the parent to have a male child thoroughly examined for this condition at several periods during adolescence as it is to have his heart and lungs examined or his throat and nose examined for diseased tonsils and adenoids.

Occasionally the condition is found by the physician during a serious illness. The great danger is that the bowel may twist and become gangrenous, necessitating an emergency operation with great risk to life or a serious weakness in the abdominal wall as a result of the operative emergency. This, of course, is a preventable condition and should be treated by either the truss method which is not curative or operation which is curative in at least 90 percent of the cases.

On one of the hunting trips of James L. Kennedy, of Fairbury, Neb., his pack of hounds had given a red fox a hard run of two hours. Kennedy was standing near a brush pile when the baying came nearer and the fox came through the woods with his mouth open. Instead of passing the brush pile, it slipped under and instantly there came out at the other side a fresh fox that was off like a shot. The hounds, hot on the trail, smelled where the tired fox went under, ran around to the other side, took up the trail of the fresh fox and were soon out of sight. In a few minutes the tired fox came out, looked around and trotted off toward the den.

"The director of film plays must take even more care of his voice than the actor. Into his voice he must put every emotion that appears upon the faces of the film players. While directing 'The Joy Girl' I used my voice twelve hours daily for weeks—often having to shout directions in the open to ensembles at a great distance. And I always kept my package of 'Lucky Strikes' in my pocket for I have found they are the only cigarettes which I now really enjoy and which I can smoke without impairing my voice. I'm grateful to 'Luckies.'"

NORWICH'S INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

What should be welcomed with much interest by the people of Norwich is the industrial survey which has been started under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. Norwich has a firmly implanted idea of the advantages which it affords as an industrial community but through the survey which is now underway it will be possible not only to have the best possible light thrown upon them but to disclose others and perhaps best of all some of those obstacles which are standing in the way of development.

The local situation has needed a diagnosis for a long time. The idea of having it made by a disinterested party ought to mean that we will get to the heart of the matter. The selection of the Babson Statistical organization, and through that Statistician Alde, gives assurance that there will be a thorough combing of the Norwich field with the one object of getting the facts. The chamber of commerce wisely provided for this action in its budget. Through that the expense will be met but there will be a big opportunity for the people of Norwich to lend their cooperation when called upon by Mr. Alden. He will have questions to ask, he will seek information of all kinds, he will want prompt and correct responses and inasmuch as it is the benefit of the entire community that is sought he should experience no difficulty in getting such assistance.

Norwich wants to know why there isn't a greater utilization of its advantages, why they do not make a stronger appeal. It isn't concerned with getting a rosy presentation of certain conditions and the covering up of others. It wants the whole story. It wants to know the bad as well as the good for it wants to tackle whatever is now serving as a handicap and see that it is eliminated.

Other cities have undertaken similar surveys with good results. It is good for the success of any community that it gets an effective diagnosis in order that the right remedy may be obtained and properly applied. After the survey is completed there will probably be plenty to do but if there is anything that can be contributed to make it more complete let us by all means give the specialist every possible cooperation. Tell him all of our symptoms and have faith in his cure.

ORGANIZING THE SENATE

The situation at the opening of the present congress was such that the democrats could probably have organized the senate if they had so desired. It was so close politically that the republican majority depended entirely upon the support which would be given by the insurgent members of that party. Through good party handling it was possible to bring about an understanding whereby the uncertain members were held in line sufficiently long to accomplish the organization, but how much longer that will prevail is a question.

This understanding was brought about through the agreement to vote upon certain measures which the insurgents favor, at an early date, and upon a distribution of some of the desirable committee assignments to those members, registering as republicans, elected as republicans, but doing about as they pleased when it came to standing by the party. In fact their open opposition to administration policies has been such as to give comfort and encouragement only to the democrats.

While the democrats might have made a strong bid for control and put through the organization on their own lines, it is much to their advantage to refrain from anything of the kind. By doing so they escape the responsibilities at the time when they could hardly expect to have their programme carried through with the house and the executive republican. They will stand in the position that they have in the past of feeling certain of getting some of the insurgent republican votes upon controversial matters, although there is no doubt much truth to the claim that they have grown sick of the constant bidding for such assistance because of the slight lasting benefit obtained. The probability is that had the democrats been in danger of having control thrust upon them there would have been enough of them refraining from voting for the republicans to avoid the burden going with control. They now have the chance to watch the republicans handle the reins and try to keep the recalcitrants from kicking over the traces.

PEACE WINS

The greatest interest in the decision for peace between Lithuania and Poland lies in the fact that an amicable adjustment of the threatening situation is indicated. But there is at the same time a feeling of great satisfaction that there is such an organization as the league of nations to which such problems can be carried and end the danger of bloody strife.

This is a case where all that seems to have been needed was a body before which the representatives of the respective nations could stand up and proclaim their willingness to get down to a friendly adjustment. They hadn't been able to accomplish that between themselves. The more they discussed matters, or the more they undertook to provide protection for their interests as they saw them the worse the situation grew.

When Marshal Pilsudski arrived at Genova and declared that he had his ears pinned back to hear the word peace but he had not heard it, he started the ball rolling. It didn't take Premier Waldemaras long to assure the Polish leader that peace could be had and peace was desired, but it was not a peace that meant victory for Poland, or a peace at any price.

The influence of friends of the respective leaders was brought to bear at the right moment. Under its cooling influence peace became the dominant factor and Pilsudski left the arrangement of the details to his subordinates. That involved no easy assignment but it will be accomplished. Peace will prevail as it should. Neither of the countries is prepared to engage in war. Neither apparently really wants to repeat what they have seen happen before, but it was gratifying that there was the machinery available for the prevention of strife between those neighbors. It is a case that stands out to the credit of the league and it is to be sincerely hoped that such a strengthening of its influence will mean that others will be the quicker to respond to it in the future.

McLEAN'S DECISION

Information coming from Washington on reliable authority that Senator McLean will not be a candidate for reelection will be learned with regret throughout the state. Possibly it will not be with surprise, since Senator McLean was desirous of leaving the office prior to his last election, but there can be no sidestepping the fact that the senator is a decided asset to Connecticut in the upper house of congress, in which body he has served with distinction since going to Washington 16 years ago.

During that period of time he has carefully looked after the interests of Connecticut and given thoughtful attention to the national problems, especially those which came under his committees. His place at the head of the committee on banking and currency indicates what was thought of his ability and he has been responsible for putting much desirable legislation through congress.

Connecticut, in full appreciation of the high class service which Senator McLean has rendered, will unquestionably endeavor to bring influences to bear to prevent any termination of his services when his term expires in 1929, if such a thing is possible. That he would be re-elected when the time comes goes without saying. Connecticut has a way of insisting upon retaining experienced men. It knows what can be expected with Senator McLean giving it careful representation in the United States senate and it will yield to his wishes, if the report from Washington proves to be correct, with reluctance.

JERSEY JUSTICE

New Jersey has a reputation for prompt justice. Sometimes it lives up to it and sometimes it does not. Those who followed the trial of a man and woman in that state, charged with the killing of the woman's husband, were no doubt surprised at the verdict that was brought in by the jury. From all indications it was a compromise verdict and the only one that could be obtained in view of the firmness with which certain of the jurymen held to their views, but it is not surprising that it should astonish the layman when the judge in the case upon pronouncing sentence indicated that he was unable to explain it and declared the crime to have been, beyond question, murder in the first degree.

It was apparent from the decision of the jury that guilt existed, that the accused had a hand in the death of the husband, and yet by the very fact that such a crime was committed by them a verdict of guilty of murder was called for, as the judge pointed out. Voluntary manslaughter concerns the killing of a person in the heat of passion but without malice. Such being the case it would be expected that the accused would have indicated some part in the crime and claimed justification but such was not the case.

The jury has, however, rendered a verdict which surprised the court and the public. Indications are that it reached the compromise verdict because it involved a lesser sentence, regardless of what the law called for in the case of the crime that was actually committed. Jersey justice has been displayed at a new angle which cannot be said to offer as much discouragement as it should to such crimes.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Congressman Merritt of Connecticut who holds a high place on the major committee of interstate and foreign commerce will make a strenuous fight against continuance of the federal inheritance tax, which he opposed during the war, and to which he is still more strenuously opposed in time of peace.

In a talk today with the Bulletin correspondent Mr. Merritt said: "The provision of the new revenue bill which seems to me to be the most important in principle is the continuance of the inheritance taxes. In the first congress of which I was a member I believe that in about the first speech I ever made on the floor I objected to the inheritance taxes both on the economic ground that they tended to cause the use of capital assets for current expenses and on the legal ground that insamuch as the right to hold property and dispose of it by will is derived from the states, the taxation of such rights belongs properly to the states.

Whatever justification for overriding these principles might arise in time of war, there is no justification for federal inheritance taxes in time of peace. This was clearly demonstrated in the hearings before the committee, and especially so by the admirable presentation made of the case by our own tax commissioner, Mr. Blodgett. The reason given by some of those who favored the tax, that without it the states would compete among themselves by reducing or abolishing the tax, seems to me to be a reason against such a federal tax, and not for it. If the states have any sovereignty it certainly should extend to control of their own methods of taxation. If the United States tries to compel the state of Connecticut to continue its inheritance tax, why should it not legislate so as to force Connecticut to impose an income tax as well? The position, therefore, of those who favor this federal inheritance tax seems to me to be absolutely unsound and unconstitutional."

Congressman Merritt has in mind several other measures which will claim his active attention but the federal inheritance tax will be the first to be combatted by him.

Congressman Tilson is strongly in favor of a resolution introduced in the house this week to look into the merits of a proposition regarding highways proposed by Detroit people. The plan is to establish an entirely new system of highways from important points in the United States, the same to be built by private capital. A system of roads would be established to continue until the builders had received a fair return on their investment and the highways had been paid for, then they would become the property of the government. The first route to be established would be from New York to Boston, via Hartford, Springfield and Worcester. Col. Tilson is not ready to endorse such a move, but believes it should be investigated as a possible means of relieving the highway congestion that now exists in certain sections of the country. The commission would consist of two senators, two members of the house and two citizens to be appointed by the president.

Senators Bingham and McLean stood fast for the seating of Smith and Vare, on constitutional rights. Mr. McLean made a strong speech in behalf of giving them senate seats and then conducting whatever hearings were needed. Senator Bingham continued to urge the seating of the two men, as he had done from the time their cases came into public notice. He also based his support on their constitutional rights.

During the three days session of the national republican committee here, Mrs. Russ and Mr. Bloomback, the Connecticut members stood their ground for having the convention at Detroit until it became a question of either San Francisco or Kansas City, then they chose the latter as preferable on account of distance. Mrs. Russ attended the reception given by the vice chairman of the committee, Mrs. Hert, and assisted in receiving. During her stay in Washington Mrs. Russ was the house guest of Senator and Mrs. Bingham.

Congressman Freeman of Connecticut, who holds the high position of ranking member on the major committee of rivers and harbors will undoubtedly be continued in that position although the committee assignments have not yet been announced.

Mr. Freeman is regarded as one of the best "quiet workers" in the house. He is not given to making speeches or taking part in debate, unless the need arises, but as a committee worker he holds high place and as ranking member of the rivers and harbors committee—being second in rank only to the chairman, Mr. Freeman has a powerful influence on legislative measure coming before that committee.

Secretary of Labor Davis advises severe methods used against all persons who enter the United States illegally, and he will ask congress to make drastic laws covering that point. At present persons so entering this country are merely deported at the expense of the government, but Secretary Davis believes there should be penalties attached that will help stop the illegal entrances now so frequent.

"The alien who enters the United States illegally should be treated as a violator of the law and effectively punished," says Mr. Davis, but at the same time he will strive to have the immigration laws liberalized. Among his recommendations will be one to strengthen the law, and create new classes of deportable aliens, including those who peddle narcotics; to give alien husbands of American citizens a preference in issuance of a non-quota status, just as alien wives of American citizens now have. He would admit children of American parents, within certain age, regardless of the quota requirements; he would liberalize the law regarding wives and minor children of aliens who have applied for citizenship. He would also give agriculture and skilled labor groups preferential treatment when it seems, in the judgment of the department of labor to so do.

Another feature of the proposed recommendations of Secretary Davis is to admit to the United States North American Indians living along the border of Canada, even though they are wards of the United States and not eligible to citizenship.

Senator and Mrs. Bingham are now established for the winter in their former apartment 2633 Sixteenth street. They had as guests this week, Mrs. and Miss Griswold who came over from New York in time to attend the diplomatic reception at the white house, and take part in other social affairs in which their hosts were interested.

The flood control committee will have its attention called to the disasters in Connecticut during the recent flood, and it is expected Congressman Freeman, ranking member on the rivers and harbors committee will lend his aid to all projects that will be of benefit to New England in preventing similar troubles hereafter.

The talk that Congressman John Q. Tilson is the best available vice presidential timber is spreading to the south. Congressman Reece of Tennessee has stated he is for Hoover for president, as he is now convinced Mr. Coolidge will not be a candidate. Reece adds "The logical running mate for Hoover is Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut. The availability of that ticket gives the republicans of Tennessee a wonderful opportunity to unite in their support and restore that state to the republican fold."

FEEDING HORACE

Rena Whitcomb was a good-looking girl and had a college education. But while she was aware some persons had blind spots in their eyes it never occurred to her that they might have equally blind spots in their brains, especially her brain. You see, she entertained the firm though ingenuous conviction that she could reform Horace's habits as to diet.

Horace was 30, earned a lot of money and could not remember a sick day in his life, but Rena, who had a constitution which rebelled against dill pickles, rich sauces, flaky pies, doughnuts and their ilk, regarded with appalled horror his preference for these items. Horace pointed out his husky survival for three decades on a diet warranted to turn a domestic science expert pale, but Rena was heroic. From now on, thank heaven, he should eat proper foods!

Voila! Graham breads, eggs, lettuce, vitamins! Hale and hearty at 80! Big men are mostly meek in the hands of their women folk, so Horace ate, albeit mournfully, what was set before him.

There had been spinach and beef and fresh pineapple for dinner the night that Horace, on his way out to the garage, caught a whiff from the Ormstead's open kitchen window on the other side of the hedge. Wiggling his nose eargerly, Horace identified the perfume—nothing less than hot mince pie with a touch of something rare on the side—lobster!

Positively weak, he leaned against the barberry bushes and it was thus that Hattie Ormstead espied him. Simultaneously the inspiration struck her—the afternoon bridge clubs knew Rena's theories and set principles and the vote had been that she was an opinionated goose to expect a grown-up man to take advice about food. Horace had scarcely reached the garage when Hattie Ormstead, fat, motherly and a good cook, slipped in after him. She carried two covered dishes.

"Here!" she hissed. "If you don't say these are the best you ever ate, Horace Whitcomb, I'll never give you another handout! Leave the dishes on the kitchen steps!"

There was a touch of heaven in Horace's eyes all that evening and Rena laid it to the fact that he was not overcrowding his stomach as he had been. Two nights later Horace found a bag of doughnuts on his work bench and a scribbed note from Gertrude Jones, two doors down.

"Just baked these," she wrote. "If you tell Rena or give her one I'll flavor your next batch with arsenic."

In one week a dozen women had joined in the new game with zest and giggles and were tip-toeing down the alley to shove things on the work the poor man liked became the best-going sport in the community. He ate less and less at the home dinner table and Rena was gratified.

"There!" she said one night. "Now that you are getting the right kind of foods your system doesn't demand such quantities! I never saw you look better, Horace! Maybe you'll believe me now!" Choking on his bran muffin, for Horace was an upright man and suffered over deceiving his wife, he agreed with her. Then, while Rena cleared the table, he slipped out to the garage. He whistled at the outlay on the work bench—more doughnuts, a covered bowl of a delicious mixture of cheese, macaroni, meat and six other ingredients highly flavored, a section of butterscotch pie and a chunk of chocolate fudge cake.

At 1 o'clock the next morning the natural result was manifest. Horace doubled up with loud groans and Rena, regarding his anguish and pallid brow, privately diagnosed the affair as acute appendicitis. Nothing, she told herself shakily as she threw on some clothes, certainly nothing he had eaten would account for his agony! Unlocking the back door, she stumbled out to the garage. Dr. Fisher's car was smashed and he had said over the phone he would arrive quicker if she came for him.

Turning on the garage light, she stopped short. Horace, entranced by his orgy, had neglected to remove from the work bench the evidence of his crime. That was Gertrude's breakfast napkin, the Ormsteads' plate, and she knew instantly Jessie Phillips' fork pattern.

Snapping off the light, she stalked back to the house, grimly got out the castor oil bottle and the electric pad and yawned cold-bloodedly as she informed bedraggled spouse that he'd be all right soon, and that the doctor wasn't coming.

The next day she flipped over her cookbook pages to the nice, fresh, unused spot containing the recipes for doughnuts and crullers and lemon meringue pie.—Chicago News.

NEW BOOKS

An Essay on Conversation. By Henry W. Taft. Board, 75 pages. Published by The Macmillan company, New York. Price $1.50.

Mr. Taft maintains that there is no reason to be discouraged about the art of conversation in America today and he gives good grounds for his opinions. He recommends good talk not so much because it enlists our intellectual faculties as because it affords diversion in our hours of relaxation, and he emphasizes the pleasure it gives us when conversation awakens thoughts more striking and suggests expressions more pungent than we usually think ourselves capable of. He decries pedantry in conversation, emphasizes the need of good listeners, discloses the advantages and disadvantages of shop talk and of laughable stories.

Not the least interesting part of his urbane and humorous treatment of the subject is his account of the conversational powers of certain celebrated Englishmen and Americans, from Samuel Johnson down to General William T. Sherman, whom Mr. Taft knew and whom he describes as one of the best conversationalists he ever met.

Boston and The Parker House. By James W. Spring. Board, 290 pages, illustrated. Published by J. R. Whipple Corporation, Boston.

As the author who knows his Boston says, "No history of Boston would be complete without telling something of the part which the Parker House has played in the nearly 75 years of its existence," a part which includes the distinction of having been host to such guests as President Grant, Generals Sherman, Hancock, Garfield, a long list of leading actors and actresses and a hotel where Dickens made his home on his visit to America in 1867.

Much of the romance and interest is also locked up in the original records of the registries of deeds and probate in and around Boston. From these sources the author culled well. He shows a true research instinct which an historian should possess and has clothed again with living flesh the dry old bones of Boston's history. The Parker House saw Puritan pastures supplant Indian hunting grounds, saw farms make way for city streets, saw all that intervened since Zaccheus Bosworth mortgaged "with all cow houses, barns, stables, yards and gardens" for 18 English pounds the land that today without its modern hotel is assessed at $76 a square foot. The first Parker House was opened October 3, 1856.

The volume is one that will be included among the valuable histories of Boston.

The Mexican Question. By William English Walling. Cloth, 206 pages. Published by the Robins Press, New York. Price $2.

In this volume the author deals with Mexico and American-Mexican relations under Presidents Calles and Obregon and writes after an extended study of conditions there including visits to the country during which he got in close touch with conditions and people.

The first ten chapters of the first part are devoted to the Calles policies and programme and a review of his reforms. They show according to the author that he had done much to restore the economic life of the country and maintain that in a field of political reform Calles is trying to give a reasonable and practical application to the liberal and democratic constitution of 1917.

In his concluding chapters he deals freely and fully with Mexican-American relations. He outlines the possibilities of a reasonable understanding but does not predict that it will be followed or that an agreement will be reached. He doesn't minimize the seriousness of the situation as he saw it but he takes the position that the solution depends entirely on the development of a well-informed, aroused and sympathetic public opinion in this country.

For Freedom. By Arthur Huff Fauset, with drawings by Mabel Betsy Hill. Cloth, 200 pages. Published by the Franklin Publishing & Supply Co. Philadelphia. Price $1.50.

Arthur Huff Fauset, principal of the Singerly school in Philadelphia presents in this volume a biographical story of the American Negro—of his racial heroes, who are yet national heroes, rather than racial; of the new Negro, the cultured man, his hopes, his struggles, his aspirations, his accomplishments, his abiding faith in the future. The author gives a life, a personality to each character that is quite out of the ordinary.

Mr. Fauset, himself a "new Negro" tells his story simply, yet attractively, "in the spirit of young folk because they, more than any of us perhaps, are able to relive the lives and struggles of heroic characters"—but it is still, as he says, "everybody's story."

The volume gathers into its various chapters the stories of many Negro characters who devoted their lives to the cause of greater freedom. Those stories are interesting and inspiring. To a great many they will be a revelation.

American Lyrics. By Louis M. Geren. Cloth, 109 pages. Published by The Meador Press, Boston. Price $1.50.

The author was a Russian schoolmaster who came to America, found the new world kind and upon the advent of war joined the American army where his life was almost sacrificed from hardships and exposure.

He recovered his health in the American desert of the southwest and the many and varied scenes and moods of the desert, and of the many other sections of the United States where the author lived, worked and visited are recorded in American Lyrics in many beautiful and interesting poems. They not only will delight the reader but will give a new breath of hopefulness and interest to those who go to the desert regions in search of health. They disclose the exceptional ability of the writer and add a new laurel not only to America and the great state of Arizona but also to Russian-Jewish literary talent.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major Gen. Mason M. Patrick, U. S. A., who retires today for age, leaves behind him a notable record of the Army Air corps. For six years Gen. Patrick has directed the activities of the flying officers and men of the army, and as he turns over the "controls" to his successor, Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has written one of the most important chapters in the story of American military aviation. For Gen. Patrick, though an Engineer officer, originally, has won a wide reputation for himself as chief of the Army Air corps, and through his solution of many difficult problems. During the World War he was chief of the Air service of the A. E. F. in France. He is a native of West Virginia and was graduated from West Point in 1886.

HERNIA OR RUPTURE IN YOUNG BOYS

By Elmer Hess, M. D., Erie, Pa.
Member Gorgas Memorial

In making a great many physical examinations upon young boys under 18 years of age, I have been impressed with the large percentage of hernias, commonly called ruptures.

I believe that it is safe to say that the average boy who has a hernia after eight years of age will carry his hernia until it is operated upon. It has been my experience that when mothers have been notified by my social worker that their boy has a hernia or rupture they become terrorized, having no suspicion that the boy is different from any other boy.

This communication is, of course, a direct appeal to mothers having young sons.

It is a common condition for a boy in the development process to have a natural defect in the lower abdominal wall on both sides. Before birth the male generative organ, called the testicle (ball, stone) lies under the kidney in the belly. During growth this organ descends through the lower part of the abdominal or belly wall and finally takes its position in the scrotum or bag. Very often in this natural descent the opening in the abdominal wall or belly fails to close. In a fit of coughing or straining, due to illness or excessive strenuous exercise which is the common lot of boys, a knuckle or loop of bowel or intestine slides through this opening and is noticeable under the skin sometimes extending clear down into the bag causing great enlargement of the bag.

Very few mothers or fathers ever pay particular attention to this portion of the young boy's body and very often would be unable to recognize this condition if it existed. Unless the boy complains of pain or soreness in his groin, no attention is ever given to the defect until some time when an injury or pain is felt by the boy in this particular region.

Last year I examined about 1,000 boys under 18 years of age and five percent of the boys had these hernias. In no case was the father or mother aware of the deformity.

In every case I have been able to convince the parents of the curability and necessity for operation in this condition. It is just as advisable for the parent to have a male child thoroughly examined for this condition at several periods during adolescence as it is to have his heart and lungs examined or his throat and nose examined for diseased tonsils and adenoids.

Occasionally the condition is found by the physician during a serious illness. The great danger is that the bowel may twist and become gangrenous, necessitating an emergency operation with great risk to life or a serious weakness in the abdominal wall as a result of the operative emergency. This, of course, is a preventable condition and should be treated by either the truss method which is not curative or operation which is curative in at least 90 percent of the cases.

On one of the hunting trips of James L. Kennedy, of Fairbury, Neb., his pack of hounds had given a red fox a hard run of two hours. Kennedy was standing near a brush pile when the baying came nearer and the fox came through the woods with his mouth open. Instead of passing the brush pile, it slipped under and instantly there came out at the other side a fresh fox that was off like a shot. The hounds, hot on the trail, smelled where the tired fox went under, ran around to the other side, took up the trail of the fresh fox and were soon out of sight. In a few minutes the tired fox came out, looked around and trotted off toward the den.

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Allan Dwan,
Noted Motion Picture Director, writes

"The director of film plays must take even more care of his voice than the actor. Into his voice he must put every emotion that appears upon the faces of the film players. While directing 'The Joy Girl' I used my voice twelve hours daily for weeks—often having to shout directions in the open to ensembles at a great distance. And I always kept my package of 'Lucky Strikes' in my pocket for I have found they are the only cigarettes which I now really enjoy and which I can smoke without impairing my voice. I'm grateful to 'Luckies.'"

OBITUARY

Matthew A. Tinker

Matthew Abel Tinker, 63, former representative from the town of Montville, died Monday morning about 10:45 o'clock at his farm home in Chesterfield where he had resided since he was 20 years of age. Mr. Tinker, who for many years was known as an auctioneer throughout New England, had also served the town of Montville as selectman and as chairman of the board of assessors. He had been in poor health for several years.

Mr. Tinker was born in East Lyme, Jan. 24, 1864, and was a son of the late Matthew A. and Mary Caulkins Tinker. As a youth in his teens he went to Chicago and for three years following he was employed on steamers in Great Lakes shipping. At the age of 20 years he returned to Connecticut and made his home in Montville.

On April 7, 1887, he was married in

MATTHEW A. TINKER

Montville to Carrie Powars, daughter of Frank and Ellen Powers of Waterford. The same year he purchased a farm in Chesterfield where the Tinker family has since resided. Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Tinker, all of whom are now living.

Within a few years after establishing his home in Montville, Mr. Tinker became interested in auctions and for many years afterwards he was engaged in that business.

Politically, Mr. Tinker was a staunch republican, and was considered one of the leaders of his party in Montville. He served as selectman for six years, and was a member of the board of assessors for 12 years, serving as chairman most of that time. In 1915 he was elected to represent Montville in the legislature. He was doorkeeper at the state senate for the term of 1919-1920. As a representative Mr. Tinker was a member of the committee on excise taxes. For several years afterwards Mr. Tinker took an active and influential part in political activities of the town of Montville and the 20th senatorial district.

He was a charter member of the Connecticut Auctioneers' association of which he was vice president in 1920. He was a member of the First Baptist church of Chesterfield and of Thames lodge, I. O. O. F., of Montville.

Mr. Tinker is survived by three sons, Charles B. Tinker of New London, William R. Tinker of Montville, and Stanley E. Tinker of Waterford; seven daughters, Mrs. Earl Lathrop of Gardner Lake, Salem; Mrs. William Forsberg of Quaker Hill; Mrs. H. A. Rix, of Salem; Mrs. Frederick Ritchie of Montville and the Misses Meredith and Cornelia Tinker of Quaker Hill and Miss Carolyn Tinker of Hartford; a sister, Mrs. R. D. Taylor, of San Antonio, Texas, and seven grandchildren.

Russell H. Burdick

Russell H. Burdick, about 46, formerly of this city, died Sunday at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., following an illness of about three weeks. Mr. Burdick was born in Norwich and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Burdick. About 25 years ago the family moved to Brooklyn where they had since made their home. Mr. Burdick's father died some years ago.

Surviving are his mother, four aunts, Mrs. Thomas Kenealy, Miss Nellie Kennedy, Mrs. Catherine Maynard, of this city and Mrs. W. W. Miller of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a cousin, Mrs. John Enright of No. 419 North Main street. The body is to be brought to Norwich for burial.

CHRISTMAS SEASON PROGRAM BEFORE ART ASSOCIATION

At the December meeting of the Norwich Art association held on Monday evening at Slater hall annex a program of interest and appropriate to the Christmas season was presented to a large audience. With illuminating comments by Mrs. Ozias Dodge about 30 beautiful pictures were thrown on the screen, reproductions in color of some of the great nativities of old Italian, Flemish and Spanish masters. Following this number twelve small choir boys from Christ church, in vestments, carrying candles, entered the hall singing "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" which was succeeded by a solo "Silent Night, Holy Night," sung by Master William Prothero, and this by "Little Town of Bethlehem," by the chair, Stapley Pierce playing the piano accompaniments.

At this point a living picture of the Holy Family, by Gherardo Delle Notti, was shown. Mrs. Philip T. Welles represented the Madonna; Eben Learned, St. Joseph; Miss Louise Norton, Miss Margaret Sayles and Miss Virginia Chase were the angels. Miss Martha Osgood was responsible for the success of the music and Miss Mary Richards for the tableau. Miss Hannah Crowell, president of the association, called attention during the evening to a collection of beautifully executed book-bindings, the work of the late Miss Flora Hall. In addition to tooled leathers of several colors was shown the design made for a Bible recently presented to Bishop Manning.

SUPREME COURT OPINION ON JENNES APPEAL IN FAVOR OF CITY

Opinions in three cases that were argued in this city in October before the supreme court were handed down Monday at Bridgeport where the court met.

In the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Jennes, of Summit street, against the city of Norwich, no error was found, in the opinion of Judge John W. Banks. Mrs. Jennes sued the city for injuries she sustained in a fall on Summit street the day before Christmas, 1925, and obtained a judgment for $4,000 in the superior court. On appeal to the supreme court this judgment was reversed and thrown out at its April session. Subsequently the supreme court allowed a re-argument of the case at the October session.

In the New London suit of Mary Kalamian against her husband, David Kalamian, no error found in an opinion given by Judge George E. Hinman. Mrs. Kalamian secured a judgment for $3,500 for injuries she received when her husband's automobile in which she was riding and which he was driving, turned over on Easter Sunday, 1926, on the Hartford-New London turnpike near Chesterfield.

In an opinion by the court in the case of Audrey A. Palmer against Theodora Palmer, an appeal from probate in the New London probate court, motion to order the trial court to certify evidence and rulings is denied; demurrer to plea in abatement of appeal is overruled; motion to erase and dismiss the appeal is denied. This suit involves the state of Mrs. Louisa T. Palmer, of New London, which amounted to $1,400,000 net. Mrs. Audrey Palmer, who was the wife of Mrs. Louisa Palmer's son, Charles, claimed she was induced not to make any claim against the estate through a promise which Mrs. Palmer made to leave her the amount she would receive as next of kin and heir at law of Charles Palmer. But Mrs. Louisa Palmer's will made no mention of Mrs. Audrey Palmer.

HAS HAD ENOUGH OF DRIVING AUTOMOBILES

James A. Hobren of 15 Starr street, New London, who was before Inspector Philip E. Devnew in this city Monday afternoon when hearings in automobile cases were given, told the inspector that he was through driving automobiles and he handed back his operator's license which the inspector was prepared to allow him to retain. Mr. Hobren, who is 76, has been driving for four years. The charge against him was that he had failed to grant the right of way and did not stop after an accident.

According to what he told the inspector he did not know he had been in any accident, but he was called on by an officer who told him that another driver made the complaint that Hobren forced him off the road with the result that the car struck a stone and turned over. Mr. Hobren has sold his car and turned in his markers.

Inspector Devnew allowed L. Plazzer of 46 Mistuxet avenue, Mystic, to obtain another driver's license. The Mystic man was accused of operating under the influence of liquor.

George Chausse of North Grosvenordale who had the same charge against him was allowed to obtain a new license.

Testimony from officers was taken in the cases of John B. Riley of Killingly and Icar Johnson of Westbrook, both under suspension on the charge of driving under the influence. The inspector signified his intention of returning a license to Riley. Fred LaChance of East Thompson failed to appear at the hearing, the charge against him being operating under the influence.

YALE PROFESSOR SPOKE TO MENTAL HYGIENE SOCIETY

"Defects of Nervous People" was the subject of an interesting talk given Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. before a meeting of the Norwich Mental Hygiene society by Dr. Ernest Russell of the psychiatric department of Yale school of medicine. He was introduced by Charles L. Stewart, president of the society.

Nervousness, said Dr. Russell, is a term often misunderstood and misused. It is an indication of human nature working under difficulties and does not, as a rule, mean that there is anything the matter with the nervous system. It is more often a manifestation of the individual not coordinating with his environment, and it finds its expression in emotional habits. Among some of these ways of expression which he mentioned were self consciousness, nail biting, offidities of dress or speech, prudishness, self deception and undue sensitiveness, and he went on to give illustrations of how these arose from environmental sources.

At the close of his talk he answered a number of questions from his audience.

This was the opening meeting of the season for the society.

LAUREL HILL WILL HAVE CHRISTMAS TREE

The Laurel hill section is to have a Christmas tree set up on the park there. Mayor Milo R. Waters is providing the tree, the street department is to set it up and the gas and electric department is to furnish the electrical illumination.

Several residents of that section of the city have been working actively in making the arrangements for the tree, which will be the first for Laurel hill since the plan of having a tree in other parts of the city became a custom.

Celebrated Their Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Maynard of Groton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Sunday night, many guests being present.

Mr. Maynard, a native of Ledyard and his wife, who was Miss Clara Virginia Hewitt of Poquonoc Bridge, were married Dec. 11, 1877 at Ledyard Center. They have resided in Groton for more than 30 years.

The couple have six living children who were at the anniversary celebration. They are: Mrs. Florence Sampson of Northampton, Mass., Mrs. Charles Epps of Groton, Lee Maynard of Mystic, Raymond Maynard, Edward Maynard and Ralph Maynard of Groton.

Wheel Club Initiates One

The Norwich Wheel club met Monday evening at the home of Herbert McNeely, President A. E. Wilbur presided and the principal business of the evening was the initiation of one new member, Alex Grabusky.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Henry G. Peck, of Sachem street has returned, after a visit of a week in Hartford.

The Sesma Auction Bridge club met Monday afternoon with Miss Sue I. Gallup, of Washington street. Miss Annie E. Vaughn won the prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Graham have returned to their home on Julian Terrace, having closed their summer place, "Wallstone," at Lebanon for the season.

Mrs. Webster D. Copp entertained the three-table auction club Monday afternoon at her home on Washington street. Mrs. Harold T. Robinson took the prize.

Mrs. Charles B. Lee, of Williams street was hostess to the Monday Auction club, the prize being won by Mrs. John E. Hawkins.

Mrs. Arthur L. Peale, of McKinley avenue was a guest at a tea given Saturday by Mrs. William D. Harris, of New London, in honor of the New London members of the Normal school alumnae association married during the year.

When the Monday Study club met with Miss Jane McG. Aiken, the hostess had the carefully prepared paper on "London and the Thames in the Sixteenth Century," Miss Nancy E. Lucas considered in an interesting and informing way the oral topic, "Development of the English Parliament."

GRANDCHAMP'S CASE WAITS FINDING BY CORONER

Charged with manslaughter and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Fred J. Grandchamp, of Montville, was presented before Justice of the Peace J. W. Miller in Montville town court Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The case was continued until December 19th to await the outcome of the finding of Coroner J. J. Desmond, who is investigating. Grandchamp was the driver of the Hudson coach which crashed headon with a Durant sedan on Mohegan hill about midnight Saturday, resulting in the death of William J. Towart, 29, New York city, and serious injuries to James Towart, 32, also of New York, and Kenneth Lafiamme, 16, of Montville. The dead man, and his brother, James Towart, were in the Durant and were on their way to their farm in the Bear Hill district, East Killingly, where their mother resides. Grandchamp is at liberty under bonds.

John Filburn, of this city, who drove down from this city to view the scene of the accident, and who was arrested by the state police, was presented before the court on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor. Attorney Thomas M. Shields, who represented him, entered a demurrer and Filburn was bound over to the January criminal term of the superior court. Filburn has been in trouble over violation of the motor vehicle laws before. He is at liberty under bonds of $200.

Filburn was arrested by the state police after a chase from the scene of the accident to Montville and part way to Oakdale, when the state police machine crowded his machine to the side of the road. When he reached the scene of the accident, Filburn was signalled to halt his car by the state police. He failed to heed the signal and sped away.

Derwin E. Holliday, U. S. N., who was also arrested at the scene of the accident on a charge of reckless driving, was presented before the court and his case went over to Friday. Charles Tilden, U. S. N., who was riding with Holliday and who was arrested with Holliday on a charge of breach of the peace, following an argument he started with the state police, was fined one dollar and costs.

Through error it had been previously stated that Tilden was riding in Filburn's machine.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT BROUGHT OVER NOTE

In the suit of Peter Gully of this city for $600 damages against his brother-in-law, Nicholas Tymcheck of Trading Cove, and Joseph Panek of this city, which was tried in the common pleas court here Monday, Judge C. B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision. Gully sued on a note for $505, given him April 12 by Tymcheck on which Joseph Panek's name is endorsed.

By agreement of counsel, before trial was started, it was determined that $300 had been paid on the note since the action started and the balance is now $195.

Tymcheck claims that the note debt is cancelled due to the fact that his brother-in-law owes him that amount as a commission for securing two mortgage loans, one for $3,500 and the other for $3,000, for his brother-in-law (Gully) from the Norwich Savings society on a farm owned by Gully, and located in the town of Montville.

When questioned on cross-examination by Attorney Josiah H. Greenstein, counsel for Gully, relative to the commission due him from his brother-in-law, Tymcheck said that he waited so long for his money because Gully promised that he would pay, but that he was always short of money.

"He's a liar," Gully said from the spectator's bench, which caused Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton to rap for order, and Gully was cautioned about making remarks.

Attorney V. P. A. Quinn was counsel for Tymcheck, while Attorney Edwin W. Higgins appeared for Panek.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Michael Murphy

Many relatives and friends were present at the funeral of Mrs. Michael Murphy, held Monday morning at 8:15 o'clock at her home, No. 185 Mt. Pleasant street. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn high requiem mass at St. Patrick's church, with Rev. Myles P. Galvin celebrant, Rev. William A. Keefe deacon and Rev. John J. Reilly subdeacon. Henry J. LaFontaine, organist, had charge of the musical programme and at the offertory Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis and as the waiting hymn, Jesus, Lover of My Soul. At the recessional Mr. LaFontaine rendered Abide With Me on the organ chimes and Chopin's Funeral March.

The burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery and the committal service was conducted by Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were Captain Thomas P. Murphy, Michael Murphy, Walter Casey, John Crimmins, John P. Corcoran and Thaddeus Leahy. There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes. Among the many present was a delegation from Mercier assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus.

Mrs. Frederick Tyler

The funeral of Mrs. Frederick Tyler was held at her home, No. 11 Warren street, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the service was conducted by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. The burial took place in Maplewood cemetery, where Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted the committal service. The bearers were Will L. Stearns, C. Edward Smith, Carl W. Brown, Dr. Alfred Richards, Gilbert S. Raymond and James L. Case. There were many relatives and friends present and there were numerous and beautiful floral forms. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Albert L. Allen

Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of Christ church, conducted the funeral service for Albert L. Allen held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carl Anderson, No. 48 Hamilton avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends including a delegation from Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., of Jewett City. The burial took place in Yantic cemetery where the Masonic burial service was conducted. The service was conducted by Lawrence G. Drescher, master of Mt. Vernon lodge, assisted by officers of the lodge. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

DIES SUDDENLY WHILE VISITING IN COVE STREET

While visiting at the home of friends at No. 6 Cove street, Chauncey Depew Lacy, 28, dropped dead about 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, investigated and pronounced death due to aortitis. Mr. Lacy had been troubled with a poor heart for some time and had been under a physician's care. Undertaker C. A. Gager was given permission to remove the body to his rooms on Franklin street.

Mr. Lacy was born in Norwich and all of his life had been passed here. He was the son of Henry and Mary Washington Lacy and resided with his parents at No. 46 Meyers avenue. He was a member of Mt. Calvary Baptist church. Surviving Mr. Lacy are his parents, and several brothers and sisters.

Plate Glass Windows Replaced

New plate glass windows were placed in position Monday at the Schwartz Brothers' store on Main street, to replace those blown out by the force of a combustion explosion in the store about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The work of installing the new plate glass windows was completed Monday afternoon and by nightfall the work of redecorating the five windows was well underway.

MRS. ROGERS ON TRIAL FOR BANK ROBBERY

LA GRANGE, Texas, Dec. 12.—(AP)—"Strange" actions of Rebecca Bradley Rogers as a child at home, a student at Texas university and as a secret bride of a fellow student, Otis Rogers, were related in Mrs. Rogers' bank robbery trial here today by her mother, her husband, and former university associates, testifying as defense witnesses.

Rogers, member of the defense counsel, and Campbell Beard, university political science instructor, said they believed her insane. Both testified that Mrs. Rogers was cold, morose and seemingly depressed at times and yet vivacious and "happy" at other times, changing quickly from one mood to another.

Mrs. G. E. Bradley told how her daughter developed intense interests and dropped them as suddenly as she had conceived them and related that the girl's father, her divorced husband, had been "retiring and morose," an unsuccessful inventor and reader of the German Pessimist Schopenhauer.

District Attorney Fred Blundell cross examined Mrs. Bradley and Rogers about the blue-black automatic pistol which the state alleges Mrs. Rogers used to hold up and rob the Farmers' National bank of Buda, Texas, of $1,000 last December. Both said she knew nothing about firearms.

Rogers' secret marriage to the defendant, then Rebecca Bradley, was revealed after the bank robbery.

LABOR DEPARTMENT TO WORK FOR PEACE IN COAL FIELDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The labor department is going ahead with its campaign to bring industrial peace in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, by Christmas despite the unwillingness of many important operators to co-operate in the move.

Secretary Davis not only announced today that the conference at the department tomorrow to which officials of the Miners' union and operators had been invited would be held, but disclosed that he had made an eleventh hour appeal to operators, who had turned down invitations, to reconsider their decision not to be present at the meeting.

Returning to the capital from an out of town trip, the labor secretary looked over the acceptances and rejections received in answer to his conference call of last Friday, then sent out a last minute appeal by telegraph to the operators who had turned a cold shoulder to his proposal.

No announcement was made at the labor department as to the number of miners' representatives and employers who had replied favorably to the conference call, although it was said that the attendance of a number of operators was assured under any circumstances. The meeting is in accord with recommendations of officials of the miners' union, and they are expected to be on hand in force.

In an endeavor to increase the employer representation at the meeting, Mr. Davis forwarded identical telegrams to all of the organizations and individuals on record as having declined his original invitation.

BOY KING PRESIDENT OF GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

BUCHAREST, Dec. 12.—(AP)—King Michael was elected president of the Rumanian National Geographic society today in spite of being only six years old. His uncle, Prince Nicholas, was chosen vice president.

Our Best Customers

Sometimes it takes but a day, sometimes a week, and sometimes two weeks to make a customer for life.

Our best customers are those who have been buying YUBAN for years, because they know there is never any guess work about its quality. They know that the next can of this delicious coffee will be as invitingly fragrant as the last.

YUBAN doesn't change because we don't change the blend or the method of roasting and packing.

Coffee Making Pointers

Many persons prefer to purchase Yuban in the bean, grinding it before each making in a good home coffee mill. When this is done the exquisite flavor of the bean is more largely retained.

DRAFT RELATIONS WILL BE TAKEN UP AT MAJOR LEAGUE MEETINGS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—While managers of major league clubs started casting about in the player market today, club officials gathered here for the annual meeting of the American and National league focused a good share of their attention on the tangled draft situation.

The draft, which the majors depend on for a good share of their new material, was a salient topic this afternoon when the "steering" committee, representing both major circuits, met with Commissioner Landis.

What decision on policies, if any, was reached by this steering group was not disclosed. It was indicated, however, that the majors will insist on retention of a draft arrangement with the big minor league circuits, accompanying such insistence with a threat to leave these circuits "out in the cold" on player transactions unless the draft relations continue.

This struggle between the majors and "AA" minors, including the International, American association and Pacific coast leagues, has been going on for some time. It was brought to the fore recently at Dallas, Texas, when the minor league convention demanded that these big circuits, along with the western and "three-eye" circuits, abandon the "modified draft" relations now effective with the majors. Under the modified draft, the only players subject to recall by the majors are those who have served previously under the "big top." The full draft entitles the majors to a choice of all the material. The modified draft enables the minors to hold their newly developed stars and sell them for high prices, such as in the recent case of Cissell, infielder sold by Portland, Ore., to the Chicago White Sox for a reputed $123,000.

The big minor circuits consistently have balked at restoration of the full draft. They are expected to maintain this stand even though it leads to another baseball conflict. What tactics this conflict may involve largely depend now on the action of the joint minor league business session on Thursday.

The restoration of harmony in the policies of the majors was emphasized today by baseball men in the session of the steering committee, brought together for the first time. Its meeting was attended by the league presidents, E. S. Barnard for the American and John A. Heydler for the National, as well as Commissioner Landis and the following club owners. Jacob Ruppert, New York Yankees; Frank Navin, Detroit; Phil Ball, St. Louis Browns; Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh; William Veeck, Chicago Cubs; and William F. Baker, Philadelphia Nationals.

The National league meeting is scheduled tomorrow and the American league's session Wednesday.

TO RE-TURF INFIELD AT BRAVES PARK

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A stock of turf grown through the summer and fall months in unfrequented corners of the outfield and the experiment of sowing grass through snow are methods chosen by the Boston Braves management for insuring a smooth playing surface on Braves field next year in place of the somewhat patched and mangy appearance the infield has presented during the last few years.

Failure to grow turf on the infield last spring, due to hard usage, this year led to the establishment of a "turf nursery" near the center field flag pole where footsteps are scarce. The new sod will be brought into the infield after the last of the 1928 spring thaws to bolster up new grass sown on top of last week's snowfall.

The snow planting was carried out with a seed mixture known in golfing baseball circles for its hardihood, sown thickly on the snow crust. The week end thaw sent the seeds filtering through to the ground and a further warm period yesterday and today filtered enough water to bury the mixture several inches deep. The ground crew believes a thick new growth will result next spring.

Sanstal Beats Hall

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Pete Sanstol of Norway, weighing 114 lbs., was awarded a judges' decision over Benny Hall of St. Louis, 115 1-2 lbs., in a six round bout at the new Broadway arena in Brooklyn tonight. Minty Rose, 112 1-2 lbs., announced as fly-weight champion of Ireland, outpointed Manny King of New York, 111 1-2 lbs., in another six roundec.

TUNNEY TO SPEAK AT CHICAGO BANQUET

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, minus the Santa Claus whiskers, is going to be a Saint Nicholas to thousands of the poor in Chicago through the $30,000 he has caused to be raised by a Christmas charity fund banquet in which the world's heavyweight champion will be guest of honor tomorrow night.

Tunney, coming back to the city which gave him a million dollar purse last September for forty minutes work in the ring, will furnish the main attraction again as an after dinner speaker, by describing his Soldier field battle with Jack Dempsey. Covers will be laid for more than 2,500 at the Sherman hotel.

A reception far more impressive than the spontaneous demonstration that upset traffic last fall, when he arrived to finish training for the Dempsey combat, will greet Tunney tomorrow morning. He will be met by Mayor William Hale Thompson, members of the city council, and other political and civic leaders, forming a parade more than a mile long, to escort him to the city hall.

Political, society and sports leaders have been given places on the banquet speaking program.

Tunney's buddies who are still suffering from the sounds of war, will be the first to greet him after an informal reception at the city hall. The heavyweight champion will go out to Edward Hines Memorial hospital to shake hands with several hundred veterans, and stop in at a crippled children' hospital on his return.

Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, will be toastmaster at the banquet, and the proceeds will be turned over to the Chicago newspapers to buy Christmas baskets for distribution among the poor.

TOUCHSTONE IS SUED FOR $15,000 BY ROBERTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Benny Touchstone, one of the most promising of the younger crop of heavyweights, bumped into legal difficulties here today somewhat similar to those that recently have harried the more illustrious of his contemporaries.

Robert S. Roberts, a fight manager from Los Angeles, Cal., filed suit for $15,000 in supreme court alleging that Touchstone broke a contract to box under his management. Heimy Cantor, New York Pugilistic director, has handled Touchstone's affairs recently and under his direction, the California youngster punched through to the front ranks of the new crop of contenders.

Roberts declared he entered into a three year contract with Touchstone in June, 1925, receiving 40 per cent. of the boxer's earnings. This agreement, Roberts alleged, was broken after one match.

Court proceedings charging breach of contract have been brought against champion Gene Tunney by Tim Mara, New York sportsman, and Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, of Philadelphia. Jack Kearns suit again Jack Dempsey on the same grounds still is pending and Paulino Uzcudun in embroiled in an $5,000 legal dispute with Promoter Humbert Fugasy, of New York.

TENDLER GETS VERDICT OVER HILARIO MARTINEZ

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12—(AP)—Hilario Martinez, of Spain, suffered a setback in his American invasion here tonight when he lost a referee's decision to Lew Tendler, veteran Philadelphia southpaw, in 10 rounds. The judges of the bout disagreed.

Martinez led in the early rounds but Tendler's ring generalship brought him safely through the Spaniard's early attack. Tendler's left did a lot of damage throughout the bout and a right to the head occasionally shook up his opponent. Tendler was at his best in the middle rounds. Martinez cut the Philadelphian's nose in the seventh but the damage was not serious.

Tommy Gleason won the decision over Bob Shilling, his fellow Philadelphia, in the first six-round preliminary. Each weighed 154.

Buddy Burke, 153, Chester, Pa., beat Red Delp, 160, Reading, Pa., in another six rounder and Pierre Gandon, 160, of France, knocked out Charley Miller, 164, Philadelphia, in the second round of a six-round match.

Rene de Vos, 159, of Belgium, defeated Eddie Dempsey, 150, Philadelphia, in the ten-round semi-final. Dempsey took a savage beating in most of the rounds and on several occasions seemed o nthe verge of going down.

PITTSBURG HHOCKEY CLUB IS NOT FOR SALE

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Reports that the Pittsburgh Hockey club was for sale were dispelled here today at a meeting of the board of governors of the National Hockey league. Owners of the Pirates declared they had no intentions of selling the team but were determined to strengthen it and forthwith announced a three-cornered deal.

Bert McCaffrey, of the Toronto Leafs, goes to Pittsburgh, Eddie Rodden, of Chicago, shifts to Toronto, and the Chicago club in turn receives Ty Arbour, of Pittsburgh. The trade was engineered when Toronto traded McCaffrey for Rodden and Chicago immediately switched him to Pittsburgh for Arbour.

Professional hockey affairs in California involving C. C. Pyle and the California league was left in the hands of President Calder. Today's session was the monthly meeting of the board.

The case of Duke Keats, suspended by President Calder following his attack on an usher in Chicago recently, was referred back to the league head for final action. Meanwhile, Keats stands suspended.

Reports of a deal in which the Canadiens would acquire Langlois of Pittsburgh were current.

Yip Foster, famous halfback of the Balmy Beach Dominion championship rugby squad, was discussed unofficially as a prospective player with the Toronto Leafs or New York Rangers. According to an understanding, it is likely Foster will remain with Springfield, the farm club of the Rangers in the Canadian-American league.

It is stated that Foster is to join the coaching staff of the Dartmouth football squad next fall.

RUMORS OF TRADES ON EVE OF B. B. MEETING

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Rumors of trades, but no trades, accompanied the gathering today of baseball's magnates for the annual meetings of the National and American leagues this week.

Out of the maze of ready rumor and denials just as ready, came the definite announcement that the Pittsburgh Pirates were negotiating the sale of Emil Yde, left handed pitcher, and Roy Spencer, reserve catcher, to Indianapolis of the American association.

Other than to admit the Pirates were ready to dispose of these two players, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the National league champions, had nothing to say. It was indicated, however, that the Pirates sought some Indianapolis player in exchange but his identity was not revealed.

Another report, unconfirmed but given some credence in baseball circles, said a three cornered deal was pending between the Washington, Detroit and St. Louis American league clubs in which George Sisler of the Browns, Sam Rice of the Senators and Heinie Manush and Lou Blue, of the Tigers were involved. Under the agreement reported under consideration, Sisler would go to Washington, Rice to St. Louis, which then would trade him to Detroit for Manush and Blue. Other players may figure in the trade should it be negotiated.

PASTIME A. C. TO HAVE AMATEUR SHOW FRIDAY

Despite the fact that the A. A. U. has refused its sanction of the bouts of the Pastime A. C. on Friday evening the club will put on as snappy a card of amateur boxing on that evening as has ever been seen in the city. The show staged two weeks ago was run under the sanction of the A. A. U. but when the sanction for the present show was asked it was refused by Mark Dunn of Middletown who is the A. A. U. man for this district.

Matchmakers Quinn and Jackie Burns have even a larger number of boys to choose from for the coming bouts than when it was run under the A. A. U. sanction. Norwich has a large number of boys who are not registered with the A. A. U. as has New London and Westerly and these boys will participate in the coming show. The coming bouts will be conducted in the same style as when the A. A. U. was favorable toward the Pastime A. C. and there was no fault found with the entertainment.

Freshman Rule at Norwich

Northfield, Vt., Dec. 12.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of sport at Norwich university freshmen will be debarred from participation in varsity football next fall.

Major O. D. Potter, director of athletes, today announced that the athletic council had adopted the one-year rule.

Nilson to Lead Bates

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 12. —(AP)—Raymond Nilson, of Worcester, Mass., a junior, today was elected captain of the Bates college football team for next year.

LOUGHRAN BEATS SLATTERY TO WIN RECOGNITION AS LIGHT-HEAVY CHAMP

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The light heavyweight championship of the world, a diadem disputed for months between the representatives of the New York state athletic commission and the National Boxing association rested tonight on the curly-headed thatch of Tommy Loughran, sturdy heavy fisted youngster from Philadelphia.

Loughran, recognized in New York as the king of the 175-pounders won the crown beyond all dispute by whipping Jimmy Slattery, rival standard-bearer, in a thrilling fifteen round match that kept 15,000 spectators in the spacious arena in a constant uproar At the close the crowd roared their disapproval of the decision, and cheers for the Buffalo boy and his game stand bolleyed to the rafters as the fighters left the ring.

Despite masterly boxing ability that at times made the speedy Loughran appear slow by comparison, and a willingness to swap punches with an opponent enjoying an eight-pound weight advantage, the little New York youngster appeared to have been bettered in eight of the 15 rounds after winning five and holding Loughran even for two.

Tommy came with a rush toward the close, when Slattery's dancing legs tired under the torrid pace and arms, wearied by constant blocking, grew trembly and weak. Then it was that Loughran, bleeding slightly from a cut Jimmy had opened under his left eye, stormed in close, flailed both hands in an increasing stream to the body, and pounded out his margin of victory

The match was a brilliant display by two master craftsmen, clean, decisive punchers, fast and furious workmen. Showing all the form that won him heraldy as another Jim Corbett before the flashing fists of Dave Shade knocked him from prominence, Slattery outboxed and cut-generalled Loughran through the early rounds.

Hands hanging limply at his sides "Slats" bounced around the ring, flipping stinging jabs into Loughrans eyes and whipping solid right crosses to the chin. After him pounded the "Philadelphia Adonis," grim and unrelenting, out speeded but by no means out gamed.

The occasional right hand shots Loughran drilled into Slattery's body slowed the lighter youth, brought his speed closer to his own and wore the lean youngster down steadily. As his speed gave out under the long grind, Slattery chose to mix in close, swap shots with his husky rival,—and lose all claim to the 175 pound title fighting rather than running away.

There were no knockdowns and neither was in serious danger at any time during the sensational milling, although several times Slattery's clean rifle-like shots to the chin shot Loughran's head back. But Tommy always was able to retaliate by storming in close, laying a barrage on Slattery's ribs, and driving the Buffalo youth away with overhand smashes to the head.

Loughran scaled in at 173 1-2 pounds Slattery 165 1-2.

The Preliminaries

Clyde Hull, Dallas, welterweight, won a 10-round decision over Farmer Joe Cooper, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the semi-final although most of the audience thought differently and yelled so. Hull's nose and face were crimson from Cooper's stabbing left most of the way. Cooper held frequently when Hull smashed in close to the body attack. Each weighed 145.

Arturo Speckles, thin-thatched Belgian welterweight, won a ten round decision over Billy Leonard, rough and tumble, free-swinging Syracuse slugger.

Despite the obvious earnestness of the battlers, the bout proved highly diverging to the 15,000 spectators, who cheered wildly each time Leonard's wild swings threatened to knock the Belgian's rubber mouth piece down his throat. Arturo diverted catastrophe only through startling facial contortions. Gaining a solid grip on the elusive rubber in the final session, the Belgian slugged Leonard dizzy to nose out the verdict.

Sheckles weighed 146 1-2 Leonard 148 1-2.

Joe Katkish, 135 of Pittsburgh, fought a four round draw with Joe Leone, 133 1-2 of New York, in the opening bout.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS IN HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

Every one of the four large high schools in eastern Connecticut who boast basketball teams are entering the season with bright prospects. Chapman Tech, Windham, Stonington and the Academy are all looking forward to successful campaigns even in the face of the stiffest schedules in many a moon.

Chapman Tech already has a game in, the only one that the four have played. She lost to Pratt High at Essex, but that defeat is not so bad as would see mat first glance. This Pratt team is one of the many good smaller clubs of the state on the chalked court. They had much more practice under their belts than the Whalers. The score was 22 to 12.

Windham adds to the list of combatants this week when both her boys and girls' teams tackle the Alumni on Friday. Tech plays Deep River High, a flashy little aggregation tonight at New London. Stonington does not start until Dec. 22 with the Alumni while the Academy's opening date has not been announced.

Windham Best Last Year.

Last year's final rating of these teams placed Windham at the top of the list with the Academy second, Chapman Tech third and Stonington. The Willimantic team had a good enough record to compete in the Yale tourney.

This year Callaghan has practically every one of that club available, and not only the tourney but the state title is the aim of the Blue and White.

The Academy's prospects are of course much brighter this season than 12 months ago when she was starting her first year at the sport. The Red and White also has its eyes on that tourney down at New Haven and it should be a merry battle between her and Windham for honors in this section.

Stonington looks for much better doings this year than in 1926-27. With many veterans and a new playing surface the O'Brien outfit is looking through silver clouds.

Chapman Tech has always had successful basketball seasons and although there are none too many veterans around still she expects to get ging and do some real things again this year.

Stiff Schedules.

All of the schools have stiff schedules outlined. Chapman Tech, with one down still has 26 games to play while the other three schools will taper down a bit with not more than 20 games. There are few setps on any of the slates. Stonington intends to buck such clubs as Naugatuck, LaSalle Academy and Erdant Stratton, Socony of New London, South Kingston in addition to tilts among eastern Connecticut high schools. Windham has not announced her schedule yet but she plans to tackle several of the strong teams of the state while the Academy, whose schedule also has not been released, intends to go up against many of the best teams in the Nutmeg state. Chapman plays Weaver of Hartford, Naugatuck, New Haven Commercial as an example of her program.

During this week Windham will be content to slow down on her practice in order to get on edge for the opener, while Tech, on theother hand will keep on working at a brisk pace for she has gone through the opening formalities. The Academy will take it easy for today will be her first experience on the floor while, also on the other hand, Stonington will be extending itself in order to get all hard work possible in before the tapering off process next week.

Neild Top Scorer.

Bill Neild, Chapman captain leads the scorers at the end of this first week of activity. He has five points and for the reason that he outscored his mates in the only game of sectional teams to date, then he has to be given the palm.

The scoring done by Chapman men:

	Goals	F	Pts
Neild, f	2	1	5
McKalvie, f	2	0	4
Ungerer, g	0	1	1
Quinn, g	1	0	2

ACADEMY BRIEFS

Basketball deserves the support of the entire school. This sport, which has not yet found a firm footing in the athletic life of the local institution should be backed to the limit during the coming months with a successful season looming.

In Les Pingree and Joe Viau, the Academy has just about two of the finest players in captivity. They would be of great help in getting the ball over the opposition.

The "N" club at the Academy, composed of lettermen has grown into a strong part of the school life.

Jim Moore, a member of the varsity squad here last year has been placed on the A squad of Conn. Aggie freshmen. Others well known hereabouts who have received this honor are Leo Fisher formerly of Warren harding, Bridgeport, and Chubbuck late with Tourtellotte high.

Plenty of important doings are slated for the league meeting at the school next Monday, Dec. 19.

It looks like the objective games in basketball game this year will be those with Windham, seeing as how New London Bulkeley is not represented.

The basketeers get busy today at the Y gym.

A strong Alumni team should be available this year with such capable performers around as Ray Yerrington, Jim Moore, Jim Fenton, Jack Hinrichs, Fred Schwartz, Tut Dahl, etc.

The first call for basketball candidates at the school Monday brought many to Coach Courtland Whitney. However, he will pare down considerably in time for today's first work at the Y gym. Only ten members can be carried throughout the season because of all players requiring membership in the Y. M. C. A.

Talk of a swimming team at school has been heard but nothing definite has come about yet.

Suffield Prep has lost her two scoring aces, Kulas and Schneider, who proved the stumbling block to the locals here last season. However, in all probability the Red and White will not benefit therefrom for no game has been scheduled with this team.

Plans for the annual Football dance are now going along rapidly.

Martinez Matched With Murphy

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)— Hilario Martinez, Spanish lightweight boxing champion, has been matched for a 10-round bout here next Friday with Billy Murphy, of Lowell, New England junior welterweight champion, the Argonne A. A. announced today.

THREE TEAMMATES ARE NOW BASEBALL MANAGERS

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Sports Editor)

Little more than three years ago three men put their heads and arms together to form a combination that was chiefly responsible for one of the most spectacle baseball triumphs of all time.

The three were Stanley (Bucky) Harris, Roger Peckinpaugh and Walter (Barney) Johnson. The boy manager, the veteran shortstop and the old pitching master were the heroes of Washington's first American league pennant victory in 1924 and the subsequent triumph over the New York Giants in the world's series.

The fortunes of baseball have scattered these three musketeers, each controlling the playing destinies of his own club for 1928.

It is an odd turn that now finds "Peck" selected to pilot the Cleveland Indians, where he will be matching wits a good share of the time with Harris. Johnson, out of the big show for the rst time in over a score of years, will capitalize his long experience and popularity as manager of the Newark Internationals.

The picture of these three, as they fought and won their greatest victory in 1924, lingers.

Harris, fiery and aggressive, was directing his first major league campaign, the youngest pilot in the majors but a seasoned campaigner for all that, matching wits and at least holding his own with the "Master Mind," John McGraw.

Johnson after one of his greatest campaigns, twice was beaten by the Giants, only to come back out of the shadows in the last game to stand off the New Yorkers. There was Peck with an injured leg, playing most of the time on his nerve.

"Two of the greatest players that ever put on a spiked shoe"—that was what Harris thought of Peck and "Barney."

"They were not alone great because of their individual ability," Harris once said. "Johnson and Peck fought about themselves in the fight to pull the team through. That was the secret of our success."

Harris and Peckinpaugh probably will be in the thick of baseball's powwows here this week, looking for material to strengthen their clubs.

Although rivals, they have one common aim at least, a desire to prevent the Yankees from making another runaway race of the American league pennant hunt.

It was Washington that overthrew the first Yankee reign. It was Cleveland that gave the New Yorkers a scare in 1926. Together they may muster sufficient strength in 1928 at least to harrass the clan of Huggins and make it more of a battle than that of this year.

Mello Gets Verdict Over Malone

BOSTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—Al Mello, of Lowell, New England welterweight champion, won the decision over Jock Malone, of St. Paul, Minn., in a 10-round bout tonight. Mello weighed 150 1-2 and Malone 155 1-4.

TILDEN NOT TO BE DAVIS CUP MEMBER

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Neither William T. Tilden, 2nd, ranking American player, nor Francis T. Hunter, the partner with whom he won the 1927 national doubles tennis title, will be available to America for the 1928 challenge round Davis cup play in the American zone. Tilden told the Associated Press tonight that he and Hunter planned to sail for France about the first of May and would not return to this country until the middle of August.

The "stormy petrel" of American tennisdom, who is in this city for a brief theatrical engagement, made known his attitude and plans when asked for comment on the decision of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association to challenge for the Davis cup in the American zone. The committee met in New York last Saturday and was reported to have adopted unanimously the recommendation of the Davis cup committee to challenge in the American zone. Tilden, declaring he was backed by other players, had urged the committee to challenge in the European zone

"I am quite positive that the so-called 'unanimous vote' was no such thing," Tilden declared, "but that's only a detail and the decision will not interfere with the plans which Hunter and I have made to bid once again for the French and British titles. I talked with Hunter in Providence yesterday and we will sail for France around the first of May.

"We shall not return until the middle of August and for that reason we naturally will not be available for selection for Davis cup play in the American zone at least."

Tilden declared that he and his partner had decided against American zone play because "neither Hunter or myself believe that it would be possible in the event that we won here to go abroad and get into condition for winning play in Europe by as late a date as the American Lawn Tennis association plans to send the team over.

"Neither of us is willing to play if there is no chance of winning. Mind you that I don't say we would win anyhow, but our chances would be materially lessened. Neither of us is willing to lose points for the United States if we can win points."

"That is our attitude on American zone play. Whether or not, if America wins in the American zone, our services would be sought in inter-zone play abroad is entirely up to the U. S. L. T. A. We shall be available to them over there, but not in the American zone."

WESTERLY

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE THEIR DISPUTES GET TO COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Dec. 12.—The Washington county superior court room was crowded and many stood in the hallways Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the action at law to recover for services alleged rendered, $2,500, was begun, in the case of Dr. Michael H. Scanlon vs. Dr. John Gordon Anderson, well known Westerly physicians.

Following the retirement to the jury room of the jury, with Joseph Fulford foreman, to consider the suit for pony keep and care, William A. Burk vs. Elizabeth Ostman et al, begun last Friday afternoon, Judge Charles A. Walsh asked if the Third District court room on the floor below was available for use by the higher court. When he found that it had just been vacated, he directed that all jurymen with the exception of those on the panel just retired be taken to the room below in charge of the deputy sheriff and to come singly to the court room for examination when called.

When the jurors had left, Attorney R. Butler Moulton, of Providence, who appeared for the defendant, Anderson, stated that he was going to ask for a continuance, although not strictly within court rules in this case, which was a contest between two Westerly doctors. He gave as the reason the fact that Dr. M. H Scanlon was a member of the staff of the Westerly hospital, which Dr. J. Gordon Anderson had left to start the Margaret Edward Anderson hospital which was now engaged in competition with the Westerly hospital. Dr. Scanlon's case had largely to do with the Westerly hospital of which he is now a staff member, and those hospital records are a very vital point in Dr. Anderson's case, as tending to show surrounding conditions. It was understood that the Westerly hospital had become a member of the College of Surgeons, which requires each subscribing doctor to subscribe to certain declarations, among which doctors are not allowed to split fees, not to collect other doctors' fees or allow other doctors to collect theirs. These records of the Westerly hospital were necessary to show that Dr. Scanlon had subscribed to such slips which were in the keeping of the hospital secretary. The secretary, Edgar P. Maxson, it was believed, had been subpoened Dec. 1, 1927, the notice having been mailed from Providence on Nov. 30th for service. A week ago it was learned that Mr. Maxson had become incapacitated, and the necessary records were "in the hands of the enemy, a competing hospital." Mr. Moulton said that unless Mr. Maxson was excused by a court order the defense was entitled to have him present in court. Dr. Alexander Burgess, of Providence, had been consulted and he had advised Mr. Maxson to go to the Jane Brown hospital in Providence, after he had finished his work, as editor of the Westerly Sun from Dec. 1st to Dec. 5th. Dec. 5th authority was obtained for Dr. John E. Donley, of Providence, to examine Mr. Maxson who was reported suffering from high blood pressure. It was then discovered that Mr. Maxson had left Providence and was in camp with Dr. Henry E. Utter in Freedom, N. H. For these reasons Mr. Moulton claimed it was not fair to force the defendant to trial at this time.

Attorney Dunn stated that the Westerly hospital was not of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, but is recognized by them for hospital work done. As to the slips, he said he was willing to do without compelling the appearance in court of Mr. Maxson and that the secretary of the hospital staff, Dr. William C. Thompson, and not the hospital, is in possession of the slips desired. Mr. Dunn said he thought he could agree with Mr Moulton on everything which Mr Maxson would testify to if in court and Dr. Thompson was the man for him to see.

Mr. Moulton said he had not gone to the witnesses and did not know what they would disclose and thought that "Freedom was the proper name of a place for Mr. Maxson to go if he had avoided service and he was now in a place where he could not find out whether he was sick or well." He understood that Dr. Anderson's slip was procured by Mr. Maxson. In reply Mr. Dunn said that there were other hospital records which the superintendent of the hospital, Miss Daugherty, had and which he could have obtained if he had called on him or at the hospital and he had no objection to the continuance of the case until Tuesday to permit the records to be examined by Mr. Moulton and that the by-laws adopted at the first regular hospital meeting were available and which the doctors had subscribed to at the time. Mr. Moulton replied that if Mr. Maxson had skipped to Freedom, N. H., when he had a court summons, he should not have gone by reason of high blood pressure unless excused by the court. Mr Dunn assured the court that Mr Maxson had not skipped and was only an associate editor of The Sun.

Judge Walsh declared if Mr. Maxson had failed to heed a court summons, the court would take such action as it deemed advisable when the time came. The judge stated that his sitting at this court term would terminate Friday, Dec. 16th, at 4 p m., and the case if not finished at that time, would be declared a mis-trial. He excused the share jurors to report at 11 a. m. Tuesday morning and the case was continued to permit the defense to examine the hospital records. There was an attendance in the court of practically every physician in Westerly.

In the morning session of the superior court, the Burk-Ostman case, a suit for care and keep of pony was continued trial opening with William A. Burk, the plaintiff, on the stand. Other witnesses were Bessie Ostman, Elizabeth Ostman, and Jennie Ostman, former residents of Stonington. The last named had been given the pony, as testified, the present being made by her mother who left her $1000 for its care. Etta and Lena Ostman were not in court to testify by reason of physician's certificates of ill health.

The Burk-Ostman jury was sent for by Judge Walsh, and came in at 5:50 after being out two hours and 45 minutes. A finding was announced for the plaintiff to recover from the Ostman sisters the amount of $251.83.

In the Scanlon-Anderson case an agreement was reached among the attorneys for the case to be tried to the court. All jurors were excused to report Thursday next at 11 a. m. Accordingly the case will be heard by Judge Walsh without a jury.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Dec. 8. Maynard Land company to Ion and Sarah Ainsworth of Pawcatuck, lots Nos. 43, 44, Melrose Heights.

Dec. 9.—Lavinia Ferraro to Domnico Albermonti, land corner of Atlantic and Franklin avenues, Pleasant View Beach, with buildings and improvements.

Dec. 10. James Rae to Margaret Aitken Rae, land corner of Cross street and York avenue, with buildings and improvements.

Jacob Jacobson, 60, of Chase Hill, arrested by Lieutenant of Police George H. Champlin Sunday night for drunken driving, following an accident in which his Ford touring car crashed off the Noose Neck Hill road near the Meeting House bridge, pleaded not guilty, at a special session of the Third District curt Monday afternoon before Judge O. H. Williams. The case was continued to Friday next and Jacobson was held in $500 bonds.

Jack Reinhardt, 18, of Houston, Texas, who went to sleep Sunday night in the Hopkinton City church, and following a pocket-book being missed by a church attendant, was arrested and locked up in Westerly by Chief of Police Frank H. Brown, of Hopkinton, pleaded not guilty to a vagrancy complaint before Judge Williams. His case was continued.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Milner have returned from New York.

Martin O'Toole, of Potter Hill, left Westerly the first of the week for a visit in Canada.

Alexander G. Thompson returned Sunday night to New York after a week-end visit in Westerly.

Mrs. Charles M. Sauer, formerly of Westerly, was a motor visitor here from New Rochelle, N. Y., the first of the week, returning from Boston.

NOANK

Headquarters basketball team came over from New London in an army truck Saturday night, stopped at the village hall and played the Noank Crescents team before a small crowd.

Capt. Lefty C. Patterson told the Crescents to fight and take short shots thus giving the fans some snappy passwork. The first quarter got under way and Dash A. Patterson got the first basket. While New London was trying long shots and Crescent guards were catching them off the backboard. The quarter ended Crescents 14, Headquarters 7. With this hard luck the second quarter began, the one in which the half moon boys had lost in three close battles. They kept fighting very inch of the way for 10 minutes, showing the soldiers real Crescent ball-tossers with their old team work in shape. When the first half was over the score stood Crescents 27, New London 17. Coach Billie Crane encouraged them. In the third quarter Capt. Patterson sent in a fresh man at guard, Stretch Morrison, with Speed Carson at center. The half moon boys got going and many times Dash A. Patterson's clean shots made the fans cheer. It was the best exhibition of shooting in the old town hall since the days of Ira Stark. With Noank in front, by a score of 33 to 21 the third quarter ended. In the final quarter, with victory in sight for the red and black men, the captain called for action and speed passing the ball around that had New London team looking for it. Sure Shot Morgan got a shot over his head without looking at the hoop for a basket. The crowd went wild. Speed Carson made some nice shots from all points; Flash McDonald, the star guard, with light head kept Kelly, New London's fast man well covered and the game was over, Crescents 54, New London 26. Dash A. Patterson for Noank was the star of the evening, getting 11 field goals for 22 points. Cunningham for New London got three field goals. The Crescents were some happy over their first victory of the season after a bad start. The referee was Fitzpatrick. Scorer Balestrini and the man with the watch was Smoky Joe Walsh.

While Miss Eleanor McDonald was working at the mill Saturday the belt on her machine broke and hit her on the right side. The machine was shut off by another girl working near at hand, but Miss McDonald will be laid up for several days at her home.

Mrs. Charles Lowell was in Providence Saturday.

Ruth and Robert Clark, twins, now 14 years old, had a birthday Friday and they were given a party at their home on Prospect Hill. About 20 of schoolmates attended. Games were played and Rose Brothers singing orchestra furnished good music. A large birthday cake held 28 candles. Helen Clark made a speech and then with a big puff the twins blow out the candles. School was played and Miss Julia Moore was the teacher in a spelling bee. Robert Clark outspelled about 10 that entered the race, he received a new cap for a prize. Fred Clark in a red suit and with white whiskers as St. Nicholas gave out the presents to the twins from friends. Strawberry punch was served with ice cream.

B. Bracci was working at the shipyard with his mate Sidney Butson when one of them slipped. The plank dropped on his right hand and cut his finger badly. His mate gave him first aid until it was dressed by a doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith spent Sunday in Old Mystic.

Oliver Durfee has returned from a visit in Hartford.

Lewis Murray of Waterbury spent the week end with his cousin, Alfred Durham.

John Singer has returned to Bridgeport after a visit in the village.

Miss Jennie McHershey of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting for a few days at Frank Pray's at West View.
